Local Boys Receive Promotions After Return From Maneuvers. "Warbling Three" Entertains The Governor.

BY SGT. W. A. SADLER

Camp Blanding, Oct. 14—We've been asked the same question dozens of times, "Well, soldier, how's it feel to be back in Florida," and the only sensible answer we could think of was "Buddy, we probably felt the same as did Columbus when he sighted the New World, except that we had a hot meal in china dishes waiting for us when we arrived, and he didn't."

Yes, after two months in those Louisiana woods and swamps we have little doubt but that some of the boys could write a "best seller" entitled "Ah, Wilderness!" if they weren't afraid Mr. O'Neil would object. But of course it would be along a little different line and the language a trifle stronger. But seriously, folks, now that it's all over, most of the men are sincerely glad they participated in the maneuvers from which they gained experience that would have been impossible for them to have gotten from routine camp exercises.

Battery Has New CO

Captain John G. Schaffer, Vicksburg, Miss., has taken over command of headquarters battery, replacing Captain W. R. Gunby, who has been transferred to Brig. Gen. Lowry's staff as the new S-4 (supply officer). Captain Schaffer was formerly the S-2 (intelligence officer) on General Lowry's staff and his fellow officers. Captain Schaffer is well known by most of the men in the battery having come in contact with him while he was serving on the staff during the past six months.

Trio Entertains Governor

Headquarters battery was well represented at the Governor's mansion Wednesday night of last week during an overnight stop in Tallahassee en route to Camp Blanding from maneuvers, when the battery's "Warbling Three," Sgt. John Lake Bogle and Corp. Gerald Elliott of Sebring and Pvt. T. L. Williams entertained the Holland family and Brig. Gen. Sumter L. Lowry, who was the overnight guest of Governor Holland.

The trio rendered several favorite army lyrics, which were well received, especially by the governor who is an ex-service man himself. To show her appreciation Mrs. Holland entertained with several selections accompanied at the piano by the Governor.

Although Corporal Elliott tells us that he wouldn't have missed this social function for anything, it seems that the Corporal had a date with a PSCW cutie which he had been promoting by mail for two weeks previous to his arrival in the capitol city and was unable to fill said date at the appointed time and place. This fortunate turn of events necessitated his acquiring the services of one of his soldier pals to entertain his date until he arrived. Much to the Corporal's disgust, at the conclusion of song festivities, he was unable to find his pal or date at the appointed rendesvous.

Will Go To Ft. Sill

Pfc Floyd H. Bowman, Avon Park, has been recommended to attend the motor mechanics school at Fort Sill, Okla., and will leave in the near future so as to enroll October 20th.

Pfc Robert E. Murphy, selectee from Fort Pierce, has been selected to attend the communication specialists' school at Fort Sill, and will report October 20th.

Nevertheless the beaming couple made their appearance at the appointed place several hours later—nine minutes before the cutie had to report in at her dormitory—which allowed the Corporal all the time needed . . to get her home.

Promotions Announced

The following promotions in headquarters battery have been announced effective October 10.

Staff Sgt. Woodson A. Sadler to Master Sergeant.

Staff Sergeant Merle A. Landress to Tech. Sgt.

Sgt. John L. Bogle to Staff Sgt.
Sgt. Albin J. Ebi to Staff Sgt.
Sgt. Robert T. Pollard to Staff Sgt.

Pvt. Ralph T. Rogers to Staff Sgt.

Corp. Walter A. Maddox to Sgt.
Corp. Dan W. Stormes to Sgt.
Pvt. James Denmark to Corporal.

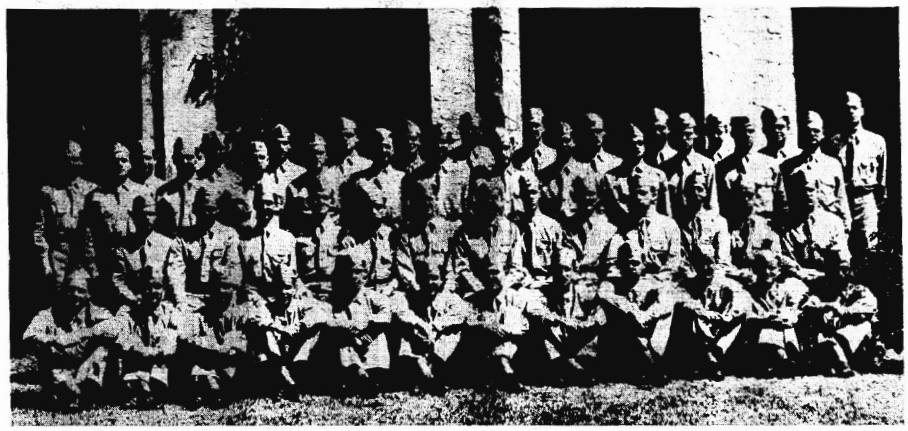
Pfc. Jesse W. Tuten to Corporal.
Pfc. Walter D. Lang to Corporal.

Furloughs Cancelled

Men of headquarters battery have been notified that a directive from headquarters IV Army Corps last week resulted in the cancellation of all leaves and furloughs. The cancellation did not effect those men and officers who were already on leave prior to noon Saturday, October 11.

Those men and officers whose leaves and furloughs were cancelled will be given the opportunity to take advantage of their leave following the Carolina maneuvers.

HERE THEY ARE. THE FIRST CLASS OF 50 FLYING CADETS TO TRAIN HERE.



The following is a roster of the 50 cadets now taking primary training at the Lodwick Aviation Military Academy here. The home address of each cadet is given as well as their educational background. It is published with the idea some old friendships may be renewed and will also interest Avon Park citizens in showing the number of states and localities which are now represented at the flying school.

E. Elmo Gribble Succumbed Tuesday From Heart Attack

Edward Elmo Gribble passed away suddenly Tuesday afternoon from a heart attack. He was 73 years of age and had been in failing health for some time. Funeral services were held Thursday morning at the Stephenson Funeral home with Dr. A. C. Elliott of the Union Congregational Church officiating. Interment was in Bougainvilles cemetary.

Edward Elmo Gribble was born in Lancaster county, S. C., in 1867, and his early manhood was spent in Cabarrus and Mecklenberg counties, North Carolina. He had been a resident of Avon Park for a number of years. He was a bachelor and is survived by three brothers, M. H. Gribble of this city, T. J. Gribble of Charlotte, N. C. and C. M. Gribble of Savannah, Ga. and one sister, Miss Jennie Gribble of this city.

Two Selectees Go To Fort Knox, Ky.

Reception Center, Camp Blanding, Fla., (Special to Times)—Archie M. Bryant, and John W. Bryant have completed their initial period of service at the Reception Center and will be transferred to Fort Knox, Ky., where they will be assigned to Armored Forces Replacement Training Center.

NOTICE

The next meeting of the Garden Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Hart, November fourteenth.

Mrs. T. A. McNicholas

Word has just been received here that Mrs. T. A. McNicholas, wife of County Judge McNicholas, passed away this morning in a Tampa hospital following an operation. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Coast Line Will Run Pullman Thru Here

Clewiston, Oct. 16 (FNS)—The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad announces the establishment of pullman service between Jacksonville and Clewiston. The first southbound trip will leave Jacksonville at 10:30 P. M. Nov. 2, arriving at Clewiston at 9:00 A. M. the next morning. The first northbound train will leave Clewiston at 6:00 P. M., Nov. 3, arriving at Jacksonville the following morning. Daily service will be available in both directions thereafter. Connection in Jacksonville permits connection with all trains serving the east, north and west.

Clarence R. Bitting, president of the U. S. Sugar Corporation, was instrumental in securing this long-needed service which will benefit not only the glades area but all towns along the route.

Grapefruit Crop To Be Short This Year

Orlando, Oct. 16 (FNS)—The 1941-42 grapefruit crop will be off about six percent or around 4,300,000 boxes, according to estimates released last week by the Department of Agriculture. Total U. S. production may exceed 40,000,000 boxes.

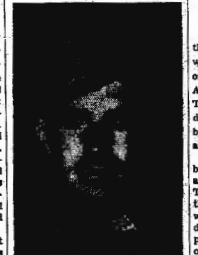
Florida's grapefruit production was estimated at 20,300,000 boxes while Florida oranges, including Valencias, were estimated at 31,390,000 boxes, a 200,000 increase over last year.

Tangering production was estimated at 1,800,000 boxes.

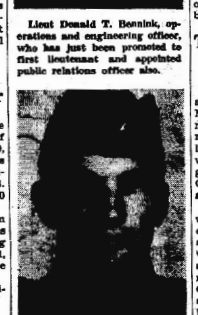
W. E. Morgan returned Wednesday from a business trip to Detroit, Mich., Washington, D. C., and North Carolina. On his way back from the weeks trip, Mr. Morgan visited the Air Base in Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sullivan of Frostproof attended the football game here Friday evening.

SCHOOL OFFICERS



Lieut Donald T. Bennink, operations and engineering officer, who has just been promoted to first lieutenant and appointed public relations officer also.



Lt. Clarence W. Rice, Jr. Adjutant

Miss Marguerite Loomis, who is employed in Venice spent the week end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Loomis. While here, Miss Loomis attended the football game in Gainesville Saturday evening.

Lodwick Flying School Activities

A payroll of nearly $10,000 for the two weeks ending October 15 was distributed to 185 employees of the Lodwick Aviation Military Academy, it was learned yesterday. This payroll does not include the dragline nor the trucks employed by Lodwick to haul clay to the airport.

