DeLand City Manager Finds Skinner Heaters Effective

Mr. E. W. Brown, city manager of DeLand, considers SKINNER COKE HEATERS as important in the park work as any agricultural implement, fertilizer or cultivation.

Writing under date of July 15th, Mr. Brown says: "It affords me pleasure to advise you that the work of the Skinner Coke Heaters in protecting the tender plants and shrubbery in the DeLand Park from the cold was most satisfactory. The Park caretaker advises me that in a wide radius of these heaters not a single plant was damaged during the cold period of the past winter. We deem them as necessary to our park work as any agricultural implement, fertilizer or cultivation. Very truly yours, E. W. BROWN, City Manager."

Invaluable plants and trees requiring years of careful cultivation may be saved from frost and freeze at small expense by the use of SKINNER COKE HEATERS.

The low cost of these will surprise you. Made of Armco rust-proof iron, they will last for years. They have beyond question solved the grove and crop insurance problem. Play safe.

KEEPING AHEAD OF THE TOWN

Since taking over the Telephone System of Avon Park we have endeavored to keep our equipment, switchboard and lines ahead of the rapid growth of the town and have practically rebuilt the entire system during that time.

It is suggestive of the growth of this community when we say that it has kept us busy doing that and at this time we are now planning to keep up the forward march of the Metropolis of the Ridge.

The latest improvement we are proud to announce is a new switchboard with a capacity for much more business and which will make possible better service to our patrons. This has been installed and is now in service after complete tests.

We are happy to be identified with the progress of Avon Park and will continue to do our part. The increase in our patronage has warranted the improvements we have made here and we will not hesitate to make more extensive improvements as the growth demands it.

Florida Property Is Increasing in Values Every Day

Particularly is this true of property on the Scenic Highlands and in and adjacent to Avon Park. Our city is growing rapidly, new buildings being started nearly every day. Of course this adds to the value of all property, whether in the city or adjacent thereto.

HILLCREST is close to the city limits of Avon Park. Its groves are increasing in value every day. The trees are growing nicely and show a healthy appearance, making an investment with the Scenic Highlands Development Company an attractive one. In fact, one has but to see the young groves, note the painstaking care being given the trees, consider the location and then ascertain what grove properties are selling for all around us, to become convinced that "HILLCREST" is a gilt-edge proposition.

All about for Sebring Tuesday.

"Armistice Day—a month away. What are we going to do about it?" Everybody should get in behind the county chamber of commerce Tuesday.

Now is the time for everything to start thinking about the exhibit at the Tampa fair.

From many hints in the press, says Punch, we gather that America has most of the world's gold, but no bananas.

Do you believe in an "All Florida" program. Sure, then spell it all the way on everything you print or write—all FLORIDA.

The Florida Developer has discovered why Gilbert Leach has gone into the manufacture of paper—because the girls are wearing paper bathing suits.

This time Westcoaster county, New York, has at least gone through the motions of trying young Ward. Who said respect for the law is growing smaller and beautifully less?

The traveler borrowed a match from his Scotch companion. Next he fumbled in his pockets and remarked that he had left his tobacco pouch at home. "Then you'll not be needin' the match," suggested the Scot, taking it back again. We wonder if Japan will be "needin' the match" since she has been able to see the real heart of America.

HIRE A LAWYER

Because an Avon Park city council accepted a document drawn up by L. O. Feagin and passed it some years ago without considering the legal nor the technical possibilities, and without having their own lawyer to put in it some safeguard for the town itself instead of leaving it to the safe-keepers to Mr. Feagin, his heirs and assigns, the town treasury saved perhaps $500—

And the people of Avon Park have been paying 100 per cent dividends on that saving every year, and not getting anything for it either.

There ought to be a moral in this situation for our present council. It seems to us, it ought to be screaming in their ears:

"Hire a lawyer!"

We are about to enter into a contract with the light and power company. We believe it would be false economy to try and save another $500 by accepting without legal and technical investigation just any proposition that seems to look good.

If it was within our private business we wouldn't try to economize at this point. It is safely sure that the light and power company hasn't tried a economist. They've had a lawyer pass on their proposition—from their standpoint only. They've had water-works engineers pass on it, too. They know it is a good thing for the company.

And mind you—it may be a good thing for Avon Park. But we don't know it. It ought to be worth a hundred or so dollars to us to know that it is good for us, that it binds the other fellow to do something for what we give him.

An engineer and a lawyer could make us sure.

The money would be well spent.

ATTENDING TO BUSINESS!

Highlands county has got a hand-shake with itself coming.

And folks at Sebring and south of there probably never dreamed that they had as good a business manager for the packing house as they had until he told them that the loss from the burning of the big structure with its huge fresh stocks, etc., would be practically nil.

