

MANY SEEK BERTHS AT FAIR AT TAMPA FOR A SHOWING IN FEBRUARY

MOST OF ROOM IN THE BIG BUILDING SPOKEN FOR BY COUNTIES

Prospects for Tampa's next fair are brighter than they have ever been at this time of the year, according to W. C. Brorein, president of the South Florida Fair Association.

"This is the time when county commissioners over the state are making up their budgets," said Mr. Brorein, "and it is interesting to note a larger number are making appropriations for exhibits at the next fair than ever before."

"In fact, the majority of the counties are now so eager to exhibit at the Tampa exposition that it is going to be difficult for us to find sufficient space. The county agents, commissioners, and people as a whole, seem to realize that Tampa, because of its position as a tourist resort, gives a February exhibit immeasurable advertising value."

New Counties Coming In

"Last year we had 21 counties represented, as compared with nine the year previous, and virtually all of these will return. In addition, seven or eight counties which did not exhibit last year have already definitely agreed to exhibit this year, and among those present when the gates open next February. Both old and new exhibitors are clamoring for larger space."

"If the city builds the new concrete grandstand, the fair association will solve the space problem as best it can with the limited funds at an OVERWHELMING SUCCESS."

Commission-manager government in Tampa has been an overwhelming success. No small part of that success has been contributed by its absolute immunity from the least shadow of anything upon which eagle-eyed enemies could hang the slightest rumor of graft or crookedness.

No man-made, man-managed governing organization is perfect, but the balance sheet of the Tampa commission-manager account for this past year, the first of its functioning, shows a large balance of asset, and only a few liabilities, and these attributable to naught but the fallibility of man-made instruments.

The commission-manager form of government is the purest form of democracy, applied to municipal governing. The commissioners are elected by the direct vote of the people from the city at large. The manager is selected by the commission, subject to removal at will and pleasure. He is the business manager of the municipality, responsible to his corporation employer for his acts, and amenable only to them for his shortcomings.

Under a democracy the people rule, and the delegated representatives of the people in the administration of affairs are indeed in truth "servants of the people." Public servants—old-time statesmen and political officeholders used to style themselves. Today it is too often the fact that those elected in a republic to encourage in themselves the feeling that they were elected because of their superior brain and ability, and induced to office to what they consider for the good of those electing them.

In a commission-manager government there is a reversion to the old doctrine, the true one, that the public officeholder is the servant of the people. And, as the business manager of a great commercial organization cannot, without consent of his board of directors, approved by his stockholders—directly with impunity from the fundamentals of principle upon which his employer-concern has been founded, so, neither can the city manager of any municipality ignore or disregard the principles upon which the whole structure of his municipal employer was founded by the people when they voted it into being.

So, being elected, in effect, by the people, subject to the people, and responsible to the people, the first city manager of the city of Tampa started off the new form of government in such a way as to make it certain that this particular form will not here, for many years, if ever, give way to any of the old, more bungling, more dangerous, methods of administering municipal affairs.—Tampa Tribune.

WAX WORMS HANDICAP BEES

When a number of worms are found in the bee hives, the wax is present which indicates that the hives are weak. This weakness may be due to disease, short food supply, loss of the queen, or excessive swarming. The wax moth being a scavenger its damage can be materially reduced, if attention is given the weakened colonies when they are discovered.

A weak colony in an apiary is a menace and should be handled at once. Several weak colonies may be united with a strong colony, and prevent the moths from breeding up in the weak colonies. If the colony is queenless, it can be united with a colony that has a queen, or a young queen introduced. Weakness due to shortage of stores may be overcome by feeding, or uniting them with some other colony.

When the trouble is due to disease, the weak colony will be robbed out by other colonies and spread the disease. Robbing may also be induced from any of the other colonies and result in the loss of other colonies.

Supplies of stored combs must be carefully watched or the wax worms will soon render them unfit for use. The moths and larvae are most active when the temperature is 30 degrees or above, so extra precautions are necessary in warm weather.