Thirty of the avitaion cadets will be the guests of Webber College at Babson Park, Saturday evening. They will leave here at 4 P. M., in the school bus and after a swim will enjoy dinner, followed by a dance. The invitation was extended personally by Helena Watts, dean of the school. The cadets will be back at midnight.

Traveling Cook Is Visiting Florida

Leesburg, Oct. 16 (FNS)—Richard Kent, the Traveling Cook of Magic Carpet fame on NBC's blue net work, who annually receives requests from over 75,000 radio listeners for his famed recipes, is visiting Florida this week and as guest of the Leesburg Chamber of Commerce should certainly acquire some new citrus recipes.

Accompanied by his wife, Kent will visit Bok Tower, Cypress Gardens and other points of interest, stopping in St. Augustine where he will serve as master of ceremonies at the presentation of prizes in connection with the $1,000 St. Johns County Fishing Tournament, sponsored by the St. Augustine Chamber of Commerce.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends for the kind helpfulness and sympathy shown toward us in our recent bereavement.

Miss Jennie Gribble,
M. H. Gribble,
T. J. Gribble,
C. M. Gribble.

Airplane Spotters Will Try Out Here Sunday Afternoon

Through the cooperation of Lieut. Sights, Lieut. Caton and Lieut. Bennink, a simulated attack on Avon Park will give local airplane spotters of civilian defense a chance to show what they can do Sunday afternoon. The three lieutenants will each fly one of the training planes stationed here and will attempt to reach Avon Park from some distance without being detected by the spotters. It will be the spotters duty to detect the planes, estimate their altitude, the kind of plane, number of motors and other important information. Their report will be phoned into defense headquarters at Tampa.

The following local defense personnel are requested to report at the airport here Sunday afternoon at 1:45: W. R. Carter, D. G. Perry, E. R. Wells, I. H. Ford, Clifford Craft, Marion Foster, Francis Skipper, Lucille Shockley, H. C. Worden, J. P. Garber, Marshall Jordon, Elizabeth Hetherington, Marguerite Loomis, Verna Heim, Bert Turner, John Giddens, V. R. Hall, M. V. Pilcher, Ruby Bass, Madge Pilcher, Mildred Head.

Avon Jook Operator Under $500 Bond On Each of Two Charges

An Avon Park jook operator, G. W. Wood, was arrested last Saturday night charged with selling liquor and with having liquor in his possession for the purpose of sale, by Sheriff E. G. Long.

He is being held in jail with his bond set at $500 under each of the two charges.

The records in the sheriff's office show that arrests for drunken driving are falling off this month with only four arrests in 15 days. Last month there were 15 arrests for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

CITY COUNCIL HAD LENGTHY SESSION MON.

Council Split on Several Issues; Airport Matters Aired and W. T. Hall Let Out As Assessor.

A long drawn out meeting of the city council Monday night showed it was split on several matters, leaving the breaking of the tie vote up to the president, E. A. DeLaney. This was evident in the voting on an assistant city clerk and on selection of a tax assessor, although no choice was made for the latter office. But W. T. Hall, who has filled the office for the past two years was eliminated.

A play by play account of the meeting follows:

First came H. G. Livingston who was hired by the previous council as tax collecting attorney. He also was representing E. G. Todd in the matter of a replat of Lotela Gardens. Livingston asked for an ordinance vacating certain streets and parks in this subdivision which has been returned to acreage. He also mentioned several suits pending against the city, including the Whitehurst suit to remove a cloud on the title to certain property and the two Grice injunction suits. The latter two are at issue on answer, he said.

He also presented his bill for the taxes he had collected. This was approved but Miss Mattie Tompkins declined to vote.

Major J. W. Zimmerman, president of the Winter Guest Club, asked for certain things be done around the club house and trailer park. They were: a janitor and WPA hostess the same as last year, that trailers be kept north of the club house, lights on the four new shuffleboard courts and clay for the tennis court. He said that shuffleboard matches have been scheduled with the Lake Wales club and that a cup would be the trophy competed for.

Then came A. I. Lodwick, owner and manager of the Lodwick Aviation Military Academy and lessee of the airport here. He was accompanied by Engineer Betz, Major Austin, director of the school and Stan Hedberg, public relations official.

Mr. Lodwick pointed out the immediate need of drainage tile for the west auxiliary field and additional seed for the airport, all of which had been promised by the city. Councilman Booth said proper arrangements should be made to get the tile and seed and was left up to him to work out. Lodwick also asked for the city trucks to be re-instated on the clay hauling. The work is about two thirds completed, he said and added it is the city's job to build the airport and asked immediate action. He said he was also donating trucks and the drag line in order to push the work to completion.

Councilman Ware said arrangements can be worked out for truck hire against delinquent taxes and the trucks formerly operated by the city had used up most of the delinquent tax credit allowed for. The airport and finance committees were authorized to work out additional tax and truck arrangements.

Lodwick next brought up the question of auxiliary airports. He said he is trying to buy some 320 acres which he would deed to the city in return for a mortgage and no cash would be required by the city. It is up to the city to furnish three of these airports which will be paid for by the rental price paid by Lodwick.

Ware moved that Assistant Clerk Hall get the necessary papers and land description on 157 acres from Mel Bennett and Mr. Booth seconded and this carried.

In discussing the control of the airport by himself and to which the WPA objects, Lodwick pointed out the training planes being used belong to the U. S. Army and not himself. He must have control of the field, he said, in order to insure protection to the cadets and the instructors and prevent accidents to civilian pilots. He stressed the fact that civilian flying is not prohibited at the airport but must be regulated as to time of takeoff and a regular schedule can be worked out. The army would close the school if there were serious accidents, Lodwick said.

Ware brought up the question of the Highland Lakes water works and casino and asked that the council vote they are no further interested. President DeLaney said he considered the city is out of the picture by the rescinding action of

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—It has been only in the last year or two that this country began to realize that the Germans had done a vast amount of research and organization work, over many years, in preparing for their world aggression. Devising ways and means to meet it on many fronts, military and political, our government belatedly discovers Dr. Calvin Bryce Hoover, dean of Duke university, who was away out in front in studying dictatorships, trying to understand them and find out what to do about them.

Blueprinting Ways and Means of the Dictators His Job

Dr. Hoover is an important member of Col. William J. ("Wild Bill") Donovan's new diplomatic brain trust, which recruits men of specialized knowledge who have disclosed a timely awareness of the more or less declared war against civilization.

Colonel Donovan's title of coordinator of information does not reveal the exciting character of his bureau which is in reality a somewhat mysterious ideological and political Scotland Yard, studying the origins and techniques of Nazi power, evolving plans to meet it in its under-surface penetration everywhere in the world, recruiting against the dictators some of the same psychological forces which they employed.

So far as the public record shows, Dr. Hoover scored a clean beat on our lavishly staffed state department in trying to understand dictatorships and to make an accurate appraisal of their intentions and possible outreach. It was in 1931 that he wrote "The Economic Life of Soviet Russia"; in 1933, "Germany Enters the Third Reich"; and in 1937, "Dictators and Democracies." Through the pre-war years of planetary complacency, he was writing, in his books and articles, an outline of Adolf Hitler as "genius and fanatic."

These studies were not phillipics against Nazism. They were searching and studious inquiries into the origins and inducements of dictatorships. They now provide invaluable analyses of the Nazi cultural, economic, military formula for world conquest.

Dr. Hoover, born in Berwick, Ill., in 1897, was conditioned to patient, methodical work by working on farms and railroads in his youth. He attended Monmouth college and received his Ph.D. degree at Wisconsin university in 1925. When he was an undergraduate at the former school, he joined the National Guard and served two years in France in the World war, taking part in two battles. He joined the Duke university faculty in 1925, becoming a full professor of economics in 1936.

In the above clinical studies, Dr. Hoover does not find dictatorships blue-printed in any patterns of societal evolution. They can be fended off if we're "up and at 'em" without losing too much time—but, above all, they must first be understood.

Once Cut Records In Airplanes, Now Cuts Cost of 'Em

CALEB S. BRAGG, manufacturer of the new plastics-and-mahogany airplane, which meets successful tests at Roosevelt field, was the matinee idol of early-day auto racing and aviation. A handsome chap, rich, venturesome and a Yale man. In 1912, he won the Fourth International Grand Prix automobile race, and was awarded the Vanderbilt cup, by covering 400 miles at 69.3 miles per hour. In that day, a mile a minute had been put down as the limit of safety for automobiles.

Newspapers threw a fit over Mr. Bragg passing this deadline and living to tell the tale. Time fitverers an. In 1913 he left the country breathless by flying from Dayton to Washington, 430 miles, in 2 hours and 50 minutes. In 1919 he set a new altitude record of 28,000 feet for seaplanes.

He was born in Cincinnati in 1886, the son of a manufacturer and businessman, and was graduated from Yale in 1908.

He is a former head of the Early Birds, an organization of aviators who flew before 1916. At one time he beat Barney Oldfield in a race in California. He had the crowds whooping for him whenever he entered a race. In 1920 he helped finance the Glenn L. Martin company and moved into less exciting but no less exacting details of scientific plane-building. He and many engineers think he has pioneered new strength and economy in airplane construction with his soybean job—or whatever it is.

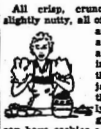
NEW DESIGNS FOR YOUR COOKIE JAR
(See Recipes Below.)

