Seniors Give Class Day Program

Students Toss Bricks and Bouquets in Fare Session

One of the most outstanding programs of the school year was the class day program at the high school auditorium given by members of the graduating class Wednesday morning at 10:30. The clever exercises began as the curtain opened, revealing a setting indoors a church, with a pastor which held the "remains" of the class of thirty-nine. Members of the class, or brothers and sisters of the deceased, entered through a side door, dressed in black and carrying bouquets of flowers which were placed on and around the casket.

After all were seated, "Rev." Marion Foster took charge of the services, with a short address or message to the grieving family. Sister Odean Bishop was called on to read the biography of the deceased, as an unusual request, at which time the class history was heard.

Brother James Jordan, attorney for the deceased, next gave the will, in which certain personal effects were given away to special friends. Brother Kipp then distributed the gifts.

Sister Gail Coen was at this time called on to give a very sad experience of their dear brother (39) and she gave the class sympathy.

After the last request to the deceased class of '39, the class sang the hymn of Benediction, accompanied by Miss Boodle Roberts, after which Brother Touchton, junior class member read the class resolutions.

Class History (By ODEAN BISHOP)

On a bright sunny morning in September, 21 small, happy children were born in Avon Park high school, destined to be the class of 1939. During the year of 1928-29, they had the special guidance of Mrs. Walter and Miss Juanita Adams, who helped them find themselves for the future. Every boy studied hard and the first year rolled by. When another September came around, the class was again assembled and there were two newcomers in their midst. These were Gail Coen from Pennsylvania, and Hilda Reddick from Georgia. Gail and Hilda helped the class along that year with their bright smiles and happy laughter. The next year, another new student was visible. This was Elizabeth Hetherington from Dade City. Elizabeth was cheerful and very studious, thus the third century of learning passed. The next year, which marked the fourth year of progress, the class was happy on that September morning as they moved into the high school building. Two new students joined them. They were Ruth Fields from Vero Beach and Edwin Raulerson from West Palm Beach. The class had grown and it talked of one day in the future when it would go upstairs to study hall. Just how long of this would be, some were not quite sure. The fifth year passed with two new additions. These were Glen Sheumaker from Oklahoma and Fred Kipp from Pennsylvania. The sixth year came and with it brought Marion Foster, from North Carolina, destined to be the president of the class in 1939. At last the class had attained that much sought after goal, that trip to study hall. The 7th, 8th and 9th years rolled by with the same pupils in the class, but when the 10th came, another classmate joined it. This being James Bailey from Fort Myers. James had never had much to say, but he was a big influence in the class. During the junior year, only one new student came. This was Ophelia Dean from Georgia. That year was the Junior class play and the Junior-Senior banquet. Then, in 1938, the class satiated for their last year together as a class. The name class was no additions or subtractions, being made up of the same majority of whom were seen in that first grade room to gether back in 1928. The class enjoyed its many years in Avon Park High school and has at last attained the goal of a high school graduation. It had just attended the Commencement services Sunday night, when it became so excited until it fell into a slumber from which it will emerge. It is not dead, but is only sleeping. It is believed by all that on Friday night, May 26, the class of '39 will awake and again assemble itself together for the last time in its life's history. That night, after the diplomas are awarded to its faithful household, it will fall into an eternal sleep, never to rise again, and so will its life history, as well as its life history.

Class Will (By JAMES JORDAN)

We, the class of 1939, being about to pass out of this sphere of education in full possession of a crammed mind, well-trained memory, and almost superhuman understanding, do make and publish this, our last will and testament, hereby revoking and making void all former wills or promises by us any time heretofore made, or may, carelessly spoken, one to the other, as the thoughtless wish of an idle hour.

We give and bequeath to the dear family, who have been our dear friends, and to whom we will remember every iron-clad rule of compositional technique in the preparation of her essay. It has been a hard strain on them. The seniors are said to be at all times and under all conditions difficult to manage. But they have all done their duty and verily, now shall they have their well-earned reward.