It was not just an accident that W. L. Crews placed $14,000 insurance on the new stock of the packing house just five days before the fire, nor that two weeks before he had renewed a policy for $5,000 on miscellaneous equipment. In past years he has insured his stock as well as it arrived and renewed every policy the day it expired.

It has been a habit—a business habit. It is a habit that more of us would do well to emulate. It is a mighty good business. That it is good business the growers believe, undoubtedly. It was worth just $5,000 to them.

And today we wonder how many other citrus exchange packing houses are as well fixed for the firebug. It might be well for the growers to look into it and talk to the fire over.

Full insurance is good business. Ask the South Highlands growers, they know.

Quit Howling! Think

Torn by sectional jealousies Floridians are hurting Florida, folks say. An incoherent road system with dead ends is holding back progress, say others. And then we hear such spokesmen as the Tampa Tribune, the Miami Herald and the Jacksonville Journal crying out against huge wastes in state road work and in countless rage whenever a dollar is spent anywhere except in their front yards.

And yet none of these mouthpieces of wisdom seems willing to stop long enough to offer any constructive criticism. It seems with most of us that our main duty in life is to howl. Perhaps we have done our share of it. But we're going to stop causing the state road department for a few minutes and give the devil his due.

We are going to admit that this alleged stupendous total of $3,000,000 per year, which the department will receive for two years, isn't going to scratch the surface. It sounds big—but the legislature has laid out a program for six state roads, totaling nearly 2,500 miles—and that 2,500-mile program is a darn sight bigger.

We are going to admit that roads must be built right or the state might as well quit—and what is more we are going to admit that it costs $30,000 per mile to build roads right. There are calamity howlers who will yell "waste," but until they can prove it, let them shut up. If they can prove it, then proceed. But they can't. Florida materials are all right and we are using everything "made in Florida" that is possible and still they cost $30,000 per mile.

Let Hillsborough Cast The First Stone

And when it comes to "pinching the corners" Hillsborough county is learning a valuable lesson in waste with its road to Manatee county going to pieces almost by the time it is laid, while a real road in Manatee county is standing up under every demand. We'd like to know who wasted the money—the state when it paid $30,000 per mile for a road that is being used now and gives every indication of being usable twenty years from now—or Hillsborough county, which spent $20,000 per mile for a road that is gone the first year.

With every man admitting that the department isn't responsible for high prices of roads and agreeing that we will have to pay that $30,000 per mile if we want roads that last as long as the bonds, the question arises suddenly, "Why not?"

All this "vast" sum of money that the state road department is to receive the coming year will build only 100 miles of road.

Miami wants that 100 miles and the hundred will hardly be noticed if it went to the East Coast.

Tampa wants them, but they won't even link the West Coast metropolis with Gainesville.

Fort Myers wants them, but even if she could spend it all, would still be unable to get comfortably to Tampa.

Arcadia thinks it would be grand to put them on Road No. 2, but the whole $30,000 wouldn't reach beyond Bartow.

Avon Park would just love to have them all—but the whole sum wouldn't complete the cross-state highway—No. 8.

Jacksonville cries for extending its concrete highway west from Lake City, but it wouldn't reach Tallahassee.

It would take the entire sum to bring a smile to Pensacola's lips, and then the smile would leave when the total ran out in the middle of nowhere and left miles of sand ahead.

What are you going to do about it? Can you imagine spreading the pittance all over a 2,500-mile system and pleasing anybody?

Hardly, and that is why everybody seems grouchy. And that is the biggest reason today for sectional jealousy in Florida. Forget it.

It is impossible! Then it needs it! That $3,000,000 per year can be made to build the entire state road system—NOW, not tomorrow. That $3,000,000 per year can be made to please everybody.

Building 2,500 miles of state highway would cost $75,000,000. But the state has built nearly 500 miles of these already and counties have built close to 1,000 miles. That leaves about 1,000 miles and there would cost $45,000,000—and the entire six-road system would be complete.

The interest on state bonds would cost less than $2,000,000 per year, leaving $1,000,000 per year in the sinking fund, which would retire the bonds in about thirty years.

You and I would be able to ride these roads, too. But as it stands now our grand-children MAY be able to get somewhere in comfort. That you and I could enjoy them is only one reason for building these roads now—by state bonds.

Another good reason is that the state can borrow money for 4 per cent, while our counties are compelled to pay 6 1/2 and 6 per cent, representing a savings of nearly one-third of a million dollars per year.

With such a program—and with such volume only—we can hope to reduce this $3,000,000 per mile cost. With such a program we could invite the biggest builders, the world to bid, and with world-wide competition prices might fall—they undoubtedly would, because builders could buy the entire output of rock pits, buy entire shiploads of asphalt and buy concrete by the train-load.