COOKIE SURPRISES

All crisp, crunchy, and some slightly nutty, all of today's recipes are so fashioned as to send you on a real cookie-baking spree. Fill that lovely cookie jar of yours until the sides are fairly bulging with goodies so you can have cookies a-plenty to put in the children's lunch boxes, to serve as afternoon snacks, and as a pick-up for mealtime.



If you're doing some baking for a bazaar, there's nothing quite like plates of yummy cookies to put over the sales. Remember, you can sell a lot more, if you give out some samples. These can be set on plates with white paper doilies, for sampling, and those to be sold put in boxes already fixed. Cookies can be sold by the dozen if they're fancy and somewhat elaborate, by the pound if they're small drop cookies or squares.

Here's an interesting variation of the filled cookie, both dainty and delectable:

Corn Flake Filled Cookies.
(Makes 36 medium-sized cookies)

1 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
2½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup water
¼ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups cornflakes

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add alternately with water and flavoring to first mixture. Stir in coarsely rolled corn flakes. Chill. Roll dough to ⅛ inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutter. Spread one round with filling, put on a second round and press edges together with a fork. Bake on a greased baking sheet in a hot (425 degrees) oven about 12 minutes.

Filling.

1½ cups chopped dates
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon orange rind

Combine all ingredients together and cook until soft paste is formed. Cool before filling cookies.

These little butter balls make good nibbling and smart additions to your teatime table. Made with butter, their flavor will be something you'll long cherish and remember.

Butter Balls.
(Makes 7 dozen small cookies)

¾ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ cup finely chopped nuts

Cream brown sugar and shortening. Add beaten eggs and vanilla. Add flour and baking powder. Roll into balls the size of marbles. Mix the granulated sugar and nuts and roll the balls in the mixture. Place on a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 10 minutes. These cookies will flatten slightly.

LYNN SAYS:

An assortment of cookies, freshly baked and packed in tins with waxed paper between layers makes a delightful present for youngsters away at school and for friends you seldom see. When your own cookie jar has been filled to bulging, pack a few boxes from what you have and spread cheer to others, too.

Careful packing in tins with waxed paper will keep even small dainty cookies fresh for a long time. Some flavors like chocolate improve after they stand for some time. Chewy, nutty cookies are the more chewy and delicious after several days. Spicy cookies become moist and well flavored after standing.

Your cookie jar problem can be solved very neatly with toothsome oatmeal cookies with flecks of chocolate in them:

Oatmeal Cookies.
(Makes 4 dozen)

½ cup butter or shortening
1 cup brown sugar
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 egg, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sifted flour
1½ cups fine rolled oats
2 ounces chocolate pieces

Cream butter and sugar. Add orange rind, egg, vanilla and beat well. Add salt and flour which has been mixed with the oats. Add chocolate pieces and work into batter. Drop by spoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate (375 degrees) oven.

Recommendations are in for the old favorites of which you never tire. If you want to make a pretty and at the same time, a very successful platter, you might try alternate rows of both these Ginger Cookies and Brownies:

Soft Ginger Cookies.
(Makes 5 dozen)

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup molasses
¾ cup evaporated milk
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon each, ginger, cinnamon

Cream sugar and shortening, add egg and molasses. Beat well, add milk and blend well. Mix dry ingredients and add to batter. Last add soda, dissolved in 2 tablespoons warm water. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake 15 minutes in a hot (375 degrees) oven.

Brownies.
(Makes 2 dozen)

½ cup butter or shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
¾ cup flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs and sugar together. Add to this melted butter and chocolate and blend. Add flour, baking powder, nuts, and beat well. Pour into a greased pan and bake 30 minutes in a 350-degree oven. Cool and cut in squares.

For a delicious variation of the brownie recipe, you'll like the addition of ¾ cups of bran cereal in place of the chopped nutmeats. They'll give you a slightly different flavored, cookie, but guaranteed to please you, just as well.

Meat-Macaroni Casserole.

1 package macaroni
⅓ cup salad oil
1 pound hamburger
1 dry onion, minced
1 green pepper, minced
1 clove garlic, if desired
1 can tomato soup
2 cups peas
2 cups corn
Salt and pepper

Cook the macaroni in plenty of boiling salted water and when tender, put in a sieve and rinse with cold water. Meanwhile fry the hamburger in the heated oil, stirring it occasionally to separate it. Skim out the meat and in the same fat cook onion, pepper and garlic till tender, but not browned. Garlic may be omitted entirely, and it is usually removed after the onion and pepper are cooked. Combine all ingredients and simmer 30 to 30 minutes to heat thoroughly and blend flavors, then serve.

Worst Sorrows

The worst sorrows in life are not in its losses and misfortunes, but its fears.—A. C. Benson.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. YOU BUY INOCULATION ON FAITH

Field tests have shown a big difference in the quality of inoculator brands on the market. You cannot see the germs bacteria you purchase. Immediate demonstration is impossible. What is the reputation and experience behind the inoculation you buy?

- NITRAGIN is the ORIGINAL LEGUME INOCULATOR, having served the farmers for over forty years. It was a GOLD MEDAL at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904.
- NITRAGIN is made in the most complete and modern laboratory of its kind in the world.
- NITRAGIN is the leader in the field by a big margin. NITRAGIN demand in the South has increased every year after year. During the fall of 1940, 1941, NITRAGIN sales were 3 times those of any VETCH and WINTER PEA inoculant. The large demand of the past is many dollar savings per year that NITRAGIN is a good product.

Send for our booklet "Plant Legumes to Prosper", showing pictures of field tests and how NITRAGIN is made. The booklet also gives you valuable information regarding the inoculation of legumes.

If your dealer does not have NITRAGIN in stock, have him get it for you. Insist on NITRAGIN inoculation.

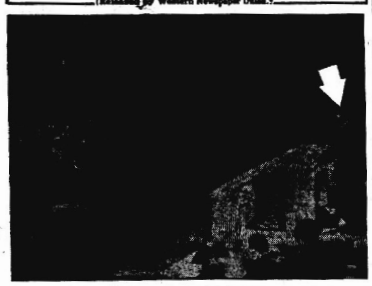
Unrest in Nazi Dominated Nations Results in 'Front-Behind-Front'; Hitler's 'Victory' Speech Is Puzzle As Russia Claims Important Gains

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)



Reichstuhrer Adolf Hitler is shown in the Sportspalast in Berlin as he made his speech to open the annual drive for winter relief. He used the opportunity to tell the German people that his armies on the eastern front have scored great victories and that Russia is "already broken and will never rise again." He again predicted complete Nazi victory. In the seats of honor at the gathering were a number of wounded, seen at the left front in the above picture.

FRONT:
(Behind Front)

The old cliche that "there is nothing new under the sun" was fairly routed by the oddest of all wars when the unrest which had been boiling for months in countries occupied by Nazi Germany had begun to flare into strange and more open warfare.

And it was a queer warfare, with ultimatums flying back and forth, and nations in exile passing decrees on conquered peoples with the threat of "death if we ever get back in our countries again."

It was no laughing matter, either, for the era of mass executions had been reached, with the possibility in some quarters that Germans would be slaughtered wholesale, just as the Nazis were slaughtering victims in other quarters.

In Jugoslavia

Guerilla bands operating in the Serbian mountain districts, swooping down by night, had been capturing small detachments of Nazi soldiers, spiriting them away as captives, until they had amassed somewhere between 600 and 1,000 men, whom they were reported holding prisoners.

Came an ultimatum from guerillas to the Nazi occupational officers to this effect: "Continue to shoot Jugoslav hostages, and we shall execute our prisoners."

The German answer (requiring the use of a considerable force which presumably had been taken from the Russian front) was the reported sending of a panzer division of 12,000 men and to head it toward Belgrade, the former capital of former Jugoslavia to deal summarily with these guerilla bands.

In Norway

King Haakon (in exile in London) signed a decree providing the death penalty for crimes against the Norwegian state.

A counter-attack against this move had come from Josef Terboven, the Reich's commissar in Norway, who said: "Accept Germany's new order and regard Germany's enemies as yours, or face obliteration as a national state, and perhaps starvation."

This ultimatum was backed up, it had been reported, by the fact that more than 2,000 Norwegians were in concentration camps, many of them held as hostages.

The "new order" was the Quisling government, against which an underground and sometimes open revolt had been going on for two months or more.

And against this stood Haakon's decree, held a warning to any "tools" of the Nazis who might exert themselves to help the German authorities that if Norway regains its freedom they will face the death penalty.

In Bulgaria

While not occupied formally or as a result of warfare, Bulgaria was officially considered to be an Axis partner, and reports had emanated from Sofia, in the form of a victory dispatch, that Greek forces which had swooped over the borders into Bulgaria with rifles and machine guns seeking to organize a revolt among the Greek citizens of the country, had been "annihilated."

In Belgium

A bomb explosion, it had been reported, in Brussels, had killed Jean Oederkerke, secretary of the Rexist (Fascist) forces.

In Czecho Slovakia

The wholesale executions in Bohemia and Moravia (home of the Czechs) followed revelations that there had been operating there schools for saboteurs and for learning improved methods of slowing down factory production.

And these evidences of the widespread revolt were in addition to similar events which had resulted in executions in occupied and unoccupied France and in Holland.

