dent from the announcement of L. E. J. Etheredge, democratic nominee for the state senate from this district that he will personally introduce a bill during the 1922 session to provide for the enactment of the legislation necessary to bring about division. As to whether or not the b will be passed, Dr. Etheredge is not committal, but his friends are reassuring assured of the fact that the fight of the legislature will be made for and against this bill. The doctors more than anyone else, they argue marshalled the forces for county division at the last legislature and now it comes the earliest opportunity

Dr. Etheredge declares that his determination to fight for state division is not a matter of expediency. He is not a arises from an observation of the matter in a fairly, unfavorable manner in which the northern and western Florida state is frowning upon South Florida's efforts to bring about reapportionment and capital removal. He declared that if the northern and western portions of the state find the program divorcement of the southern portion of the state is unbearable as to the negro, then the best thing for it to do is to submit to divorce proceedings. The divorcement being accomplished, he points out the fact that they can then go their own sweet way, traveling clean to nowhere, otherwise they

The exact lines of the proposed vision Dr. Etheredge will announce later. South Florida would be m to include only that portion that division along fair and impartial lines would necessitate, so he stated and the division would be such as to work for the mutual good of both the proposed states.

Dr. Etheredge's announcement was the first of any of the legislative pledges something definite for relief of South Florida from the oppression of the northern and western portions of the state. This oppression is generally conceded to have resulted from the fact that the recent legislatures have been elected according to an apportionment of several years' antiquity and the repeated onerous

Another issue which has a bearing upon state division is the stubbornness with which any effort to seek the removal of the present capital at Tallahassee, far from either geographical or population center of the state to some point more centrally accessible, has been fought. In fact many are arguing that capital removal can never be secured without reapportionment and reapportionment never. Hence they declare the only solution is division. That is exactly along the line of Dr. Ettridge's reasoning.

In the preparation of his proposed bill, Dr. Etheredge will advise some of the best legal material in

FLORIDA LEGION PLANNING GREAT EXHIBIT AT ORLEANS MEET TO ADVERTISE STATE

"We stand for all of Florida. We are willing to do our part. Will you do yours?"

This is the slogan of the American Legion of the department of Florida. State Commander Jerome Wideman of the American Legion of the state of Florida has one of the best advertising schemes that has yet been presented to boost this state and to give the citizens of all parts of the United States a better idea of what the climate is and what is produced here as compared to other parts of the world.

The American Legion, through its state commander, has completed all details with Palm Beach County Agricultural Agent J. A. Dew to take charge of the proposition and the latter in his hustling manner has taken off his coat and already has made arrangements to present the greatest campaign in the state to have a display at New Orleans next October when the Legion will hold its fourth annual convention in that city.

This convention will bring together the greatest assembly of young men the country has ever witnessed. This gathering will bring together young men who are wanted in this state. At all other conventions, such as Rotarians, Elks, Odd Fellows, Masons, Kiwanis, K. of P. and in fact any of the great organizations, the representatives are older men who have established themselves in some locality. They are not in a receptive mood to change residence and come to some other place. But in the case of the American Legion, which is composed of young men who are in the field for a future home, Florida is in a position to offer them one.

It is for this reason that the Legion, through Mr. Dew, is going about a system of advertising that will prove to the delegates and visitors who will be in the Crescent City that this state is the future home for all of them. A place where they can start and make a better living for themselves and be more independent than in any other climate.

This state needs young men more than any other and now is the time to go out and get them, when there are thousands who will listen to argument. How to get them into an argument is to get them to ask questions why they should come to Florida to live. The Legion is going to show them—present arguments that any sane person—and they are all sane—could find in our grand old state. The Legion wishes to do is to have the grandest display of what is produced in the state in the way of citrus fruits.

Mr. Dew is going to ask assistance from the American Fruit Growers, the Citrus Exchange, Chase & Co., and others, to give output to the Legion for demonstration purposes three carloads of goods or more if possible.

