CULLING ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS WITH POULTRY

When a horse, cow or any other animal becomes unprofitable the farmer is almost certain to get rid of it. Still many farmers as well as specialty poultry keepers persist in keeping a number of hens that have not laid an egg in months and probably will not lay until next spring, their regular season.

For this reason many farmers say that poultry raising is not profitable. H. B. Lansden, poultryman of the Division Agricultural Extension, recently conducted a culling demonstration on a farm where 165 hens were being fed a high priced feed.

As Mr. Lansden entered the yard the farmer said, "I wish you would take them all. There's nothing in the chicken business."

"How much are you getting for eggs?" was Mr. Lansden's reply.

"Thirty-five cents, but that is not the trouble. It costs me thirty cents a dozen to produce the eggs."

"I should not cost you over eighteen cents, because about six pounds of balanced ration is usually the amount required to produce a dozen eggs. I invite you to assist me in culling your flock, and you will most certainly see a remarkable change."

It was found that only half of the hens were laying, so after the culling the farmer was able to produce the same amount of eggs on half as much feed.

All hens beginning to molt with a dry, rough, cold comb, yellow legs, hard contracted abdomen and a small yellow, pinched vent were removed from the flock. Those with a bright, full, soft, waxy comb, dry, rough and broken plumage, white legs, loose skin, soft and pliable abdomen and a large, white and moist vent were retained.

The owner of the farm was advised to repeat this performance September 1st, and told that by carrying out this culling for three generations he would have a flock laying strain able to produce eggs at eighteen cents a dozen. He is well pleased.

WINODAUSS CLUB HONORS MISS RIGDON

Mrs. Ada Muff entertained the Winodaus Club Wednesday night at her home on Oak avenue, in honor of Mrs. Fannie Rigdon who is leaving soon for her new home in Fort Lauderdale. Laskies of purple bougainvillea formed the keynote of the decorations, and made the house lovely. After a short business meeting the remainder of the evening was given over to a social time. Mrs. Rigdon talked briefly on the organization of the Winodaus Club, saying that it had been her hobby to have some organization which might be a part of the Eastern Star, and which would look after the social, financial and cultural side of the club, and the felt that its success during its two years of activity amply assured its continuance. Voicing her regret at leaving she said that the memories of the pleasant association she has always enjoyed with the members would be most sorely missed. Mrs. Geary, the first president, spoke on the work accomplished, and urged that the co-operation be continued far to the officers be continued for the best good of the organization. Other informal talks followed, Mrs. Muff closing by presenting Mrs. Rigdon with a large bouquet, expressing the love and regard of the club. An amusing contest was then put on, the object being to see who could carry the most beans in the way prescribed. Most of the contestants squallied but none ever, and the prize went to Mrs. William Werner. Those present were Mrs. E. Lawrence, Mrs. E. L. Par, Mrs. R. O. Baker, Mrs. J. W. Rick, Mrs. P. O. Van Noy, Mrs. William Werner, Mrs. U. D. Kirk, Mrs. Edith Werner, Mrs. Walter Scott, Mrs. A. C. Felt, the hostesses, Mrs. Fannie Rigdon and the hostess, Mrs. Ada H. Muff.

ETIQUETTE by FLO

Readers desiring personal points of Etiquette or heart affairs may write Flo, care of the newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Flo: Does an invitation to a church wedding require a reply? Who should reply for the bride? (2) Should the bride's maid dress? (3) Should the groom buy the flowers for the bridesmaids? Thanks.

It is not necessary to reply to a wedding invitation that does not include a card to the breakfast or reception. (2) At the coming of the bridesmaids should by their own costume. The bride may buy one article, if she wishes, such as the hat. (3) The groom usually orders flowers sent to the bridesmaids at the same time he orders those for the bride.

Dear Miss Flo: Please tell me the correct way to eat salad when served in a bowl with an extra plate and tablespoon. (2) At the coming of a meal should the napkin be folded? If so, what side of the plate should it be placed? Thanks.

(1) A portion of the salad should be placed on the plate. (2) If one is dining at a friend's home, where the table is set with a fork and spoon, the napkin should be folded, as it is used again, but if one expects to be at the table for only one meal, the napkin should not be folded. (3) It should be placed to the right of the plate.

Dear Miss Flo: When one coughs at the table, should the napkin or a handkerchief be used. (2) Is it correct to send engraved invitations when giving a small dinner party of about eight or ten? Thanks.