And why should we doubt it? The legislature could make absolutely sure. They could order preliminary surveys made. They could place adequate data before responsible engineers and determine the cost almost before hand. They could stipulate what each road was to get, and that the roads must be completed with the funds at hand. They could stipulate a fair basis for refunding the $10,000,000 to those counties that have already built their state roads—such counties as Polk, Dade, Hillsborough, Palm Beach, Orange, Lake and others. All this detail could be figured out in advance and written into the law. There would be nothing left for these departments but to follow the law. There would be almost no possibility of failure. We'd get roads, where stipulated, how stipulated and at stipulated terms.

Then, when the data before us, all Florida could vote intelligently on the program. It would then be a question of roads or no roads.

And Why Shouldn't This Appeal to All Florida? South Florida would have no kick—not a basis for even a yawn. At absolutely no more cost than now, it would receive at one swoop all the roads for which it is crying. And the rank injustice of the past—when they have had to build their own roads—would be rectified.

North and West Florida would not be entitled to a single protest for they would have long wanted the much needed highway from Pensacola to Jacksonville, and Escambia county, which has built its own roads from $3,000,000 bond issue, would have a just share refunded.

All Florida would have no right to raise a howl because a half dozen inlets into the state would be opened at once, permitting traffic to flow in and out at will, and the world would rise up and admire Greater Florida's progress; half the nation would hasten here each winter to enjoy them, and all Florida would be the best paved state in the world.

It would be worth $3,000,000 a year in publicity. That would be $3,000,000 a year clean profit.

Today we have $3,000,000 per year of what almost looks like waste. The gain would be $6,000,000 and no increase in taxes.

PLANT A GARDEN DURING FIRST WEEK IN NOVEMBER

Auxiliary garden week or beautification week has been authorized for Florida during the first week in November by the National Garden Week Association, as a result of recommendations by the Jacksonville Florists and Gardeners Club. The national week was during April, and Florida received credit for doing more than any other state at that time, but autumn is our usual planting time. The Florida Development Board recommends observance of garden planting week next month, so that the Land of Flowers may have many beautiful gardens during the winter and spring months, while our visitors are here. The November issue of the National Garden Magazine will have a special article about Florida flowers and an announcement of auxiliary garden week for Florida.

The company also took over the Jesse Gearing farm on Bonnet lake, and will at once transfer the dairy to the new concern, under cultivation, and they propose to raise all the green vegetables here that the city can use.

DR. R. J. McMURRAY, PIONEER SEBRING CITIZEN, PASSES ON

Dr. R. J. McMurray, one of Sebring's pioneer physicians, died suddenly Sunday morning at 4:30 o'clock, from heart trouble. He had been ill since his return from an auto trip north, two weeks before, the long drive having proved to much for him. Several times his condition was extremely critical, though he was apparently on the road to recovery, and on the Friday and Saturday preceding his death, he had been out in his car, even driving it himself one day. The fire alarm, which was turned in for the packing house fire, is believed to be directly responsible for his death, for he was taken immediately to the heart attack that resulted fatally.

Robert John McMurray was born in Cincinnati, O., Feb. 15, 1863. He entered the medical profession early in life, and continued in active practice until his death. He spent most of his life in Ohio, Ill., moving later to St. Francisville, Ill. In 1878 he was united in marriage to Josephine Ramsey. A daughter Alice, now Mrs. Brian, was the only surviving child born to this union, one child having died in infancy. His widow, Mrs. Josephine, and three grand-children, Arzelia, Josephine and Samuel Brian all of this city, survive him. Three brothers and a sister also remain to mourn his loss: George McMurray of Madison, Ind.; Ed McMurray of South Dakota; Charlie McMurray of Kansas City, and Mrs. Alice English of South Dakota. Ten years ago he came to Sebring while it was still in its pioneer stage and invested heavily in citrus holdings and real estate. He had been one of the town's staunch citizens, and a loyal supporter of its best interests. After a brief funeral service at the house Monday morning, read by Rev. L. A. Griggs of the Methodist church, the body was taken to St. Francisville, Ill., for interment, accompanied by the widow and daughter, E. O. Douglas, en route on their journey. The three grand-children will be guests in the Douglas home until the return of their mother and grandmother.

DEVANE SHOWS STREAKS TO FIVE HUNDRED PEOPLE

Of its surroundings make it particularly appealing to the sportsman as a home site. This impression was given Wednesday by the fact that some of the local huntsmen had run a black bear through a grove within two miles of the depot, and the story of how the same party had killed two bear a short time ago. One of the local sports offered to place a wager that he could show any of the crowd the sign of a lair within a mile of the town within an hour's time, while similar statements were made in regard to the sign of a lair within a mile of the town within an hour's time, while similar statements were made in regard to the sign of a lair within a mile of the town within an hour's time, while similar statements were made in regard to the sign of a lair within a mile of the town within an hour's time.

