AVON PARK, FLORIDA, SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1938

SINGLE COPY: FIVE CENTS

Reeves Urges School Pupils Register Early

Term Opens At 10 A. M. Monday, September 5

By STANLEY N. REEVES
Principal

The 1938-39 term of Avon Park school opens at 10 o'clock Monday morning, September 5. All students are requested to report to the school auditorium at this hour. Room assignments will be made at this time. Parents are asked to please refrain from making requests for students to be in any specific teacher's room. The students will be placed in a room where they will be able to secure the best instructions for each individual child. It is requested that the parents please leave, in so far as possible, the selection of rooms to the teachers and principal.

All high school students should report to the principal's office sometime between Wednesday morning at 9, August 31, and Friday at 4, September 2, to arrange their schedule and secure their texts. This will greatly relieve the rush Monday, Sept. 5.

School will open this year for grades one through four at 8:45 in the morning, with all other students beginning work at 9:30. Lunch hour will be from 12 to 1, with school dismissing in the afternoon for grades one and two at 2, for grades three and four at 3. All regular classes in the high school building will dismiss at 3 in the afternoon. All teachers will be requested this year to remain in their rooms 45 minutes after the classes have been dismissed. This is being done to give the backward student an opportunity of doing special work to the afternoon and making up any work they may have missed due to absence or tardiness.

Students who are late or tardy to classes will be requested to make up all lost time in the afternoon after regular classes have been dismissed. Students who are absent without permission from home and at school will be requested to remain in their classroom 45 minutes each afternoon, until this time has been made up. This plan is being adopted this year for the first time and will be enforced due to many students making low grades by irregular attendance at classes. It is hoped that this will eliminate a great many failures.

New courses to be offered in the high school are: Spanish, Business Arithmetic, Advance Typing, and Office Practice for commercial students. General Social Studies for 9th grade students, with Mr. Wagner's vocational department being completely reorganized. A plan will be worked out in this department whereby many students will be able to take training for a definite job and work part time, for which he will be given school credit. Details of this department will be announced later. All courses of the past year will be continued with the exception of Journalism.

Mr. Roberts has been conducting a summer class for Band, and it is hoped the Band will be augmented by additional members as well as increase and interest of former members.

A health instructor has been employed for the entire school system this year. Miss Jeannette Cook, who will have charge of this work will have complete supervision of all health and play activities throughout the entire school system.

First Grid Session Called for Sept. 1 At Armory

First practice for the Avon Park high school Red Devil football squad has been called for Thursday, September 1, by Coach Arthur Wagner, who writes from Boise City, Oklahoma, that he will be home the latter part of the month to get things under way.

"I want all the boys to meet at the Armory at 3 o'clock (Sept. 1)," he writes, "and bring their own shorts or other practice equipment for the first day. Equipment will be checked out later. I expect to have only one practice a day, though some of the more energetic boys may get on and practice more. Assistant Coach Smith will also be on hand for the first session."

The first scheduled game of the season is with Brewster at Avon Park on October 7, but Pahokee is angling for a game at Pahokee, Coach Wagner said.

Committee Flies With Prospectus To Legislators

Avon Park's offer of a site for the proposed South Florida branch of the state hospital was placed before Pierce Wood, speaker-elect of the House of Representatives and Senator D. Turner Butler, president of the next Senate, by an Avon Park committee last Friday. Going by plane, Commissioner J. Lawler Wells flew with C. E. Lanier, D. G. Perry and Earl Hartt to Tallahassee to see Wood and Jacksonville, where they interviewed Senator Butler.

The committee met with a courteous reception by the heads of both branches of the next legislature, who commented favorably on the location and general excellence of the site as shown by the hospital prospectus recently issued by the committee. Copies of the prospectus are to be delivered in person, where possible, to all members of the legislature. In Avon Park's campaign to secure the southern branch of the state institution located here.

In this connection, J. H. Therrill, superintendent of state hospitals, has accepted an invitation to speak next Wednesday at the Rotary club luncheon, at which time he will give first hand information to Avon Park on hospital affairs.

Avon Flyers Take Spotlight In Air Meet At Orlando

Avon Park airmen stole the show at the Orlando air meet last Sunday. Not only did they have the largest out-of-town representation there, but Wayne Maynard won a spot landing contest in a field of 19 contestants, and J. Lawler Wells gave a demonstration of high speed and slow flying with the Cessna plane, for which he is state distributor. The flyers were treated to a chicken dinner at the Fort Gatlin hotel at the noon hour.