Never cough into a napkin. If it is necessary to cough at the table use a handkerchief to cover the mouth. The napkin should be used only to wipe lips. (2) When given a small party it is much better form to write the invitations.

Dear Miss Flo: Is it good form to thank the maid when being served? (2) When dining in a restaurant and a friend stops at the table, is it necessary to make introductions? L. S.

One should thank the maid when being served. (2) It is not necessary to make an introduction when the dining is as casual.

In a few years the government will most likely be employing county agents to help the politicians with their problems.

Get your bottle of LEONARD'S ELIXIR in the yellow package. Refuse all substitutes. At all druggists.

Can you keep a secret? Secret Tag is played the same as regular tag, except that you can't tell who's "it" until he is touched. After the players have been counted, get the same number of sticks and throw them into a box with one specially marked. Then have all of the kiddies draw a stick out of the box without looking or showing it to the others. The one who draws the marked stick is "it" and he tries quietly to touch another player. Each player, of course, not knowing who is "it" tries to keep away from all of the others and the one who is "it" will try to "tag" other as quietly as possible so that he in turn will not be known.

What is the Prettiest Fruit? Why cherries of course! Plump little cherries glowing with ruby color, aren't they just the prettiest things? Can't you imagine how good they'll taste made up into juicy cherry tarts like this:

2 cups of soft-ripening flour,
6 tablespoons shortening,
1-3 cup cold water,
1 quart pitted cherries.

Roll shortening into flour very lightly with finger tips; add water slowly enough to make stiff dough. Line pan with pastry and let some of the cherries come within the edges.

Bake in a hot oven for about 15 minutes then fill with cherries which have been washed and pitted. Cover with a syrup made of 2 cup sugar and 1 cup cherries added to 2 cups of boiling water. Bring to a boil and strain; add one tablespoon cornstarch which has been mixed with a little cold water. Cook over hot fire for a minute or two stirring constantly; remove and beat hard—return to slow fire and cook until thick. Pour over cherries while hot.

CONTROL MEALY BUGS WITH LADY BEETLES

A shipment of a lady beetle has just been received by the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station from California. This beetle has been doing some good work in California, controlling mealy bugs.

It is hoped that it will be helpful in checking the Florida mealy bug, which is occasionally quite destructive in citrus groves. Last summer they caused a loss of thousands of dollars.

Mealy bugs are rather scarce at present and there is not enough of them to feed the lady beetles and chrysalis through the summer. The Experiment Station is appealing to the citrus growers to send in specimens of mealy bugs if it is possible to raise the lady beetles in captivity. Growers who furnish the mealy bugs will be given the first option on the colonies that will be sent out over the state.

Look holes in any business are usually responsible for failure in that business. This applies to farming and poultry as well as to commercial and industrial enterprises. Stop that leak.

The fruit crop does not thrive without cultivation. Keep the orchard clean through the summer.

Let's take better care of our farm machines this year. The watchword is clean oil and house.

DELIGHTFUL PORCH PARTY.
Mrs. Earl Hart was the hostess at a very interesting five hundred party Thursday evening at her home. Four tables were in play during the evening.

The porch, where the games were played, was prettily decorated with cut flowers. Refreshing punch was served throughout the evening and at the conclusion of the games delicious fruit cream with cake was served the guests.

Mrs. Joe Lander was the fortunate holder of the lucky score card and as prize, was presented with a dainty hand-painted ball, the holder of the gentleman's lucky score card was McKee Elwell, who was given a deck of cards.

The guests on this occasion were Mrs. Fred Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Stamen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reck, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lander, Mr. and Mrs. D. Mandis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moffett, Joe Lacy, Judge D. V. Rouse and McKee Elwell.

DORCAS CIRCLE MEETS WITH MRS. J. W. EPPERSON.

Bond, Love McGibbey, Curtis Langford, Nove, T. O. Baldwin, E. P. Morrison, W. A. Hatchel, W. J. Epperson and A. D. Roberts.

T. E. L. CLASS MEETING AND SOCIAL.
The T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church held their monthly meeting at Mrs. T. O. Baldwin's home. After the business was finished a social hour was given to all. The hostess served dainty refreshments of pineapple ice cream and two kinds of cakes. Those present were Mesdames E. R. West, T. O.

