WOMEN BELIEVE BETTER TO WAIT WHILE FOR A FEDERATION IN COUNTY

Avon Park's Women's Club voted against joining Sebring's clubs in a county federation at the present time, the leaders in the local organization feeling that they should first get the club on its feet and moving ahead before attempting to support a county body. The invitation was brought from the Sebring club and seconded by several local women, who saw in the plan a common basis for joint effort of the two clubs towards a bigger and better Highlands county. The local club is building its own foundation right now secretly—if it is a bit slow—and a little later plans to revive the county federation idea and join the Sebring club in making it a go.

The Fidels class of the Baptist church is planning a box social for all the town Friday night, July 7, in the hall in the Brickell building. The club expects to play host to close to several hundred persons.

All the girls will bring box lunches and the boxes with no identifying marks will be stacked for the auctioneer. The successful purchaser of a box gets the girls—or rather his share of it—and the company of the fair damsel that prepared it, for the lunch.

The girls are making their invitation general and expect great interest will be made to make the occasion a big one. The funds will go to the repair fund of the church.

One fair damsel asks if Trotsky is jazz for the fox trot.

Oranges at $2.50 on the tree. It'll be grand time in cool winter days on the Ridge.

Only 132 pieces of Avon Park property not paid up at the tax collector's. Who said time were bad?

Lanker is only doing what lots of folks have always wanted—let Uncle Sam run the liquor business.

We wonder if the last two-thirds of Lenin's name has anything to do with the number of lives he has.

The only wet Canadian province the Florida Shrimpers encountered, was passed through on Sunday. Who said just retribution?

Avon Park's Woman's Club would crawl before it walks into a county federation. Very good, but let's start crawling right away.

Not content with letting us wear "the shoe that pinches" metaphorically, the G. O. P. tariff boosters have put a levy on shoes.

They are now going to give us peace of mind, too. A neutral commission going to solve the problem "who and what caused the war."

Punta Gorda and Charlotte Harbor had a county seat election without a cross word or a vicious charge. Watch Charlotte county hop.

Appealing for "costless" modes for men, as the Tampa Tribune does, suggests that men are not as free as style-chasers than the fair sex.

Jacksonville is told that her future lies in her bathing beaches. Sure, the hand that washes the sand is as slippery as the salt sea waves now.

A New York woman furnished the coin for a tressouper for a New York waitress, only to find she already had a husband—waiting for her, we presume.

Four years for bank robbers, is one of the reasons we have so many burglaries. Longer "vacations" would reduce the working force to say the least.

If the Ku Klux could take off its mask, so the vandals and blackguards couldn't operate under its cloak, there wouldn't be so much opposition to the Klan.

If you want to aim high, hang your target to a parachute, then if you don't get it going up, it'll come down slow enough for a couple of tries at a lower level.

Texas police chief resigned after twenty-seven charges had been presented against him. If that Tampa crowd leaps on Mayor Bill Spencer will quit, too.

"Go forth in the dances of them that make merry," spoke Jeremiah to the ancient bachelors. And we vain modern folk would claim the fapper for our own age.

If it's always darkest before the dawn, Russians must be thinking they've moved all of the country into the land of the midnight sun—and six months' dawn.

Hillsborough has got to vote all over again on its $3,000,000 county bond issue for roads. She knows what good roads are worth.

What a pity that the remnants of that proud array that were the gray should at this late day besmirch the proud record with a record of attack on the American—Alne Lincoln.

John McWhorter is talking about women leaving "footprints in the sands of time." What chance has a mere man got with the women in this game unless he adopts high heels, too?

One headline says "Get Married Is Mother's Senatorial Campaign Slogan." We didn't know the old maid vote in Maine was so strong that politicians would line up with them so stringently.

The women have the right idea on their plan for a community house. It will become the heart of the community and as it throbs more active more rapid will be the growth of Avon Park. No one thing can surpass it in the city.

Our idea of foolish politics is the state law saying the governor shall be appointed by the judges, and the state Democratic committee saying they shall be appointed in the primary. Seems that George Roney et al. think they are wiser than our wisest laws.

FOR HEALTH'S SAKE

Avon Park is rapidly approaching the size of a city with all its cares and all its dangers from carelessness. Avon Park must get out of such swarming clothes as boys' and girls' in the backyard. And so it now.

