

Cross to carry on their noble work, and at the same time will be helping the needy of Avon Park. Join the Red Cross, the county is to pay for the improvements on the land at a nominal figure and the land will be donated to the county.

On Armistice Day America Turns to Its Symbol of Hope That All Is Not Lost in a World Gone Mad With War

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

IN THE tragic situation in which the world finds itself today, with the destructive forces of war once again unleashed, it is appropriate for the people of the United States to reflect upon that hour of November 11, 1918, when the voices of war were silenced, and to look forward even now to a time when a just and enduring peace shall be established among all the peoples of the earth.

These were the words used by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his annual proclamation setting aside November 11 as a holiday in significance of "our gratitude for peace and our desire for the continuance of friendly relations with all other peoples" and calling upon "the people of the United States to observe the day in schools and churches or other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies."

And so, despite the fact that, to many Americans, the fear of our becoming involved in a second great European war will cast a shadow upon the observance of the day, for the nation as a whole Armistice day this year will have a deeper meaning than it has had for the last two decades. That is because we are the only nation celebrating Armistice day during those 20 years, that is now at peace or that seems least likely to be drawn into the maelstrom of death and destruction now raging across the Atlantic.

As in the past, on this Armistice day the thoughts of most Americans will turn to what has become the national shrine that best symbolizes the spirit of Armistice day—the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery near Washington. Because it is both a shrine and a symbol, there may be some reassurance for Americans to read again the words of another American President uttered there.

On November 11, 1921, the body of the Unknown Soldier was entombed at Arlington and on that day President Warren G. Harding, speaking for the nation, said: "We are not here to pay the impetuous tribute. The name of whose body lies before us took flight with his imperishable soul. We know not whence he came, but only that his death marks him with the everlasting glory of an American dying for his country."

"We do not know the emblems of his birth, but we do know the glory of his death. He died for his country, and greater devotion hath no man than this. He died unassuming, uncomplaining, with faith in his heart and hope on his lips, that his country should triumph and its civilization survive. As a typical soldier of this representative democracy he fought and died, believing in the indelible justice of his country's cause. Conscious of the world's upheaval, appraising the magnitude of a war like the one which had never horrified humanity before, perhaps he believed that to be a service destined to change the life of human affairs."

"In the death gloom of gas, the burning of shells and rain of bullets men face more intimately the great God over all; their souls are aflame and consciousness expands and hearts are searched. With the din of battle, the glow of conflict and the supreme trial of courage come involuntarily the hurried appraisal of life and the contemplation of death's great mystery. On the threshold of eternity many a soldier, I can well believe, wondered how his ebbling blood would color the stream of human life flowing on after his sacrifice. His patriotism was not less if he craved more than triumph of country; rather, it was greater if he hoped for a victory for all human kind. Indeed, I revere that citizen whose confidence in the righteousness of his country inspired belief that its triumph is the victory of humanity."

"This American soldier went forth to battle with no hatred for any people in the world, but hating war and hating the purpose of every war for conquest. He cherished our national rights and abhorred the threat of armed domination, and in the maelstrom of destruction and suffering and death he shed his blood for the freedom of the world. In advancing toward his objective was somewhere a thought of a world awakened, and we are here to testify undying gratitude and reverence for that thought of a wider freedom."

"Sleeping in these hallowed grounds are thousands of Americans who have given their blood for the baptism of freedom and its maintenance, armed exponents of the nation's conscience. It is better and nobler for their deeds. Burial here is rather more than a sign of the government's favor, it is a suggestion of a tomb in the heart of the nation, sorrowing for its noble dead."

"Today's ceremonies proclaim that the hero unknown is not unknown. We gather him to the nation's breast, within the shadow of the Capitol, of the towering dome of the White House, to the great father, and of the exquisite monument to Lincoln, the martyred savior. Here the inspiration for the living. With all my heart I wish we might say to the defenders who survive, in mothers who sorrow, to the children who mourn, that no such sacrifice shall be asked again."

"It was my fortune recently to see a demonstration of modern warfare. It is no longer a conflict in chivalry, no more a test of militant manhood. It is only cruel, deliberate, scientific destruction. There was no cordoned enemy, only the theoretical defense of a hypothetical objective. But the attack was made with all the relentless methods of modern destruction. There was the rain of ruin from the aircraft,

Unknown Soldier Was Inspiration for Two Pulitzer Prize-Winners

The return of the Unknown Soldier to his native land and his entombment in Arlington in 1921 was the inspiration for some of the finest prose and poetry that has been written in America in many years. Two of the 1921 Pulitzer prizes were given to newspaper men whose theme was this significant event.

Kirks L. Simpson of the Washington staff of the Associated Press was awarded the prize for the "best example of a reporter's work during the year" for his series of stories on the return of the Unknown Soldier and the prize for the "best editorial article written during the year, the test of excellence being clearness of style, moral purpose, sound reasoning and the power to influence public opinion in the right direction" was awarded to Frank M. O'Brien of the New York Herald for this editorial, which appeared in the Herald on November 11, 1921.

"That which takes place today at the National cemetery in Arlington is a symbol, a mystery and a tribute. It is an emblem only in the physical sense. It is rather the enthronement of Duty and Honor. This man who died for his country is the symbol of these qualities; a far more perfect symbol than any man could be whose name and deeds we knew. He represents more, really, than the unidentified soldier for we can not separate them spiritually from the war heroes whose names are written on their gravestones. He—this spirit whom we honor—stands for the unselfishness of all."

"This, of all monuments to the dead, is lasting and immutable. So long as men revere the finer things of life the tomb of the nameless hero will remain a shrine. Nor, with the shifts of time and mind, can there be a changing of values. No historian shall rise to modify the virtues or the faults of the Soldier. He has immunity for which kings might pray. The years may bring erosion to the granite but not to the memory of the Unknown Soldier. It is a common weakness of humanity to ask the questions that can never be answered in this life. Probably none to whom the drama of the Unknown Soldier has appealed has not wondered who, in the sunshine of earth, was the protagonist of today's ceremony. A logger from the Penobscot? An orchardist from the Pacific coast? A well-driller from Texas? A machinist from Connecticut? A lad who left his life to fight against the Misouri cur? A longshoreman from Hell's Kitchen? Perhaps some youth from the tobacco fields, resting again in his own Virginia. All that the army tells us of him is that he died in battle. All that the heart tells is that some word an loved him. More than that no man shall learn. In this mystery, as in the riddle of the universe, the wise wonder; but they would not know."

"What were his dreams, his ambitions? Likely he shared those common to the millions; a life of peace and honest struggle, with such small success as comes to most who try; and at the end the place on the hillside among his fathers. Today, however, at his last resting-place come the greatest soldiers of the age, the presidents, the presidents, the judges and the legislators of his own country, and many men who, like himself, fought for the flag. At his bier will gather the most remarkable group that America has ever seen. And the tomb which Fate reserved for him is, instead of the narrow cell on the village hillside, one as lasting as the pyramids of Egypt and as inspiring as Napoleon's."

"It is a great religious ceremony, this burial today. The exaltation of the nameless bones would not be possible except for belief. Where were Duty and Honor, the well-springs of Victory, if mankind feared that death drew a black curtain behind which nothing but the dark? So all in whom the spark of hope has not died can well believe that we, to whom the Soldier is a mystery, are not a mystery to him. They can believe that the watchmen at Arlington today are not merely a few thousands of the living but the countless battalions of the departed. The he was dead, yet shall he live—there is the promise to which men hold when everything of this earth has slipped away."

"All the impressive ritual of today would be a mockery if we did not believe that it is in infinity which astronomers can not chart or mathematicians bound, the Unknown Soldier and all the glorious dead whom we honor in his dust are looking down upon this spinning ball, conscious of our reverence. And when noon strikes, signal for the moment of silent prayer, few of those who stand with bowed head will lack conviction that the rites at Arlington are viewed by other than mortal eyes. They may honor the Unknown Soldier and those who, like him, died for this Republic."

"Unknown, but not unknown."