Flying up in three planes were Wayne Maynard, Matt Pilcher, J. Lawler Wells, Marcus Covington, W. E. Morgan of Fort Meade, W. A. Sheffield, Lee Malmsten and Nelson Smith.

The flyers have started a series of air meets to be held at points in Central Florida to promote aviation. Local aviators expect to have the meet here at an early date.

Payne Sebring Enters Race For Judge

Will Run Against McNicholas In Primary

Payne M. Sebring, president of the Sebring city council, qualified late Friday afternoon as a candidate for county judge.

He will oppose T. A. McNicholas of Avon Park in the special Democratic primary to be held September 30 to select a nominee for election in November to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Selwyn Ives.

McNicholas qualified as a candidate last Saturday. Friday, the 26th, was the last day for qualifying.

Sebring is a son of the late George E. Sebring, founder of the city of Sebring. Before election to the city council of his home city, Sebring served as city clerk. He is now engaged in the real estate business. He is not a lawyer and is the first layman to offer for the office of county judge in Highlands county.

Tax Suit May Pave Way For Others to Pay

Pine Crest Seeks To Force City to Settle On County Valuation

A suit filed by attorneys for Pine Crest Lakes Country Club, which seeks to force the city to accept settlement of delinquent taxes on the basis of state and county assessments, if successful, may pave the way for other settlements by "outside" property owners.

The action is based on an old general law passed in 1885, which provides that a municipality shall not assess property for tax purposes for more than is assessed by the state and county. In most instances, the state and county assessment is considerably lower than the city assessment.

Pine Crest, which is a part of the Hitchcock estate, now being settled by administrators, was a party to quo warranto proceedings which have been in court for the past eight years or more. Consequently, city taxes are delinquent since 1928. Under the city plan of settlement taxes for 1935 and prior years can be settled at 50 cents on the dollar, with full payment of 1936 and 1937 taxes. M. C. Whitehurst, attorney for the property, made an offer to the city to settle on the basis of state and county assessments. The offer was refused and the suit to force the city to accept such a settlement ensued.

It is understood that other property owners who have disputed for years the city's right to collect taxes, have expressed willingness to settle on the lower valuations, if the court rules in their favor.

Fireman Green's House Destroyed By Fire Friday

When a fireman puts out a fire, that is a common occurrence, but when a fire puts out a fireman that is news.

The home of Assistant Fire Chief Ellis Green on Bell street was destroyed by fire at about three o'clock Friday morning. The family was away for a visit in North Florida, and Green was on duty at the fire station. Origin of the fire was undetermined. The blaze was discovered by a passerby, who drove to the fire station to turn in the alarm. By the time the fire department arrived, the house was enveloped in flames. The burning and contents were a total loss, partially covered by insurance.

Florida Has Finest Exhibit Technique Says Fair Manager

Florida has developed the finest exhibit technique in the world today and her exhibits as shown in Chicago, Cleveland and Radio City attracted the attention and envy of exhibitionists throughout the country. Earl W. Brown, manager of Florida National Exhibits told Rotarians Wednesday.

An even greater exhibit is being prepared as Florida's contribution to the New York World's Fair in 1939. Brown asked Rotarians to support the exhibit and use their influence to see that Highlands county contributed its share toward the expense of taking the exhibit to New York.

The exhibit, playing in Chicago, Cleveland and New York, received newspaper and magazine advertising to the value of 3 1/2 million dollars, and was given radio advertising to the extent of 1 1/2 million dollars, he said. Thirty-two million people saw the Florida exhibits during the show, a value of a million and a half dollars, he stated.

Three objectives of the exhibit in the past and in the future are: To increase tourist travel to Florida; to increase consumption of citrus fruits and vegetables, and to bring new capital to the state. He told of plans for showing the (Continued on Page Eight)

G. P. Thayers Hurt When Car Hit At Wales Intersection

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Thayer were painfully injured at Lake Wales Thursday afternoon, when their car was struck by a car driven by Miss Eleanor Harlee, a Tampa school teacher, and overturned. Mrs. Thayer was knocked temporarily unconscious by a blow on the head and was badly bruised. Mr. Thayer received a broken collar bone and a gash over the right eye, which required several stitches. Both were taken to a Lake Wales hospital for treatment. X-rays failed to reveal any serious injuries, though both were severely shaken and bruised, it was reported. They were brought home Friday.

According to Stuart Thayer, who was called to Lake Wales following the accident, Mr. and Mrs. Thayer were approaching Lake Wales, about a block south of the city limits, when Mrs. Harlee drove her car head-on into the side of the Thayer car, at a high rate of speed from a side street. The Thayer car was turned over by the impact and practically demolished.