We cannot wait for this. Already the gnats are so bad that one preacher Sunday night almost took them for his subject. One day the gnats that are gnats in the open trash pile. And that's not all that breeds in filth.

Avon Park cannot afford not to have some way to remove garbage from the premises of its citizens. It is a health measure, and it is a measure of comfort and convenience.

Other communities have their garbage men who remove the garbage once or twice a week. Some dump it and some cremate it.

For a short while Avon Park can use the dump method, if it goes outside of the city and keeps far enough away from any habitation. We are still small enough that a dump will not prove dangerous.

There is an item that the council should let an intern in their budget instead of that of garbage removal.

A one-mile levy will provide it, and what does one mile mean to any one of us. A graveyard is told us that he pays the hauling man here fifty cents every month or two to haul his own "dead" trash away.

A one-mile levy will amount to about half of what he is now paying for his service, and infrequent attention.

A one-mile levy will produce more than $1,500 this year, and it should not be hard to contract with some darkey with a wagon to make one or two rounds of the community per week.

A one-mile levy will insure a more healthful community will cost the average home owner in the city just two to four dollars.

Is the safety of our health worth $4, Mr. Homeowner?

Is $4 worth the discomforts of the ever persisting gnats, Mr. Citizen?

Is it worth $4, Mr. Husband, to wrestle in the hot sunshine with a spade, a hole in the backyard and a pile of foul-smelling garbage?

Is it worth $4, or even $20, Mr. Landowner, to take a prospective customer that the neighbor has to move his own garbage and if he of the mind, he might leave it indefinitely?

Individual garbage disposal is a luxury Avon Park cannot afford. It costs us money in a dozen ways. A one-mile tax levy is over once per year.

THE RAILROAD OWNED PRESS

The Jacksonville Journal has openly raised the question as to the right of a public service corporation to own a newspaper. "The newspaper that is owned by any public utility corporation is not a free press," says the Journal. "It cannot represent the people, it represents the special privileges it is owned to foster."

Presumably the question is being agitated because of the growing grip of the railroads on the newspapers of the south.

That railroad owned newspapers are a dangerous influence in any community, there seems to be no doubt; it is quite one of the questions for newspapers, owned by railroads, to present to the public and impartial fact and not opinion on such vital questions as freight rates for example, yet upon an intelligent understanding of the railroads' rate situation on the part of the public depends the prosperity of the great farming population that feeds the nation and the cost of living for the public that much depend on the tiller of the soil. There are thousands of newspaper readers in the cities who never know the ownership of the publication they look for information. The editors are unknown to them. The city newspaper publisher and his readers have not that close contact that exists between the publisher of a weekly newspaper and his readers.

Of course, the natural assumption is that the newspaper is the friend of the public, the national policeman watching the interest of the people and so people are turned into an army of Little Red Riding Hoods and led to destruction by the railroad wolf without ever a suspicion of their danger.

It would be a beneficial service if legislation were enacted prohibiting the ownership of newspapers by public service corporations, and it is quite within the range of possibility that this much to be desired restriction can be brought about if the country press unites in insisting upon it. Reputable newspaper publishers have a right to protect the honor of their profession. The integrity of the whole press suffers in reputation from this handful of prostituted publications whose policies of buncombe and deception are shaped by public service corporations whose sole aim is to disarm and exploit the people.

STAY OUT OF POLITICS

We have a fledgling in our midst. Our Boosters' Club is just learning to fly. Let us learn the lesson correctly.

First, let us learn to keep out of politics. Nothing will wreck a civic organization more quickly or more surely. Study every problem brought up for the political point that may lurk beneath, ready to wreck our soaring organization till it do crumple and be wafted to the ground below.

We can be one of our civic creed. We can never be one in our politics, or our religion.

Jacksonville housewives are paying 25 cents for California lettuce and the Florida Times asks "What's the matter with the Florida product?" We sent it to California to fill their bunkers after they were frozen out.

There are wild cat schemes in most everything, except advertising. The St. Petersburg Times says it never lost a dollar it spent in advertising the Sunshine City. Nobody has; advertising pays dividends regularly.

GIVE OUR WOMEN A WEDGE!

Practically every citizen of Avon Park has signed the petition of the Woman's Club for a one-mile tax levy to build a community house. Certainly our city council will not meet to respond to such a united display.