A good method to follow in storing combs, is to leave the combs in the hive, and stack the hives in such a way as to eliminate all cracks. An empty super containing a pan in which there is one-half ounce of carbon disulphide for each hive, is placed on top. The hive cover is then put on and the stack allowed to remain for 24 hours, or until the combs are needed.

It is advisable to examine the combs every two weeks to see if any worms are present, and the fumigation repeated if such is the case. The control of the wax moth is entirely a matter of looking after the welfare of each colony, and taking care of the surplus combs.

If disease is thought to be the cause of weakness in the colony, write the plant commissioner, state plant board, Gainesville, for advice in handling the problem.

MUCH BUILDING IN COCOA

"Cocoa is going through a period of building activity that the town has not experienced in many years," says the newspaper. "When winter residents of Cocoa and Rockledge return they will hardly recognize the locality." The Tribune declares that besides the new buildings, of which there are many, finished, nearing completion and well under way, there is a large amount of remodeling and improvements generally being made, bearing to realize the importance of putting their property in order and adding accommodations to meet the growth of the place.

LITTLE CHILD DROWNED

Little Catherine Cheney, four-year-old daughter of J. Y. Cheney, general manager of the Orlando Gas Company, was drowned in Lake Concord about noon last Thursday. The little child's mother was out of town, visiting in Ocala and Leesburg at the time of the accident, and was not notified of the death of the little girl until her husband reached Leesburg.

ST. AUGUSTINE GRASS LAWNS CAN BE SAVED BY NICOTINE LATHER

SOAP SUDS WITH BIT OF NICOTINE SULPHATE GET CHINCH BUGS

The chinch bug (a small brown bug about one-fifth inch long) is the most serious pest of St. Augustine grass lawns in Florida.

Its presence is first noticed by small, dead areas over the lawn, which upon close examination show the insects clustered around the base of the plants. They soon kill the top of the grass and later the roots die, which leaves the lawn in an unsightly condition.

The treatment for this insect consists of spraying with a solution made by dissolving two pounds of laundry soap in 30 gallons of water, to which is added one-fourth pint of nicotine sulphate. The insects are not nearly so serious where the lawns are not cut close to the ground, and it is of great importance that they be treated before they spread over any great area of the lawn.

ANALYZING SOIL

Do you ever wish to have your soil analyzed for the purpose of learning what fertilizers it needs to produce certain crops? Dr. R. W. Ruppert, in charge of the chemical laboratories at the Florida experiment station, says that farmers frequently send in samples of soil, believing that nothing more than chemical analysis is necessary to determine what fertilizers their soils need.

It is only in rare cases that a soil analysis will show the fertilizing needs of the soil. No one has yet devised a method by which can be determined the amount of available plant food in the soil. Until such a method is devised, a soil analysis is of little value because it merely shows the total amount of plant food present. If those desiring information in regard to fertilization would give other necessary data, a more intelligent answer could be given. In writing for advice answer the following questions:

1. What type of soil have you?
 2. What crops have you raised for the last two or three years?
 3. What was the yield?
 4. What was the appearance of the crops as to health, size, color, etc.?
 5. Kind and amount of fertilizer per acre that has been applied to the soil?
- Were there any abnormal conditions, such as drought, wet weather, or cold, which may have influenced the growth of the crop?

George Sebring Optimistic Over Prospects Good Season

What Sebring needs to do, Mr. Sebring declared, is to get ready and prepare to take care of the crowds. He emphatically stated that Sebring's greatest need is more houses or homes. He believes this so strongly he added that the development company of which he is the head will make a specialty of building houses. Only recently Mr. Sebring, it is understood, let a contract for four additional houses in addition to the ones already under construction.

that week, direct from Honolulu, where he and his associates maintained a small office. He left no doubt in the mind of the reporter as to the value of the information furnished by this writer and spending considerable time in the city to get the facts, he stated a number of things which would prove of immense value to the writer. He said that he had his immediate flight, one of the first indications of this phase of the tourist business in Hawaii, and that he and his associates, wrote the business plan for the tourist business, and that he alone of the number, was that one down to invest, declaring that nothing would interest him.