MEMORIES Delirium of 1918's Armistice Remembered in Gloom of 1939

There's irony in this year's observance of Armistice day, the zero hour in 1918 when World war No. 1 ended. For the world is again at war, most of it hoping another armistice will come soon. In 1918 the end of hostilities brought delirium everywhere. At New York soldiers, sailors and their girls joined the celebration. Patriotism, at a Twentieth century peak, shouted from every rooftop.

Above: Fifth avenue in New York was a sea of humanity as Manhattan turned out to celebrate the news.

Left: They danced in New York's streets. Above: A soldier near the terms of armistice.

The word spread swiftly across a land which was ready, because peace had been hinted several days. One correspondent actually 'jumped the gun' with the announcement.

Paris turned out to fete Americans and hang the effigy of Kaiser Wilhelm. In 1939, America is resolved never to enter Europe's quarrels again. Yet, with Europe, it hopes and prays for another Armistice day like 1918's.

CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT

BABY CHICKS
CHICKS! Assorted breeds from $3.00 to $10.00. See Dealer. CHICKS! Assorted breeds from $3.00 to $10.00. See Dealer. CHICKS! Assorted breeds from $3.00 to $10.00. See Dealer.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS
Freshening Celery.—Celery which has become wilted may be freshened by standing in a jug of water to which a pinch of bicarbonate of soda has been added.

Variety in Fruits.—If your family likes variety of fruit, stewed prunes, apricots, fresh berries, applesauce, fruit juices and fresh fruits. A whole week can be covered without repetition.

Removing Candle Grease.—To remove candle grease from black suede shoes, take a piece of brown paper, cover the candle grease with it, then hold a warm iron over it. The spot will soon be absorbed.

For Ink Stains.—Immerse an ink-stained handkerchief in milk immediately after it has been soiled. Allow it to soak and the ink will disappear.

Removing Scotch.—To remove Scotch from linen place between two dampened Turkish towels and press with a hot iron. The Scotch stains will run into the towel and can be easily washed out.

To Thicken Frosting.—If in mixing frosting you use too much water to the confectioner's sugar, instead of adding more sugar add flour to thicken the frosting. It will be impossible to detect the taste of flour.

Removing Mildew.—Mildew may be successfully removed by using kerosene. Saturate the garment with it thoroughly, roll it up and put it away for 24 hours. Wash in warm water and all trace of mildew will be gone.

LOST YOUR PEP?

What hypocrisies we seem to be whenever we talk of ourselves! Our words sound so humble while our hearts are so proud!—Hare.

Relieve the discomfort with this accurate aspirin. St. Joseph's GENUINE PURE ASPIRIN

Learning and Thought
"Learning without thought is labor lost; thought without learning is perilous."—Confucius.

CATCH COLD EASILY?
See how vigorous you look after using this tonic.

Evil Suspicion
To suspect a friend is worse than to be deceived by him.—La Rochefoucauld.

Today's popularity of advertising copy is the result of a good deal of research for the advertiser. The advertiser's value opinion supports the advertiser's value opinion.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy. Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a safe and sure remedy than to risk a cure on a doubtful remedy.

Folks You Know..

Mrs. Virginia Clood spent last week and in Bradenton, as the guest of friends.

Miss Elizabeth Chandler, a member of the faculty of the Bradenton school, spent the past week and at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Campbell of Leesburg were the guests Monday of Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes.

M. and Mrs. Frank Wilkes of Lake Wales spent the week end here with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gough.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McGiboney and Emben Children were transiting business in Lakeland and Tampa Wednesday.

Mrs. C. H. Rector of Washington is spending the winter in Avon Park, at the home of Mrs. W. S. Rawlings. Mrs. Rector was here last season, and has visited here previously, and has numerous friends, who are pleased at her decision to return.

Dr. Stanley M. Reeves, who has been ill for several days at his home at Highland Lakes, was able to return to school on Friday.

Mrs. H. H. Shepherd was the guest of Mrs. Arthur Wagner in Fort Pierce several days this week.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Henry E. Tobey, Mrs. Charles Catlin, and Mrs. Edwin T. English are spending today in Vero Beach.

Mrs. Ed Johnson of Plant City returned home Thursday morning, after visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Bradbury and family, since Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Singletary of Fort Meade were the guests Tuesday of Mrs. E. B. Deahong and daughter, Miss Dorothy Deahong, and of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Deahong.

Dr. G. P. Thayer is improving each day from his recent illness, his friends will be delighted to know.

Mrs. J. L. Spivy of Valdosta, Ga., arrived Tuesday night to visit her brother, Dr. Fred Touchton and family. She returned home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Koller and son, Bobby are spending the week end in Jacksonville, going up weekly to attend the Georgia-Florida football game.

Mrs. Nan Bomo is expected home Sunday from Key West, where she has been spending the past two weeks with Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Morgan.

S. Y. Harty, who has been confined to his home with illness for the past two weeks is now improving, his many friends will be gratified to learn.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Brown and daughter, Misses Lois and Doris of St. Cloud, were the guests for the week end of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Prentice and family.

Mrs. C. S. English and daughter, Frances Louise and Sarah Curtis, and son, David of Coral Gables are spending the week end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Lockett.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wilcox and son of Pittsford, N. Y., arrived in Avon Park this week to spend the winter, and will be located at an apartment on Tulane circle. Mrs. Wilcox and her sister spent last winter here.

Mrs. H. L. Ragdale and daughter, Joy, arrived Friday afternoon to spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Parks. Mrs. Ragdale, who is temporarily located in Palm Beach, will join them here Sunday for the day.

Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Chandler have been in the city for the week, Mrs. Chandler's mother, Mrs. S. E. Brown, and her sister, Miss Rose Brown of Lake City. They returned to their home on Thursday.

Miss Dot Hughes, sophomore at FSCW, Tallahassee, arrived home this morning for a brief holiday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hays, and her sister, Miss Gloria Hays. She will return to college Sunday night.

Herbert Todd, who is attending Broward School in Jacksonville, spent the week end at his home. He stayed over Monday night for the Boy Scouts Court of Honor, where he received the rank of Eagle Scout.

Friends of Dr. Fred Touchton, who has been ill, will be pleased to know that he is convalescing and was able to be brought down town for a short while on Friday. He was admitted to a Sebring hospital last Saturday morning and returned home Monday afternoon.

Mrs. R. R. Brown and daughter, Leah Jane returned home the first of the week from a several days visit with relatives in Orlando. Friends of little Leah Jane will regret to know that she has been ill in bed this week, and will wish for her a speedy recovery.

Avon Park friends of Mrs. W. J. Pratt, who is ill in a Kingston, New York hospital, where she underwent an operation last week morning, will regret to learn that she remains in a serious condition. Her daughter, Mrs. Walter S. Betts, left last night for Kingston to be with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spencer of Stratford, Ontario, Canada, arrived here Saturday to spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. James Linton, and other relatives. This is the fourteenth winter that Mr. and Mrs. Spencer have spent in Avon Park, and during this time, they have made a number of friends, who are all pleased each season at their return.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Barnett arrived Monday from their home in Houston, Texas, and are spending several days here looking after property interests. They were joined on Thursday by their daughter, Mrs. L. E. Humphries, of Memphis, Tenn., who will visit her parents, while they are in Avon Park. The Barnetts are former residents, and their many friends are pleased to see them again.

MR. HALE AT B & B
C. W. Hale of Bradenton is the new manager of the police department of the B & B Grocery, having arrived in Avon Park this week. He has been connected with the B & B store in Bradenton.

LOST—Black roan man's coat, Friday night, Nov. 8, between N. T. Marwin's, west Pleasant street and Howard Madison home. Reward for return to Vernon Waters, West Pleasant street.

Good Program At P.T.A. Regular Meeting Thursday

Mr. M. V. Fitcher, program chairman for the day, announced a splendid program for the regular meeting of the P. T. A., which met on Thursday afternoon at the high school auditorium. Rev. J. P. Dalton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, conducted the devotionals and the Glen Club, under the direction of E. L. Roberts, sang four enjoyable vocal numbers.