NEUTRALITY:
Change Expected

Although it was recognized that President Roosevelt's request for changes in or repeal of the neutrality act would meet with determined opposition in senate and house, a poll of the chambers showed definitely that some modification, notably that of permitting arming of American merchant ships, would receive a congressional O. K.

This poll had been taken as Secretary of State Hull warned the Axis powers that American-owned ships (presumably wearing the Panamanian or other flag, were armed and had orders to defend themselves.

This statement itself had closely followed the sinking of a former American tanker 450 miles east of Recife, Brazil, with the loss of several American lives.

The tanker had originally been American, had been transferred to the British service, and was operating under the Panamanian flag with a crew largely composed of American citizens.

Between 12 and 20 such ships had already been armed, Mr. Hull said, and he characterized the sinkings of these vessels or of those of this type as a German effort at "frightfulness designed to drive us out of the Atlantic."

The senate poll showed 29 in favor of repeal or change; 20 opposed to any change, and most of the rest undecided, wanting more time to study, or out of the city and unavailable for comment.

HITLER:
Puzzle

The first formal address by Hitler in 103 days of warfare with Russia rather left the world puzzled—for he claimed a total victory over the Reds at a time when Moscow was claiming the Leningrad push stopped, and continued advances in the center.

Also, the favorable report of the chancellor on the war situation came at a time when unrest behind the lines was assuming the proportions of a front, and at least one whole division had to be sidetracked to take care of one small sector of conquered territory.

Even more puzzling was his statement that he had ordered production of war materials restricted, because the Russians were no longer able to be a menace and that the war was, in effect "in the bag."

This was followed up by a warning in the Berlin Press to British and American mission members in Moscow to "get out of the Russian capital because a head-on attack upon Moscow was planned.

It came at a time when Moscow itself was informing the British and Americans that there no longer was doubt that Russia could hold out through the winter, but that quantities of munitions and the machinery of war would be needed next spring.

It was hard to reconcile facts with speech or speech with facts.

BRIEFS:

Berlin: (by radio heard in New York) The world famous broadcaster "Lord Haw-Haw," Nazi-minded Englishman, had been banned from the air."

Capetown, S. A.: Gen. Jan Christian Smuts again had called for America's entry into the war "hands and feet," to insure a quicker victory and save the world from exhaustion.

Farm Implement Industry Will Try 'Allocation' Plan

Manufacturers of Agricultural Machinery Placed Under Experimental System for Obtaining Necessary Raw Materials.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

By the time these words are printed the farmer ordering a tractor or a dairy machine is going to be able to line up at the counter right beside the generals and the admirals making their purchases of tanks and ships.

This is the interpretation that can be put on the remark made by Donald Nelson, head of the priorities division of the OPM, to the effect that he is going to make the agricultural implement industry a guinea pig in an experiment to remove the bottleneck which is preventing non-defense industries from getting the raw materials they need to operate.

Nelson admits that "priority lists" are not worth the paper they are written on in many cases and that a system of "allocation" is to be tried out.

"Priorities"—"allocation"—wars always create new words as well as new meanings for old ones. In this case the word "priorities" means if not a multitude of sins and headaches, at least a new meaning. When it became evident that there were not enough raw materials to supply defense needs and civilian needs both, the priority system was devised.

The priority division of the Office of Production Management was set up to decide which order for which raw material should be delivered to what manufacturer. The materials most essential to defense production were rated with an A, and graded in that category with numbers according to their importance. For example, A-1 material topped the list. The highest rating for civilian defense materials was B-1, while others were fitted into alphabetical classifications and numbered in line with their significance in the defense program.

This was the priority system. But it did not always work. For instance, the manufacturer of a dairy machine requiring some essential product like aluminum or rubber might have the highest civilian rating, but when he applied to get delivery for that product he found that all he had was the letter "B" and the number "1" on a sheet of paper, and you can't make dairy machines out of paper.

In Civilian Industries Also

This was happening in many civilian industries. It was also happening in defense industries. In the latter cases the system was changed so that certain defense manufacturers could get certain raw products (aluminum, copper, synthetic rubber, etc.) regardless of priority rating but by "allocation." In other words, the government ordered a specific amount of steel or copper delivered directly to the manufacturer.

And now the farm implement industry is to get its raw materials by the same method—allocation—if the plan being prepared by the priorities division at this writing is carried out.

The priorities division explains that this is to be an experiment and that it is being tried so that experience will be gained for applying the same method of providing raw materials for other civilian industries. This is, of course, a vital problem since thousands are being thrown out of work because non-defense industries are closing for want of supplies.

However, there is another story behind the story of the guinea pig. It probably began with a terse remark by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of the Office of Agricultural Defense Relations. He said:

"The priority system works as well as writing a check on a bank with no funds in it."

He was referring to the priority lists in general but he was thinking specifically about the farm implement industry and thinking about it in connection with the new goals set for farm production. For what can the poor farmer do when he is asked to produce more with less labor—if he can't buy the machines he is willing to pay for—if the manufacturer can't get the essential materials to build those machines? Donald Nelson admitted that priority lists were not worth the paper they were written on.

Before Mr. Nelson made his admission, Dr. Townsend and a few other officials—a few hundred before long—in the department of agriculture got busy. The inter-bureau committees made a survey of the mechanical requirements of farm production as set forth in the new goals in the food for freedom campaign. This was in July.

Survey of Requirements

The department surveyed the needs in packaging and processing machinery—machines to take care of the products after they were raised. And the county agents went right to the farmer himself and asked him what he would need to take care of the extra production—bearing in mind that he would be short of human hands.

A farmer with sons and hired help in the army or working in defense industries might make up for their loss if he substituted another tractor for a four-horse hitch. Self-feeders help, too, and machines for handling the products, like hay-hoists—and, since the accent in the farm program is now on dairy products, dairy machines are important. The latter take a lot of defense-precious aluminum, nickeled steel and rubber.

The poultry business was not so much concerned, for human hands have to do almost everything for the hens that the hens won't do for themselves.

But how to get the machines? The manufacturers were all tooled up and ready to go. They were at the top of the priority lists—but there were no priorities.

The matter was laid before defense officials.

Next Donald Nelson, in charge of priorities and once dependent largely on the farmer for a living (he has been loaned to the government by Sears, Roebuck), started in to make good that "check on a bank with no funds in it." He began to plan allocations instead of priorities.

Washington's Preview Of Winter

For a while the other day, Washington drew a gray curtain over its bright autumn skies and gave us a preview of winter.

It started with that painful moment which, I daresay, you, too, have experienced oft in the chilly night when after dreaming you were stranded on an ice cake in the Polar sea in your shorts or something even shorter, you awake to find that the unfaithful blanket has left your bed. That happened to me. And when I had finally curled up to dream of warmer climes the alarm went off. It was still dark. So I let the clock buzz and tried to go back to sleep. It ought not to be dark, I reasoned. It hadn't been dark at that hour for months . . .

When I reached the street I found a thick gray sky above, there was a chill in the air that set even Washington's leisurely pedestrians scurrying—myself included. It did feel like winter. And when I had passed my second boarding-house cat, I was sure. These cats take their early outdoor loaf while the basement dining rooms are full. I suppose some of the boarders are subject to catalepsy or catallergy or whatever it is that makes people squeal and wiggle when a persistent pussy rubs their leg. Anyhow, these two particular cats are always loafing in the same spot in front of their respective boarding houses as I pass. Usually they merely look bored. This time they looked cold and bored. They were hunched up, like tight accordions—a chilly cat always looks as though it were trying to pull its chin into its own fur collar.

Another sign of the false winter was an empty bench in front of the Masonic Temple. Usually it is full of girls waiting for the pal who picks them up and takes them to work, or at worst a late bus. It is a convenient resting (place in the summer under the shadow of a great sphinx. This time there was only one sitter. She may have had something on her mind—or elsewhere—that warmed her soul and prevented the cold stone from affecting the, shall we say, situation.

There was one more sign—the evergreens preened their needles with a look of satisfaction that they cannot muster when they have to compete with maple and magnolia.

HOW ABOUT THE REA?

Congress is usually ready and eager to investigate any group or industry which will produce headline news. At the present time, it looks as if the Rural Electrification Administration offers a fertile field for a real fact-finding investigation that won't pull any punches.

The REA was promoted as an agency to help rural electrification, in cooperation with the private utility industry which had been going steadily ahead serving more and more farmers at constantly declining rates long before the Federal government entered the power business. But, in actual operation, the REA seems to have itself a horse of a very different color.

It has built unnecessary, duplicate electric lines paralleling the lines of existing electric companies.

It has been used as a political weapon to help advance the left-wingers' cause of ultimate complete socialization of the private power industry.

In many instances its promises of rate reductions have not been fulfilled. In at least one glaring instance, government authorities refused to permit a private utility to distribute rural power, even though it offered to do so at a substantially lower rate than the local REA.

It has often pursued extremely high-handed and arbitrary policies in dealing with consumers, rural electric cooperatives, etc.

It has spent tremendous sums of tax money in areas where private money was available to do the job.

The indictment against the REA would cover many pages. And the continued operations of this agency are especially open to criticism now, for three reasons. First, it is clear to anyone that the cost of the defense drive makes it absolutely imperative to eliminate every unnecessary government activity. Second, the REA is a heavy user of materials of which there is a definite scarcity, and which are vital to our national defense work. Third, the undermining of free enterprise is inexcusable at a time when the country is struggling to maintain our basic freedoms. If Congress wants to perform a major public service, it should thoroughly examine REA.