A community clubhouse, around which the growing community may radiate and revolve as the wheel about the hub on its axle, is an essential to the development of a city. Some of the finer things in life come through the community house, some of the lighter things in life come the same way—and from such an office may radiate the services of a united citizenry towards the common goal.

True, the $1,500 that a one-mile levy raises can not build a community house like we would have. But that amount will prove the opening wedge—and "wedge drives wedge."

From time immemorial man has used the wedge for starting something. In the axe, the needle, the nail—all in their rudest form exemplifying the principle of the "sum of the inclined planes," have been common tools of the universe. It never fails in its task.

It is a particularly appropriate tool for our women in this task they have undertaken. We like the thought of the wedge as the woman's tool in her constructive work, because it's thin edge can be put in a tight way movement, which like this one, is destined of such important consequences. The woman has not many tools, but she knows how to push, with stubbornness. The more acute the angle of the penetrating point, the more effective each drive against the base of the wedge.

Given the wedge—the one-mile levy—the citizenry will have a tool to work with, an efficient tool. They know well the "tricks of the tool's true use."

They will not stop with one wedge driven.

SPLITTING FINE HAIRS

We hold no brief for the sheriff of Hillsborough or St. Lucie counties, nor for the governor of our state. In fact, they don't seem to need any briefs, having been well able to care for themselves so far—so why not

But when the sheriff of St. Lucie county orders from higher up to stop Sunday baseball, and the sheriff of Hillsborough county gets called to the curfew in Tallahassee when he is closing the moving picture shows on Sunday, it looks like somebody is wielding a sharp edge on some already fine hairs.

If we are not to be allowed an afternoon's sport in the open, why are we allowed to sit through a stuffy hot afternoon in a picture show house?

The only difference we can see is that baseball makes no money for anyone while the movies make fortunes for many.

Has the movie show supplanted baseball as our national pastime? or has the great game of making money so much influence in church and political circles that neither the church nor our governor dare enforce the law or bespeak law enforcement?

The city officials of Tampa who threatened to lock the gates to Plant Park because a few youngsters were enjoying themselves on Sundays, pay no heed to the open moving picture shows and join in the howl that goes up when the sheriff's deputies state they will enforce the law. They offer a pertinent question, too.

If we are to have law enforcement, let us have it. Then if the laws aren't popular, let us take them off the books.

This is a country of majority rule—but the higher decree is "let justice rule!"

ROAD COSTS FALLING, BUT—

Villages and counties contemplating road building should get in touch with the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture, if they would save taxpayers from exploitation at the hands of unconscionable contractors, it seems from information at hand. It appears there has been a sudden and heavy decrease in the cost of road building material, none of which contractors operating in Florida seem willing to pass on to the people, if they are to judge by events in Pinellas county.

Figures given cover a wide stretch of territory, embracing practically all of the United States. They run in brief as follows: Earth excavation, common, 35 cents a cubic yard; gravel excavation, $1.25 a cubic yard; gravel, $1.44 a cubic yard; sand clay, 45 cents a cubic yard; crushed stone, $3.42 a cubic yard. Structural concrete of various classes ranges from $14 to $21.20 a cubic yard.

For surfacing, the following are the figures by the square yard: Gravel, 40 cents; surface treated macadam, 50 cents; bituminous macadam, $1.08; bituminous concrete, $1.97; plain cement concrete, $2.17; reinforced cement concrete, $2.54. Cement has been furnished by the following states at prices given by the bureau: New York $1.75; Wisconsin, $1.94; Arkansas, $2.76.

For the most part we are supremely ignorant in matters of road building as might be expected, but we can operate along business lines. Some of us may be able now to take advantage of our school courses which, if they taught anything, showed the lanes down which to travel quickly to obtain accurate information. If any of us have never seen a college, then a little horse sense will guide us along paths that will save the public a great deal of money. Road building is going on in every state of the nation and the more we have of it the better, but the poor old how-beater taxpayer ought to be considered once in a while, and road contractors can scarcely be regarded as special benefactors for the preservation of the public purse.

A congress full of politicians vote for or against a tariff on hams and eggs because a man's founders decided sixty years ago to do or not to do, has about as much to do with the welfare of the nation as business economies as a walrus would have for his fur coat in the Canal Zone.