Baldwin, B. F. Martin, Bond, George Crews, W. A. Capman, S. S. Sargent, Lee and L. C. Hunt. The next meeting will be with Mrs. George Crews.

ANGKA CIRCLE MEETS WITH MISS SAGGUS.
The Angka Circle of the First Baptist Church met with Mrs. Saggus Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Epperson took charge of the meeting after which Mrs. Lee took up the lesson. The two chapters Ezra and Nehemiah were studied as the devotional. The ninth chapter of "All the World in All the Word" was studied and discussed by all. We are finding this book very interesting and profitable to us all. The next meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock with Mrs. George Crews. Those present were Mesdames R. B. McCollough, Clinton Skipper, Jim Gaines, Don Epperson, S. S. Sargent, Mary Whitehair, Horace Garner, T. J. McGinnis, Geo. Crews, J. J. Channan, Ray Marsh, J. M. Lee, L. C. Hunt.

MRS. RECK ENTERTAINS AT LOVELY PARTY.
One of the most elaborate social affairs of the midsummer was given by Mrs. Herbert Reck when she entertained the Bridge Club and other guests at her attractive home Wednesday afternoon.

The spacious home was especially beautiful for the occasion. The room was thrown on suite and pink crepe myrtle, hibiscus and beautiful pink roses were prettily arranged in vases and baskets about the room, further enhancing the scene.

Bridge and five hundred were played and the games proved very interesting. Punch was served during the play. At the conclusion of a most delightful afternoon a delectable salad course was served, consisting of salad and sandwiches, with feed tea and individual cherry pie with whipped cream following.

The guest list included Mesdames H. E. Godwin, Earl Hart, P. L. Rumpus, C. F. Skipper, C. J. Anderson, C. M. Moffett, Trent, North, Smith, T. O. Baldwin, E. P. Morrison, West, Demos Mandis, H. A. Able, Gilbert Freeman, H. A. Winter, J. S. Francis, Y. H. Hart, H. R. String, fellow, L. H. Park, Williams, Thomas, W. C. Toehout, D. C. Campbell, A. Marshall, Joe Lander, L. C. McKee, Fred Smith and Mrs. Saggus. Mesdames S. S. Sargent, Anderson and Mrs. D. DeF. Harris came in for tea.

MISS GERTRUDE HARRIS HONOREE AT PARTY.
Miss Gertrude Harris was the party heroine at a delightful picnic given for her by her mother, Mrs. Lucile Harris, last Friday evening.

The merry party motored out to Lake Letta about four-thirty in the afternoon and there enjoyed a swim in the cool refreshing water of the lake. After the dip a very delectable picnic lunch was served. The young people feasted on sandwiches, various kinds of salads, cake and all the other delights necessary for a real lakeside lunch.

There followed a blazing bon-fire, where were roasted amidst much fun making and at nine-thirty the party returned to the house and enjoyed the evening at the theatre.

The guests were Mesdames Gertrude Harris, Lucile Harris, Cannon, Wilma Roberts, Dorothy Baldwin, Lois Hargis, Margaret Hargis, Edna Hinder, and Messrs. T. J. McGinnis, Joe Underwood, Roscoe Hargis, E. H. Roberts and the hostess, Mrs. Harris.

TAMPANS ENTERTAIN AT DANCE.
One of the most delightful dances of the summer season was given by the Tampans at the home of Mrs. Mima Moseley, last Friday evening. The guests were Mesdames Lucile Harris, Edna Hinder, and Messrs. T. J. McGinnis, Joe Underwood, Roscoe Hargis, E. H. Roberts and the hostess, Mrs. Harris.

DINNER PARTY AT LOON VILLA.
Mr. Earl Loon was the hospitable host Sunday at his beautiful home, Loon Villa, in Babson Park, when he entertained friends at a delectable chicken dinner.

A four course dinner was served at midday and the guests enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon. Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Masters, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hughes, and Miss Martha Park of Avon Park. Misses Mildred Smith and Gwendolyn Seale of Ft. Meade and Jack Seale, Clyde Namy and Mark Lance of Avon Park and the host.

BACHAND-HENDERSON.
Mosce E. Henderson and Miss Agnes Bachand were united in marriage on Saturday, August 8, at St. Tucker, the Justice of Peace, performed the ceremony.

MRS. MARSHALL ATTENDS FIVE HUNDRED PARTY.
Through error the name of Mrs. W. A. Marshall was omitted from the guest list of those attending the Five Hundred Club which was entertained by Mrs. Earl Hart, Tuesday of last week.