In observance of National Education Week, Dr. S. N. Reeves was in here addressed the organization on the subject of "Education for Democracy." However, Dr. Reeves was unable to attend the meeting.

In connection with the subject, four members of the speech class of Chester Valley, gave short talks on the program, on various angles as they concerned "Education for Democracy."

Mary Purdie, the first speaker spoke on "Education for Home-Makers," she stressed the importance of education as it pertained to housekeeping, and balancing the budget and said that the housewife should be educated in art and culture. One phase of culture she mentioned was harmony in the home. 80 per cent of the money is spent by the housewife, she said, and therefore, she should be educated in how best to manage the affairs of the home.

Mrs. J. O. Parks, who was "Training for Citizenship" as a guest to a community, and she thought it should be compulsory to study citizenship in the school, as well as algebra, and other studies. The speaker said she thought that better citizenship would be away with the lingo that creep into our community.

The young people of today have decisions to make in the road, but they must be trained which of the two ways to go, to failure or success. They must trained today for the citizens of tomorrow.

Jane Clements read a paper prepared by Claire Vandewere on "How is the School Training the Student in Leadership." The library, she said, the provider of good reading at all times, and of a source for leisure time. There is no excuse to not use the library. If one takes advantage of the opportunities offered by the use of good books, that are always to be had, she concluded.

Wayman Carter, the last speaker, spoke on the subject of "Education for Life Work." He said that work comprised the chief part of life, and one must enjoy his work, otherwise his time is wasted. He stressed the point that the young people of today should specialize for their life's work, and that there is more competition today than ever before.

Following the program, the business meeting was held, presided by Mrs. J. Paul Garber, president. Reports were given the treasurer's report being particularly satisfying, showing a balance of $100.50.

A discussion was held regarding a suggestion by the Sebring P. T. A. that the organization at Avon Park, Lake Placid, and Sebring give an evening of entertainment, consisting of a one act play presented by each group, the program to be given in each town on different evenings in the early part of December. The plan met with the approval of the members, and it was decided that the president name a committee to cooperate with the organizations in the other towns on the date and other details.

Mrs. I. H. Ford was named chairman of the committee to decorate the car that the P. T. A. will enter in the Armistice day parade. Members of her committee are Mrs. C. B. Glen Jr., Miss Millie Pearson, and Mrs. T. J. Ward.

The president spoke to the American Red Cross roll call, and asked that all members respond and be prepared when the work comes call. She stated that one half of the proceeds will be turned over to the finance committee of the P. T. A. for welfare work.

Mrs. Charles Moffett, membership chairman, reported 170 members paid to date. Mrs. A. C. Wester, welfare chairman, said that with the approach of cold weather, the need for warm clothing had increased, and asked the cooperation of members in making donations.

In the room count, the prizes were awarded to Miss Alma Harrell, room for the elementary grades, and to Miss Mary Key's room for the high school.

Mrs. Fred Touchton, Miss Mary Leita Touchton, and Mrs. Mary Leita Touchton, and Mrs. Mary Leita Touchton, spent the day Thursday in Tampa.

REV. JOE COOKER VAN DYKE

Nazarene Revival Starts Sunday

You are invited to attend each service of a series of Gospel services to be delivered by Joe Cooker Van Dyke in a revival at the Church of Christ beginning Sunday, Nov. 12. The Bible is to be recognized as the standard of authority. Book, chapter, and verse of the Bible shall be given in pointing out the way of salvation. Mr. Van Dyke has preached in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, and Kentucky. He is now located in Avon Park. Hear him in this meeting. Leslie H. Reader, an experienced song leader, is to be in charge of the song service. You will enjoy the congregational singing of good, old, familiar hymns. Service, daily 7:30 p. m. Sundays 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m.

Nita Bryant Has Delightful Party

Nita Bryant has an attractive hostess on Thursday evening, at a winter roast, given at Holly Hurst, the affair being given in honor of her fourteenth birthday anniversary. A huge bonfire was built on the shore of the lake, which provided an ideal setting for the happy group. Waiters were roasts and were served with potato salad, and ice cream and cake. A spirit of gaiety prevailed as songs were sung and games were played around the fire. A delightful feature was the opening of the many lovely birthday memorabilia, brought as a pleasant reminder of the occasion.

During the course of the party, Nita was made most happy by receiving a cablegram from her father, who is located in Central America.

Those shaping the party with her were Claire Elmont, Betty Moffett, Winifred Demott, Winifred Dill, Mary Pardee, Margaret Dillay, Madge Fitcher, Juanita Crosby.

THE SUN

Published every Saturday at Sun Court, Avon Park, Florida
GILBERT FREEMAN
Publisher
W. M. HETHERINGTON,
Managing Editor

Entered as Second Class Mail at the Post Office at Avon Park, Florida, under Act of March 3, 1879

Subscription Rates:
One year in County $2.50
One year outside County $2.50

"SAFETY"

Is Insured by your local Druggists in the JACARANDA DRUG STORE

They carry out your Doctors orders as specified. And they fill ANY Doctors PRESCRIPTION.

PHARMACEUTISTS:
S. S. THAYER
Virginia Spencer

We Thank You

We feel grateful to the people of Avon Park district for their expression of confidence in placing us on the local board of school trustees.

We hope we may hold that confidence by giving our best to our schools.

I. H. FORD
T. J. WARD
MRS. WINIFRED TODD

Juanita Crosby

into Crosby, Ruth Paulson, Dorothy Lawson, Helen Jarrett, Josephine Brown, Lena Mae Perry, Peggy Lee Smith, Virginia Spencer, Willie Pearl McGiboney, Dorothy Welsh, Harriet Shewett, Peggy Mandis, Mary Carratt, Martha McFarr, Mrs. Louise McVickers, Miss Alice Davidson, Mrs. J. Robert Elnabart, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Demott, Mrs. Ernest Spencer, Madge McVickers, Calvin, Tommy, and Ewart Bryant and Mrs. C. O. Bryant.

Mrs. Rawlings Returns From Trip

Mrs. W. S. Rawlings returned home Tuesday from an unusually delightful six weeks' trip, that included visits to many points of interest. The trip was made with the American Express Tours, and her companions were two friends, Mrs. Anna Boveratt and Mrs. Sadie Wolff, both of Virginia. The tour started from Washington, from where they went to New York City to attend the World's Fair, then to Cuba, and through the Panama Canal, via boat, the trip being made on the President Felt. The return was made up through Los Angeles, and San Francisco, Cal., where they attended the Golden Gate Exposition, then on to Reno, Colorado Springs, Chicago, and back to Washington. Mrs. Rawlings stated that the trip was most enjoyable, and that they saw much beautiful scenery, and many interesting sights along the way.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank our friends for their many acts of kindness and sympathy during our recent bereavement, and deeply appreciate the floral tributes that were sent at this time.

Mrs. Walter Bradbury and Family

WALTER S. BETTS

REAL ESTATE
REGISTERED
BROKER
Avon Park, Fla. Phone 2
LISTINGS SOLICITED
Nita Bryant

With One of The Best Equipped Shoe Rebuilding Shops in Florida

COUPLED WITH Expert Workmanship Quality Materials At No Higher Cost We Solicit Your Shoe Repairing

Stewart's

EXPERT SHOE REPAIRING

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

STEWART'S

Clubs and Parties . . .

By HETTIE H. HETHERINGTON — Phone 54

Mrs. Seasholes' Official Visit To Rebekah Lodge

Mrs. Ida Seasholes of Jacksonville, state president of the Rebekah Assembly of Florida, made her official visit to the lodge in Avon Park on Monday evening. The auspicious occasion being marked with a banquet and special meeting, given in her honor.

The banquet was held at the Avon Grill at six o'clock, a nautical theme being chosen for the table appointments, with the colors of pink and green predominating. The long table had for its centerpiece, an oval reflecting, bearing a ship and a miniature house, suggestive of the "first port." The ship's sail bore the three links, representing Friendship, Love and Truth, symbolic of the Old Fellows' lodge. Sprays of feathery fern and pink vine encircled the centerpiece, and a tawdry of the greenery extended the length of the table, interspersed with tall pink and green tapers glowing from crystal holders.