A TALK ON THIRTY

Live within your means. This may seem like trite advice, yet if it were universally followed a large measure of human suffering would be eliminated.

It is one of the short comings of many persons in all walks of life that they do not keep their expenditures within the limits of their incomes. The desire to make a show of it, to attract attention and to enjoy the transitory pleasures of the day, in a large measure, responsible for this evil.

This is not said in condemnation of the finer things of life. It must be remembered that what may be perfectly prudent spending for one may be the height of extravagance for another. Conditions in life vary. Each person must regulate his own expenses in keeping with his own income. Because it is the only way that individual progress can be made.

To drift along from day to day without getting ahead is the worst form of mismanagement and folly. For it is bound to bring unhappiness if not absolute ruin. It hurts no one to be deprived of a few passing pleasures in order to make provision for the future. It is through experience of this kind that strong characters are formed and moral strength is generated. To yield to temptation and be continually spending money for ephemeral joys which should be laid away for future use has a most degrading effect.

No matter what conditions in life may be with you, above all things live within your means. To do so will bring rewards in later years that will well repay you for the privations and inconveniences you suffer. If your income is limited, your savings, of course, will necessarily be small, but the amount that you lay by at regular intervals is of secondary importance to the fact that you save something. No matter what your circumstances may be, therefore, live within your means.—S. W. Straus.

INDIANS

The oldest inhabitants of America—and they haven't a newspaper of their own. But the Indians of the Pacific Northwest have decided to remedy that. They will begin "The Arrow," the first national publication devoted to the interests of the red men. Hugh Howell, bond salesman, will become the editor and hopes the newspaper will get the Indians a square deal. The modern Indian is more the victim of thoughtlessness than intentional wrong by Americans, and all he needs is publicity. Late in the day but better late than never. Arrow, if true to its mark!—Exchange.

YOU SHOULD KNOW ALL ABOUT THE STATE ROADS

The custom of state and county officials when discussing the eight state trunk line highway projects of designating them by number has been very confusing to the average citizen, and according to reports from all parts of the state, persons residing in the territory traversed by the different highways know their local road when designated by number, but outside of official circles few are familiar with the other roads.

The eight projects, the number by which each is designated and the general routes of the roads follow:

No. 1—Jacksonville to the Alabama state line at Nunez Ferry. Route: Jacksonville, Lake City, Live Oak, Maitland, Monticello, Tallahassee, Quincy, Marianna, Bonifay, DeFuniak Springs, Milton, Pensacola, Nunez Ferry.

No. 2—Georgia state line to Fort Myers. Route: State line, Jasper, Live Oak, Gainesville, Ocala, Leesburg, Eustis, Orlando, Kissimmee, Haines City, Bartow, Arcadia, Fort Myers.

No. 3—Jacksonville to Orlando. Route: Orange Park, Green Cove Springs, Palatka, Crescentville, DeLand, Sanford, Orlando.

No. 4—Georgia state line to Key West. Route: State line, Callahan, Jacksonville, Bunnell, Daytona, Titusville, Fort Pierce, West Palm Beach, Miami and south.

No. 5—High Springs (Alachua county) to Punta Gorda. Route: Branches from road No. 2 at High Springs, via Archer, Williston, In-Bradenton, Sarasota, Englewood, Punta Gorda.

No. 6—Georgia state line to Apalachicola. Route: State line, Apalachicola, Mountstown, Port Joe, Apalachicola, Sarasota, Englewood, Punta Gorda.

No. 7—Pensacola to Alabama state line near Florissant. Route: State line, Apalachicola, Mountstown, Port Joe, Apalachicola, Sarasota, Englewood, Punta Gorda.

No. 8—Georgia state line to Lake Wales, Sebring, Okeechobee City, thence east to Fort Pierce—Clearwater Sun.

SUFFICIENT EFFICIENCY

There is a project in New York City, which has progressed beyond the doubtful stage, for creating a great educational center near Central Park, with buildings for a conservatory of music, an opera house, a temple of the dramatic arts and a school of painting and sculpture, the land to be furnished by the city and the structures to be raised largely by gift money.

Something similar to such a center Boston has long since built in or near its city, the Museum of Fine Arts, the New England Conservatory, the Symphony Hall and the numerous educational institutions of that neighborhood, though on nothing like the unified scale of the proposed center in New York.