Avon Park's First Woman Settler Passes

Funeral Services At Episcopal Church Saturday

Mrs. Mary A. King, 80, first white woman to become a permanent settler in Avon Park, died at her home on "King's" Hill the night of August 26, following an illness of three weeks. She had been failing in health for several years due to her advanced age.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, the Rev. Richard I. Brown, rector of the church, officiating. Interment will follow in Bougainville cemetery and burial will be beside

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, God has shown infinite mercy has taken unto Himself Mrs. Mary King, our pioneer woman settler, beloved by every one, it seems fitting that Avon Park suspend business for one hour at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, the time of the funeral, as a tribute of respect to this remarkable woman.

The city offices will be closed from 10 o'clock on Saturday morning.

that of her late husband. Honorary pall bearers will include old friends of the family. Those serving will be: S. Donaldson, O. L. Bardill, Charles Overton, Ellis West, M. E. Covington, Norton T. Smith and S. V. Hunning. Active pall bearers will be M. V. Pilcher, Demos Mandis, W. H. Yates, Walter Betts, Wm. Beck, Stuart S. Thayer, Philip Boardman.

Mrs. King was born in Warwickshire, England, April 7, 1858. With her husband, the late William King, she came to Avon Park about 52 years ago from near Stratford-on-Avon in England, from which Avon Park derived its name. They were induced to come here by O. M. Crosby, an Englishman, who founded the town, and they were among the first two or three settlers to arrive. Mrs. King, who has been affectionately referred to as the "Mother of Avon Park," was the first woman to become a permanent settler. Early history reveals that there were other women here from time to time in the year, but she was the first who remained to make her home, and at the time of her death was the city's oldest citizen in point of residence.

The story of the coming of the Kings is largely the story of the town. The Kings, from the start, had a prominent part in the building of the community. They supplied for a time the only accommodation available to new arrivals on the site, and shared in the decision of the enterprise during the absence of Mr. Crosby. Mrs. King served as hostess in Hotel Verona at periods when necessary.

As a pioneer, Mrs. King saw the town's first streets cut out of the pine forests. She witnessed the inauguration of the first stage line

JACK WORTHINGTON

A shining editorial light of Florida has been extinguished. It's brilliancy will no longer dispel the gloom, apprehension and uncertainty of issues and perplexities that encompass us.

Jack Worthington has passed to the Great Beyond.

His paternal guidance will no longer be available to us who have, in the past, learned to depend upon his wise counsel and advice. We, his friends—and they are legion—recognize and appreciate his strict adherence to editorial ethics and his undeviating honesty of purpose. His modesty, success and enviable reputation should serve as an inspiration to us to understand and appropriate his faith in mankind and humble sincerity as the only goal worth while in this game of life.

The passing of Jack Worthington is a severe loss to Florida's Fourth Estate and to the Scenic Highlands—one that will not soon be recompensed, and his memory will forever remind us of aspirations we hope to obtain. He was possessed of a lovable personality; modest, affable, talented, a sincere friend, and honest citizen and a devoted husband. He leaves a legacy the greatest should envy, and all of us should emulate.

Daytona Beach: At the risk of havin' some hard boiled editor come at me with a cry of "lissy," or nominate me for a sanity hearin', I'm gonna tell you what I've been doin' most of the time between meals durin' my vacation.

Now take your hats and hold on tight because this will probably give you a terrible jolt, but believe it or not I've been sittin' 'round in our beach cottage in a pair of red polkadot pajamas, playin' with STAMPS!

You see, it all came about like this: When I was a towheaded kid in knee pants I started a stamp collection and for a few years I sat over a stamp album so much that I darn near got hunched-back. Then I got all messed up with the problem of makin' a livin' and forgot about 'em.

For 30 years or more I live a more or less normal life, accumulate a wife and daughter, some real estate, a nickle-snatchin' business, wear out a half dozen typewriters and several automobiles, and arrive at that stage in life where your hair starts comin' out and your teeth crackin' up only to get bit by the stamp bug all over again.

A couple of years ago my 12-year-old offspring comes along and puts a lot of arms around my neck and asks if she can have a stamp album. Well up to that time I'd been a bum playmate since I couldn't make doll clothes, was a total loss at hop-scotch, but suddenly remembering that I used to collect stamps one time, I gets real enthusiastic, so we go to town and I lavishly spend a dollar for a book, a dime for a mess of sticky knives and fifty cents for a packet of mixed stamps.