Again, we give and bequeath to our beloved family all the amazing knowledge and startling information that we have furnished them from time to time in our various examination papers. We know that much which we have imparted to them in this way must have been entirely new to them, as well as to all teachers and students everywhere, and would throw much new light on many a deep subject throughout the whole world of sciences and learning, even outside the halls and walls of Avon Park high school.

The following may seem but trifling bequests, but we hope that they may be accepted, not as worthless things lavishly thrown away because we can no longer keep them, but as valuable and useful things which may receive them, and a continual reminder of the generosity of heart displayed in our free and ungrudging help.

1st. I, James Jordan, will my winning personality and political prowess to Fred Touchton.

2nd. I, Ophelia Dean, will my slow motion ability to Agnes Young, hoping that she can do her class work as rapidly as I.

3rd. I, Walter Sherertz, will my Cow Knowledge to Speedy Heim, to keep him occupied since he has no much to say many extra activities next year.

4th. We, Nellene Cannon and Ruth Wild, will our monopoly on the Glee Club to Doris Reddick and Mary Pardee.

5th. I, James Bailey, will my "burping ability" caused by beer drinking to Francis Skipper. Francis may not have a bracer next year.

6th. I, Minerva Perry, will my checks to the Junior class girls, as a special favor to Dr. Reeves, so that they may take turns wearing them to school next year.

7th. I, J. W. Tuten, will my knowledge of "bookology" to Pinky Davis, so that he needs it because he gets plenty of it, and my "soda jerking ability" to Wallace Blackburn hoping they both use it.

8th. I, Elmeria Sadler, will my bookish ability which I have exercised all these years to Nancy Betts.

9th. I, Johnny Wilkes, will my good looks to R. C. Adams for use on Sunday only.

10th. I, Tommy Lou Greene, will my most precious possession, Edgar Bradbury, to Mr. Mumma's care for the coming year on one condition. He will be returned when he graduates.

11th. I, Glen Sheumaker, will my Ph.D. (acquired in Mr. Yates' English class) to Charles Shepherd.

12th. I, Gail Coen, will my "night owl" habits to Lillian Bost. 13th. I, Ray Mathis, will my hair curls to Billie Marlowe, who provided we used them every night. 14th. I, Elizabeth Hetherington, will my beautiful features, "facenda" Day crown, and Peyton Corington to Barbara Eaton; these belong to my worldly possessions. 15th. I, Dixie Moore, will my love for the opposite sex to Henry Wild, because of his Robert Taylor. (Continued from page one)

PTA Welfare Report Shows Work Active

Food, Clothing and Other Benefits Provided

Following is the report of Mrs. A. C. Wester, welfare chairman of the Parent-Teachers' association, made at the last meeting of the P. T. A.:

The clothing department of the welfare department, Mrs. T. H. Hughes, chairman, Mrs. E. E. Keller, assistant, opened the clothing room once each week, from the beginning of the school term until February 1. After that time their supply of clothing was exhausted. They then met the individual need by soliciting all the clothing of the members.

During the term they have given out about four hundred fifty garments, the majority of which were in excellent condition. The Women's Missionary Society, Avon Park Woman's Club and the P. T. A. have given numbers of new garments presented to us. Placing a very close estimate on the value of the clothing distributed this school session, we estimate that it would be at least $250. We wish to thank everyone who has helped us in clothing that was needed.

Under corrective and clinical work the committee with Mrs. D. G. Perry chairman assisted the County Nurse in conducting a preschool round up last July, at which time 67 children were examined for defects in eyes, teeth, lungs and heart. We sent 25 referral notices to parents. Where corrective work was needed, assisted County Health Nurse in obtaining special milk to be sent to State Board of Health for book worm test. With the cooperation of our county health nurse and our local P. T. A. eight dental operations were done on several of our children at a cost of $270, has been done. One child has been fitted with glasses from Dr. Jordan at a cost of $3.95. Material for sewing room, $6.95. Miscellaneous, $5.75. Free lunches served to the underprivileged children this year.

The school lunch program, which was 5005, with an estimated value of $701. This was made possible by donations from the community. Material for the cafeteria being applied on the cost of these lunches.