It is worth remarking that when the financial capital of the United States (and of North America) decides to spend $10,000,000 or more on institutions to foster music, art and the fine arts, it means more than that New York City is willing to lavish its money. It is undoubtedly symptomatic of an awakening interest throughout the land in more than machine and efficiency.

The day may come when we shall be efficient at something better than efficiency.—Boston Globe.

NOTICE

To the People of Avon Park and Vicinity

The time having arrived when we are ready to start operating for drilling of the well near Calumide in an effort to discover oil, and realizing that the people of Avon Park and vicinity are very much interested in the success of this undertaking, we are extending to you through the columns of this paper an invitation to join us in the development, by the purchase of some leases, in the territory adjacent to where we will drill.

While we feel reasonably sure of finding oil, it must be understood, by all who purchase leases, that we do not guarantee to find it, as dry wells are drilled in the best of proven oil fields, but we do guarantee an honest expenditure of your money in the drilling of the well, and if oil is there we will bring the well in, and it will not be "capped" to fool the public.

We are perfectly willing to stand a good share of the expense in drilling this well, and others, if you get any showing of oil in the first one, and to stand our loss if there is no oil, but we feel it to be no more than fair for the people of this community to purchase some leases and thus share a part of the expense. If oil is discovered we will all profit very materially, but if oil is not discovered this company will lose all the money which they put into the operation, but those of you who have an established business here, will go on with that business just the same, and those who own property will have their property just the same, but we will have nothing but experience.

We do not want anyone to embarrass themselves financially to assist us, but there is a large number who read this paper who can afford to take at least a small chance with us, and to all those we extend a cordial invitation to purchase some leases, and to do it now, while prices are low.

You will all be invited through the columns of this paper to be present the day we "spud in" the well, and we hope to see all there who can possibly arrange to come.

BETTER PHONE SERVICE

"The Lake County Telephone Company has installed a new 150-line switchboard in its Utmost office," says the Exponent, "and this is expected to make great improvement in the service." The newspaper reports that the company has lately completed the reeling of local lines, replacing much of the former open wire with cables, and is now arranging to rebuild the line between Utmost and Eustis. The toll line service will also be improved.

DOCTORS KEEP TAB ON WAITING ROOM MAGAZINES

"Any doctor or dentist has the latest copies of all the magazines, but you have to ask for them," the speaker was a doctor.

"There are two reasons," he added, "why you won't find current magazines laying around loose. The first is that the family always gets them first. Until they are finished with them the patients haven't got a chance."

"After that, though, I keep them in a little cupboard just outside of the waiting room. If any one asks the maid for any particular magazine she gets it for him."

"The second reason I do not keep them about is that people get so interested in a story they go off with the magazine. It isn't that they're dishonest or mean to take anything that does not belong to them, they're just careless or absent minded."

"Of course some persons are considerate enough to return them. And even had one add the price of a magazine he took away to the amount of his bill when he returned it."

"After a man has asked for a magazine he knows the maid will remember to add the price of the magazine to his bill. He is more careful to return it."—New York Sun.

REPORT LOWER PRICES FOR VARIOUS HIGHWAY MATERIALS

A considerably lower level of prices for the various items entering into highway construction is reported by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. This conclusion is based on the following prices by successful bidders on federal aid roads during April and are averaged for the whole of the United States. Some of the figures cover a large volume of work well distributed over the country, while others are based either on small volumes or scattering reports.

The figures which cover the cost in place are as follows: Earth excavation, common, 35 cents a cubic yard; rock excavation, $1.25 a cubic yard; gravel, $1.44 a cubic yard; sand-clay, 45 cents a cubic yard; crushed stone, $3.42 a cubic yard; structural concrete of various classes ranges from $14 to $21.29 a cubic yard. For surfacing the following are the prices by the square yard: Gravel, 40 cents; surface-treated macadam, 60 cents; bituminous macadam, $1.06; bituminous concrete, $1.97; plain asphalt, $2.17; reinforced cement concrete, $2.17; reinforced cement concrete, $2.54, and brick. Reinforcing steel has cost $0.053 a pound and structural steel $0.059 a pound. Cement has been furnished to contractors by the following states at the prices given by the barrel: New York, $1.75; Wisconsin, $1.34, and Arkansas, $2.70.