Thrifty Tips FOR THE HOME

The Summer Tip:
This summer tip is to keep your refrigerator clean and free of all germs. It is in your refrigerator that you keep your food safe.

Fruit Tart: When baking fruit tarts rub the bottom crust with the white of an egg. This will prevent the juice from soaking through.

Iodine Stains: To remove iodine stains from starched material soak stained parts in ammonia diluted with water.

Kitchen Towels: When washing kitchen towels add a little borax to the water. This borax removes the dirt and grease, gives a good color and acts as a disinfectant.

Burn: The white of an egg applied to a burn or a scald will stop the pain.

Salt: If too much salt has been added to any dish add a little sugar and just a drop or two of vinegar. The salt is then taken away the salty taste.

Rust: Rub kerosene on your kitchen sink to remove rust.

Patty: To keep patty soft add a little olive oil.

equals the total membership of the Senate and House—361. In voting it is to be recalled that the people vote for the electors of their states, these names appearing on the ballot, and not the Coolidge or Davis or La Follette.

The Constitution provides that a majority of electors must choose one of the electors, the person having the greatest number of votes, of course, was when there are only two candidates in the field, but will complicate the matter.

Here is the constitutional clause: "The person having the greatest number of votes (in the Electoral College) for President shall be the President."

Now let us turn to the situation. If the candidate receiving merely a majority of electoral votes could be chosen, then the entry of La Follette into the field would be a serious matter.

to see how delicate is the present situation. If that year the electoral college stood 273 for Wilson and 224 for Hughes. A third party candidate controlled by a coalition of the 13 electoral votes of California, would have thrown the election into the House.

How many electoral votes La Follette will control as a result of the coming election is something for political writers to figure on. It may be something for the two dominant parties to consider seriously.

La Follette supporters are claiming he will carry between eight and sixteen states. He had carried only Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana, each of which would likely prefer either Coolidge or Davis from winning the necessary electoral vote to elect the president. Even one state might prevent a majority.

Mary Sue is a little bride who is just learning how to cook and how to make things. She even attempts to touch an egg like a real cook. She is making things. Well she did show me a new way to fry apple fritters the other day and we had 'em for lunch. They were delicious and this is the way she showed me: Sift a cup and a half of self-rising flour and add a pinch of salt. Make a smooth paste and add two medium sized apples cut in slices and sprinkle with sugar and dip in batter. Drop into deep fat and fry until a golden brown.

Sallie's Temptations

INTRODUCING SALLIE

Sallie is a modern, pretty young creature, with all the emotions and desires you yourself had when you were at that tender age that is somewhere between sixteen and twenty-five.

Again, she is your own daughter or the daughter of your very best friend. In other words, there is some one dear to you with the same wealth of sentiment, the same eternal struggle between "right" and "wrong," and underneath it all, that innate desire to "do right" that God creates in all our little girls—that prompting spirit called conscience to be tenderly nurtured and made strong by clean thoughts and actions or left to grow lax and imperfect as a weed.

Sallie is everywhere. The eyes of the world are upon the ultimate outcome of her moral code. Is she going to weaken her creed of right and wrong and stretch her philosophy of life to that of the girls who have a "good time"?

In this day of cigarettes, cocktails and corsets parked at the dance, your little girl is just where Sallie is. She must decide for herself. Your protecting arms cannot reach to her when problems arise. Do not be too smug and self-satisfied about your daughter being "different" from the rest of the crowd. They are all Sallies at heart. Perhaps Sallie's own experience, put down in the pages of her own life, will help your Sallie to pause before she rushes headlong into the cataclysm that yawns today for every young girl.

Astronomy—Yes—and Ted Billings. "Let's put out of here," said Ted Billings, as he cut in on a dance. The orchestra was playing a divine fox-trot and the telephone was laughing like a big, fat man.

"Duck out the side door before that bird breaks on us; he's been rushing you all evening," I nodded my head. We dashed hurriedly and with a purpose the width of the ballroom, and out through the door, still keeping time to the music as we crossed the porch. Here and there in the shadows, couples were grouped in pairs and they called out gaily to us as we passed.

Ted piloted me by the arm to his car, which was parked quite a distance from the club at the edge of the golf course.