The country needs to have 3,000 pounds of pecans, 6,000 pounds of peanuts, and with the three or more cars of grapefruit, oranges, etc., to give away in some manner to convince the visitors that Florida is the state to live in. He has reserved space in one of the leading hotels in New Orleans when the convention convenes, where orange and grapefruit juice will be served to those who are thirsty. Peanut parching stands will be leased and located at prominent corners in the city for the distribution of Florida peanuts especially printed paper bags.

Moving pictures of the entire state will be shown while plenty of good speakers will be on hand to show you what Florida has.

The cost of this advertising will run between $12,000 and $15,000. This sum has been prorated among all counties on an equitable basis. All Florida and not just one part will be advertised.

As there are 78 American Legion posts in the state it will mean a very small amount for each locality to raise.

It is also intended to ask all chambers of commerce, Rotarian, Kiwanis or other organizations of business men to help raise this trifling amount in order to put on the greatest advertising game ever started in Florida.

Here are a few of the plans of the Legion:

Assemble a complete exhibit of all agricultural, horticultural, mineral and other natural resources of the state, and prepare these articles for permanent exhibit.

To transport this exhibit to New Orleans and show it in the most prominent place in the city.

To send all kinds of souvenirs from each county in the state and city for free distribution.

To act as a clearing house for all chambers of commerce, county boards and public and civic bodies who desire to distribute literature and disseminate facts of Florida's needs and opportunities.

To keep a complete register of all persons making inquiries or showing any interest in the state, and to supply those names to all organizations who may wish them, without any charge to those bodies.

To keep a sufficient supply of fresh citrus fruits on hand at the place of exhibit at all times and to provide young ladies to slice and prepare this fruit for free sampling.

To distribute free, peanuts and pecans in suitable printed bags.

To do any or all things in order that when a person or persons leave for their homes in other parts of the world they will know what Florida has to offer in the way of inducements to come to this state to make their homes.

Plans for Handling Finance

State Commander Wideman will select and ask to serve an executive and advisory committee three prominent men, not members of the Legion, from different sections of Florida, who in addition to acting in an advisory capacity, will select the manager and will receive and distribute all funds collected in connection with the exhibit. Should any balance be left in the treasury at the conclusion of the exhibit, it will be returned to the different counties in proportion to their contributions.

It is distinctly understood that the American Legion of Florida is acting only as an agent for putting on what they believe will prove the best means of advertising this state that could be devised. The Legion will not accept one cent for their trouble, donating the services of every one to help make this a big winner.

Florida Property Is Increasing in Value Every Day

Particularly is this true of property on the Scenic Highlands and in and adjacent to Avon Park. Our city is growing rapidly, new buildings being started nearly every day. Of course this adds to the value of all property, whether in the city or adjacent thereto.

"HILLCREST"

is close to the city limits of Avon Park. Its groves are increasing in value every day. The trees are growing nicely and show a healthy appearance, making an investment with the Scenic Highlands Development Company an attractive one. In fact, one has but to see the young groves, note the painstaking care being given the trees, consider the location and then ascertain what grove properties are selling for all around us, to become convinced that "HILLCREST" is a gilt-edge proposition.

DEVELOPING SINCERE SPIRIT OF FRIENDSHIP IN FLORIDA

The Florida League of Municipalities, in the estimation of the Metropolis, is the first step towards the organization of a Florida League of Cities, suggested by this newspaper several months ago and warmly received by the state press as a medium through which closer co-operation between the sections in advancing the interests of the whole state might be estimated.

The league held its first annual meeting in Jacksonville recently and business problems confronting the cities were discussed and remedies suggested. It was demonstrated at the meeting the cities are deeply interested in the purpose of the organization, and highly beneficial results may be expected.