MANUFACTURERS NOW USING APPLES TO THE LAST SEED

The thoroughness with which the apple is now worked over and utilized by some manufacturers makes it comparable with the packing house pig that leaves only a futile squeal. The apple is not transformed into such a variety of products as the pig, but all are useful, and when the last of the series has been made hardly a smell is left.

In many of the apple-using factories the apples are first pressed to produce cider, which may be sold as such or may be manufactured into vinegar. After thorough pressing the pomace is treated with hot water to liquefy the pectin, which, after purification, is sold in either liquid or solid form to manufacturers of jellies and similar products and to housewives. The much-wasted and squeezed residue is dried, ground and sold as cattle feed.

"From present indications it would appear that there will be a building boom in Leesburg this fall and winter," remarks the Leesburg Commercial. "At least there are a number of people contemplating the erection of buildings here. The Commercial tells of plans for an apartment house on West Main street, and goes on to speak of a number of new homes which will be built during the next few months, the structures costing $5,000 to $7,000.

An A. F. G. Mark
On a Label Is Like Certifying Your Check

Sound as a certified check is the guarantee of quality offered by a grower when, in addition to using his own label on citrus, he further identifies it to the trade by the use of an A. F. G. trademark.

The A. F. G. mark and the emblem of the Blue Goose are not brands.

The A. F. G. mark is advertised as a sign placed only on fruits and vegetables of dependable quality.

The public, as well as the retailer, knows the Blue Goose emblem is placed on only the very highest quality.

The A. F. G. trademarks will appear, when desired, on the labels of associations and individual growers who ship through the American Fruit Growers.

MUSK PRODUCED IN CHINA AND TIBET

Florida folk will find the following notes by American Vice-Consul N. P. Allman of Chungking, China, on the musk deer of much interest. These deer seem to be of the same species as the musk deer of the Himalayas.

The following article was published in the China Advertiser (Japanese) of Tientsin on Oct. 22, 1921, and succeeding days and weeks. The information is available concerning the musk industry it is thought worth while repeating the article here.

"All know that aromatic essences obtained from animals occupy an important position in the industry of manufacturing perfume. Of them musk stands the highest, commanding the greatest respect of both merchants and customers.

"Musk is mentioned in ancient medical books of Asia, especially in China, where it seems to have been used from time immemorial. The Arabians appear to have brought it to Europe before all people, the name being mentioned in the king of Greece by Saladin in 1182.

"In a medical book of Arabia published in the tenth century, musk is described as having considerable medical virtue for nasal diseases, and it is generally mentioned in medical books published later than that.

"In the book of the famous traveler very often mentions musk, and tells how it is used as a medicine in India, Mongolia, Tibet and China.

"In Europe it was principally used on account of its beautiful odor, whereas sometimes it was used for preservation of remains.

"Judging from the fact that musk is used now for the treatment of certain nervous sicknesses, it seems to have actually very valuable medicinal quality in treating diseases. In the pharmacopoeia of 1828, musk was described as a sedative for convulsions, and as a remedy for opium.

"Musk is obtained from the male musk deer, scientifically known as moschus moschiferus. These deer inhabit the elevated plateaus and mountain ranges of Central Asia, especially the Altai Mountains. The deer is three feet long and twenty inches high, hornless, with long canine teeth and coarse pelage of dirty brown color, whitish underneath.

"The deer is smaller, and has no musk. The gland or bag of the male which contains the perfume is about the size of a hen's egg, of an oval form, fastened on one side. The gland having close relations with the generative function, it is absent in too young or too old deer, the secretion being especially abundant and highly odorous during the pairing time.

"The gland, when cut off and exposed to the air, hardens in no time. The musk deer lives on the summits of mountains, not easily accessible by man, it seldom being found at an altitude below 2,500 meters (1 meter, 3 1/4 feet). It is said that in Sikkim the animal is caught during summer at a height of 6,000 meters.

"The musk deer feeds on young leaves in dense forests, mostly of the rhododendron and evergreen at the snow line. They are found singly as a general rule, but sometimes in pairs. They are in hiding during the day, coming out after dark in search of food.