We have a swell time identifyin' 'em and findin' their place in the album and before I know it I'm nutty all over again. In no time at all we run out of stamps and have to buy more. First thing you know the darn book is filled up so we have to get a bigger one.

When the kid bumps up against the problem of watermarks, identification of the different kinds of paper, and tries to figure out whether the perforation is 10, 11 or 14, it begins to get beyond her and she turns her attention to collectin' toy dogs.

But by this time I'm up to my neck and I keep on foolin' 'round until I've got six volumes—all of 'em bigger than an old fashioned family Bible—and it takes the whole blamed dinin' room table, leaves and all, to spread 'em out, and also have room for the magnifyin' glasses, watermark trays, hinges, tons, catalogues, perforation gauge, envelopes for duplicates, and a lot of other bric-a-brac that a collector seems to think important when he really goes at it with his hair down.

Every now and then some normal individual will drop by the house and catch me humped over like a skunk eatin' bugs, right in the middle of the mess, and while they don't say anything, I can tell by the look on their faces what they're thinkin'. Then I usually aggravate the situation further by askin' 'em if they want to see "somethin' pretty" and start pawin' frantically through one of the books to show 'em my "Cape of Good Hope Triangles."

Most of 'em are bored to tears naturally, and they try to be polite and say: "My goodness, ain't they funny lookin'-kinda faded—are they good ones?" Then when they can get the missus off in the corner somewhere they'll sympathize with her and want to know how long I've been that way and don't she think I ought to see a doctor or somethin'.

And I suppose it is kind of dumb for a grown man to go gettin' all excited over a flock of cancelled stamps and nobody can understand it unless they have actually been bitten by the bug themselves. But I'm tellin' you that when you really get into it, you go as cuckoo as a clock and it don't make any difference whether you are 16 or 60.

Since I've taken the kid's collection away from her I've had to get her a book of her own, and she's started another collection and is doin' right well on the duplicates her old man manages to hand down to her. She's learned more history and geography from her stamps than she ever did in school. Now that she's become interested again she'll probably figure out a way to take over my collection in her own right, and she always claimed it. But if you think I'm goofy you ought to check on Don Lochner, president of the Press Association, Clayton Codrington, publisher of the Lake City Reporter, and then of course there's President Roosevelt.

FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

By KENNETH FRIEDMAN

The CASTINO MAP, prepared by Albert Castino for the Duke of Ferrara, was delivered to the latter in Italy, accompanied by a note dated November 19, 1500, which fortunately faces very nearly its period of construction. Undoubtedly it is the work of a man who had either been to the New World, or had talked to unknown navigators, probably Spanish, who had been there. It was preserved in the family archives until 1592, when the reigning duke retired to Modena, to which place his library was removed. In 1888, the ducal collection including the precious Castino Map, was transferred to the Biblioteca Estense. It is now generally accepted by leading historians and historical students as the first map of Florida.

If all the CIGARS produced in Tampa since 1900 and through November, 1935, were laid end to end they would have an aggregate length of 915,142 miles—nearly 33 times the circumference of the earth at the equator. End to end they would form three ribbons between this planet and the moon, with enough left over to encircle the earth 4 times. At the present time there are 122 cigar factories in Tampa, employing 9,300 workers, with an annual payroll of approximately $8,000,000.00. The total production for the first 11 months of 1935 amounted to 293,660,013 cigars.

Hannah, Mother of Samuel

A Talk By
THOS. A. MCNICOLAS

(Delivered to the Baptist Men's Class, Avon Park, Sunday, August 21, and published by request of the class.)

The lesson today brings us to the story of a great mother. Great not so much as we define that word today but great in the loftiness of her soul, the humility of her heart and the love of Jehovah God. She was one of the wives of Elkanah, a rich man, owner of much land and many cattle but nevertheless a man of spiritual characteristics. In those days it was the custom among the Hebrews to journey once a year to Shiloh where was kept in the Tabernacle the Ark of the Covenant, that they might worship and make sacrifices unto God. It was also the custom that a man possess as many wives as he might desire, that thus his tribe may increase and become mighty. It was the beginning of the building of nations. Elkanah's other wife was Peninnah, the mother of his children. Hannah was barren, and for this reason, we are told, besides an ardent female jealousy, Peninnah made the life of Hannah miserable with her continual chiding and scolding. Yet Hannah loved Elkanah her lord and master, and her heart was laden with sorrow because of her affliction.

On the journey to the tabernacle Elkanah carried his two wives and his children. These pilgrimages were not confined solely to worship and sacrifice but were much given over to feasting and drinking. And when the festivities were at their height Hannah silently withdrew and as silently entered the temple that she might humble herself before Jehovah, and pray to Him that her affliction might pass away—that she might give to her husband a son.