Monthly donations were made by the Rotary Club, Elks Club, B. W. Club, Women's Club, Methodist Missionary Society, and numerous individuals. Members of this committee are: A. C. Wester, Mrs. T. H. Hughes, Mrs. E. E. Keller, Mrs. D. G. Perry, and Mrs. Virginia Cloud.

Respectfully submitted,
RACHEL WESTER,
Welfare Chairman.

Legion Declares War on F. P. S. in Grudge Game

The American Legion meets the Florida Public Service Sunday afternoon in the final warm-up session before the opening of the city diamond ball league which gets under way next Thursday.

The "grudge game" is called for 3 o'clock. The Army will play Luke Byrd at 4:30. There is no admission charge and the public is cordially invited.

Thus far, the Legion team has won five and lost one game in the "grudge game" series. The Florida Public Service team has a perfect record with two wins. But here the rub. One of those wins was from the Legion outfit, which makes Sunday's games one of those grudge affairs. Manager Ben Stewart of the Legionnaires predicted to even the score with Manager Durr Martin's pole climbers.

The city league will officially open next Thursday afternoon, June 1, when the American Legion plays Touchton-Smith and the Methodists play the Army in a double bill. The games are called for 2:30 and 4:30. All teams have been strengthened and are reported to be rearing to go.

Dr. John Donaldson Presides at Meeting Economics Academy

Dr. John Donaldson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Donaldson of Avon Park, presided at the 17th general meeting of the Academy of World Economics held in Washington last Sunday night.

The Academy of World Economics was founded in 1932 by a group of scholars interested in international economic relations. The purpose of the Academy as set forth in its By-laws are the study of the world point of view, the promotion of a wider understanding of facts and tendencies affecting international economic relations, collaboration with other organizations having similar objectives, and the discovery of policies and plans calculated to attain and conserve world prosperity. The Academy is non-partisan and non-profit making. It is not committed to any particular doctrine, but endeavors to have all views on questions in its field fully developed.

Hospital Bill on Calendars of Both House and Senate

Avon Park bills designating this city as a site for a southern branch of the state hospital, have been placed on the calendars of both the House and the Senate, it is reported from Tallahassee. The bills are otherwise reported for the week, and there is no information available as to when the bills will be taken up for consideration. With both houses jammed to the roof, prospects for passage are not bright, though the committee is still hopeful.

Fr. Brown Gives Sermon to Class

Taking as his text the sixth verse of the 31st chapter of Deuteronomy, Fr. R. Brown, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, counseled the graduating class to put away fear and timidity and to be of good courage if they would possess the land, in his commencement sermon Sunday night. The text reads: "Be strong and be of good courage, fear not, neither be afraid of them: for the Lord God, He it is that doth go with thee; He will not fail thee, nor forsake thee."

Explaining its application, he said: "These words are from the closing address of the aged Moses, as he resigned the leadership of Israel to Joshua, who was to lead the nation into the land of promise. Forty years previous the nation of Israel had stood on the borders of this land, but owing to the timidity of their conquering and the wickedness of the people, they had turned away from the conquest without effort. Therefore their leader, at the beginning of this morning's attempt counsels them to be confident and courageous, to have faith in God and in themselves."

The first attempt of the Israelites failed. The second attempt was successful, but it was not without difficulty. The people of the land were strong, they possessed great and walled cities and there were giants in the land. Neither Joshua nor his men attempted, but they were confident that the land could be subdued if only courage and faith did not fail.

"Today you stand, like the Israelites of old, on the borders of a land of promise. Like Canaan, it is a good land and large, a land that flows with milk and honey, wherein thou canst eat bread without scarceness, a land of hills and of valleys, a land whose stones are of iron, and whose hills are of brass. But before you can enter in and possess this for the lot of your inheritance, it is necessary for you to conquer both the stones within, and the enemies without you."

Tin Can Chief Plans to Bring 200 Trailers

Van Epps Anxious to Know if Camp to Be Ready

Two hundred trailers for Avon Park next winter is the aim of Frank L. Van Epps, royal chief of the Tin Can Tourists of the World, who will dedicate the Donaldson park camp as an official camp on arrival here in the fall. Van Epps, who said he has a "personal feeling" in the success of the Avon Park camp, will advertise Avon Park at the summer convention in Traverse City, Michigan, in July, he said in a letter to the Sun.