"The animal lives in a burrow resembling that of the hare, or level ground behind a rock, which is not vacated even during severe winter; so much he is afraid of light and heat. But when he is startled, he will dash forth with wonderful alacrity, leaping over the precipitous mountain side at full speed.

"The musk deer gives birth to young once a year, in June or July, one—very seldom two—at a time. The offspring is left alone in the burrow, the mother coming back to it from time to time to feed it.

"Hunting musk deer is difficult, it being held a noble sport by Britons in northern India. The number of animals killed by shooting is infinitesimal. The natives catch them for the sole purpose of obtaining musk, by various methods, the most popular being snaring. The hunters build a hedge running over one kilometer (two-thirds of a mile) across an incline over which the musk deer is supposed to travel. Small openings are made in the hedge at an interval of every 50 to 100 metres, and a snare is set at each opening. Since the deer never tries to jump over an obstacle, he is generally caught in the snare in his attempt to go through the opening.

"According to experts, 30 head of musk deer must be slaughtered in order to obtain one catty (about one and a third pounds) of musk. At Tachung, 2,000 catties of musk being annually sold, 60,000 head of musk deer must be yearly killed. Besides at least one hundred thousand deer must be killed every year in China and Tibet. Thus, it is thought that unless means are provided to preserve the animal, it will soon become extinct, as the number slaughtered far exceeds those produced.

"Hunters often suffer from the fresh, strong odor of musk, as it dangerously acts upon the nervous system and very often injures eyesight and hearing.

"Musk has wonderful power of cohesion, whereas its diffusion is also very extensive. Any article left near it is imbued with the odor, even silver, thought to be the most susceptible substance to scent, being affected by musk.

"Musk generally contains 15 per cent of water and 8 per cent of ash, and can be dissolved in water 60 per cent and in alcohol 10 to 12 per cent. It is exported to America and Europe in the gland, very seldom being sent pulverized.

"Musk in the market is made up of various kinds, although they are all obtained from the musk deer. The latter is classified into four different species in accordance with the difference of food, climate and habitat.

"Musk coming from Shanghai is put up in a case, usually weighing 100 catties, but that from Looching is put up in Chinese-made cases containing about 600 grammes. The latter is worth about 2,500 francs (1 franc worth normally 20 cents) per

WHAT ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT AND LEMONS MEAN TO HEALTH

[By Royal S. Copeland, M.D., Commissioner of Health, New York City, in the New York American.]

Excessive acidity is the bane of many a suffering mortal. He is forced to choose his food with the greatest care for fear of increasing the trouble. He finds, for instance, that eggs and meat may increase the acidity. Naturally, therefore, he seeks for foods that do not add to his discomfort. Many times the citrus fruits may be put aside.

The citrus fruits include oranges, lemons, limes, citron, grapefruit, tangerines and kumquats. The kumquat is not extensively sold in New York, and is unknown to most of us. It is a very small orange found in China and Japan. It is about the size of a plum and oval in shape.

Most of us the apple seems the most popular fruit. You are hardly prepared, I think, to be told that New York City eats more oranges than it does apples. Last year we received in this port 350,000 pounds of apples and 261,000 pounds of oranges. All told, the receipts of citrus fruits will amount to over 422,000,000 pounds.

Our market is supplied first by the early Florida oranges and the Arizona navel oranges. Then come the California oranges and later Florida products. Most of the oranges consumed in this country are grown in Florida and California, together with a considerable supply from Porto Rico.

The California orange is prized because it is seedless, but it is closely rivalled in popularity by the thin-skinned and juicy Florida orange. The Porto Rican oranges are likewise delicious in flavor and very sweet.

In my opinion oranges must be counted among the most wholesome and health giving fruits. The orange differs from the lemon in that its juice contains more sugar and less citric acid. There can be no doubt that the action of citrus fruits is beneficial to the human system, and because of their neutralizing effects they are valuable in condition where excessive acidity is a symptom.

Within recent years grapefruit have become very popular, both at breakfast and with the other meals as well. I recall the first time I ever ate grapefruit. My enthusiastic host said that it had all the stimulating qualities of quinine and all the virtues of the most famous spring medicines. There can be no doubt of its tonic effect and of its anti-scorbutic properties.