Medical science neither then, nor now, had so far progressed that it could cure her affliction, and the fact that in due course of time she gave birth to a son, Samuel, must be attributed solely as the answer to an earnest prayer; a miracle, an Act of Divine Providence. But Hannah did not merely pray that she be given a son; with that prayer she made a covenant with God to dedicate that son to His service—not for a limited period of time but for all his days. In other words Hannah promised that she would take that son and so mold and shape his will and character that the love of God would permeate his very soul, and become so overwhelmingly that Samuel would never forsake or forget her teaching.

Hannah Far Sighted

This was indeed a most far-reaching undertaking. She might control the child, but could she control the man? Would her influence reach out beyond the grave and control his actions? And in the fulfillment of this promise is illustrated the power and influence of every mother today to so teach and instruct her child that his character and action throughout life will reflect those teachings, either for good or evil.

It is not necessary for us to discuss the life and career of Samuel; suffice it to say that he rose to sublime heights, became the maker of kings, mighty in the Army of Jehovah, a son who in every way kept the faith of Hannah, his mother, and made complete the vow she in fervent prayer gave to God. But the story of Hannah and her son Samuel affords to us an example to emulate in the raising of our own children that they may be all that we wish them to be in the sight of God and man. Likewise it presents to us an opportunity to compare the life of this mother with our own times and our own conditions.

Good Man—Good Mother

We hear much of what a great man this or that man is or was. We hear little about her who shaped his destiny and built this character. Wherever there is or has been a great or good man, there was an equally great and good mother. It has been said that "an honest man is the noblest work of God." He created man and endowed him with his own free will; man was not created, ordained to be good, or to be bad. I believe the correct statement of the thought expressed should be "an honest man is a monument to a noble mother."

Society's Basic Unit is Home

The foundation of society,—the basic unit,—is the HOME. And it is within the four walls of this Home that the future character and career of the children who are born within it is built. It is a legal fact that the father is the head, the boss of the home, but it is in truth a fact that the "hand that rocks the cradle" is the hand that shapes our destiny.

In this thought I am reminded of the words of the poet:

"The greatest battles that ever were fought,—
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the World you'll find them not,—
For they were fought by the Mothers of men."

Nay, not with sword or battle-shot
Nay, not with eloquent words or thought but Deep in the walled-up woman's heart,

Of women who would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part,

Lo, there is that battle field."

But recently I was called upon to take the affirmative in a debate upon the question "Is the Home Disintegrating,—Breaking Up." I do not believe that I won the victory because the other side got the most votes. But after it was over several came to me to tell me how they enjoyed my talk and would have voted for my side except they didn't want to admit the truth. It is a sad state of affairs when we recognize an existing evil but haven't the courage to admit its existence and gird our loins to fight for its eradication. Such a condition indicates that the fighting faith of our fathers is retreating before the fast moving modernistic age. In that debate, after a few efforts at a display of humor and wit, to make my audience laugh and smile, I got down to the meat in the coconut, and advanced what to my mind, and I still adhere to that belief, was the all-important, fundamental wrong in our present day home life. And mind you no one denied it.

We Are Forgetting God

It was simply that "We are forgetting God." We are living so fast and furiously that we haven't time to entertain Him in our homes. If there was ever a place where He, in our words, thoughts and actions, should be ever-present it is in our Homes, among our own tribe. For as I stated the Home is the unit of the nation, and we are BETTER AND SAFER ROADS: Speaker William B. Bankhead signs the Hayden-Cartwright Road Act as Congressman Cartwright looks on. Recently approved by the Senate and the House and signed by President Roosevelt, this bill allows the expenditure of $349,500,000 up to 1941 for the construction of better and safer highways for the some 29,000,000 motorists throughout the nation.

what our Homes make us.

Home, in all the vocabulary of our English tongue we can find no sweeter syllable. A single breath can give it utterance, but eternity cannot exhaust its meaning. In life it is our nourisher of strength; in death, our vestibule to Heaven. It is dear alike to hope and to memory; to youth and to age, to saint and to sinner. It is the sanctuary of our companionship,—the holy of holies in which we keep our Ark of the Covenant. It is the seat of all love; the Empire of Motherhood.