R. S. Brown, president of the chamber of commerce said Van Epps had written for information, and he was advising the Tin Can chief that provisions would be made to care for the trailers.

Van Epps writes the Sun: "I have this date written asking the chamber of commerce asking them to write on the first of July 1, here at Portage, Wisconsin, stating what Avon Park has done with the trailer park there."

On July 1, I am leaving for Traverse City, Michigan, the site of our summer convention, and I want to have something favorable to Avon Park to personally put before the convention there.

You know more favorable advertising can be had among the 800 or so trailers that will be in attendance at Traverse City than any personal feeling, and I sort of have some members, but I want to get them to the camp site with all of my best efforts.

These 800 trailers are all prospective customers for Avon Park next December 4-10. And, of course, they will have other friends along with them, but I want to have them to be in Traverse City during the months when they are doing some farming, or engaged in other summer work, and cannot expect all of this number to come to Avon Park for they have their various winter camp sites in Florida. I do expect to have quite a large number in Avon Park. I would like to see more than 200 trailers in your city, and shall make a desperate effort toward this end, but of course, am not in position to state that this number will be there. However, there will be quite a crowd and I sincerely hope that Avon Park will have toilet facilities, shower baths, some streets through the camp, hot and cold water, and some of the other minor things that we talked over. Best regards to all.

Yours truly,
FRANK L. VAN EPPS,
T. C. T.

Red Murphy Has Serious Injuries in Unusual Accident

H. O. "Red" Murphy sustained severe injuries Thursday morning while operating his wrecker, and is confined to Dr. Touchton's hospital for treatment.

Murphy was attempting to get a large truck and trailer out of a ditch at the side of the road north of Highlands Park but the load was too heavy for his wrecker and the front of his wrecker reared almost straight up. When he put on brakes to ease the front of the wrecked down, the hoist gave way and dropped the front wheels straight to the ground, the sudden drop partially paralyzed Murphy's lower limbs, and for a time it was feared that his spine was injured.

Mrs. Murphy reported today that her husband's condition was fair, but that he is seriously injured and may be confined to his bed for some time.

Coen Recital Displays Talent

Greatly enjoyed was an hour—all too short—spent listening to the piano playing of Mrs. J. B. Coen, Jr.'s students, in recital Tuesday night at the high school auditorium.

One was amazed and wondered at and admired the ease with which everyone did their part, especially the youngsters.

Little Gloria Garber scored the highest and on the piano, the precision work with boys carrying off the honors in my humble opinion.

Alfred Engelmann's progress—he came a long way from last year—David Lanier's pretty touch, Roger Sayington's, Benny Longbottom's fine performance, just to mention a few, were really outstanding. The development, growth of everyone of the performers—musically speaking—was easily noticeable, especially in the brilliant technical work done.

This applies in much greater measure to the more advanced grades. It was a privilege to listen to the varied programs and to enjoy the skill, poise and often admirable phrasing of the lovely performers. Everyone gave of their best, contributing to the success of the evening. The lively "Gypsy Rondo" (Lillian Bennett), the beautiful but difficult "Scherzo" (Betty Touchette) rang in one's ear long after it was all over.

The applause was generous and, no doubt, bore evidence of the appreciation of the marvelous, strenuous work done by the teachers and pupils alike all thru the year. And, mainly, because of the unusual patience of Mrs. Coen, to the great pains taken by her to clarify and help surmount obstacles and difficulties.

I'm sure, we are all grateful for this and are glad and proud of having Mrs. Coen in our community.—R. E.

When 33 of the world's finest drivers line up for the start of the Indianapolis Race the morning of May 30th, this quietest of speed races will be rated among the most formidable contenders for the big cash purses. A year of engineering refinement and sizeable cash fortunes have been spent on their cars. Like every Indianapolis winner for the last 18 years, they will race on Prestonite Gun-Dipped mechanical trouble forced him to the pit. Floyd Roberts (center) last year's winner, established a new record, averaging 117.2 miles per hour for the 500 miles. Jimmy Snyder (right) the Flying Chicago Milkman, will drive a car almost identical in design to the one being used by Rex Mays. In 1937 Snyder established a lap record of 136.4 miles per hour for the 3 1/4 mile distance.