"I always stop here," he announced, "a good place to take a nap, and besides, it's nice and cool to be away from the rest of the gang. Isn't it, dear?" He squeezed my arm and opening the door we sat down on the back seat of his beautiful closed car.

Instantly he produced a flask and from the pocket of the car a bottle and two glasses. "See what a thoughtful little boy I am," said Ted; "cold ginger-ale for the ladies."

I propped my silver-shoed feet on the little seat of the car and sighed contentedly. The moon sailed full and clear followed by a coterie of little clouds that were puffs of dark-blond chiffon from the trousseau of a bride. A soft breeze played in the palms; it even reached up to the little clouds and teased them faster and faster.

"Snap out of it," interrupted Ted, passing me a tall glass. "That's fine stuff, Sallie. Came off an English vessel that just heaved into port."

IT WAS good. Then, too, I knew the faint glow of assurance and well being that I had begun to look forward to and enjoy.

"That's some dress, Sallie," Ted said, "but I'd hate like the deuce for you to sneeze. He tested the narrow strap of brilliant that held it on. His fingers against my flesh were warm."

"You've got the 'skin they love to touch' all right," said Ted. "It's like rose petals and velvet and all those things."

"Same old line," I laughingly replied. "Line, nothing," he put his arm around me. "You know perfectly well you go to my head. Maybe it's that darn perfume you use. What is it, Sallie? Blue-bottle? Well, there's nothing blue about this one for us, is it, beautiful?" He held me just a bit closer and every now and then we heard strains of music borne to us on the breeze. They were playing my favorite waltz. It was comfy to be way off from the crowd. I let my head rest against his arm. I liked Ted. He did everything with such an air, and although his reputation was a little off, it didn't make much difference. He was everywhere and the Billings had more money than anybody in town.

Ted began to hum. "She laid more eggs than any hen on the farm."

Another little "drink won't do us any harm."

"Well, how 'bout it? Say when," he continued, pouring a second drink from the flask.

"Bottoms up," directed Ted, and both glasses went up together and down, bumping at the same time.

"You're a good sport, Sallie," answered Ted. "Give me a drag. He took my cigarette and I lit another from it for I enjoy one after a drink more than any other time."

"I say, Sallie, did you ever see the lady in the moon?" Ted must have had a drink earlier for he was talking rather slowly—more slowly than before.

"No, I never did. Show it to me. Won't you?" I begged.

"Will it? Can a duck swim? How, ever, you'll have to do everything I say." He looked at me. "Are you ready?"

"Right-o; go ahead." We faced the moon. It was so lovely and seemed to be getting prettier every minute.

Now, Sallie, Ted commenced, "you're the lady and I'm the moon. You mustn't move." He tilted my face up toward the moon and crooned. "She's on the right hand side and that cloudy spot in her hair. She's old-fashioned, Sallie, or she's have it bobbed."

His hand still cupped my chin. I giggled. We WERE having a good time.

"Pay attention now, Sallie; this is a serious affair," admonished Ted. "Now you see her aerie, you've made out her hair, there's her nose and mouth—fantasy, now, Sallie, the man's on the other side—and their lips meet."

He kissed me. "I looked quickly to the side of the car, Anne Coddington was standing there. No telling how long she had been an onlooker. I had rather it had been any one but Anne. I wondered what Ted would say. He laughed indifferently and climbed out of the car. I could have died. (Continued Next Week)

AUNT JINNY LEES

PLANTATION RECIPES

"Way back in the days of Civil War, soldiering gingerbread was used as a dainty for 'training day.' In Grandmother Fairfax's old cook book it is called 'Gingerbread for Training Day.' But they couldn't get very good ingredients then, so we have taken her same recipe but with our own materials and have made wonderful gingerbread like this: Pour a half cup of butter and cool. Then add one cup of molasses, a teaspoon of ginger and enough self-rising flour to roll. Wet the top with molasses that has been slightly diluted with warm water and sprinkle sugar over it. Cut sheet into squares."

New Use for Apple Sauce.
I reckon apple sauce don't hit the spot with some folks 'cause it's so tart. It can taste mighty good though when it's made up into an apple sauce cake. I've got a nice little recipe for it—something like this: Cream 1/2 cup of shortening with 1 1/2 cups of sugar and add 1 well-beaten egg and 1 1/2 cups of sweetened and sifted apple sauce. Sift together 2 1/2 cups of self-rising flour, 1/4 teaspoon cloves, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg and 2 teaspoons of cinnamon. Add 1 cup of raisins with 1/2 cup of flour. Combine the mixture, adding the nut and raisin mixture last.