"OIL SHORTAGE" BACKFIRES

The so-called "oil shortage" scare on the Eastern seaboard, promoted for reasons hard to understand, has vanished like a morning mist. According to a congressional committee investigation, there is no serious shortage in the foreseeable future.

The productive capacity of the American oil industry is more than adequate to meet today's enormous military demand, as well as the normal civilian demand. A transportation problem was created by the transfer of tankers to Great Britain. That problem is now being met by moving oil by rail, even though the cost to the industry is higher; by the construction of additional pipelines, and, in many cases, by using coal instead of oil in industrial operations.

This country produces more than 60 per cent of all the oil in the world. It produces oils of a quality unequaled elsewhere. That is what private enterprise has done—and all the politically-inspired rumors of "grave shortages" can't hide it. Friendly cooperation with industry as dislocation problems arise, due to defense needs, will do more to solve them than autocratic, punitive action.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

I doubt if any organization in the state has done more to break down sectionalism and create a spirit of friendly cooperation than the Florida Publicity and Public Relations Association.

This enterprising group, made up of men and women who devote their time to attracting and entertaining tourists or who represent firms or organizations interested in the welfare and advancement of the state, has taken its place as a dominant force in Florida's development.

At the annual meeting of the association, held in Jacksonville last week-end, delegates representing every interest and every section, talked and planned, not of their own selfish interests but of Florida as a whole.

Welcoming the group, Mayor John T. Alsop, Jr., paid tribute to Miami, Tampa, Orlando, Pensacola and other points and stated that it was the sincere desire of the Gateway City to work hand in hand with all sections of the state to the end and that all would grow and prosper.

Delegates representing such outstanding attractions as Marine Studios, McKee Jungle Gardens, Wakulla Springs, Oriental Gardens, Silver Springs and others, exchanged ideas, collaborated on their promotion plans, and pledged themselves to work together in publicizing all sections and all attractions.

Bill Dupree of Dupree Gardens, near Tampa, announced that he was planning the construction of an attractive lodge on his property where an information desk would be maintained and visitors would find literature, translights and displays describing every worthwhile Florida attraction.

He pointed out that people come to Florida to be entertained and that the more beauty spots they visited and the more pleasure they experienced while here, the sooner they would return and bring others with them.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, Jr., who operate Oriental Gardens at Jacksonville, entertained the group at a cocktail party and explained how they always urge visitors to be sure and see all of Florida, and visit the lower East Coast where they will find such unique attractions as the Rare Bird Farm, Monkey Jungle, The North Miami Zoo, Parrot Jungle and the like.

In the guest house attractive, pictures and translights on every hand urged one to be sure and see this or that point of interest—Bok Tower, Cypress Gardens, Sarasota Tropical Park, or the Old Plantation and Turpentine Still.

Charming hosts, the Clarks gave visiting attraction owners an opportunity to inspect beautiful and impressive Oriental Gardens, developed on the south shore of the majestic St. Johns, and which ranks as one of the outstanding show places and a MUST attraction not only for tourists but for home folks as well.

Representatives of transportation companies, editors of travel and resort pages of large metropolitan papers, feature writers, newsreel editors and tourist bureau directors attending the meeting told of the terrific interest in Florida today and pledged their full cooperation in working with Florida publicity and public relations folks in publicizing the state in every way consistently possible.

All expressed belief that the coming season would be a record breaker that would tax our facilities to the utmost. It is not felt that the alleged gasoline shortage will serve to retard travel to any extent. It has not done so as far as summer travel to resorts in other states is concerned and should not in Florida's case.

Altogether the 3-day convention was a great success. The spirit of unity, friendship and cooperation evidenced throughout the meeting, with north, south, east and west all pulling together, it should prove the beginning of a new era for the state, an era in which petty jealousies and selfishness between sections and attractions will be replaced by friendly rivalry, mutual respect and a united, forward Florida spirit.

Acquired and maintained, it will do more to advance the welfare of all sections and all attractions than anything else.

CITY COUNCIL HAD LENGTHY SESSION MON.

the former council.

S. C. Pardee, former city attorney, told council he was representing his son, S. C. Pardee, Jr., who was acting for the city in several cases. He mentioned the injunction suit seeking to enjoin the city from collecting taxes in outside territory. This bill of complaint will have to be amended, Pardee said. Other suits mentioned were the Klemm suit reopening an old city foreclosure suit and a similar suit by Wilbur Whitehurst. Both suits are in suspense, he said.

Several pieces of city property were authorized sold.

Assistant Clerk W. T. Hall said the state's assessment on railroad and telegraph property had been received but they were so out of line with previous years he had held up action until getting further advice. The assessments are on a 100 percent basis this year which would increase the city taxes very greatly. It was very evident a tax squabble will result if these are set up on the city books at the increased figures.

The Girl Scouts were granted use of the armory during daylight hours in order to save light expense.

The wording on the stop light at the east end will be changed to allow traffic coming from Sebring to turn right on red light. This change was made at the suggestion of Councilman Booth.

Then came the discussion on an assistant clerk and assessor. It was stated that under the city charter the council elects an assessor and may provide an assistant clerk. Ware suggested that delinquent tax collecting be added to the assessor's duties. Then came the vote on an assistant clerk. Elton Perry received four votes and W. T. Hall, one. Other applicants were Rebecca Holton and Mona Langford.

W. T. Hall has been filling the offices of assistant clerk and tax assessor under the former council and asked what his status was now. Ware moved to re-employ Hall as tax assessor for the next two years. Anderson seconded. Tompkins and Booth voted no, resulting in a tie vote. President DeLaney compalined this tie voting made it very unpleasant for him and asked that the council get together. Ware told him he was not fair and should not dodge the issue. Ware and Pardee then had a passage of words when Pardee said Ware's motion was out of order.

DeLaney then asked for ballots on Ware's motion to re-employ Hall. Papers were passed and there were three No's and two Yes's.

At DeLaney's request Booth then took the chair and DeLaney moved that Hall complete the work he is now working on as instructed and that he be paid a full month's salary for October. Miss Tompkins seconded. A roll call vote showed Booth, Tompkins and DeLaney voting yes and Ware and Anderson, no. Hall promptly resigned and said his successor can complete the work. He added he could see council's action was just political and he hoped they could get together for the betterment of Avon Park.

Ware then told DeLaney council was only trying to get the good out of a man and then let him go.

Pardee mentioned several judgements against the city and on which court orders required the budget to be revised and special levies added to the millage.

Fall Vegetable Season Is Open

Wauchula, Oct. 16 (FNS)—The fall vegetable season was officially opened here last week when the State Farmers' Market held its first auction sale for 1941-42.

John C. McEwen, market manager, reported that about 850 packages of vegetables were auctioned and all indications point to a very successful season.

Wauchula lies in the heart of the largest cucumber producing section of Florida, and the State Farmers' Market there reported a total of 2667,402 from fruit and vegetable sales for the last fiscal year.

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo recently inspected a new packing shed 100x200 feet which was added to the facilities of this market this year and declared the Wauchula State Farmers' Market to be one of the finest in the State system.

All State Farmers' Markets have been strengthened and prepared for the best season in many years and are ready to give assistance in the rapid and efficient distribution of farm products during the emergency, according to advice received from William L. Wilson, director.

Mrs. Margaret Campbell who has spent the past year with an aged relative at Cameron Mills, N. Y., has returned to Avon Park and will occupy the garage apartment of Mrs. Mae Walden on W. Bell street.

Churches of Christ, Scientist

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, October 19.

The Golden Text is: "There is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time" (I Timothy 2:5, 6).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" (Mic. 6:8).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "One sacrifice, however great, is insufficient to pay the debt of sin. The atonement requires constant self-immolation on the sinner's part. That God's wrath should be vented upon His beloved Son, is divinely unnatural. Such a theory is man-made" (p. 23:5-7).

Port St. Joe Wants Gasoline Pipe Line

Port St. Joe, Oct. 16 (FNS)—The Southeastern Pipeline was in the national limelight again this week as Congressman Bob Sikes pushed plans to get delivery of gasoline and oil to Port St. Joe and to rail and tank cars at Carrabelle. Sikes contended that this delivery, coupled with other deliveries in eastern states and the Southern United States, would relieve a pending shortage.

OPEN CLASSES FOR AIRCRAFT MECHANICS

Defense School Training Civilians for Jobs At Basic Flying School

The Sebring Vocational Defense Training School, with students enrolled from Polk, Highlands, Hardee and DeSoto counties, will start classes in airplane sheet metal work in the near future, M. A. Wooten, director of the school, announced this week, and anyone wishing to take this training can do so without cost.

There are now or will be soon many positions open in army air fields for airplane mechanics and in defense industries such as ship yards and tank factories in Florida for graduates of the local school, Mr. Wooten said in an interview this week.

Welders and mechanics are needed by the hundreds in tank factories, shipyards and air bases, he said. The Sebring school is now running classes for beginners in these trades, six hours a day for 12 weeks, or until the students can pass the tests. The classes run from eight in the morning until three in the afternoon. Supplimentary classes for machinists helpers run from eight in the morning until eleven in the evening to suit the men on different shifts at the air base.

Night classes are being conducted for men who are now working in the metal trades who wish to be welders, five nights a week from five to eight and from eight to eleven.