Guests found their places by the use of clever plaques, and in the design of an old fashioned girl. The cover bore the name of the honor guest, with name card attached, and the inside pages contained the program, menu, and songs that were sung during the banquet. Modernistic little favors at each place were also given, nosegays, made of pink and green crepe paper frilling, with candy gumdrops representing the flowers, the stems being wrapped in silver, and tied with green ribbon. Mrs. Reba Haynie, noble grand of the local Rebekah lodge, very graciously presided, and welcomed the address of welcome. Mrs. Fannie Spink was toastmistress of the evening, and Mrs. Harriet Smith gave the invocation. Mrs. Seasholes, and other distinguished guests present, were greeted lovingly.

The delicious menu of the banquet consisted of: Cream of chicken soup, baked chicken, chicken dressing, cranberry sauce, green beans, candied yams, Waldorf salad, hot buttered rolls, celery, olives, pineapple pie, hot apple pie.

At 8 o'clock, the members and guests assembled in the lodge room for the meeting. The spacious room was transformed into a beautiful setting, the nautical theme chosen for the banquet being further portrayed in detail. As a background for the decorations, the windows were stained blue, and the altar was made in the design of a ship, with the American flag, proudly waving from the white sail on the ship's bow. Overhead the moon and seven stars twinkled over the impressive scene, the realistic effect, and each spoke briefly, Mrs. Seasholes, as a token of admiration and esteem of the local lodge, was presented, a crystal table lamp, in modernistic design, fashioned in the shape of a flower, and a basket filled with an old fashioned bouquet of autumn blossoms. Tall ferns and vases of garden flowers, and roses were placed at points of vantage about the room.

The out of town guests present on this delightful occasion included, Mrs. Seasholes; Mrs. Thelma Ross, Kissimmee; Mrs. Rosalie Shaw, Mrs. Jennie Flood, Mrs. Dorothy Dykeman, Mrs. Ella Torp, Miss Helen Dykeman, of Lake Wales; and Mrs. C. E. Johnson, Mrs. Alice Hudson, Mrs. Lily Mae Davis, Mrs. Mattie Durranne, Mrs. and Mrs. B. Crawford, Mrs. Edith Adams of Ft. Meade; Miss Mary Albritton, Bryant L. Coker, Mrs. Elizabeth Albritton, Hoesa Albritton of Wanchula, and Mrs. Gertrude Parley of Winter Haven. Members of the local lodge attending were Mrs. Reba Haynie, Mrs. Tenille Haynie, Miss Ruby Norton, Mrs. Jewel DeLong, Mrs. Fannie Spink, Mrs. Helen Mann, Mrs. Harriet Smith, Miss Jean Correll, Mrs. Agnes Cox, Mrs. Daisy Ten Eyck, Mrs. Nancy Bennett, Mrs. Lillian Hoogboom, Mrs. Ella Hargraves, Miss Doris Williams, Mrs. Carolyn Turner, Mrs. Kathleen Currie, Miss Mildred Wray, Mrs. F. E. Wray, Mrs. Eddie Hansen.

B. P. W. Club Meets
The B.P.W. Club held their regular business meeting at the club room in the city hall on Monday evening. Miss Rose Abramson, recently elected president of the organization, was installed. Officers who will serve for the ensuing year are Mrs. Phillip Boardman, vice president; Miss Sarah Boardman, treasurer; Mrs. Fred Peden, recording secretary, and Mrs. Katherine Bristol, corresponding secretary.

Buffet Supper Is Given For Members Of Wedding Party

Following the rehearsal on Friday evening, for the wedding of Miss Grace Reddick and Memorabile C. Weir Jr., which will be an event of today, Mr. and Mrs. Devan Reddick entertained members of the wedding party, and the immediate families, at a buffet supper at their home on Lake Avenue.

The dining table was covered with a handsome linen cloth, with a center arrangement of orchid pompon chrysanthemums, in a low crystal bowl, flanked on either side by tall white burning tapers, in two branched candleabra.

The guests included, Miss Grace Reddick, Mr. Weir, Miss Mary Weir of Montgomery, Ala., Dick Harris of Tallahassee, Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Mingleford, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reddick, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Martin, Miss Hilda Reddick, Miss Doris Reddick, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Goss Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Layton, Fred Reddick and C. B. Martin.

—PICK IT UP—

Engagement of Popular Couple Is Announced

Mrs. Foster Pierce Key announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary Mason, to Mr. Holland Stebbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Stebbins of Avon Park. No date has been set for the wedding.

The above announcement, which appeared in the Green Cove Springs paper last week, will be received with interest by friends of the couple here. Miss Key is a member of the high school faculty in the Avon Park schools. Mr. Stebbins is connected with the engineering department of the Florida Public Service company in Orlando.

—PICK IT UP—

Methodist Society Elects Officers

The Missionary society of the First Methodist church held its regular monthly business meeting and election of officers for the ensuing year at the church on Tuesday afternoon. All officers and committee chairmen were unanimously re-elected to office for another year.

Those officers and chairmen are: Mrs. A. C. Wester, president; Mrs. A. M. Ewell, vice president; Mrs. M. L. Rogers, secretary; Mrs. C. H. Parden, general treasurer; Mrs. John D. Raab, local treasurer; Mrs. Chas. H. Harris, superintendent of World Outlook and Missionary Bible study; Mrs. R. A. Gerrard, superintendent of social relations; Mrs. I. L. Holl, superintendent of supplies; Mrs. L. M. Orr, superintendent of spiritual life.

Miss Cook Hostess To Sans Souci Club

A colorful party of Tuesday evening was given at the customer's room of the Florida Public Service company, when Miss Janet Cook was hostess to members of the Sans Souci club, and a few additional guests, at a dessert bridge. Autumn flowers, with bouquets of deep yellow marigolds predominating, formed the effective decorations.

Early in the evening, the guests were served tempting refreshments of apple pie with warm custard, and a variety of delicious pastries.

High score prize, a white pottery flower pot was given to Dr. and Mrs. D. G. Perry, and second high award, a set of three linen towels was won by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lanier.

Those enjoying the party were Mrs. Alma Harrell, Miss Millie Pearson, Miss Julia Norfleet, Mrs. Fred Peden, Mrs. Raymond Dilley, Mrs. C. R. Ginn, Jr., Mrs. Chas. Sherman, Miss Elizabeth Green, Miss J. Phillips, Miss Janet Cook, Miss Sarah Browning, Miss Hattie Hundertmark, Mrs. John Bunting, Mrs. Nelson Smith, Miss Evelyn Clements, and Mrs. C. E. Crabtree.

—PICK IT UP—

Baptist Society Has Program Meeting

The regular monthly business meeting of the W. M. S. of the First Baptist church was held Monday afternoon at the church.

The meeting opened with the song, "Love Lifted Me," followed by prayer by Mrs. C. W. Faber. Mrs. W. W. McFarland, president, led the devotional, which was taken from I Samuel. Old and new business was discussed, after which the secretary's and treasurer's reports were read, and committee reports were heard. Mrs. McFarland closed the meeting with prayer. Those present were Mrs. C. W. Faber, Mrs. W. W. McFarland, Mrs. E. C. Weaver, Mrs. Adele Lounny, Mrs. Paul, Mrs. J. E. Crosby, Mrs. L. D. McGiboney, Mrs. B. F. Martin, Mrs. Otto Skipper, Mrs. D. T. Lockett, Mrs. J. F. Dalton, Mrs. Fred Wetherbee, Mrs. J. D. Sherman, Mrs. J. R. Goss, Jr., and Miss Tommie Lou Goss.

—PICK IT UP—

ATTENDS CONFERENCE
Rev. C. R. Mingleford, pastor of the First Methodist Church was in Lakeland Thursday and Friday, where he attended an adjourned session of the first annual conference of the newly-organized Methodist church. Bishop Paul B. Kern of Nashville presided. C. H. Parden, Mrs. C. R. Mingleford, Mrs. C. H. Gerrard and Mrs. John D. Raab, attended the conference on Thursday evening.