Too many petty jealousies have been permitted to flourish in Florida. While competition is a keen factor in development and should be encouraged in its reasonable expression, it has been carried to unreasonable extremes by cities and sections in this state. The reason for this is the cities and sections have been living too much unto themselves, thinking too much in terms of their own boundaries, making no particular efforts to understand each other as integral parts of a great and rich commonwealth. But a new day is dawning and Florida is bound to flourish in its light.

Florida is the only remaining pioneer state in the union. The riches that nature poured into the soil have barely been touched; possibilities bloom here as abundantly as the flowers—everywhere opportunity stands in beckoning pose. Everything is conducive to the happiness of those who live under these friendly skies.

Along with the more material things, this friendly thought should be expanded until it is a dominant factor in the interactivities of the cities and sections. Friendship often-times is simply a question of understanding.

This Florida League of Municipalities will stimulate interest in the common business interests of the cities, and there is every reason to believe the idea will eventually expand to embrace the friendly league plan proposed by the Metropolis, because once the need of co-operation is realized in its complete significance, Florida, in characteristic style, will set about to develop it in the broadest sense—Jacksonville Metropolis.

"CHARGE IT"

"Charge it" is the slogan of the great American consumer.

Americans are great on peace, but they are also the most gallant chargers in the world. A man who cannot sleep for fear of our standing army will enslave the country. Will rise early in the morning and charge meat, potatoes, shoes, gasoline, automobile tires and diamond rings with an interdict which would cause unlimited awe in a Frenchman.

"Charge it" is the greatest substitute for money ever invented. It enables a man to spend his next month's salary with ease and safety, to ride in an automobile because he hasn't the ready cash for street car fare and to cash his hopes of wealth into a large bale of "balance due" and "please remit" statements, renewed monthly.

"Charge it" is the modern Ala Baba lamp. The worried citizen says "charge it" and appears five minutes later in joyful raiment, thus transferring the worry to the merchant. Armed with these two precious words an American citizen with a fairly good reputation can get downtown with an empty pocketbook and return home reeking with luxury.

It is now possible to buy food, houses, clothing, steam threshers, seal skin coats, corner lots, American Beauty roses, baths, haircuts, operations, publicity and balloons on account. It is also possible, though not always easy, to pay cash for shoes, coal, prunes, water beefsteak and underwear. It is usually easy to tell the difference between the man who says "charge it" and the man who says "how much, please?" The former is better dressed, but the latter is much more viable on the first of the month.—George Fitch.

THEN AND NOW

My aunt was once a flapper, and flapped rebellious wings; but now she is a scrapper for old, time-honored things. I've heard some ghastly rumors that when she was eighteen she wore a pair of bloomers upon the village green. And sour-faced reformers and every wrinkled dame denounced her course as beastly, and said it was a shame. The moral weekly paper gave Auntie half a page, and said her shameful caper discredited the age. Revolt was Auntie's passion, when she was young and fair; she rode a horse man fashion and bobbed her sorrel hair. The flappers now around us imagine they're unique, determined to confound us by some unseemly freak. But it's old stuff, my masters; the damsels of the past were wont to shock their masters, and make them stand aghast. We see the pullets mouling, as hens have always done, and damsels were revolting way back in '81. My aunt was busy flapping in hygienic sunny aprons, and now we hear her yapping for old and changeless things. And maidens now rebelling against the whichful whence, when older will be yelling that young girls have no sense.—Exchange.

DEATH CANT END THIS CASE

Ten years ago an Illinois farmer lent a mule to a neighbor farmer and afterwards had to replenish the mule to get it back. The neighbor brought suit, alleging that the wrong mule had been replenished. The case has been in the courts ever since and has cost the principals twenty times the original cost of the mule. It has been tried four times and applied and is now pending. Meanwhile two judges who have heard the case have died, the plaintiff died a week ago and the mule has been dead for years. But the law and the lawyers are still busy with the case.—Exchange.

Under an agreement recently entered into between the British government and the United States department of agriculture frozen pork cuts may now be imported into England.