Following the speaking, "Paddy" Waldron staged an auction. Under the auctioneer's hammer some twenty four lots were sold for a total of some $10,000.

PURPOSE OF CITRUS SALES AGENCIES

Florida's citrus crops are now marketed by two score and more fruit selling organizations. Each operates independently of the others. Each is conducted for a particular purpose.

Briefly, they can be classed into three groups: The privately-owned agency, which buys fruit outright from the grower; the privately-owned agency which sells fruit for a commission, and the grower-owned co-operative marketing organization of the more than one hundred associations of the Florida Citrus Exchange.

The fruit buyer gives the grower as little as he can for his crop. He buys it on speculation, to sell it at a profit. If he pays the grower too much one year, he recovers next season by paying him less. To live, he must make a profit out of the grower's fruit.

Similarly the privately-owned selling agency operates to make profit; to be able to pay dividends to its stockholders. If its selling charge retained from the sale of fruit went to actual marketing expenses, the agency would not be able to exist. It must make profit out of its selling charge, even though it must spend less than it should for the profitable marketing of fruit to be able to do so.

Neither of these types is in any way controlled by the growers. Both speculate in selling the grower's fruit, often flooding markets and causing lower prices. Neither of these two classes of agencies is obligated to develop new citrus markets, or equipped to win new consumers for Florida fruit, so as to provide profitable outlet for the producer's increasing crops. Should hard times beset the citrus industry, they are not obligated to continue to handle the grower's fruit. When there is no profit in fruit selling, they can always desert the farmer.

The Florida Citrus Exchange, representing a third type of agency, operates to sell the fruit for the grower at the highest possible price and to return to him every penny of profit made in each transaction. It can do business in this way because it is owned and controlled by the growers it serves. In this service it is continually endeavoring to establish orderly marketing and to stabilize prices. In protecting the interests of its grower-members, it must work to develop new markets, create new consumer demand, provide outlets for larger production of citrus fruit and maintain profitable prices for the producer. It can be relied upon by the grower in times of need, for it is the grower's own organization, and is absolutely subject to his commands.

The fruit buyers and commission concerns operate to make money out of the grower.

The Florida Citrus Exchange operates to make money for the grower.

There are six thousand Florida Growers regularly selling their fruit through the Florida Citrus Exchange. You, too, can join this co-operative movement, get the full price your fruit sells for on the market and wield an influence in the upbuilding and stabilization of your industry. Communicate with the Finance Office of the Florida Citrus Exchange, or any affiliated sub-exchange or association, for further information.

CHILDS

Pessimism is often more helpful than blind optimism. There is an old but never-ending story... A crop becomes known as very profitable and then everybody piles into the boat and overloads it. The result is painful. Anyone who advises growers to put all their eggs in the commercial citrus bag, from now on, is a blind optimist, recklessly doing a bit towards overloading the citrus boat.

All the proof needed is the statement that 55,000 acres of new citrus groves are coming into bearing with thousands more being planted every year.

Those 55,000 acres of citrus trees only need a few years to reach the low average yield of 300 boxes per acre, a total of 16,500,000 boxes, thus doubling last year's crop from the whole state and to which must be added a great increase from the older groves also, for a grove's yield increases until it is 35 years old.

Allowing for a 10 per cent population gain every five years, still the question arises: In the dear buying public going to double its orange ration every five years just to accommodate the enormous rate of grove making?

The law of supply and demand is plainly going to shake down the citrus values and profits to a level with other crops. The difficulty in selling the last grapefruit crop in spite of all the new canning factories is a sample of what is coming.

Turn to the almost empty and highly profitable avocado, tree blueberry, grape and fig boats and benefit yourself and the citrus industry.

The new Childs observation tower does a steady business on Sundays. The scribe has appointed himself fee collector and young ladies will be charged one dollar for admission. Putting parties will be allowed on the tower on payment of the first squeeze. Any girl who refuses to pay these moderate charges will have to ascend without paying, that's all. That is the best we can do for 'em.

Mr. Waters had a serious accident last week while riding to Fort Meade. At a narrow part of the road his car crashed with another Ford containing a couple, who were injured, as was Mr. Waters. The other car's repairs will cost $150, but Mr. Waters' car probably can not be repaired.—H. G. F.

Everything Wiped Out

The scene was right here. It was Saturday morning. Firemen and volunteer civilians had beat out the flying embers and sparks from what the day before had been a theater and a shoe fixery.

A man stood looking at the black and smoldering debris where yesterday had been his business. A kind and sympathetic neighbor approached. The man turned, pointing to the ruins. "There," he said, "are twelve years of toil, sacrifice and savings. Lost—all lost—and no insurance to replace it."

HE WAS CLEANED OUT

That's why you should insure your home and its furnishings NOW. Or, if already insured, increase your policy to amount of replacement in these days of high costs.