He then told the Circle Mr. Sebring's message of optimism for the coming season seemed to have an encouraging effect on him for the coming season, "pepping up" in fact, all the merchants report that August, although the tourists are due in the fall, is anything else. That, and the fact that the tourists are coming in the fall, is causing all the business men of Sebring to wear the smile that won't come off.

By Moses Folsom

A study of the condition of the various peoples of the earth shows four classes of human society:

Savages—People whose chief occupation is hunting, comprise the savage tribes of the six continents. Their customs are rude and simple, and laws are few and cruel. Each tribe is a collection of families and usually governed, or dominated, by a man whose prowess as a warrior and hunter, or wielder of the "big stick" gives him control. His will is enforced by club or spear. The boundaries of the country over which the tribe seeks food are in constant dispute, with resulting wars. They have no written language, their ideas are few and crude and they are superstitious and communication between strangers is usually by signs. Their habitations are of the most primitive sort, as caves, hollow trees or rude creations of wood, stone or mud.

Herdsmen—People who keep flocks and herds, through the medium of which they supply themselves with food and clothing. They wander as their flocks follow food and pasture. They live in tents which are easily moved from place to place. They have a greater variety of food and are more comfortable than the hunting tribes. The art of curing leather began with them, as also commerce, as they had articles for exchange. Having property, the laws of inheritance originated among them. Their laws grew out of their occupations—the protection of life and property. Land for grazing is important, and laws originated in the use of land for grazing. Water, in wells, springs and streams, also became a subject of individual control and right. Stealing of sheep, or cattle a crime. They have more interest than savages, because out of their ideas and desires came many objects from labor, and these objects also constitute wealth. There is no war-like control, each family having a ruler in the father. The herdsmen have more language and ideas than the hunters. With the Oriental shepherds who watched their flocks by night began the study of astronomy. They saw fancied resemblances to animals in the constellations and the names given to groups of stars still cling to them. The book of Job, one of the oldest poems in the world, describes the life of a shepherd people in the early home of our civilization.

Husbandmen—The number of people who cultivate the soil outnumber all others. They have fixed habitations. Land is divided and boundaries are marked. The man who tills the soil provides his living from a definite lot of land, and to encroach or trespass is as serious as the taking of cattle from the herdsmen. Superior knowledge is required in agriculture. The farmer needs to know the nature of his soils and crops. He has need of tools unknown to the savage or herdsmen. His interests are more numerous and varied and well defined customs and rules of society and government develop.

Manufacturers—People engaged in making articles of desire and trade, and therefore closely related to the husbandman and herdsmen. Labor transforms the product of fields and ranges—the raw material—into objects for human use. Manufacturing requires knowledge and skill, and the maker has ideas and arrangements unknown to the other classes. With increased knowledge comes division of labor and the recognition of industrial rights. Simple tools give way to complicated machinery, which with speed and uniformity transforms the crude material into useful and finished goods. The forms of wealth multiply. The manufacturer's rights are closely connected with the rights of all other men. With the increase of wealth of herdsmen, husbandmen and manufacturer, commerce in ideas and things is extended. Men become more closely associated and have a multiplicity of interest. To further protect these interests governments are instituted. Customs grow into laws, and law and customs become centralized.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST TREE

Where stands the world's oldest tree? Is it in the New or the Old World—in Scotland or in America? Many people think it is one of the cedars of Lebanon, that sheltered by the mountains there, still shows its fresh green top among dozens of cedars that were growing in Bible times. Yet in Scotland there is the Fortingale yew tree, in Perthshire, that is reckoned to be 3,000 years old. It was growing there when Solomon was building the Temple in Jerusalem, and the natives of the British Isles lived in caves. Some 1,000 years old it is than the cedar of Lebanon. The cypress of Soma in Lombardy, Italy, is known to be the oldest tree of which there is any record. It is mentioned in a record yet to be found at Milan, proving the cypress to have been an old tree in the time of Julius Caesar—B. C. 42.