We'd all be better men and women if we got out and shouted our heads off for the home team a little more often. And we've never heard of the movies "making a man" out of anyone.

ACTION, GENTLEMEN, PLEASE!

Florida has elected a lower house of its legislature and the major part of the upper house. In practically every instance where it was made the issue, the verdict was a big one for the repeal of the law forcing a man to fence against animals owned by someone else. Not that the people have any desire to make the cattleman pay for something that he shouldn't, but because they feel that he who benefits when the cattle devour an orange tree, should pay for that devoured.

Imagine a cattleman refusing to pay for a sack of oats that his cow eats, or feeding the stock a bale of hay and refusing to pay for the bill!

The Florida public don't ask the stock raiser to pay for anything he doesn't use and don't value.

Florida expects the next legislature to correct the inequality that has existed. And we don't desire any dilly-dallying. The stock industry is in bad shape, if we are to believe all we hear. The no-fence law and the compulsory dipping law should be put through and in the governor's hands within the first year. Barring an emergency affecting the life of the state or the nation, or some community, not an item should be considered by the 1923 legislature to the delay of these two measures. Every hour counts.

The mandate of the state has been expressed, let her who hesitates to obey, let him who feasts on the fat of the land, pay for the gain.

ASSOCIATED BOARDS OF RIDGE UNITE TO GET BIG MAN ON JOB

a loyal citizen, ever mindful of the call of his state; and
Whereas, the blow will especially be felt severely by the movement to further and extend the good roads of the state, to which he has devoted his sober judgment, his powerful personality and his indefatigable energy; and

Whereas, he has rendered inestimable services to our South Florida and the state at large in his services on the state road department;

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Associated Boards of Trade of the Ridge, in meeting assembled at Avon Park, this thirteenth day of June, 1922, extend to the bereaved family the condolences from a section which owes much to the ability of W. W. Clark; and extend the assurance that time as it lightens the darkness of the passing will enhance the luster of his record of faithful service; and Further, be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the press; one spread upon the minutes of our organization and another sent to the family.

Previous to the vote, the name of C. L. Knight of Tampa was offered before the assembly by A. E. Lawrence, of Sebring, at the request of a Lake Stearns friend who couldn't be present. Upon receipt of a message from the party that Mr. Bean was acceptable, and Mr. Knight's acceptance being a matter of doubt, the nomination was withdrawn by Mr. Lawrence. Among those present were: H. R. London, A. P. Vody, C. M. Lawrence, Crooked Lake; F. E. Olin, P. J. Langford, J. Maxey and E. C. Banks. Prose: G. F. Kellogg, N. T. Smith, M. W. Lance, D. A. Sapp, L. A. Roberts, J. V. Chapman and Gilbert Freeman, Avon Park; E. J. Etheredge, DeSoto City; A. G. Smith, Don Williams, L. S. Williams, George Goolsby, W. C. Buchanan, G. M. Hardee, L. F. Carlton, J. W. Earnest and F. A. Geer, Wauchula; L. L. Bean, L. M. A. McEwen, Fort Meade and J. O. Dentaford, Fort Meade.

ALL VOTERS, ATTENTION!

According to definition, democracy means popular or majority rule. The well-nigh ex post facto opinion by which my name was left off our ballot June 6, because I filed certain papers on May 29th, was not a democratic interpretation of our primary law. Since May 29 was an accredited day for filing through the leading counties of the state, and since the opinion by which I was left out was not that which the law meant to convey nor that the majority of our citizens would have meant if there were a declaration the recent primary non-democratic as regards the determination of my candidacy, I refuse to be bound by it. I therefore reannounces my candidacy for member of the county school board, subject this time to the November election. The type of half-splitting opinion rendered in our half-brother county may be very valuable in the building of bridges, but such opinions are worthless when making in the upholding of a nation, for they cause the people in general to approach the law with misgivings with which they would approach a rattlesnake.