Let honor be to us as strong as obligation, as necessity is to other. —Piny.

Hartt Entertain Thursday Evening

Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Hartt entertained at a lovely bridge party at their home, Leola road, on Thursday evening, the guests including bridge club members, and several other friends. Fall blossoms, in a variety of lovely shades, adorned the party rooms.

In keeping with the Armistice day motif, guests kept their scores on tallies in a colorful red and white design, and red and white candles were placed on each table. Frozen punch was served during the evening, and a dainty dessert course was served after the games.

High score prize, a white pottery flower pot was given to Dr. and Mrs. D. G. Perry, and second high award, a set of three linen towels was won by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lanier.

Those enjoying the party were Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McNicholas, Dr. and Mrs. D. G. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Garber, and Mrs. Fred Keuse of Miami.

—PICK IT UP—

Bridge Luncheon Is Lovely Affair

A lovely affair of Wednesday was given at the home of Mrs. E. P. Loomis, when she entertained members of her bridge luncheon club. The attractive rooms were decorated with autumn foliage, for the occasion.

At one o'clock, a dainty luncheon was served on the card tables, after which a number of enjoyable progressions of bridge were played. High and second high score prizes were awarded to Mrs. P. L. Runyan and Mrs. Margery Church. Both prizes were colorful packages of Christmas wrappings.

Those enjoying the luncheon and bridge were Mrs. Margery Church, Mrs. P. L. Runyan, Mrs. Earl W. Hartt, Mrs. A. J. Johnson, Jr., Mrs. Demos Mandia, Mrs. M. V. Picher, and Mrs. Sue Gregory.

—PICK IT UP—

Trump It Club Enjoys Party

Mrs. Paul McFarland was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a very delightful party, her guests including members of the Trump It bridge club. Marigolds, tastefully arranged, formed the colorful autumn decorations.

High score prize, in the bridge game was awarded to Mrs. John Bunting, who received a pair of sheer hose; and second high, a white pottery vase was won by Mrs. Hubert Milton. Delicious refreshments of date delight and whipped cream, and coffee were served.

Those present were Mrs. Zed Scarborough, Mrs. Roy Folkner, Mrs. Nelson Smith, Mrs. J. C. Dushong, Mrs. Hubert Milton, Mrs. George Haynie, Mrs. T. J. McGinnis, Mrs. John Bunting, and Mrs. McFarland.

Officers Entertained At Buffet Supper

Mrs. Katherine Bristol was hostess at her home on Monday evening, at a six o'clock dinner, given in honor of the incoming and outgoing officers of the B. P. W. club. The delicious dinner was served at the long dining table, that had for a centerpiece, a bowl of exquisite roses. Following the dinner, the guests attended the meeting of the club.

Those enjoying the affair were Mrs. Olive E. Anderson, Mrs. Phillip Boardman, Miss Rose Abramson, Mrs. Fred Peden, Miss Sarah Browning, Miss Mattie Tompkins, Mrs. C. R. Ginn, Jr., Mrs. Millie Pearson, Miss Margarette Vogt, Mrs. Pearl Spink, and Mrs. Bristol.

—PICK IT UP—

BOBBY ROUSE HAS PARTY

In celebration of his thirteenth birthday, Bobby Rouse was host to several of his friends at a party on Tuesday afternoon. Games of Bingo and football formed the delightful diversions, and prizes were awarded to the successful winners in the bingo game. Delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served late in the afternoon. Favors were cellphane bags of candy.

Those enjoying the party were Winifred Archer, Alice Rouse, Bobby Keller, Arthur Gregory, Billie Archer, Billie Heim, and Jimmie Hetherington.

ART CLUB TO MEET TUESDAY

The November meeting of the Art Club will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Woman's club. This will be an evening of Mexican Art with Mrs. L. H. Park, in charge of the program. A paper on Mexico and Mexican Art will be given by Mrs. C. P. Turner, and a group of Spanish songs will be sung by Mrs. T. J. Ward. A round table discussion of current art items will be led by Mrs. William Hauptmann. There will also be a display of Mexican art.

Find Your Name In The Ads

Free Theatre Tickets

If your name appears in one of the ads appearing in this issue of The Sun, you will receive a free ticket to the Park Theatre good for either Tuesday or Wednesday, Nov. 14-15. Clip and in which your name appears and take it to the box office and see THE HITZ BROTHERS.

—THE GORILLA
PARK THEATRE

Thanksgiving Special ON

Permanent $2.00

OTHER WAVES FROM $3.00 to $7.50

Our waves will please you.

Jacaranda Beauty Shoppe

Phone 205
Jacaranda Arcade

NEW IDEAS For an old time THANKSGIVING DINNER

By Dorothy Greig

NORTH, south, east and west. Millions of us are busy on Thanksgiving. But right there our imagination ends. What is served before the turkey, with the turkey, and following the turkey versus from family to family.

It is fun, too, to vary our Thanksgiving dinner a little from year to year as we learn of new ways to make it an even more glorious feast.

For instance, this Thanksgiving menu has several new flavor notes:

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Tomato-Oyster Rique
Creamy Mushroom-Turkey Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Battered Onions

Roasted Rolls with Butter
Cranberry Sauce
Pumpkin Custard Pie with Spicy Meringue

The Tomato-Oyster Rique is a beautiful beginning to the feast:

*Tomato-Oyster Rique

1 cup oysters (with liquor)

1 cup tomato catsup

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup ketchup

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

1/2 cup tomato juice

1/2 cup onion juice

*Creamy Mushroom-Turkey Gravy
Add one cup of water to the drippings of a roasted turkey. Simmer for 10 minutes. Strain through a fine sieve. Add one cup of condensed cream. Add two cups of condensed milk. Add two cups of condensed milk. Add two cups of condensed milk.

cream of mushroom soup and still will be blended and smooth. Bring to a boil and serve very hot. If a thinner gravy is desired more water may be added.

Drink
Coca-Cola
Delicious and Refreshing

So good by itself...
so good with food

Ice-cold Coca-Cola with food is a pleasant taste-surprise. Its life and sparkle give zest to something good to eat. That's why you see more and more people enjoying it with lunch.

Avon Park Coca Cola Bottling Company

THE MARRIAGE

BY TALBOT MUNDY

CHAPTER XIX—Continued.

"I'll talk English to His Highness," said Rundiha. "The old sheep shall do one useful thing before he dies. You have the poison ready?"

"Yes, but this is a crisis," the Bengali answered. "Are you in a fit condition to control a crisis? To me, you seem very nervous. Let me feel your heart-beat. Why not postpone this until tomorrow?"

"Because tomorrow the old sheep might change his will. I've had a warning from the Resident. By day after tomorrow, they might already have vetoed my succession to the throne. If he's already decided they'll let me succeed, to save themselves trouble. So poison the old sheep tonight, and take your money and go to the devil. I hope I never see you again. If you fail, I'll take damned good care you won't see him again. If you succeed, you'll see him again. If you fail, I'll take damned good care you won't see him again. If you succeed, you'll see him again. If you fail, I'll take damned good care you won't see him again."

"There is no risk of failure, unless you are too excited and behave suspiciously."

"Yes, there is," said Rundiha. "You do as I tell you. Be a little late with his tonic, so he drinks it grudgingly. I'm going to see him now. After I come out, you wait until someone else goes in to see him."

"But if no one goes?"

"I will take care that someone does go. If you give it to him in someone else's presence, it will look more innocent. Will he be able to speak after he drinks it?"

"No. It will paralyze his nerves immediately."

"How long will it take him to die?"

"Perhaps ten minutes. Perhaps less. It will appear to be heart failure."

"Very well then. Where's your needle? Give me a strong shot."

"No. Not too strong. You must not get the habit. After this, you will need your faculties well controlled. If we are not to be found out, I will give you just sufficient to steady your nerves."