Faith of Hannah Lacking in Homes

And when the mother in that Home submits herself to the follies of this fast age, when she does not have time to gather her brood around her, and gently teach them "The Lord is my shepherd; upon Him shall I lean, for He has said Come unto me ye that are weary and heavily burdened, and I will give you rest,"—and with them sing the songs that float to Heaven's throne in sacred prayer,—I say when that mother forgets there will not go out of that home to fight the battles of life sons and daughters who shall bring joy and pride to her gray-haired head. If the mother forgets God, the children will not know Him. I say to you the faith of Hannah is sadly lacking in our homes.

No wonder we are told that so many foul crimes are committed by boys and girls still in their teens. How often in my 25 years as a lawyer have I heard them say "If I'd only done what mother asked me to," "or "If mother had only made me go to Church or Sunday School."

It is a sad plight, my friends, to see a young boy or girl in trouble, and to know that the underlying cause was that their parents forgot to teach them about God, forgot to bring God into their homes, and thus mold their lives along the paths of honor and Christianity. But sadly, sadly I say we must admit the truth; admitting the truth we must restore the supremacy of God in our homes, in our lives and before all things. The purchase of the already made garments will not affect the sewing rooms, however, but is merely an extension of the program to obtain clothing and shoes for the states for distribution to needy people. Congress voted to permit the WPA to spend $25,000,000 during 1934 to produce direct relief, which was distinct from the aid to be furnished by the War Relocation Authority. The clothing industry, where unemployment was increasing and many factories not operating because the market was glutted with goods, was not to be helped. The clothing did not have the money to buy it. Up to $15,000,000 will be spent in this way, buying clothing by competitive bidding, with the money to be paid in by the private industry organized to examine the goods. About $9,900,000 will be spent for more than a million suits and heavy coats for men and women. The clothing will be sold just under $8. About 300,000 units

WAGE HOUR ADMINISTRATOR ACTS—Taking the oath of office just a few days ago, Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the new wage-hour law, acted promptly in tackling the cotton textile industry by selecting an industry committee. The statute goes into effect Oct. 24. Approximately 600,000 cotton textile workers will be affected by the actions of the industry committee. A standard minimum of 25¢ and a maximum of 44 hours will be established by law. Elmer F. Andrews has promised to coordinate the actions of the men in setting these standards and indicates there will be no such turmoil as accompanied application of the NRA codes. He also has expressed the hope that the new law will not bring wage cuts, of which there has been some reports. In some instances, this is likely to be automatic as employers lower the hourly rate to retain the same hourly rate as now.

Welfare Board Handles 36,278 Old Age Claims

Jacksonville, Aug. 25. (Special)—Another instance of the ironical "nothing to do until tomorrow" is illustrated in the annual report of the State Welfare Board.

In addition to receiving 36,278 applications for Old Age Assistance during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1938, of which 32,467 were acted upon, and 2,231 applications for Aid to the Blind, of which 1,943 were acted upon, the Board, thru the district boards and staffs, disposed of the following routine business:

New cases certified for commodities	19,600
Total receiving commodities	27,922
Referrals to WPA	35,497
Referrals to NYA	4,824
Referrals to Rural Resettlement	149

The Board certifies clients for surplus commodities, for WPA and NYA employment, and young men for enlistment in the CCC.

SAL Excursions Offer Low Fares

A low cost excursion to Asheville, leaving on Saturday, September 3rd, has been announced by the Seaboard Railway.

The round-trip fare, which has a ten-day return limit, is only $10. Asheville and its environs are rapidly gaining in popularity with Floridians seeking a mountain vacation. The elevation of Asheville ranges from two to three thousand feet. The city is known as the gateway to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

The Asheville area in western North Carolina contains eastern America's highest mountain, scenically unmatched.

The Great Smoky Mountains National Park recovers greatest attention from those who visit the 7,000 square mile "Land of the Sky." Sixteen of the mountains, whose tops are lost in smoke colored haze, have elevations of over 6,000 feet.

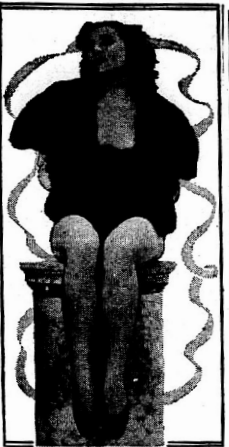

Principal sports enjoyed at Asheville are golf, tennis, swimming, boating, hiking, fishing and horseback riding.

Ample accommodations at Asheville include many splendid hotels, camps and ranches, within the reach of every pocketbook.

Lime growers from 14 Florida counties have appealed to Governor Fred Cone requesting that he proclaim a "Lime Week" to help popularize this delightful summer beverage fruit. Chain stores and other retail outlets will be requested to help.