Before deciding to take this stand I have gone very thoroughly into the justice in the matter and I find wherever I have inquired that statements were received through May 29th, the date I offered mine, and in one instance May 30th was the last day.

The blank statements sent out by the Duval clerk to the candidates bore a notice in red ink that the second statement must be filed "not later than May 29."

In a letter from A. L. Durran, clerk at Arcadia, he concludes: "There could be no reason for refusing to permit the filing on the 29th"; and in Hillsborough county "the time limit was up midnight Monday," Monday being May 29th.

I feel that a mistake has been made by the officials who barred me, and I am merely offering an opportunity to rectify the mistake. If I was to be defeated in November, it is just a belated primary for me.

Yours for Democracy,
—Adv. BYRUM SHOCKLEY.

An Appreciation

Will you kindly allow me to express, through your paper, to the citizens of Highlands County, my appreciation of the splendid support given me in the recent primary election, resulting in my nomination for membership in the Legislature?

Let me repeat what I frequently stated from the rostrum during the campaign: I am the candidate of no ring, clique, clan, order, combination, association, incorporation or organization, except the organization of the Democratic party, whose nominee I now have the honor to be.

If I am chosen at the general election in November I shall be absolutely free to serve the interests of the whole citizenship of Highlands County in conformity with your decision on June 6th, concerning the issues presented during the campaign, and the suggestion or appeal of the humblest citizen will receive the same consideration as that of the most distinguished.

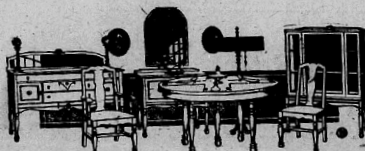

If you supported me, I thank you from the depth of my heart; if you did not support me, I am still your friend, and if I am elected in November I shall feel the same obligation to be your faithful representative that I feel to be the faithful representative of those who loyally supported me.

NEWCOMERS FAIL TO SAVE PANTHERS WHEN REGULARS ERR A BIT

(By Dooley Day)

Those hard-boiled Hibernians closed in on the Panthers Thursday and whaled the stuffings out of the local boys, Gillie letting the A. P. crowd down with four hits and contributing the greatest part to a coast of white wash. The final score was 7 to 0 in favor of Wauchula.

Paul and slow building again got the ball as the wild wind, and the locals simply tossed away their own chances at gathering in the bunting. Wauchula bunted themselves into a sizeable lead in the opening stanza of the game.

Dilley, last year's southpaw, is back again with a little more work will be a factor. Meanwhile Lance is right ahead at second and with Hartfield and Sherman did most of the hitting. Maynard looks much better at third. Parke, a newcomer at third, looks like a comer. The score was 7 to 0.

SPAIN AND FLORIDA

By Moses Folsom

Spain, now reduced to limited power among nations, was at one time the most powerful country on earth. Its greatness began when Ferdinand and Isabella financed "Christopher Columbus" for a trip to the Far Indies, during which he was halted by the discovery of America, an event ranking in importance with the almost contemporaneous one of printing from movable type. Under Charles V, a grandson of these royal friends of Columbus, was not only king of Spain, but ruler of Italy, Germany and the Netherlands in Europe, and held away over millions of square miles in Asia, in Africa, in the Americas and in the islands of the seven seas. Ships brought spoils and gold from many countries.

Like preceding world powers, Spain, however, could not stand prosperity and now her outside possessions consist of the Canary Islands in the Atlantic and Morocco and Spanish Guinea in Africa. Spain has a little over 80,000 square miles, and with Morocco in the last few months, she has had an expensive war. From Spain came Ponce de Leon and other adventurers to the shores of Florida, and for more than two hundred and fifty years the Spanish standard expanded in winds from the seas, at St. Augustine, Pensacola, St. Marks and other points. It was a long period of struggle and distress, during which the British were here from 1763 to 1783, when Spain had ceded Florida to Great Britain for the Bahamas Islands. Spain resumed control about the close of the Revolutionary war, but did not bring peace. American settlers came into Florida from the border states of the new republic. Except in the towns along the coast and the few interior communities the Indians were practical masters of the country, as they had been for centuries, and lived by hunting, fishing and preying upon each other, and upon the increasing number of whites, seeking homes in this goodly land.