In Asia there are trees of immense ages. Among the oldest of them is the Sacred Fig tree or the baobab tree, so venerated by the Buddhists, and also by other natives of India. They declare that the birth of Vishnu, one of their deities, took place in the shade of its branches and that it was planted 2,500 years before the birth of Christ. It stands in the ancient city of Anushapur in the interior of Ceylon. Today the baobab flourishes, ever green, never growing larger and never getting less in the circumference of its green boughs.

The famous cypress near Oaxaca in Mexico, the circumference of which at the base is 200 feet, was discovered by Humboldt, who computed the age of it to be between 2,500 and 3,500 then; and that was a hundred years ago. Others have put down its age at 5,000 years. Today the baobab is a wooden tablet, inscribed with its autograph. Today the tablet is most covered with the subsequent growth of the tree.

Yet this ancient survivor of the far off pre-late ages is but middle-aged when compared with the dragon tree of Gratiava, which was reckoned to be 6,000 years old, with each of its most remarkable whorl of branches sending down its living woody envelope to surround and sustain and strengthen the older trunk. This massiveness of the bygone vegetable world was thrown down and destroyed in the terrible hurricane which swept over Tenerife in 1827. None of the dragon trees now remaining is more than 1,400 years old.

But the giant locust tree of Brazil wholly surpasses them in antiquity. These trees are often of prodigious size, and are the tallest found in the forests of South America. At its foot, one of the locusts is often 84 feet round about, and 60 feet where the trunk or hole of the tree becomes like a cylinder. They look more like living rocks than living trees, for it is only on the very tip-top of their bare and wholly naked bark that any foliage can be discovered, and that is at such a distance from the eye that the shapes of the leaves cannot be made out. By counting the concentric or irregular round rings of such parts as have been examined, it has been calculated that a locust tree reaches close on being 7,000 years old. This means that the locust trees of South America were old when the wood cutters of King Solomon were cutting down the cedars of Lebanon, and already had been 4,000 years and more in existence before the Fortingale yew in Perthshire, Scotland, put forth its first green buds. This yew is not the oldest tree known in all the world as yet, but it is probably the oldest in Europe. Though there is another gnarled and somber yew at Darley in England, that has been reckoned to be 3,000 years old. It is in Brazil that stands the oldest tree, known to be existing—Exchange.

McClurg, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Degering, Mrs. Mary Metz, Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Skiff and Thomas Brewster Skiff.

Mrs. Ashby Gibbons, Miss Edna Nelson and Miss Laura Nelson of Tampa came to Sebring last Sunday to help Curtis Rorebeck, Jr., celebrate his fourth birthday. They returned to Tampa Friday accompanied by Mrs. C. G. Rorebeck and Curtis, who intended to stay about a week at Mrs. Rorebeck's former home there.

Elder and Mrs. J. H. Garst drove to Arcadia last Saturday afternoon and Elder Garst conducted the preaching service at the Church of the Brethren there Sunday morning. They returned to Sebring in the afternoon in time for the evening service in their church here, where Elder Garst delivered a most interesting sermon.

E. O. Douglas, who has been spending his vacation at Pass-a-Grille, was called to Sebring on important business and arrived here Sunday night and left again Tuesday morning to return to his family and spend another week with them on the Gulf.

Douglas was accompanied on the trip by L. N. E. of Pass-a-Grille.

Mrs. M. W. Baker and son Dick arrived in Sebring last Friday night after spending the summer in Ohio at the former's home.

Their return was somewhat sooner than had been planned on account of the illness of Miles Baker. Miles is better, however, and is no longer confined to the home.

Mrs. L. P. Hunkeroff and daughter, Marceline of Atlanta, Ga., left Sebring Tuesday morning for Bartow.

They have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Varena for the past two weeks and will leave for Sebring, where they have had a delightful time.

Mrs. Hunkeroff is the daughter of Mrs. Varena's sister and they are their first visit since the Varnes left Atlanta nine years ago.

Mrs. J. W. George arrived in Sebring Sunday noon after a journey that was most unpleasant, due to the strike situation.