A house that is well planned, perfectly convenient and comfortable will also be beautiful.

FIRST TRUST AND SAVINGS COMPANY

This Week

By Arthur Brisbane

short ago it seemed a wise, almost a necessary, thing to say four thousand words of said.

Great moderation and self-control, you say. Yet in thirty-one verses of the first and two verses of the second chapters of Genesis, the Bible describes the creation of earth and everything on it. And the whole thing, including the rest on the seventh day, is told in about ONE thousand words.

For brevity and beauty, candidates, editors, and especially advertisement writers should study the Bible, especially Genesis, Job, Isaiah, and the Sermon on the Mount. Any presidential candidate might make an acceptance speech pleasing to 99 in 100 in three words, as follows: "MEN ABOVE DOLLARS."

Salesmen are pouring into the Northwest farming districts to sell goods that stores will soon be selling, thanks to high prices for wheat.

Stocks are going up, especially railroad stocks. That has importance for everybody. It means that intelligent characters are good times ahead.

Railroads seem to be the "lamb" of our Government, and it remembers the inference "Feed my lambs." Recently, when the farmer was particularly lambent, some of his lambs in the Northwest closing their doors, etc., it was suggested that railroads might reduce freight rates, at least on farm products.

But with wheat going up, the Interstate Commerce Commission says the value of farm crops will increase a thousand million dollars this year. Therefore, NO reduction in freight rates.

The world hears with amazement of two French fliers setting a new "duration mark" staying up 37 hours 59 minutes 10 seconds. Put this clinging away for your great-grandchildren. They will see a round a world machine, coming down perhaps once a year for complete overhauling, landing passengers from smaller machines above Paris, London, Yokohama, Bombay, New York, "All out." And the trip all the way around will be made in twenty-four hours—only 1,000 miles an hour.

GETTING PICTURES FOR FOLDERS FOR HIGHLANDS COUNTY AND AVON PARK

Pictures for the new Highlands county folder as well as for the new Avon Park folder are being secured this week. Geis Murgert, from Buget Brothers in Tampa making tours of the county for the purpose, and Gilbert Freeman took him to the Horseshoe Ranch Tuesday and a number of wonderful pictures were secured. Wednesday T. V. Conway and Mrs. N. V. B. Horn took him to the south end of the county and Thursday afternoon he goes to Lake Childs to finish what the rain interfered with Wednesday.

Thursday morning was devoted to pictures for the Avon Park folder, a number of fine scenes being taken in and about Avon Park.

Paint Brushes: To remove dried paint from paint brushes, soak the brush for one night in water to which has been added one teaspoonful of soda. Wash the following day in plenty of warm, soapy water. If this does not take the paint out, soak the brush in equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine.

Whip Cream: If whipped cream is scented with a teaspoonful of honey instead of sugar, it will have a better flavor and will stay stiff longer.

Fast milking, with the cow and milker comfortable and at ease, pays best.

Let your school building be a social center and you will have a better community spirit.

Is Dempsey Through?

A passing spectator side-swiped Jack Dempsey's sedan—putting his car in the ditch and the champion in the hospital with a lacerated right arm. The boxing world is now wondering if Jack's "breadwinner" will carry the same old wallop.

Pee Gee MASTIC PAINT

Paint Stops Decay Reduces Repair Bills

IT is a pretty well known fact that paint is a preservative. What science has preached, experience has confirmed. Paint used at regular intervals, is a relentless foe of decay, which, if unopposed, is certain. It lessens the upkeep of your property and reduces repairs to a minimum.

Pee Gee Mastic Paint has been on the firing line over half a century protecting homes, barns, and outbuildings. Its great covering capacity and long years of service have become a proverb—"Wear like Mastic." You hear it whenever good paint is talked of. Retains its luster long after ordinary paints have "gone dead."

"... He took my arm and opened the door, we sat down on the back seat of his beautiful car. Instantly he produced a flask, and from the pocket of the car a bottle and two glasses."

"See what a thoughtful little boy I am," said Ted; "Ginger Ale for the ladies."

"I propped my silver-slipped feet on the little seat of the car and sighed contentedly. 'That's some dress, Sallie,' said Ted; 'but I'd ...'"