Then followed the second war with Great Britain. British agents attempted to influence the Indians against the Americans. A British fleet entered Pensacola and raised the English colors over the forts. General Andrew Jackson was sent to straighten out affairs, inasmuch as the Spanish authorities made no effort to preserve order and maintain neutrality. Jackson captured Pensacola and then hastened to New Orleans, where he won the most famous victory of the war, two weeks after a treaty of peace had been signed with England. In the meantime, Georgia frontier men joined the Floridians in the east, captured Fernandina, organized the "Republic of Florida," with General John McIntosh as president, and expeditions were sent to St. Augustine and to the interior to punish the Indians and runaway negroes who had been raiding the border of Georgia.

The close of war with England did not bring peace along the southern border of the United States. Both President Madison and Monroe had considered the necessity of annexing Florida, and under the latter this was consummated by a treaty signed at Washington, Feb. 22, 1819, by which Spain agreed to surrender Florida for $5,000,000 and the payment of claims amounting to about $400,000, the first of two purchases from Spain, the second being $20,000,000 for the Philippines. Spain agreed to the agreement on Oct. 24, 1820, but the ratification was not completed at Washington until Feb. 22, 1821, and later General Jackson was designated as military governor of East and West Florida, with headquarters at Pensacola.

It was planned to exchange flags on July 4, but the Spaniards had no sentiment for the American natal day and the final act was delayed to July 10 at St. Augustine, and to July 17 at Pensacola. It was 3 o'clock p. m. when the Spanish flag came down and the Stars and Stripes took its place at St. Augustine, on what is now Fort Marion, but originally known as "San Juan de Dios," afterwards to "San Marco" and following the transfer to its present name in honor of General Francis Marion. The fort is the oldest fortification in the United States and covers four acres. It was begun in 1690 and completed in 1766, the material of the walls being coquina rock from quarries on Anastasia Island, with workmen including soldiers, Indians and negroes, who extended their work through many long and weary years. The old fort is now one of the show places of Florida.

The transfer of authority took place at 4 p. m. in the government house, when Col. Jose Coppinger, the last of the forty-three Spanish governors of Florida, figuratively gave the keys of the city to Adjutant-General Butler. An incident preceding the transfer was the arrival of Capt. J. R. Liner, after a journey of seventeen days from Pensacola, having been sent by General Jackson to demand the papers and records properly belonging to the Americans. These had been packed in eleven large boxes, and a vessel was waiting in the harbor to carry them away. After Governor Coppinger had refused to deliver them, General Jackson had the room in the government house forced open and took charge of the documents.

It was 10 o'clock a. m. on July 17, when General Jackson and staff entered the center of the square, where the flag staff still carried the colors of Spain. At a signal from General Jackson, the American flag began its ascent and the Spanish flag began to fall. Soldiers of the two countries, cities, Indians and negroes filled the square, streets and windows of neighboring buildings. The Spaniards seemed much depressed, and to avoid any spirit of triumph the Americans forbore from cheering. Preceding the ceremony, General Jackson had trouble with the Spanish authorities over the public documents and at St. Augustine they had to be taken by force. The Indian chiefs were displeased over the change, but the American commander assured them of his friendship. Under the Spanish they had been doing as they pleased. They and their people had learned something of his sternness in campaigns against them preceding the surrender. The story of Florida after the American occupancy is recent history and repeats with glorious events, growth and prosperity. It would take many volumes to even review the high points in the long drama enacted in the first state in America settled by white men.