There is a special opportunity for young men who have some experience in auto repair and maintainance, Mr. Wooton said, to get a position as general mechanics helper at the local air field if they will enroll in one of the supplimentary classes for three or four months. Other jobs which will be open for civilians at the basic flying school are junior aircraft engine-mechanic and junior aircraft mechanic. All of these jobs pay about $1,500 per year, and students from the local defense training school will be given preference if they live in driving distance of the field as they will not increase the housing problem.

Florida Ideal For Defense Industries

Miami, Oct. 16 (FNS)—Advantages of Florida as an ideal location for defense industrial manufacturing plants were stressed by Commander Bruce G. Leigton, president of Intercontinent Aircraft Corp. here, in a talk to Miami's Rotary Club last week.

"This is probably the safest place in the country for a plant such as ours," said Leighton. "Lying in the center of a ring of defense that extends clear across the Atlantic, Southeast Florida would be vastly less vulnerable to overseas air attack than any of our great west coast manufacturing centers, New England, or the Middle Atlantic states, once our outlying defense bases are completed."

In addition to Southeast Florida's strategic geographical location with regard to safety and transportation facilities, Leighton pointed out that his offered the best undeveloped labor market in the United States today.

"More than 85 percent of the 950 people working at Intercontinent today," said Leighton, "were obtained right in this population area. Many of them were men who had 'retired' to Florida."

Intercontinent is now performing on $5,000,000 worth of government defense contracts for vital airplane parts.

FIRST AID CLASSES COMPLETE TRAINING

County Defense Council Program Stressing First Aid Training

A class of 30 in Avon Park, have completed a course of study in first aid under the direction of Dr. George S. McKnight, member of the committee on Health and Housing of the Highlands County Defense council, County Chairman Ben T. Stewart, announced yesterday.

Ernest Wilson is conducting a similar class in Sebring two nights each week and A. E. Austin of Lake Placid has started a course in Lake Placid. Dr. H. V. Weems, county chairman of the Health and Housing unit of the county defense council, reported last night.

Dr. Weems stated there will be an advanced course in first aid given under the direction of the American Red Cross in Sebring the week of November 17-28. This course is open to those who have completed the preliminary courses being given in the county now.

H. W. Long, county chairman of the fire fighting division of the county defense council, reports that he has completed the organization of his division in the county and has supplied each member with a pamphlet of instruction in fighting fires.

The work of the civil protection committee of the defense council in organizing air raid warning services is being held up by the reluctance of those volunteering for this service to comply with the regulation requiring that all defense workers be fingerprinted.

It is absolutely necessary, N. A. Broking, chairman of the civil protection division of the defense council, stated in a talk given at a defense meeting in Lake Placid last Thursday evening, that every member of that committee be fingerprinted at the earliest possible date.

Wm. Hauptmann, Avon Park, was the principal speaker at the defense meeting in Lake Placid. He made an inspiring patriotic address in which he pointed out the importance of completely organizing the civil population, as well as the military, in time of peace.

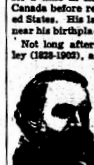
Camp Cavalcade

SHADOWY figures in a cavalcade of American history—each are the men behind the names of the great army cantonments scattered all over the United States, where young Americans are learning to be soldiers in order to defend their country when the need arises.

Camp Toombs, near Toccoa, Ga., is named for one of the most remarkable men ever produced by that state—Robert Toombs (1810-1885), soldier and statesman. His first military experience was as a captain of volunteers against the Alabama Indians in the 30s, followed by a political career that took him to the United States senate from which he was expelled in 1861 because of his advocacy of secession. He could have been president of the new Confederate States of America, but he declined that honor, just as he had declined the offer of cabinet offices under President Taylor and Fillmore. He did consent to serve briefly as secretary of state under President Jefferson Davis, then was commissioned a brigadier-general in the Confederate army in which he served throughout the war. At the close of the conflict he fled to Cuba, lived for a time in England, France and Canada before returning to the United States. His last years were spent near his birthplace, Washington, Ga.

Robert Toombs

Not long after David Sloan Stanley (1828-1903), a native of Ohio, was graduated from West Point, he was sent to the Western Plains as a lieutenant of dragons and started on the career which made him one of the best-known Indian fighters of his day. But before that there were four years of service in the Union army during which he rose from captain to major-general, and rendered conspicuous service at the battles of New Madrid, Island No. 10, Corinth, Iuka, Jonesboro, Nashville, Spring Hill, Stone River, Resaca, Ruffs Station and Franklin, where he was desperately wounded but refused to leave the field until the battle was won. After the war, he served against the Indians in the Dakotas and the famous Yellowstone expedition of 1873, fought the redskins in Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and brought peace to the Texas frontier by suppressing Indian raids in the Lone Star state. That's why he is remembered gratefully in Texas and why the camp near Leon Springs bears his name.



D. S. Stanley

The name of another great cavalry leader is preserved in the name of Camp Wheeler, near Franklinton, Ga. It honors the memory of Joseph T. ("Fighting Joe") Wheeler (1836-1906) the "Georgia gamecock" who was assigned to the dragoons immediately after his graduation from West Point in 1859. When he entered the Confederate army he was first made colonel of an infantry regiment and commanded a brigade at the Battle of Shiloh. But the next year he was transferred to the cavalry and from that time on he was one of the South's most daring and successful raiders. After the death of "Jeb" Stuart in 1864, he was the senior cavalry general of the Confederate armies and rose to the rank of lieutenant-general. After the war, he studied law and was repeatedly re-elected to congress. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, "Fighting Joe" was again in the saddle as a major-general of cavalry sent to Cuba to fight the Spaniards.

Taps

"Taps" was originally a signal for retiring in military camps and was played on the drums. Later it was sounded on the bugle, the commonest tune, "The Last Post," being introduced into this country by the British army during the Revolution. The melody of the present "Taps" was composed by Daniel Butterworth, a brigadier-general in the Union army. It was first sounded on the bugle by Oliver W. Norton, brigade bugler, at Harrison's Landing, Va., in July, 1862.

Ton of Scrap Iron

According to an estimate by army ordnance officers, a ton of scrap iron collected in this country could be made into: One 75-millimeter field-gun, or the carriage for such a gun, or 13 machine guns, or nine 500-pound demolition bombs, or one 2,000-pound, 16-inch battleship-piercing shell.

Honeymoon

By JOSEPH McCORD

INSTALLMENT FIVE

THE STORY SO FAR: Larry Cutter falls in love with Jacqueline (Jack) Anthony, pretty and lively stenographer at the Hotel Raymear. When she told him about her longing for travel, he said she could realize her ambition by marrying him. Jacqueline had just lost her little's savings by gambling on the stock market, and her mother had, but for only a month before when she refused him additional money for work on his inventions. Stunned by this double blow, she accepted his proposal and they signed a contract permitting her to retain her freedom of living and to nullify the marriage after six months. They set Saturday as their wedding day.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER III

Cloudless skies ushered in Jacqueline Anthony's fateful Saturday. She had slept little, but that unbearable apprehension had subsided. The spirit of adventure was making itself felt. This was a real adventure, one that few girls had undertaken. And, strangest of all, it began to assume a slightly humorous aspect. Jacqueline was somewhat shocked at that, not realizing that it was one relief offered her taut nerves.

Breakfast proved to be a distasteful thought, but she made coffee while spending a little extra time in arranging her shining hair before the mirror.

Almost eight! She must hurry, not keep Mr. Cutter waiting. Her forced gaiety forsook her as she paused for a last look about the room. She was saying good by again. And there was no one . . . no one.

With a rising lump in her throat, she made a swift little rush to the mantelpiece and caught up a small framed photograph. She pressed it against her smooth cheek for an instant.

"Good-by, Vince," she whispered. "Wish me . . . luck."

Her wedding day!

Larry Cutter was waiting. On time.

Jacqueline took a moment to peep out of the window at him while she made a final effort to regain her composure. There he was, lolling comfortably in the deep seat of a huge roadster with its top folded back, showing no sign of anxiety whatever. His hands were nowhere near the horn button.

She opened the door and walked down the few steps to the street.

"Good morning, Mr. Cutter."

"Oh . . ."

The exclamation died on Larry's lips as he looked up and saw the little figure in brown coming to meet him. His first glimpse of her in the daylight. How beautiful she was! . . . little Jack. His little Jack! He scrambled out of his car with but one desire in his heart . . . to snatch her up in his arms. To hold her close . . .

Instead, he stood very erect and managed an almost formal bow.

"How are you, Miss Anthony?"

Then he assisted her into the car, walked around the machine and seated himself behind the wheel. The motor pulsated under its long hood, began a powerful humming.

"All set?"

"Yes."

The roadster rolled easily from the curb, quietly picking up speed. Jacqueline's conjecture that Mr. Cutter would devote most of his attention to driving proved pleasantly correct. While they were making moderate progress through traffic, terse sentences from her driver enlightened her somewhat.

They were going to a county seat in the adjoining state. Terryville was its name. About eighty-five miles, if the road map was fairly accurate.

"Ever been there, Miss Anthony?"

"No, I haven't, Mr. Cutter."

"How about making it 'Larry'? After all . . ." His wide mouth relaxed in a smile, but the dark eyes watched the path ahead of the roadster's hood.

"All right . . . Larry. And my name is Jacqueline."

"Not to me. You're 'Jack.' I hope you don't mind . . . Just suits you. I love it."

Little was said after that. Larry gave his car more and more speed until it seemed to Jacqueline they were flying. She relaxed against the comfortable cushions and gave herself up to the joy of the experience. Feeling the wind beat against her face, loosening her hair.