1206 Women Say "Yes" to Query

If 90 out of 100 were picked at random and asked "What do you wear when you go to bed?" the answer would be "GARDUI".

Women all over the South are eager to tell of their experiences with GARDUI. They wear it when they sleep, when they are weak, nervous, anxious. These are symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea, a condition which GARDUI helps to relieve by stimulating appetite and digestion and building up the blood.

Miss Miriam English Shower Honoree

Miss Miriam English, attractive bride-elect, whose marriage will be an event of the summer, was the inspiration for the lovely bridal shower given Friday evening by Mrs. John M. Hood, at the home of the former. The rooms of the Hood home, which were thrown open to the occasion, indicated the chosen color theme of pink and white, with their beautifully arranged bouquets of Tullahoma and radianza roses, supplemented with spring flowers, in dainty shades.

During the evening, two enjoyable contests were played. Winners were Mrs. S. S. Thayer, who received a pair of Mexican book ends, and Mrs. D. G. Perry, whose prize was a dainty white tea apron. Delicious refreshments of assorted sandwiches, in fancy shapes, individually decorated cakes and cookies and minted fruit punch were served late in the evening. The honoree was the recipient of the shower of unusually pretty and useful gifts, as a pleasant feature of the evening. The presentation was made from the dining room, where the lace covered table was centered with a miniature parrot and nestling in a delicate replica of a tulip, fashioned in pink. Bunches of pink birthday candles, each with a number attached and a clever rhyme, designating the place where the shower gift might be found, were attractively wrapped presents were then opened and admired.

Uncle Phil Says:

Except That of Innocence
Ever since Adam fell, man has been trying to get back to his state.
An old fool is disagreeable because foolishness in age is out of character.
If a man can listen appreciatively to a girl talk about her instead of wanting to talk about himself, he understands women.
If one gets no gratification out of generosity, of course, he won't practice it.

That Takes Gumption
Know where you don't belong and keep away from that locality.
There cannot be justice where there is special privilege. Not even when the privilege is so small as to be allowed to park where you like.
If our ideals make us happy, should we mind if they are illusions?

New Dealers disappointed, in Representative Smith's debating abilities... Democratic politicians erred in opposing Taft on weak speaker... Hurried recalculations in order for Republican leaders.

WASHINGTON—New Dealers are tremendously disappointed in the popular reaction to the debates between Senator Robert A. Taft and Representative T. W. Smith of Illinois, as shown by recent polls. In the first place Smith is a prime favorite with the New Deal. It was common gossip that the New Dealers wanted Governor Henry Horner of Illinois to appoint Mr. Smith to the senate vacancy caused by the death of J. Hamilton Lewis, though the governor didn't oblige.

Whereas Senator Taft is simply anathema to the New Deal. He is stoutly expressing views which seem to the administration a turning back to the Grand Old Party in the days of Boies Penrose and Reed Smoot.

But there is another angle. After the Gridiron dinner, followed by the editors' convention here, most observers in Washington had virtually wiped Senator Taft of the slate of Republican possibilities for the presidential nomination next year.

There was no attack on the delivery price of cream as being unreasonable. The profit was not exorbitant. But the chain stores were able to sell more cheaply because they had no delivery expense, and no loss on bad debts.

Result: Poorer people, to whom a few cents on a bottle of cream is important, turned to canned milk, not because they wanted it, but because it was that or no cream at all.

Tax Changes Await
End of Waiting Game

Tax changes to aid business recovery are long on lip service and short on action, with President Roosevelt, the treasury and congress all playing a waiting game.

Congress is willing to act, but is not willing to stick its neck out. The treasury is eager to act but its first real move toward action is an inspired story given to the Associated Press outlining four important proposals.

The President leaves it to congress to take the initiative but doesn't like any step for tax revision that he has seen.

The treasury knows just what it wants and finds itself in rather surly mood, with the conservative Democrats on Capitol Hill, headed by Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Most of the treasury's proposals are: Elimination of present undistributed profits, capital stock and excess profit taxes. Substitution of a flat rate corporation income levy of not more than 22 per cent, with special treatment for incomes under $25,000.