Mrs. George, who was at Terre Haute, Ind., attending to business, and was urged by railroad men to get as far as possible, as it was, she was delayed several times when animals were removed from the trains and she was finally glad to be back in Sebring, with no further worries about trains and strikes.

H. W. Smith received a cablegram from his wife in England that she would sail from there on Aug. 19, instead of in September, as she had planned.

Mr. Smith is planning to meet her in New York and all of her friends here will be delighted at her return. In her stay in Sebring for the past two years she has made many friends by her charming personality and pleasing individuality.

She has been visiting her father and sister at Walsley Staffs, England, and also Mr. Smith's family, who live at the same place.

PLEASANT DINNER FOR MANY

At the close of the church services in Sebring, several families, instead of going home to hot kitchens to "bake" for their meals, took their baskets and had a delicious dinner prepared and went to the Palm Tree House and there spread their feast.

Those in the party enjoying this restful and pleasantly social meal were Mrs. Mrs. A. C. Heacock and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Saunders and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Conner, Mrs. Ruth Whitty and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Geary, Mr. and Mrs. U. D. Kirk, Miss Lillian Cox of Arcadia, Miss Pauline Pittard, Norman Lane and Russell Rasco.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

A. Binger had forgotten that Aug. 9 was his birthday, but his children hadn't and spent the entire day preparing for him a birthday feast that will never be forgotten. He went home at noon, but found the house barricaded and he received orders from within to return for the evening meal. This he did and found that they had been busy baking and cooking all the day and had spread a most elaborate and delicious dinner.

Mary Jane, Dorothy and Junior each doing a share. The birthday gift of the thoughtfulness and love of his children was a most pleasing one and much appreciated by the father.

NEW PRINCIPAL VISITS SEBRING

D. E. Williams of Williston spent last Friday in Sebring looking over the school situation for the coming year. Mr. Williams has been engaged as principal of the Sebring school and his first visit here proved very interesting to him. He investigated thoroughly the school building, equipment and grounds and then was shown the town and its surroundings. He expressed himself as very much pleased with all and is very anxious to take up his work here. He will remain in two weeks to prepare for the opening of school, which will take place September 4.

MOONLIGHT WIENER ROAST

Yielding to the temptations of the beautiful moonlight on the lake, most of the young folks here gathered at Brewery Point last Friday night and a spirit of joyous sociability prevailed.

The boys had provided the treat of wieners, bread and coffee, and as masters of ceremony led in nothing. By the time for another full moon, many of the young people will be away at school and as most of them think the moon is more beautiful here than elsewhere, have sorely missed an evening in the great outdoors in or around the lake.

EPWORTH LEAGUE UNION

TO CELEBRATE LABOR DAY

The Highlands County Epworth League Union is planning an all day celebration on Labor Day, Sept. 4, at Sebring, on the Kenilworth Lodge grounds. On this beautiful site they are planning tennis matches, races, games and water sports of all kinds. The young people of the county are much enthused over the event and will have each day sees many at the tennis courts and many in the lake getting in trim for the final tests. Basket dinners will be brought by all and this will add to the picnic spirit of the occasion. This day is also the day set for the opening of school, but it is the first day, it is thought that it will not interfere with the celebration, for the time required at the school is not long on that day. Detailed announcements will be made later as the plans take more definite form.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT

HOLDS A LAMP PARTY

The primary department of the Sunday school of the Brethren church was entertained Wednesday afternoon at a lamp party at the church. Mr. Shupe has had a number of years experience in both Exchange and independent packing houses and comes to Clermont with excellent recommendations.

DON'TS FOR SWIMMERS

Swimming is, and should be, so universal a pastime at this season, it is essential that every precaution be taken to make the sport safe. Every swimmer should have competent guards and persons who frequent the beaches or pools should be conversant with rescue and resuscitation methods.

The Red Cross, or Schafer plan, for rescuing or resuscitating the drowned is simple and very successful.

In addition to giving wide publicity to such methods, the Red Cross has compiled a few "don'ts for swimmers," which will bear repeating.