The first visitors to be entertained in Sarasota's recently completed municipal auditorium will be the Florida District Kiwanis Convention scheduled for October 9, 10 and 11.

Nathan Mayo, Florida Commissioner of Agriculture, announced this week that the state citrus inspection service will start on September 1.

Mining Town Presents Problem

Twenty or thirty years ago it would have been simple enough for the Warner Brothers to find an old California mining town for their Cosmopolitan Technicolor drama, "Gold In Where You Find It." Monday and Tuesday at the Park Theatre.

But the old West isn't like it used to be. There is a red-fronted chain store in every block in Placerville. You'll find a service station across from the old jail in Sierra City. So if you want an old mining town, you have to build your own.

Warner Bros. built their mining camp on their own ranch at Calabasas. It's called Ten-Spot and the man who created it is Ted Smith, the art director.

The selection of Mr. Smith to design the sets for "Gold In Where You Find It" was a good piece of casting for Mr. Smith is a native son. He still remembers when the stage coaches climbed the dusty roads and when there were blacksmith shops and general stores.

There is the general store, with the hitching rail in front of it and the Wells Fargo office next door. And beyond is the hardware store with a dentist's office over it and a horse trough by the porch.

There is, of course, a saloon with swinging doors but it isn't practical. There's no bar behind the doors because no action takes place inside. And all up and down the street are other buildings—a blacksmith shop or two, a rooming house, a Chinese laundry, a restaurant and a gambling hall. It's just the kind of town which was typical of the West thirty years ago.

find it moth-eaten and covered with dust.

Hannah spent her life to raise Samuel to live for the glory of God. Picture the contrast with "Ma" Barker, who recently met her well-merited demise at the hands of the law in Oklawaha; she raised, rather I should say, she reared, five sons; she schooled and trained them to be super-

When Women Need Cardui

If you seem to have lost some of your strength, you had for your favorite activities, or for your housework . . . and suffer severe distress at certain times . . . try Cardui.

criminals. I do not suppose that the great majority of the names of God to them except in an outburst of profanity. Three of them have been executed by the law; the other two shall spend their remaining days behind gray walls and iron bars, and for society and despised both by God and man. This may be an exceptional case, you may say; yes, but can any man doubt that if that mother had a slightest portion of the spirit of Hannah within her heart, those five sons would be walking freely the streets of America, honest and respected citizens.

The writer of the lesson text writes well when he says: "From the beginning, the crowning glory and privilege which God gave to woman was motherhood. It was his plan that man and woman, joined together as husband and wife, should become his agents for the creation of immortal life, for the preservation and multiplication of the human race, and for the providing of beings in His own likeness for His service and glory. For woman he ordained the LARGER part and more delicate details of nourishing and training the members of the race during infancy and childhood. What heavier responsibility rests upon woman than the fulfillment of God's purpose for her? What higher privilege awaits her than giving life and nurture and culture and character to the race?"

True, her station entails tremendous sacrifice and vast responsibility, but, if bravely and silently borne, it assures to her rewards incomparable.

Mother Love Greatest Power

Yes, mother love is the greatest power on earth. It is immeasurable. What made Washington, or Lincoln or Lee great? What makes any man great, or good or noble? The teachings inculcated into his youthful mind by his mother's knee and purity of heart—a love of God with all his heart, and all thy mind and all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself. Any mother by the power she yields over life and over death, can bring these things to pass even as Hannah did and her children, like Hannah's, will rise up and call her blessed. Ever truthfully could they declare from Fort Meade (the end of the railroad) to Avon Park, the establishment of a post office, a sawmill and a store. In 1889 she saw the commodious Hotel Verona built, read the first issue of the Florida Homeseeker, Avon Park's first newspaper, when the town claimed a population of 45 settlers. In 1890, according to historical data supplied by her before her death, the population doubled, a new sawmill was located, and the town laid one mile of plank sidewalk the following year. In 1893, she saw the first church house built, the Union Evangelical church, and 80 new houses, including a school house, were built.

She saw the first orange grove set, and by the year 1894, 500 acres were planted to pineapples, truck crops and citrus fruits, according to the Home Seeker of that year, copies of which she preserved. Visitors and prospective buyers were coming in greatly increased numbers, and the capacity of the hotel Verona was often taxed to accommodate them. Real estate values were rising to two or three times the original price, and in that year a company was formed to construct a standard gauge railroad to Avon Park from a connection with the Atlantic Coast Line at Haines City, a distance of 40 miles.