Terryville at last.

"If my scouts are correct," Larry observed, "it will not be necessary for you to go to the clerk's office . . . If you don't mind giving me the necessary data. Maybe you'd like to wait for me at that good-looking hotel yonder."

"I would . . . please." That was thoughtful of Larry.

He left her in the lobby after jotting down a few notes regarding what he termed, the bride's "color, race and previous condition of servitude."

He was back at the hotel within the hour, smiling and tapping the pocket of his coat.

"All set, Jack. If you're ready . . . My word! I never thought to ask you! I've located a minister, but perhaps you'd rather have a civil ceremony."

"Oh, no. I'd much prefer a minister."

"Good! So would I. Wish, for your sake, we could do it in church with all the trimmings. Nerves all right?"

"Yes."

"You're rather wonderful! Come ahead."

That next hour was more than ever like some dream. There was a neat white house next door to a church. The minister proved to be a rugged-faced young chap wearing a sack suit, not at all formidable. Jacqueline had a distinct recollection of being shocked by the minister's casual query as to whether a ring ceremony was desired, being even more shocked by Larry's prompt, "Oh, yes. Please."

And there he was, fumbling in his vest pocket.

Then the ceremony. Jacqueline standing beside Larry, conscious only of how huge he seemed. "Dearly beloved . . ." She was being married. Managing responses in some fashion. Feeling the warm clasp of Larry's fingers . . . A ring being slipped over her finger. The bride tried to realize what it meant, the solemnity . . . "I pronounce you . . ."

A new fear pervading the dream. Sudden. Overwhelming. Would Larry kiss her when the last words were spoken!

He didn't! Just drew her to him with an instinctive move, then released her. And the bride was conscious of an instant's resentment. It was perilously akin to disappointment.

She could not know that her new husband had put up the most gallant fight of his life when he resisted the temptation to claim that kiss.

She was seeing the Land of Heart's Desire almost through her own eyes.

But he had promised to play the game.

"Now what?" was Larry's vague question, after he had seated himself in the car beside his wife.

"Home, I suppose." Jacqueline's voice shared his uncertainty.

"Umm . . . m. Seems as though we might do something to celebrate our wedding day. What do you say if we go to a movie?"

"Why . . . Of course!" Jacqueline caught at Larry's suggestion with undisguised relief.

An hour or more in a darkened theater would give her a chance to reconcile herself to a situation which already had surpassed the bounds of imagination. Best of all, it would preclude any attempts at conversation . . . or should. She never could be sure what this amazing man might do or say. In spite of his promises, he might feel that his new status carried a prerogative of sorts.

He had said that he considered himself a gentleman. He was proving it . . . so far . . . beautifully. But his bride still was a little fearful. Still more so, when Larry announced his intention of leaving the car on a parking lot and doing a little exploring on foot. That done, his next offering was: "How about something to eat now . . . Mrs. Cutter?"

"Please don't!" It came out in a swift, frightened tone. "I couldn't eat."

"I'm sorry. Won't do it again. That was just a slip . . . But I do have papers to that effect. Here . . ." He halted and took the certificate from his pocket. "You'd better take this and keep it with the other exhibits."

Larry smiled contritely and moved on. He was trying to be nice, Jacqueline thought. And this big, alert faced man was her husband.

Once within the theater, Jacqueline removed the slender wedding band from her finger and dropped it into her bag. The symbol had served its part in the little drama. In a few hours, it all would be over. She might as well begin now adjusting herself to the next act. Larry would be behind the scenes after today. For how long?

She stole a look at him. He seemed to be staring impassively at the screen with its moving figures and amplified voices. His profile showed clear-cut against the dim glow shed by a cluster of wall lamps. It was a good profile, strong. He was a man of whom any woman might be proud, if only . . .

Jacqueline Cutter's heart gave a frightened little jump. She was as startled as if someone had spoken that name in her ear.

She was going to miss Larry . . . miles him.

And, before she could turn away her face, he was looking directly at her. Smiling.

"Like it?" he asked in a low voice.

"Oh, yes . . . Interesting."

There was a picture, after all. Jacqueline tried to center her attention on it.

When they prepared to leave, the first thing she touched was that ring. She slipped it back on her finger. Larry might feel hurt and . . . after all.

After Larry and Jacqueline had left Terryville behind, he seemed to recover his spirits. He had "spotted" a very good looking inn on the way over. They would stop and celebrate with a real meal, if Jack were willing.

"Not in any special rush to get back are you?"

"Oh, no."

"Thought you might have a date." He chuckled quietly, as the significance of his last words appealed to him. "Rather quaint, when you come to think of it, isn't it?"

Jacqueline laughed in spite of herself. "I think that's the word I've been searching for all day," she decided.

The roadside inn fulfilled Larry's fondest hopes. Even Jacqueline discovered that she was hungry now, sitting at a cozy table lighted by shaded candles.

"Will you join me in a little something . . . to our united health?" Larry asked.

Jacqueline was startled from her reverie by the question. "No, thank you. I don't . . . I'm not a very good sport. But you order something for yourself."

"Of course I won't. Didn't I tell you that I never took a drink alone? Here's to you . . ." He lifted his glass of water with a smile.

Thereafter, Larry became the perfect host and entertainer to his bride.

Their waiter, a thin Negro with flashing white teeth, brought up the memory of an incident in Egypt, a trip up the Nile in a dahabeah with a friend.

Jacqueline leaned forward to ask breathlessly, "It wasn't Mr. Allan, was it?"

Larry's hearty laugh caused nearby diners to regard him in mild surprise.

"No. This is straight goods."

"I'm so glad. Then you have traveled?"

"Rather. On my dad's bounty at first, spent most of my vacations going about. He was very generous. After I was on my own, I was more or less of a tramp . . . never content to settle down and work for things. I wanted to make a big strike, win a good pot."

How like Vince, Jacqueline thought. Then she asked, "Has your father been dead for some time?"

"Thirteen years." Larry's mouth set in a sudden grim line. "Rather tough, too. Lost everything he had and . . . as a matter of fact, he killed himself."

"Oh, please . . . I'm sorry."

"That's quite all right. I'll tell you about it some day, if you care to hear it. Not tonight."

Then he was talking again of his mining quests. Making a stake here and there, moving to new fields. Mexico. Down into Bahia where they wash black diamonds out of the river gravel. Over into Bolivia. Down to Chile. Back to the States for a try at gold panning in California.

And Jacqueline followed the Aeneid with shining eyes and bated breath, almost forgetting to eat in her excitement at uncovering so great a mine of information. For the time being, the earlier affairs of the day and their significance were forgotten. She was seeing the Land of Heart's Desire almost through her own eyes.

"I'm afraid that you got me wound up," Larry remarked with an apologetic laugh, glancing at his wrist watch. "I didn't mean to deliver such a travelogue."

"I loved it!"

Jacqueline's eyes, as well as her lips, said that. It all was very wonderful . . . And over with. Larry was signaling the waiter to bring the bill. No more talks like this. It seemed just a little sad.

Those homeward miles were covered in almost complete silence. Both the riders were busy with their reflections, finding relief in each other's willingness to refrain from speech.

Larry Cutter was fighting down desire, his jaw grimly set. Here was the end of his happiest day . . . Forced to abide by the rules he had drawn up . . . Caught in his own code. He would play the game to the end but . . . only because he must. It hurt. Jack, here alone with him under the stars. His arms aching with emptiness.

THE HOLY SPIRIT OUR HELPER

LESSON TEXT—John 3:5-8; Acts 1:8; Romans 8:26-28; Galatians 5:22-26.

GOLDEN TEXT—As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.—Romans 8:14.

Nothing could be more practical or blessed for and in the life and service of the believer than an understanding of the person and work of the Holy Spirit; yet it is a subject concerning which most Christians are woefully ignorant.

Before taking up the work of the Spirit as it appears in our lesson, we should understand that the Holy Spirit is a person, not an influence which may exert itself upon a service, or a power which a man may obtain and use. He—the Spirit—is one of the Trinity, with the attributes of a person, doing the work of a person and always referred to as a person in Scripture. (When "it" is used of the Holy Spirit in the A.V. it will be found to be corrected to "him" in the R.V.)

What then does this divine person do? The work of creation was His as one of the Godhead. He regenerates, He teaches, He comforts, He leads, He calls and qualifies Christian workers, He is the divine author of the Bible. These and many other things He does, this One who indwells the believer as the ever-present Guide and Counselor. The Christian is

I. Born of the Spirit (John 3:5-8).

The new birth is indispensable to entrance into the kingdom of God. We either enter that way or we do not enter at all. Let's be clear about that. "Ye must be born again," is not the edict of a church or the plea of a preacher; it is the plain statement of our Lord Himself (v. 5).

The Holy Spirit is indispensable to regeneration. We must be born of the Spirit. How it takes place we can no more explain than the coming or going of the wind, but just as the power of the wind is known to us by clear evidence, so the regenerating power of the Spirit, mysterious though it be in operation, is known to us by the evidences of redeeming grace in a man's life.

II. Empowered by the Spirit (Acts 1:8).

Spiritual birth calls for service for Christ. For that we must have the power of the Holy Spirit. A man may do many ordinary things in the strength of his own body and mind (although even these ought always to be under the Spirit's control), but when he comes to witnessing for Christ, teaching or preaching God's Word, he must have Holy Spirit power or he is utterly ineffective.