Don't swim directly after a heavy meal. Wait for at least two hours.

Don't swim when overheated.

Don't swim if you have heart trouble.

Don't struggle if caught in swift water or undertow. The current will bring you to the top.

Don't die without accurate knowledge of the depth of the water.

Don't cry for help in fun.

Don't go swimming alone unless you are an expert.

These warnings are not issued to emphasize the dangers of swimming, but to emphasize the fact that with proper care it can be one of the safest as well as healthiest exercises.—Pensacola News.

SEBRING A SUMMER RESORT

Sebring and its lake are recognized by many as a good place to spend the summer. One family from Wichita has built a splendid summer home here and have nothing but praise for the recreation they get. This week a suite in the Evans home has been rented to L. J. Medler of Arcadia. The Westner family is another here for their vacation near the lake.

GRAHAM'S RESIGNATION NOT ACCEPTED BY COMMISSIONERS

It was found that it would not be in the interest of the county to have a man who would not be making any contracts with the county during the remainder of his term and that he therefore moved that such resignation be not accepted. Motion was seconded by A. M. McAlay. Whereupon each member of the board of county commissioners recorded as voting. William King of district No. 1, voted aye; Perry Etheridge of district No. 2, voted aye; A. M. McAlay of district No. 4, voted aye; W. W. Williams of district No. 5, voted aye; John E. Graham of district No. 2, voted no. The motion was carried.

The committee composed of R. H. Hancock and C. F. Sanders, appointed at the last meeting, to have a kitchen built for the jail, separate from the jail, reported that they had the same built according to the instructions of the board that a bill for same was this day filed.

Came H. S. Jones and others and presented a petition for the lateral road running along the intersection of county road at southeast corner of farm on section line between sections 22 and 23, thence running north on section line and following the Peaceock survey by depot at DeSoto City and into Sebring, which was filed and held for further consideration, as suggested by the parties filing same.

Came V. W. Stephens and others and presented their petition for a lateral road running along the intersection of the corner of sections 5 and 6, running on section line between sections 5 and 6 and 7 and 8 to the northwest corner of section 17 and the corner of section 18, thence running west on section line between sections 17 and 18 to range 28, thence south between range 28 and 29 on range line to county road leading to Crewsville and DeSoto City at the intersection of section 19 and northwest corner of section 30.

It was moved and carried that said petition be filed and held for further consideration as suggested by parties presenting same.

Came L. T. Farmer and others and presented a petition for a lateral county road, as follows: Beginning at the northwest corner of section 22, township 35, range 29 east, thence in a southerly direction one mile, thence south one-fourth mile to the quarter section between sections 22 and 23, township 35, range 29 east, which was filed and it is hereby ordered that E. J. Etheridge, P. A. Corbett and J. E. Jones be and they are hereby appointed as blazers or viewers on said road and they will view out the route and report their acts to this board.

Came Ira Rigdon, secretary of the Highlands Good Roads League, and announced to the board that he had been directed by said league to appear before this board and present certain applications or petitions for a bond election and that whereas the different communities had so far failed to get together on said proposition, it was therefore impossible for him at this meeting to comply with the instructions of said league and that he would endeavor to get the league to submit a definite proposition at the earliest possible time.

Came L. T. Farmer, who has been appointed a notary public, and produced his bond as such, which is conditioned according to law, in the sum of $500, with the United States Fidelity as his sureties, which is approved by the board.

The board adjourned until 1:30 p. m. of this date.

The board met at 1:30, same day, pursuant to adjournment, with full board present.

Came R. E. Jones and 12 others and presented a petition to establish the following county road: To connect the two roads on the quarter section line north and south Arcadia road and Punta Gordia road east of R. E. Jones' house, doing away with the road west of R. E. Jones, which petition was filed and H. G. Cassels, C. M. Hendry and Irey Sutherland were appointed blazers or viewers and they will view said proposed route and report their acts in so doing to this board.

Came W. D. Hope and 22 others and presented a petition to establish the following as a county road:

The following resolution was presented to the board and adopted:

"That the clerk of this board is instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to the board of county commissioners of Okeechobee county, and also a copy to J. V. Knap, state veterinarian, at Tallahassee."