But at this moment of high expectation, when the dreams of promoters and settlers were about to come true, Mrs. King saw the pineapple farms and the orange groves laid low by the killing freeze in the winter of 1894-5. Discouragement and despair seized the settlers and a general exodus took place. Residents gathered what they could conveniently carry, utilized all available means to transport themselves and their effects, and the Fort Meade stage was overtaken.

But the Kings were among the few who remained in the community after the big freeze. Mrs. King, with her husband, contributed to the slow rebuilding of the town, and Mr. King achieved a place of distinction in the affairs of DeSoto county, of which it was then a part, serving for awhile as one of its county commissioners. Never losing faith, suffering many hardships, they built their way back, and were rewarded in seeing the citrus industry re-established and a thriving city take its place among South Florida communities. Mr. King served as mayor of the city for several terms, and was serving in that capacity in 1929, when he was killed in an automobile railroad crossing accident in Avon Park.

Through the years, Mrs. King's influence was felt in the social and civic life of the community. The King home was the scene of many social gatherings in the early days and until a few years ago, when Mr. King's death and advancing years of his widow caused her to lead a more retired life.

Mrs. King, with her husband, were members of the Episcopal faith, and had a large part in the building of the Church of the Redeemer. That church is indebted to her for much of its early history.

Surviving the deceased are: a sister, Mrs. Florence Oxborrow, and brother, William Chinn, of Sussex, England; two nieces, Mrs. Bertha Nickols, Longwood, Florida, and Mrs. Doris Klingefuss, Brooklyn, New York.

Mrs. Nickols has been at the bedside of her aunt during her illness.

tem. She will be on the playground supervising play during the play period for elementary students. She will also have definite health classes for junior high school students and conduct health classes for high school girls in the afternoon from 3 to 3:45.

Miss Sarah Browning is replacing Miss Jean Crago in the Home Economics department and will carry out a much more extensive program in Home Economics than has ever been carried out in Avon Park school before. Miss Elizabeth Jenks is replacing Miss Erress Arant and will have complete charge of high school mathematics. All other high school teachers will have practically the same work they have had heretofore. Mrs. Charles Shepherd will be added to our elementary faculty after a year's leave of absence. She is taking the place of Mrs. Frances Lee Carter. The principal's office will be open each day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. throughout this week and next. Any student or parent who wants special adjustment made concerning any school work should call by the office and attend to this before the opening of school.

Florida exhibit in New York, where 110,000 square feet of floor space had been leased at a cost of more than three-quarters of a million dollars, which was more than double the floor space allotted to any other state. Life size dioramas and panoramas, showing Florida at work and at play were being prepared in the studios, and these are being made on a scale never before attempted, he said.

He paid tribute to County Agent Louis Alameyer, who has assisted with other exhibits, and said he would not attempt to prepare a display of tropical fruits and chemically preserved fruits without his cooperation in the past and asked that the county have a part in the proposition, which he described as the greatest advertising program ever attempted, one that in five years of operation had produced results to justify its costs.

Florida is not a leader in the newspaper, magazine or radio advertising field, he said, but definitely leads the world in exhibit advertising.

A motion by Walter Betts was carried that the Rotary club endorse the exhibit appropriation by the county and send a committee before the county commissioners at their next meeting to urge that Highlands county put up its full share in support of the exhibit.

Birthday greetings were extended by the club to C. Parke Anderson and Bill Beckett.

Newsboy Arrested On Entering Charge

Tillman Crosby, 17-year-old newsboy, was arrested early Wednesday morning by Night Officer Raymond O'Brien on charges of breaking and entering and petty larceny. According to O'Brien, the boy was caught in the act of taking cigarettes from the show case in the front of Wells Service Station. When arrested, the boy admitted a series of petty thefts from four other service stations, according to Chief W. H. McCarthy, who brought the boy before Mayor Covington Wednesday morning. The mayor turned the case over to county judge's court and it comes up for hearing Friday. Under questioning the boy admitted, according to officers, that he had entered the West End filling station, the Bazemore station, and the Puller station twice, and the I. H. Ford Gulf station three times. He took cigarettes, drinks and other similar merchandise from each place, police said.

Planning Board And PWA Official Confer on Projects

W. G. Elliott, PWA project auditor, of Atlanta, met with the Avon Park planning board Wednesday night and advised with the board on proposed projects.

The airport project, for the erection of an additional hangar and lights for the field, to cost an estimated $15,000, was explained by D. G. Perry, committee chairman.

The mall sprinkler system, with pumping station on Lake Verona, to cost about $3700, was outlined by E. G. Todd, and the Donaldson Park improvement project was discussed. The park project is being prepared as a PWA project and will be ready to be submitted in a few days, Walter Betts stated.