The Maharajah stared, noted the expression on Rundiha's face when he entered the room and made a warning gesture toward the Punjabi stamp salesman.

"Can he understand English?" Rundiha demanded.

"Believe not."

"Well, I will speak English. If he does understand it, it won't matter. I want you to call up the Resident and demand the immediate arrest of Captain Norwood."

"Why?" asked the Maharajah.

"He has not only taken a bribe from the priests, as you already know."

"I have heard it said."

"You know it's true. And now he has assaulted me. He needed me out with a punch in the face."

"Were you drunk?" asked the Maharajah. And, before Rundiha could answer: "It would be beneath my dignity to ask the Resident to take official cognizance of a brawl between two drunkards."

CHAPTER XX

Lynn changed from the Indian costume. She entered the Maharajah's boudoir in a chiffon evening gown.

"Please don't get so excited, dear. You treat me as if I were royalty and you a subject or something."

"Why did you change your dress, Lynn? You looked so charming in it."

"Oh, this dress feels more honest somehow. I mean, I'm not in my real colors. Maharajah dear, I'm afraid I'm all upset. I'm not fit to talk to."

"Lynn dear, what has happened?"

"Rundiha made love to me, and I wasn't even polite to him. Captain Norwood came, and punched Rundiha—he knocked him off the wall. I thought he had killed him. Oh, why do I keep on getting other people into trouble?"

The Maharajah's worried face seemed to ease under Lynn's eyes.

"Lynn, did he hurt Rundiha badly?"

"No, I think not. Rundiha walked away."

"Did you speak to Captain Norwood?"

"Yes, I insulted him. I did it thoroughly. I suppose I shouldn't have, since it was he who injured him. But I couldn't help it. I'll store up my letter, so I force up, I am not meek by nature. I'm not good at pretending. But if you are sure?"

"Captain Norwood went down on the wall to look. It wasn't long before Rundiha walked away. I don't know why he didn't come back and see Captain Norwood, but perhaps he was too stunned by being knocked off the wall. Rundiha didn't behave very well."

"He needs you, Lynn."

"Lynn laughed—bitter—contemptuous. "Needs me? I need a friend. I'm alone."

"Be strong," said the Maharajah. "I am your friend."

"Yes, bless you, Rundiha seemed strong," Lynn said. "And he talked like a perfect lover. I had almost begun to believe he was love. And then something happened. There was shooting—perhaps nothing important—I don't know. I asked Rundiha, and I thought he was lying when he said he didn't know. After that—it was quite sudden—I didn't believe in him any more. I can't explain it. Then Captain Norwood came."

A servant entered. He announced that Prince Rundiha was waiting.

"Lynn, will you see him?"

"Not alone," Lynn answered.

"The Maharajah thought a minute: 'It is against precedent, against custom. Lynn dear, will you be shocked if I ask Rundiha to come in here to talk to us?'"

Lynn found a smile. "I suppose you're afraid he might brag! Let's ask that. I won't tell."

Rundiha strode in. He stood stock still in the center of the room. He was wearing a blood-red turban and silver jacket. He looked like the real Rundiha again. Easy to imagine him horsed and riding hard at Lynn and Lynn at Lynn's moment, then at the Maharajah.

"Has Lynn told you?" he asked.

"Yes, Rundiha. What did you do to make Captain Norwood stir?"

Rundiha tossed his head. He looked like a man when he did that.

"Lynn saw Lynn here," he answered. "I went at once and demanded Norwood's arrest. His Highness your husband, my reverend and sincere friend, reduced. Lynn must decide."

"Decide what?" Lynn asked.

"Rundiha looked strangely at her. "Does he live or die? It was because you were there that Norwood struck me. I hadn't offered to strike him. That is what you must decide now. Lynn, I have offered you my heart and the throne of Kadur. What is your answer?"

"Yes," said the Maharajah—and stopped speaking.

There was a knock at the door. A servant entered.

"The Maharajah sahib! He wants. He begs leave to speak to Her Highness the Maharajah. Captain Norwood says his business is very urgent."

"I will not see Captain Norwood," said the Maharajah. "This is no hour for me to receive him. He should ask for His Highness my husband. I will send word to His Highness, asking him to receive Captain Norwood."

The servant vanished.

Lynn got up out of her chair. She looked desperate but perfectly calm.

"Lynn darling," said the Maharajah.

Rundiha interrupted. "Norwood's fate is in your hands. I will do anything for you—"

"If what, Rundiha?"

"If you accept my love."

"I don't love you," she answered. "Accept my love. My love will make you love me."

"No!" Lynn said.

"I will kill Norwood. After that, I will let happen what may. If my love means nothing, I will wrangle it into oblivion. Yes or no, Lynn?"

"Rundiha's voice was as quiet and controlled as if she were facing death. "The barrier between you and I is too high when you boasted of Captain Norwood's ruin. You promised me that you would do your best to clear him. Did you?"

"Yes," said Rundiha. "But if you will marry me, I will accept your promise. I don't believe you know how to break one. I will keep mine."

"Rundiha," said Lynn. "I will promise to marry you. If you will write, and sign, a retraction of all and all accusations against Captain Norwood, and then put it in the form of a letter to the British Resident, and it must be witnessed by the Maharajah and the Maharajah,

You must meet Captain Norwood in my presence, and the Maharajah, and you must say to him personally that you withdraw. I won't let you to beg his pardon, because I won't do that. I won't speak to him. But I insist on your behaving like a man."

The Maharajah spoke suddenly with a ring of command in her voice.

"Rundiha, go to the table and write!"

Rundiha went to the table. Lynn followed him. The Maharajah said: "Maharajah dear, you must be my wife friend, for I am all in the dark. I feel so western and so lonely, and I don't know whether I am doing right or wrong. But I will do my best."

Lynn interrupted her: "Will you make me a promise? Will you never, never tell Captain Norwood why I married Rundiha? Will you keep it a secret?"

The Maharajah was silent for nearly a minute. She was not quite dry-eyed. She spoke suddenly, low-voiced:

"Lynn, do you love Captain Norwood?"

"Maharajah dear, I have promised to marry Rundiha."

CHAPTER XXI

Norwood stood stock-still, beneath a Tibetan devil-mask, between two suits of ancient Indian armor. He had sent up his card to the Maharajah with a request for an immediate interview. It was an outrageous request, and he knew it. The palace chamberlain approached him, stared—stared hard—hesitated, and then:

"Captain Norwood? We had heard you are dead!"

"Yes, I have been wondering who is to take a knock at the door. The Maharajah held it!"

"No, I believe not. He is rather inaccessible this evening. And it was only a rumor. I am sorry. It was thought best not to mention it to him prematurely. May I congratulate you on your escape. It was said that criminals attacked your camp. I am sincerely—"

"Thank you."

"Your business at the palace? I think the Maharajah might be pleased to see you. He has a document—"

"I have asked to see the Maharajah."

"Here comes the servant," said Norwood.

The servant delivered his message. Norwood upstairs as far as the anteroom that led into the Maharajah's study.

"I am sure His Highness will be glad to see you, because of that new document he has discovered. The attendant in the anteroom will announce you. He—he'll say you may believe it or not, but I wouldn't dare go to do it."

"Don't mention my name," said Norwood.

"I wouldn't think of it. The doctor and I are not cronies. I will simply say someone went in. I believe you will be admitted to His Highness's study. I think he really wants to see you."

The chamberlain left him. Norwood was announced. The Punjabi stamp salesman was dismissed, smiling as if he had done good business. The door closed, and Norwood was alone with the Maharajah.

At last the Maharajah spoke: "I am pleased to receive you, Captain Norwood, even though the hour is unusual. You came to speak to me about the—sh—boundary dispute?"