III. Directed by the Spirit (Rom. 8:26-28).

The guidance of the Holy Spirit, especially in the matter of prayer, is stressed in these verses, but they are a part of a longer passage dealing with the indwelling, enabling, and guiding power of the Holy Spirit (read vv. 9-14). Every detail of life in the home, at business, or in social relations should be in conscious submission to His leading.

It is in the realm of the spiritual, however, that we find ourselves peculiarly infirm (v. 26), and this shows itself especially in prayer—"we know not how to pray as we ought." Then the Spirit in the Christian makes intercession. How blessed! "The practical meaning of these profound words seems to be that the divine Spirit, by His immediate influence in the saint's soul, which becomes as it were the organ of his own address to the Father, secures the rightness of the essence of the saint's prayer. To our understandings such intercessions with groanings which cannot be uttered, take the form of desires of ours, inspired and secured by Him. In any special case of prayer, the saint may or may not use words; but anywise the root-desires that underlie the prayer, being the Holy Spirit's promptings, are unutterable to the full. In the heart the Father sees below the surface of our ignorance the sacred longings which are the expression of the Spirit's influence" (H. C. G. Moule).

IV. Walking in the Spirit (Gal. 5: 22-26).

Being born again of the Spirit, living daily by the Spirit, it is right that (as v. 25 puts it) "if we live by the Spirit, let us also walk by the Spirit." The works of the flesh, horrible in their wickedness and lust, are listed in the verses preceding (vv. 19-21), and then by striking contrast we have the fruit of the Spirit in the life of the Christian. Note the distinction: Work is something we produce; fruit is something that grows.

Walking in the Spirit the Christian finds in his life the inward graces of love, joy, and peace. These then express themselves outwardly in longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness, and self-control. The Spirit-filled man is not only a good man; he lives a good life.

First Political Cartoon

The first political cartoon in this country was designed by Benjamin Franklin and appeared in his Pennsylvania Gazette in 1754. It depicts a snake cut in eight parts, representing the eight colonies, and is captioned "Join or Die," in an attempt to unite the people during the French and Indian war. For over 20 years, whenever an occasion arose to consolidate the colonies, this crude drawing was reprinted, thus probably exerting influence over a longer period of time than any other political cartoon ever drawn.

Tarpon Springs Is Selling Bldg. Lots

Tarpon Springs, Oct. 16 (FNS)—Sincere homeseekers may secure desirable well located building lots in Tarpon Springs at the nominal price of $50, it was announced by the City Commission. City owned lots will be made available to anyone who will locate and build a home.

In Coral Gables, city fathers voted recently to confiscate large parcels of property on which taxes have not been paid for development as public playgrounds.

Mayor Whitley stated that the city would foreclose on these delinquent properties and hoped to establish a park and playground in each section of the community.

MEN 17 TO 50 WANTED FOR NAVAL RESERVE

To Be Kept On Active Duty Only For Duration Of Emergency

According to an announcement made this week in Washington by order of Secretary of the Navy Knox, "All men now enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be retained on active duty throughout the period of the national emergency, but they will be released to inactive duty as soon after the emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment."

Enlistment in the U. S. Naval Reserve is for four years but, if a man enlists today and the emergency ends within a period of several months, he will be returned to his civilian job as soon as possible after the emergency is over, and will not be required to complete his four year term in active service.

Four classes of service in the United State Naval Reserve need men urgently today. They are Class V-3, which includes radio and communications; V-5, aviation; V-6, for trade specialists or men desiring trade or vocational training; V-7, fleet officers. A more detailed outline of each class follows below.

Men with specialized training in radio, searchlight and semaphore signaling or Morse telegraphy may be enrolled in Class V-3, the communications class of the Naval Reserve. These men will be enlisted as petty officers with ratings according to their degrees of proficiency. Pay for men enrolling in this group ranges from $60 a month for a petty officer third class to $99 a month for a chief petty officer. An additional allowance of $1.15 per day is made for men with dependents who have the rating of petty officer second class or higher.

A man with at least two years of college education who desires to enter naval aviation will be enlisted as a seaman second class in Class V-5 of the Naval Reserve. After a month's preliminary training the V-5 recruit will become a naval aviation cadet and will be sent for advanced training to one of the three principal naval flight training centers: Pensacola, Fla.; Jacksonville, Fla.; or Corpus Christo, Texas. On completion of this advance course which requires approximately seven months, the V-5 cadet will be designated as a naval aviator and will be commissioned as an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

During the first month of training, V-5 recruits are paid $36. On completion of the first month's training the V-5 recruit is designated as a naval aviation cadet and will be paid $75 a month, plus $1 per day living expense. Upon commission as an ensign his pay will be increased to approximately $245 a month and in addition he will receive regular pay bonuses of $500 for each year he serves in active duty after the training period.

Class V-6 in the U. S. Naval Reserve offers opportunities for men with specialized training to continue their trades and at the same time serve their country. This group includes specialists of any kind such as electricians, carpenters, machinists, stenographers, accountants, plumbers, cooks, bakers and many other trades and vocations. These men will upon enlistment be given ratings in accordance with the amount of previous specialized training they have had.

Men with no previous specialized training will be enlisted in Class V-6 as apprentice seaman with pay of $21 a month. Directly following enlistment the new recruit will be sent to one of the four Naval Training stations for a short period. At the training station the apprentice seaman will be given an aptitude test and if he passes this test successfully he will be sent to a Navy trade school. Approximately 5500 men are admitted to Navy trade schools each month. This schooling, valued at hundreds of dollars, is free and the seamen receive their regular Navy pay while receiving instructions.

Those applicants who do not pass their tests for admission to a Navy trade school will be sent to duty aboard ship where an opportunity will be given them to train in a trade. Four months after enlistment all non-specialized applicants in Class V-6 will be advanced automatically to seaman second class with a pay increase to $36 a month.

Men with previous specialized training of any kind will be enlisted in the Naval Reserve Class V-6 with petty officer ratings and will be sent immediately to ship or shore station where they are needed.

College graduates who desire engineering or deck duty as officers in the U. S. Naval Reserve will be enlisted as Midshipmen, Class V-7 Upon completion of a four month's training course these men will be commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve. During the training period Midshipmen are paid $65 a month. As ensigns with commissions the pay will be approximately $143 a month with an additional allowance of $40 a month if they are married.

All applicants for the U. S. Naval Reserve must be native born citizens of the United States with the exception of candidates for Class V-5 who must have been United State citizens for a period of at least ten years.

Detailed information with regard to enlistment in any class of the U. S. Naval Reserve may be secured by writing to or calling at your nearest regional Navy Recruiting Station.

O. Blossom Trail News and Notes

Orlando, Fla.—"Newly organized travel associations over the South will feed thousands of auto travelers thru Central Florida this year," says A. C. Slaughter of Orlando, President of the Orange Blossom Trail Association; following a survey issued today. The Orange Blossom Trail begins at Lake City and traverses Central Florida to Miami showing such highlight attractions as Silver Springs, Cypress Gardens, Bok Tower and Highlands Hammock.

"Groups of tourists throughout the Southeastern states have been forming their own trail associations and issuing strip maps giving their local routing, so as to come into the Orange Blossom Trail and its new time saving route into Miami over the newly completed highway.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FIRST SEBRING MAYOR

R. G. Haskins, Father of Local Attorney, Died At Winter Haven

Funeral services for R. G. Haskins, 81, first mayor of Sebring, who died at his home in Winter Haven, were held Tuesday afternoon. Relatives had been summon to his bedside late last week.

Mr. Haskins, the father of Attorney F. T. Haskins, was the first cousin of Stonewall W. Jackson.

He was born in Buckhannon, W. Va., where he became important figure in the bituminous coal industry. He moved to Florida in 1903, and in association with the late George E. Sebring, helped to develop 2,000 acres of citrus land.

Mr. Haskins, from the beginning, was actively interested in Mr. Sebring's southern venture and because of his diligent work as a community organizer, was elected the town's first citizen at the time of its incorporation.

Approximately twenty years ago Mr. Haskins moved to Winter Haven where he lived up to the time of his passing.

The deceased was survived by his widow, Ella; two daughters, Mrs. Chester B. Treadway of Tavares and Mrs. Lotta Reck of Lakeland; two sons, Earl of Winter Haven and F. T., of Sebring; one sister, Miss Annie Haskins, of Salem, W. Va., one brother, H. C. of Detroit, nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Services were held at the Waresmith funeral home in Winter Haven Tuesday with the Rev. E. P. Downey officiating. Interment was in the Oaklawn cemetery.

Trailer Tourists Are Coming Early

Sarasota, Oct. 9 (FNS)—Preceding the robins by a wide margin, trailer tourists have already established a record in Florida for an unusually early season with most Florida trailer parks reporting a greater increase in volume as compared with the same period last year.

Trailer park managers believe that the fear of gasoline shortage has been a factor in deciding many owners of rolling homes to come early to Florida, and stay later through the season. All tourists, however, have recently been assured that a sufficient supply of fuel will be available for their needs.

The World's Greatest Trailer City at Sarasota, reports a gain in revenue of 33% as compared with the preceding season, and claims that all former records have been broken for the second consecutive year.

Wandering Shoshone

In the Trenches, the romantic mountainous region of southern Scotland, bagpipe players wander along the highways, striking up a tune whenever they meet travelers.