Higher-Bracket Tax Reduction.
Reduction in higher-bracket personal income taxes from a maximum of 75 per cent to a maximum of 60 per cent. (Actually, treasury experts have believed for several administrations that 50 per cent provides the maximum revenue.)

Authorization for corporations to carry over tax credits for losses for three years instead of one. Modification of the capital gains tax to encourage investment.

Under Secretary John W. Hanes, leading agitator for tax revision as business aid, now has 100 items in his little black book, from which he quotes freely to legislators and officials.

But nothing the treasury says or thinks is "official" until the President approves. If the house ways and means committee should summon Henry Hanes by word as Mr. Morgenthau Jr. just what he thinks. If it summoned Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. he would stutter unhappily unless he had the "Go" sign from the White House.

Meanwhile plenty of conservative Democrats on Capitol Hill are taking private satisfaction in evidence that the President will not support action. The result, they think, will be the nomination of a conservative by the Democratic convention next year. By the same token Republican leaders on Capitol Hill are placing a responsibility squarely on the Democrats, arguing that if no action comes a G. O. P. President next time is a cinch.

preference for fresh milk in hundreds of thousands of homes.

Back in the early days of the floundering attempts of AAA to regulate the milk industry, a substantial start toward this consummation—although it was never an objective—was made. At that time the Triple A frowned on chain stores cutting prices on milk and cream. The Triple A didn't like anything about the system which made this cutting possible.

When Triple A clamped down on the New England chain stores for cutting cream prices, the sales went down in terms of thousands of gallons. Which resulted, of course, in the co-operatives having to make a great deal more butter, which, in turn, complicated the butter surplus problem. Mind you, the chain stores were commanded to charge higher prices for this cream—to make bigger profits on the amount handled than they wanted to.

Turnover Profits.
This is not a defense of the morals of the chain store operators. No one thought anything else than that the operators thought they would make more money by selling a lot of cream at a smaller profit. And they were right. Presumably the AAA conceived this idea, though the chain stores stopped cutting cream prices, the concerns delivering fresh milk and cream would get more business. Maybe the Triple A executives even thought eventually they could reduce cream prices to everybody.

But that was not what happened. When the price was put up in the chain stores, people stopped buying so much. In fact chain store sales of cream approached the vanishing point, while sales of cream by the delivery companies remained precisely as they were.

There was no attack on the delivery price of cream as being unreasonable. The profit was not exorbitant. But the chain stores were able to sell more cheaply because they had no delivery expense, and no loss on bad debts.

Result: Poorer people, to whom a few cents on a bottle of cream is important, turned to canned milk, not because they wanted it, but because it was that or no cream at all.

Tax Changes Await
End of Waiting Game

Tax changes to aid business recovery are long on lip service and short on action, with President Roosevelt, the treasury and congress all playing a waiting game.

Congress is willing to act, but is not willing to stick its neck out. The treasury is eager to act but its first real move toward action is an inspired story given to the Associated Press outlining four important proposals.

The President leaves it to congress to take the initiative but doesn't like any step for tax revision that he has seen.

The treasury knows just what it wants and finds itself in rather surly mood, with the conservative Democrats on Capitol Hill, headed by Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Most of the treasury's proposals are: Elimination of present undistributed profits, capital stock and excess profit taxes. Substitution of a flat rate corporation income levy of not more than 22 per cent, with special treatment for incomes under $25,000.

Higher-Bracket Tax Reduction.
Reduction in higher-bracket personal income taxes from a maximum of 75 per cent to a maximum of 60 per cent. (Actually, treasury experts have believed for several administrations that 50 per cent provides the maximum revenue.)

Authorization for corporations to carry over tax credits for losses for three years instead of one. Modification of the capital gains tax to encourage investment.

Under Secretary John W. Hanes, leading agitator for tax revision as business aid, now has 100 items in his little black book, from which he quotes freely to legislators and officials.

But nothing the treasury says or thinks is "official" until the President approves. If the house ways and means committee should summon Henry Hanes by word as Mr. Morgenthau Jr. just what he thinks. If it summoned Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. he would stutter unhappily unless he had the "Go" sign from the White House.