The following resolution was also presented and adopted:

It is therefore ordered that the same be fixed at $500 and that the same be certified to the controller and that he be requested to make correction accordingly, and that the same be receivable at latter valuation.

Board adjourned until Tuesday, August 22, at 9 a. m.

WORK PROGRESSING ON ARCADIA GOLF COURSE

People going to Arcadia via the Atlantic Coast Line or the Brownsville road can not help but note the intense progress going on at the site of the new golf course Arcadia is soon to have.

A Fordson tractor is working regularly removing stumps and palmetoes from the land, and the tractor of A. M. Rurency is actively plowing the cleared land in getting it in readiness for being leveled. The palmetoes are being piled up in huge piles which are to be burned.

Several double horse teams are at work hauling muck from swamp land near. The muck is to be used for the putting greens. In every particular the work has progressed to such an extent during the past week that people passing by can now tell that it is going to be a golf course.

FISHING PARTY ON LAKE

A merry party from Fort Meade spent a happy day on Lake Arbuckle and part of the party in the lake, last Thursday. Col. M. A. Wilson, C. W. Mills, J. C. Jackson, Vernon Glyatt, Walter Rivers and H. D. Edwards made up the group and their sport with the fluky species was very successful, 32 good sized fish being caught.

FLORIDA GRAPES GET 18 CENTS PER POUND IN NEW YORK MARKET

VARN'S SMALL SHIPMENT FROM FORT MEADE IS WELL RECEIVED

The Packer makes the following report regarding a small shipment of grapes from Fort Meade to New York City:

"Sgubel & Day, to whom the grapes were consigned by Kline O. Varn of Fort Meade, Fla., placed the grapes on display at the Erie dock Friday morning and a number of buyers were on hand to examine them. There were 48 baskets which had come through in 'pony freezers.' They had arrived fine—in fact, they had arrived in perfect condition. The varieties were made up mostly of what Mr. Varn calls 'Carmen Blue' and which resemble the New York state Concord. Included in the lot were some Tokays, which are similar to the New York state Catawba grape and some Malagas, which resemble the eastern variety grapes."

"The trade was very favorably impressed with the fruit. The Carmen Blues sold at 29 to 35 cents a basket, or about 15 cents a pound. The Tokays brought 75 cents a basket or about 18 cents a pound. The small shipment of Malagas were given away as samples. The Florida grapes, if they are like the shipment and coming as early as they do before the California grapes are ready for shipment, will be a ready sale and at good prices."

THE SPIRIT THAT WINS

The cultivation of a fraternal spirit has much to do with the success of a local community.

Where the population is limited the indifference or selfishness of a single individual exerts a depressing effect upon others, and this attitude of pessimism in time permeates the whole community. Men and women who really desire to advance the interests of themselves and their neighbors find it difficult to work to advantage when unaffected ones are continually throwing a wet blanket over every new project that is proposed.

Investigation and discussion are both commendable and desirable, but pessimistic remarks and pulling back in the community harness are on a par with a balky horse. They render more or less futile the efforts of those who would push forward to ultimate achievement.

A community of brothers working together in harmony is far better than one of opponents pulling in opposite directions.—Lakeland Advertiser.

ROBERT BENTLEY ON BRADENTOWN HERALD

Bradentown is to have a daily newspaper, beginning Sept. 1, and this move on the part of the Herald people is one that must redound to the advancement of the city. The announcement in the Bradentown Herald last week that an afternoon daily would be started the first of September was in the nature of a surprise, but no doubt it is well considered. The Herald will also be issued weekly. Robert W. Bentley, some time managing editor of the Tampa Tribune, has secured half interest in the Herald and will be active in the operation of the new daily.

Prof. Walter Roberts, principal of the Fort Meade high school, and Miss Mary Williams, a teacher for the past two years in that school, were married recently at Panama, Fla., and are now having a happy honeymoon. The couple will be back in Fort Meade in time for the opening of school.