FLORIDA'S WEALTH AND SOME OF ITS SOURCES

"Has Florida any money?" Strangers to the state sometimes ask this question, although not as frequently as in the past, when Florida's productive ability was not so large as now or as well and widely known. "Has Florida any money?" Read the answer in the reported movement of fruits and vegetables out of the state since the opening of the present season, beginning in September last, nine months ago.

Within the period above mentioned 100,000 cars, or more, of Florida grown fruit and vegetables have been shipped out of the state to markets far and wide. It is believed that the shipments out of the state this season will exceed in volume, or quantity, that of any previous season.

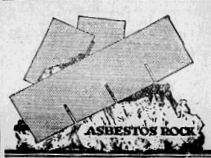

Not long ago a prominent fruit and vegetable buyer and shipper stated that the shipments, at the rate of about 6,000 cars a month, of Florida fruits and vegetables were bringing into the state, on an f. o. b. value, very nearly $42,000,000 or an average of $6,000,000 per month, $200,000 per day, or an average income, from this one source alone, of around $8,000 per hour. "Has Florida any money?" There's the answer.

It seems safe to estimate, roughly, that Florida fruits and vegetables grown and marketed this season, now drawing to a close, will bring to the producers, the farmers and truckers, over $50,000,000. Now, fifty million dollars is a fifty sum of money to get hold of in the period of six or seven months, even though it goes into a number of pockets or bank accounts. But it is wealth of the state. Then, on that amount, add another sum, say or quite as large, representing the money the citrus fruit growers are receiving for this season's crop.

It is more than likely that when the figures representing the value of the total crop of fruits and vegetables for this season are available they will show a most gratifying aggregate of income. It is worthily earned by a most industrious, pains-taking lot of men and women who steadily are increasing their production along these lines. They have learned much in the bitter school of experience within the past few years. They have found out that it pays to organize their forces, to unify improved methods of cultivation and marketing. By so doing they are helping themselves to an appreciable degree, getting better and larger crops and more and more money to be extended for many necessary things, the cultivation of more land, the building of improved roads, of better school buildings, and so on, not neglecting to improve the home and to add to the conveniences and pleasures by which living is made more satisfying, more nearly what life ought to be.

"Has Florida any money?" Look around, throughout the state, and read the answer in a thousand signs that indicate the possession of wealth and the disposition to use it wisely and well, for the advancement of the individual and of the state.—Times-Union.

A SHINGLE THAT'S DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHERS—

Johns-Manville Flexstone—the shingle that's made of rock instead of rag. That's why it is different and better than rag-felt shingles.

Because it is all mineral— asbestos rock fibre felt with an ornamental surfacing of crushed red or green slate—it assures greater fire safety and longer service; it will not rot or dry out and never needs paint.

Approved by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., and takes base rates of insurance. Yet it costs little more than perishable rag-felt shingles.

Supply Company Has Big Year
The annual meeting of stockholders of the Exchange Supply Company was held in Tampa offices of the Florida Citrus Exchange Friday. The following were chosen directors for the ensuing year: E. B. Casler, St. Petersburg; R. J. Kepler, Jr., De Land; A. F. Wyman, Bradenton; H. C. Merrill, Tropic; W. W. Raymond, Ocala; L. M. Hammett, Vero Beach; A. V. Anderson, Avon Park; P. C. Peters, Winter Garden; F. C. W. Kramer, Leesburg; H. E. Cornell, Winter Haven; D. C. Gillett, Tampa; J. H. Ross, Winter Haven. The directors re-elected the former officers unanimously. These are: J. H. Ross, president; D. C. Gillett, vice-president; C. E. Stewart, Jr., secretary and treasurer; G. C. Giles, assistant secretary; J. S. McCarthy, assistant treasurer.

W. F. Miller, who has been the active head of the organization since its inception, again was chosen general manager. His annual report showed the company to have handled a larger volume of business than in any previous year, though because of decreasing prices the amount in dollars and cents was not in the preceding twelve months.