Meanwhile plenty of conservative Democrats on Capitol Hill are taking private satisfaction in evidence that the President will not support action. The result, they think, will be the nomination of a conservative by the Democratic convention next year. By the same token Republican leaders on Capitol Hill are placing a responsibility squarely on the Democrats, arguing that if no action comes a G. O. P. President next time is a cinch.

All the rest and residue of our property, whatsoever and whosoever, of what nature, kind and quality soever it may be, and not herein before disposed of (after paying our debts and funeral expenses), we give and bequeath to our beloved principal, for his use and benefit absolutely, and to be disposed of for the good of the coming classes as he may see fit.

Class Prophecy

(By GAILE COEN)

Not long before this tragic ending came, the organs of the class had its fortune told. Their words are as follows. The head of this body is to be acclaimed the successor of Padernick, Marion Foster, in the musical world. Next came Francis Browne, the class vamp, and Dixie Moore, the class shiek, who are to inherit the tobacco farm from Dixie's father after their early marriage, to find that variety isn't the spice of life.

As far as the fortune teller could see Betty Sherman, she was peddling fur in the Dago section of New York City. Ray Mathis, the class crook, has finally overtaken his way in becoming manager of the A & P company.

Minerva Perry, as a sideline from her house work, is using the hunt and peck system as stenographer for Mr. Betts. Dr. Shumaker has just completed his latest novel, "Lost Paradise."

As the head of the girls' finishing school, in New York, can be seen Gaile Coen, the latest maid on the faculty. The fortune of our gentle lady-like James Bailey, he is destined to spend his time in restaurants where he couldn't pay for his meals.

Tommy Lou Green's term in the Federal Penitentiary will be shortened two years for good behavior. We knew Tommy Lou would turn out good in the end.

Frances Skipper is doing well as the proprietor of the Gledale club on the new highway.

The criminals have all fled the country, law enforcement got too strict for them with Margaret Townsend as sheriff.

out the new dance trends as well as anyone because dancing is my business, and I can safely say that the new coming back stronger than it ever was in the days of our grandfathers. This is always the case in dancing. One style reaches an extreme, the popularity and the public immediately, in one swift reversal goes to the other extreme.

Miss Powell, whose newest musical picture, "Honolulu," comes to the Park theatre Sunday and Monday, is the outstanding example of America's young dancers. Fifty-two troupes of these youthful sloppers have been named after her, and the organization is probably the largest individual force in building dance trends that exist.

"I want to make it perfectly clear that I am not opposed to the jitterbug, the Lambeth Walk and the Limp-Dimp," explained Miss Powell. "They are all a part of dancing. They express the modern trend and dancing is a form of expression. I know these dances and I want to do them."

"But the main reason why I force the return of the waltz is that it is the one step that will preserve much of the dances of this century. We dancers must preserve romance in our medium of expression and that is something that is lacking in the aerobic and electric types of dancing that is sweeping the world."

The signs are apparent everywhere. In the more sedate and dignified ballroom waltzes are becoming more and more prevalent and the old Viennese music is the order of the day.

UNION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Dr. Alfred C. Elliott, Pastor, Sunday, May 28: "O Lord, revive Thy Church." The pastor will pray the prophet Habakkuk. Millions of our American people, during recent years, have apparently been indifferent to religion. They are concerned only with the material things of life to forget their highest duty.

The signs are apparent everywhere. In the more sedate and dignified ballroom waltzes are becoming more and more prevalent and the old Viennese music is the order of the day.

Dance Star Says

Waltz Coming Back As Popular Dance

Eleanor Powell, America's foremost dance star, predicts that within six months the new dance craze will be the old-fashioned waltz.

As Grand Trouper of the Young Dancers of America, an organization of more than twenty-five thousand dancers, the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer screen star has advised these terpsichorean enthusiasts to prepare for this new wave of dance popularity that is to sweep the country and the world.

"Don't desert your jitterbug and Lambeth Walk and those other tricky dances completely," says Miss Powell, "but learn to waltz gracefully. I think I can ferret