In order to grow and thrive we must have vitamins. Sometimes babies fail to prosper as they should. In such cases we are suspicious that the milk lacks the vitamins content. The essential vitamins are furnished by citrus fruits. Without the vitamins curvy develops. The citrus fruits contain the scurvy neutralizing, the "anti-scorbutic" properties.

PAY BY CHECK

"Pay by check and save a surplus safely," is the advice which heads the advertising of "The Bank of Blue," Arizona. It continues: "A bank can accomplish far more in a business way with a checking account than you can with actual cash. With a checking account you know just where the money goes, which will enable you to regulate your expenses in the way you desire, and to reserve which will be held safely for you in this bank."

"It costs no more," "The Bank of Courtesy Service."

Not to be outdone, the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. of the same town announces itself as "The Bank of Courtesy and Security," and has to say:

"A bank balance stabilizes life. It removes the cowardly feeling due to debts. It builds confidence, ability and action; it promotes independence. It brings all the things worth while to your very door; it leads the way to life in abundance, and the greatest of these is contentment."

Smile if you like at the somewhat bombastful wording of these assurances—they are true, and the banks are doing not only themselves but everyone in the community a service when they give them prominence.

As to the method of accomplishing the desired results, let a bank in a general way in the south than in the north. Under irrigation they play an important part in the culture of the west, but not under dry farming conditions.

WISCONSIN HAS ONE-FOURTH COW-TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

The 115 cow-testing associations in Wisconsin, kept in operation with the assistance of county agents and specialists employed co-operatively by the United States department of agriculture and the State Agricultural College, total grow to one-fourth of all the associations of the country.

Twelve of these associations have been organized since Dec. 1, 1921, and the membership in the state now numbers about 3,300 farmers owning 55,000 cows.

The aims of the associations have been to weed out unprofitable cows and to feed the animals balanced rations for maximum milk production. Records of the association show the value of high grade cows and pure-bred sires. Last year 335 pure-bred bulls were purchased by the association and 83 scrub bulls replaced by pure-breds in 59 associations.

SCHOOL GARDENS POPULAR WITH CHILDREN OF HAWAII

Some 40,000 school children in Hawaii are enrolled in garden work as the result of the efforts of the local agricultural experiment station of the United States department of agriculture co-operating with other territorial organizations to encourage diversified production and the local growing of table products. Compared with the beginning of the garden work in 1917, a much larger amount of vegetables is now grown in the home gardens of each community and a wide variety of fresh vegetables is found on the table of the average Hawaiian family.

Agricultural colleges in 45 states are giving courses in agricultural economics and allied subjects this year, and a number of states the courses include studies in marketing, co-operation, farm management and commercial geography. The United States department of agriculture is watching the work with great interest.

"ROPE OF TAILS" TESTIFIES TO WORK AGAINST RODENTS

A rope made of 3,000 gopher (ground squirrel) tails was recently on display at the office of the Montana extension director, awaiting shipment to the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture. The rope was made by the Blackfoot Indian chief, Split-Ear, and his tribal assistants, who live near Browning, in Glacier County, Mont.

The Indians have taken an active interest in the campaign against the rodents, and after burying more than 1,400 ground squirrels, decided to save tails for the 19-foot rope now on exhibition. It is estimated that at least 15,000 rodents were destroyed by the Indians during the drive.

APPRECIATED AT LAST

Here's a story published in an exchange which shows how greatly appreciated was the work of an editor by the people of a Kansas town. "In appreciation of the work of a Kansas editor for their community, a bunch of citizens presented him with a bouquet. On the same occasion a quartette from a local church sang a few sweet songs and the minister made a little talk. After the minister's talk, six husky men took the popular editor from the house and placed him tenderly in a model 1921 plumed sedan, and the whole town formed in parade behind the editor's expensive car. After the parade the appreciative crowd returned to their homes, serene in the thought of having provided one bright day in the life of their local news purveyor, even if they did wait until he was dead to do it."—The Fourth Estate.

Twenty-four northern and western states now have 30 specialists to devote full time to farm management extension work. County agents in 895 counties report that they distributed 51,000 farm account books in 1921. 519 counties reported 18,448 books kept, and 444 reported that 8,454 farmers were assisted in summarizing their accounts. County agents in 231 counties report that 2,972 farmers made changes in their business as a result of keeping accounts. More than 800 farm account schools, with an attendance of 20,000, were held in 1921, the United States department of agriculture reports.