The company now owns three crate mills, the big Warnell mill at Plant City, a mill at Ross in the lower part of Hillsborough county, and one at Kissimmee. It was stated that the combined capacity of these makes it possible for this company to produce every box required by all the exchange packing houses, packing on a basis to meet any legitimate competition.

In commenting upon this phase of the company's activities, J. H. Ross said that the time is now in sight when the south will face a practical extinction of marketable timber due to cutting away the timber supply faster than it is replaced. He said that as chairman of the division of natural resources of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which position he holds, the data made available to him by the statistical department of that organization showed this fact conclusively. He further recited details as to how the national experts figured that one after another of the south's manufacturing plants devoted to processing timber must be forced to close down. In view of these things, he gave it as his opinion that the large timber holdings owned by the Exchange Supply Company were a tremendous asset to exchange growers, and afforded unusual assurance of a future supply of crates on a reasonable basis of cost.

The company's fertilizer manufacturing plant in Tampa was shown to have been operating to good advantage, supplying a large portion of the exchange membership with its requirements, and turning out materials which by reason of being twice analyzed are of undoubted high quality. In this connection, the meeting voiced with considerable enthusiasm that there should be no reduction in fertilizer manufacturing facilities, and that preparation should be made looking toward the expansion of this department of the business.

The horticultural department, whose experts visit the groves of members of the Florida Citrus Exchange and give money for fertilizer or other materials of fertilization and cultivation without charge to growers, irrespective of where fertilizer or other materials may be purchased, was declared to be of the utmost service to the grower. It is said that this department is doing much to aid in the production not only of larger volumes of fruit from given groves, but is adding materially in bettering the quality of the fruit grown by exchange members. Recent additions have been made to the department, and the sentiment of the growers apparently favors its further enlargement.

The laboratory, in addition to handling a large amount of routine work, has by recent research, looking to utilization of culled fruit in the form of citrus by-products, done much toward ultimately solving the problem of disposing of such fruit to the advantage of the growers. Canned grapefruit is one of the more recent developments which is said to promise a ready market for such fruit. The machinery department is reported to have saved large amounts of money by the more than one hundred packing houses of the exchange in the purchase, installation and repair of fruiting and equipment; and is a very valuable adjunct to the organization.

Sealdsweet Expansion
During an intermission while waiting for a committee to report, the meeting heard George A. Scott, general sales manager of the exchange, with great interest. Mr. Scott showed the distribution of Sealdsweet fruit was obtaining results. He showed that during this last season Sealdsweet oranges and grapefruit had been sold in 115 markets where previously carload sales had not been made. During the previous year eighty-six such markets were opened, so that within two years Sealdsweet fruit successfully had been introduced into 201 northern cities and markets where previously sales had not been made.

During the past year loans aggregating $278,000 were made to growers of Florida, according to statements made Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Growers' Loan & Guarantee Company. The reports showed that only $28,000 of the $278,000 loans during the year will remain unpaid. Outstanding loans total $250,000.

The election of officers resulted as follows: A. V. Anderson, Avon Park, re-elected president; W. L. Drew, Eagle Lake, re-elected vice-president; C. H. Walker, Bartow, secretary and treasurer. Directors elected include: P. C. Peters, Winter Garden; G. B. Ayer, Winter Haven; Dr. J. H. Ross, Winter Haven.

Of the Sub-Exchange Managers' Association all former officers were re-elected, which left it stand with C. H. Walker, Bartow, president; H. G. Gumprecht, Bradenton, vice-president; Edward Gay Martin, Tampa, secretary.

Those present included H. N. Barnes, Cocoa; B. E. Morrill, Miami; J. E. Mattern, Fort Myers; Harold Crews, Arcadia; L. A. Hakes, Orlando; A. H. Blanding, Leesburg; A. C. Nichols, Clearwater; R. J. Kepler, Jr., De Land; Edward Gay Martin, H. G. Gumprecht, Bradenton; C. H. Walker, Bartow.