Supplying pure, good-tasting water to a modern city has its ups and downs. One of the biggest "downs" is the sudden appearance of a small, taste suggesting moldy basement, cuminers, pig pens or long-leaved plants. This means that algae are growing. The algae are the trouble shooters at the water works. They are always a smart clog or two. That is when the superintendent of the reservoir has his worst. Nearly every city water system that draws its supply from surface reservoirs must be guarded constantly against sudden invasions of such algae and their relatives, writes Walter B. Burton in Nature Magazine. The chemist at the water works keeps a rogue's gallery of photomicrographs of the offenders. Once they are identified as have news. Since I saw you, my secretary has found a document which seems to me to make the priests' case so ridiculous that—"

"Oh, I expect to find in the favor of the priests, Your Highness. Those documents may interest lawyers. I am only concerned with the boundary line. I have been excited of accepting a bribe from the priests—"

"Oh! Captain Norwood, you astonish me. Who is your accuser?"

"I supposed you already knew. He will tell you. As a matter of fact, I called on Her Highness the Maharajah. I want to speak to Miss Lynn Harding. I have reason to believe that without the Maharajah's advice she might refuse to see me until perhaps tomorrow. I need to see her tonight. I hoped to persuade the Maharajah to arrange the interview, but she refused, so I came to you instead."

"It is urgent? Won't you please be seated? Won't you read this document?"

"Your Highness, do you think I would disturb you at this time of night if it wasn't urgent?"

"Oh, well, possibly an interview can be arranged. I am busy presently. Won't you read that document?"

Norwood smiled agreeably: "I will. As you have reason to know, I'm a bit slow at reading this ancient script."

"I wouldn't care to let that out of my possession," said the Maharajah.

"Quite me," Norwood answered. "I ask nothing better than to sit here for the time being. You look like the look you, later."

The Maharajah looked up sharply, but Norwood raised the document between them. He couldn't see Norwood's face.

"You flatter me," he said after a moment.

At last came a knock at the door. The Maharajah tapped the gong with his fingers and the Bengali door entered, making his suave professional bow. He was followed by the Maharajah's personal attendant, carrying a big blue goblet on a silver tray. The Bengali eyed Norwood with horror.

"You are late," said the Maharajah.

"I was delayed, your Highness."

Norwood had laid down the document. He rose from his chair. He stepped behind the Bengali. He held the right fist ready for emergency and aimed the goblet in his hand. The Bengali stepped back, out of reach of the fist. The Maharajah made a sound of surprise, not unlike a sheep's bleat. The white-clothed servant backed away, showing the whites of his eyes. Norwood added the goblet toward the Bengali:

"Drink it!" he commanded.

The Bengali was speechless. It was several moments before he could stammer: "Sir, are you mad?"

The Maharajah, with his slow, steady, and easy hand, poured the drink of the drink of the golden goblet, leaned forward, staring.

Norwood spoke again quite calmly. But it was a deadly calm. It frightened the Bengali:

"You are, aren't you, the doctor who poisoned Mrs. Harding's toast?"

"Sir, beware when you slander!" The Bengali appealed to the Maharajah: "Is Your Highness pleased to hear me slandered by a madman who is known to have been bribed by—"

Norwood interrupted: "Cut that! You heard me. Drink it!"

"That is His Highness' look," said the Maharajah. He looked almost happy. He sounded quite calm. But his fingers drummed on the desk. Not a sign of humor.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

'Algae' Worry Scientists Seeking Pure Water Supply

One of the most offensive algae, Reservoir Enemy No. 1—is Synura Uvella. It is a two-tailed creature that likes to travel in gangs of 50 or so. Such a bank, magnified 60 times, makes a spot about the size of a cucumber. The green, sticky mass in a gallon of water will make it taste pretty awful—some say like cucumber. The algae are the trouble makers at the water works. They are always a smart clog or two. That is when the superintendent of the reservoir has his worst. Nearly every city water system that draws its supply from surface reservoirs must be guarded constantly against sudden invasions of such algae and their relatives, writes Walter B. Burton in Nature Magazine. The chemist at the water works keeps a rogue's gallery of photomicrographs of the offenders. Once they are identified as

Tonsillitis May Have Harmful Heart Effects

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

IT is often a number of weeks after an attack of tonsillitis that rheumatic pains and perhaps heart symptoms appear so that the tonsils are not blamed for the attack. It is a fact that rheumatism and heart disease. As so many attacks of tonsillitis are not followed by rheumatism, there may be many, including physicians, who doubt the statement that tonsillitis can affect the heart. It is interesting, therefore, to get some reliable information from the medical clinic of the University of Zurich, Switzerland.

Dr. H. W. Hotz, Basel, in the Swiss Medical Journal, states that during the first part of 1938 there was an epidemic of tonsillitis and many of the nursing staff contracted it. There were many with symptoms of rheumatism and disturbed hearts. It was decided to make electrocardiograms on all patients who had inflammatory diseases of the tonsils, and abnormalities were observed in a surprisingly large number. The severity of the tonsil symptoms did not always cause the same degree of disturbance of the heart rate and rhythm, as severe tonsillitis sometimes caused very little heart disturbance and slight tonsillitis sometimes caused a great amount of heart disturbance. It was shown, therefore, that a slight sore throat is seldom suspected of being the cause of heart trouble.

Effect of Tonsil Removal. The investigations of Dr. Hotz and others showed that these changes of the rate and rhythm of the heart disappeared as soon as the tonsils were removed. These disturbances of the heart occurred in about half the patients with tonsillitis due to the heart muscle and the severity of the heart muscle and the severity of the heart muscle and the severity of the heart muscle.

While it is not recommended that every patient with tonsillitis should undergo the electrocardiogram tests, it is emphasized that physical exertion should be avoided for the first few days after the disappearance of tonsillitis. Dr. Hotz recommends that cases of chronic tonsillitis—persistent sore throat, if possible, have electrocardiogram tests and if the tests show heart disturbance, the tonsils should be removed.

Thyroid Gland Affects Personality

A strong, middle-aged woman in a factory who had always been alert about her work, a good mixer, and very exacting and particular about the work done by the employees, began to get a little heavy in body, slower on her feet, and not quite so careful or exacting about the work done. Then he began to forget things, miss appointments, and a recent expression of face became noticeable. The superintendent finally found it necessary to acquaint the general manager with the conditions in this particular shop.

After talking and reasoning with this foreman, the general manager came to the conclusion that perhaps he was overworked and suggested some holidays. The foreman simply spent the holidays sitting alone at home; he wasn't interested in going away or in doing anything different. Up to this time the family physician had not been called in because there were no symptoms of illness—no pain, indigestion or other symptoms. However, when he saw the man, the great amount of weight he had put on, and the slowness or sluggishness of mind and body, he suspected an inactive thyroid gland as being the trouble and a metabolic test showed that the thyroid gland in the neck was not functioning enough. It is this slowness that speeds up mental and physical activity.

Thyroid Tablets Used. By giving the man some thyroid tablets to take every day, almost immediately a great change occurred. He became interested in his work, older in his mind, mixed with the other men in the day, and began to lose the surplus fat. This condition is called hypothyroidism, or "hypothyroidism," just as the overactive thyroid condition is called hyperthyroidism, or "hyperthyroidism."

Just as the hypothyroid patient with his sluggishness of mind and body must be given some thyroid extract to speed up his processes, must the hyperthyroid patient with overactivity of mind and body have some of his thyroid gland removed so that there will be little or no thyroid juice manufactured. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

The edges were finished with dull gold colored braid and fringes; and it hung with matching cord, tassels and an ordinary curtain rod. What became of the stool and the mirror will be told next week.

NOTE: Readers who are now using Sewing Books No. 1, 2 and 3 will be happy to learn that No. 4 is ready for mailing; as well as the 10 cent editions of No. 1, 2 and 3. Mrs. Spears has just made quick block patterns for three designs selected from her favorite Early American quilts. You may have these patterns FREE with your order for four books. Price of books—10 cents each postpaid. Set of three quick block patterns without books—10 cents. Send orders to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

THE bride came home, but not to weep on Mother's shoulder. "There are too many bare spots in our house," she said; "and I want to rummage in your attic." "You are welcome," replied Mother, "but you will find no antiques—nothing there but junk."

A golden oak dresser; a fish bowl; an old portier; a chrono in a wide gold frame; and an old piano stool; were carried away.

Varnish remover and plain drawer pulls transformed the dresser into a good-looking chest of drawers. A glazier put a mirror in the oval gold frame. Those are dusky pink branches of the fish-bowl—lovely against the roared brocade hanging. The diagram shows how the hanging was made from a part of the portier.

Ask Me Another

A General Quiz

- The Questions
1. What is the difference between a contest and a tournament?
 2. Why did George Eliot, the English novelist and poet, not live to be an old man?
 3. How many time changes from Chicago to San Francisco?
 4. What is a trade dollar?
 5. For what do the following abbreviations stand: Ad lib.; e.g.; i.e.; vs.?
 6. Would you call a person living in Rome a Roman or an Italian?
- The Answers
1. A contest is any battle for supremacy; a tournament usually refers to some test of athletics or card skill.
 2. George Eliot was a woman.
 3. Two—one to mountain time, and one to Pacific time.
 4. A U. S. coin not minted since 1885, made for trade in the Orient.
 5. Ad libitum, at pleasure; e.g., for example; i.e., that is; videlicet, namely.
 6. In Italian, generally, implies the early Roman empire. "Italian" is used.

Engulfed by Taxes

When Edward Green, son of Fletty Green, died in 1936, the claims for death taxes by the federal government and the four states in which he held property, New York, Massachusetts, Florida and Texas—totalled $37,727,213, or $1,300,000 more than the value of his net estate—Collier's.

ARE SLOW-BURNING. THEY GIVE ME SMOKING PLEASURE AT ITS BEST AND MORE OF IT PER PACK

Wherever price you pay per pack, it's important to remember this fact: By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give a smoking pleasure equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF—MORE PUFFS PER PACK

LONG BURNING COSTLIER TOBACCO

By J. Miller Watt

Well, what don't you know what you can

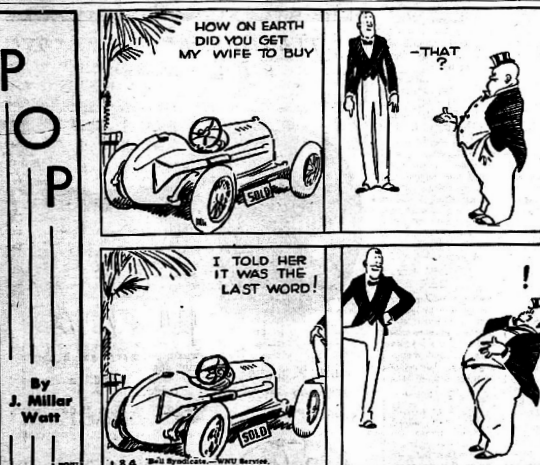

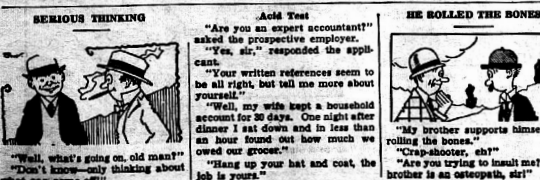

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

SMATTERPOP

by C. M. Payne

Speaking of Sports
Season Opens
On All-America
Grid Selections

By ROBERT McSHANE

FROM Maine to California, from North Dakota to Texas, publicity typewriters are beating out the glories of this year's crop of potential All-America football players.

The publicity department of any large college is a high-spirited, smoothly organized affair, and the choicest gifts for the mill is a possible All-America candidate. Naturally, that Paul Bunyan of the gridiron brings beneficial publicity to his college and state and prides back the drive to see his name engraved on the roll of honor. Students grow enthusiastically, almost with pride and the school reaps the publicity harvest.

Until 1924 the dictator of All-America selections was Walter Camp, whose findings were featured by Collier's. Today the picture has changed. Scores of authorities, both real and self-designated, claim the right to name an All-America football team.

Since Camp's time, however, no selection is looked upon as official. Spalding's Official Football Guide, the football bible of American colleges, does not publish a team choice.

And there's a good reason for that. A truly just, representative All-America team today verges on the impossible. Football is being played at approximately 650 colleges, and less than 10 per cent of those schools have been represented on All-America teams. It is obviously unfair to attempt the selection of 11 men out of the 10,000 and more who play the game.

Here's Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State university's star punter, who has never had an All-America football player. He's just a bit far-fetched to assume that those schools haven't had players worthy of the honor. Some of them certainly have had standard performers who deserved the ranking. Among their well-drilled numbers are bound to be equals of those picked, but in the narrowing down process many are discarded because of the comparative unimportance of their school.

That's where the college publicity office enters into the scheme of things. Their job is to build up any promising candidate. His name must be known from coast to coast. Writers are targets for publicity releases extolling the virtues of Lawrence (Call me Larry) Hap, Potomac college's sure-fire All-America end. Some of the publicity—in fact, most of it—is perfectly legitimate. It cites facts and figures. At other times the publicity is meaningless. Crackpot stuff developed with a "feature" angle. It is fortunate that the latter type is frowned upon by most schools.

The larger schools get the breaks when All-America selections are made. It is only natural that a brighter light is focused on them during the season. Untold thousands of fans eagerly await the outcome of a Minnesota-Notre Dame game and watch the individual performance. How many of those fans know what's happening at Jonesville State Teachers college?

Power in Names

That doesn't mean, of course, that the small college fails to produce its share of what should be All-America players. It does mean that those potential gridiron stars are neglected, except locally, because all too few people know them or are interested in them.

All this is no reflection on the men who select All-America teams. They are usually conscientious and as careful as possible in their choice. Their job is to build up any promising candidate. His name must be known from coast to coast. Writers are targets for publicity releases extolling the virtues of Lawrence (Call me Larry) Hap, Potomac college's sure-fire All-America end. Some of the publicity—in fact, most of it—is perfectly legitimate. It cites facts and figures. At other times the publicity is meaningless. Crackpot stuff developed with a "feature" angle. It is fortunate that the latter type is frowned upon by most schools.

The larger schools get the breaks when All-America selections are made. It is only natural that a brighter light is focused on them during the season. Untold thousands of fans eagerly await the outcome of a Minnesota-Notre Dame game and watch the individual performance. How many of those fans know what's happening at Jonesville State Teachers college?

All this is no reflection on the men who select All-America teams. They are usually conscientious and as careful as possible in their choice. Their job is to build up any promising candidate. His name must be known from coast to coast. Writers are targets for publicity releases extolling the virtues of Lawrence (Call me Larry) Hap, Potomac college's sure-fire All-America end. Some of the publicity—in fact, most of it—is perfectly legitimate. It cites facts and figures. At other times the publicity is meaningless. Crackpot stuff developed with a "feature" angle. It is fortunate that the latter type is frowned upon by most schools.

Sport Shorts

LOUISVILLE set an American association record by making 128 errors this season, one more than St. Paul in 1938. . . Detroit, Mich., will stage the annual American Bowling congress on 40 flights starting March 7. Six freight cars of bowling pins, costing $25,000, have been ordered. . . Only six times in world series history has the series been settled in four straight games. The Boston Braves did it in 1917, 1918, 1922, 1928 and 1929. . . Man O'War and Sun are the only thoroughbreds who have three horses who have won more than $2,000,000. . . Jack Blumhagen, Joe Louisa's trainer, has earned more in five ring battles, . . . Hank Reese, veteran center of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football league, has played the game for 15 years. . . Indiana gridgers consume 11 gallons of milk at each evening meal. . . Approximately 1,700 alumni have won variety letters in all sports at Illinois. . . Johnny Malach, Marquette halfback, bakes a good cake. During the off season he works in his father's bakery in Milwaukee. . . During his playing days, Blumhagen served as third baseman for Pittsburgh, Boston Bees and Cincinnati. He was returned to each club as manager. . . Bucky Walters, the National league's most valuable player, has a better batting average as a pitcher than he had when he played third base. . . Alan Dong, Chinese guard, is the star lineman on a Los Angeles high school eleven. Tetsu Koda, a Japanese, is the team's outstanding back.

Man O'War of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football league, has played the game for 15 years. . . Indiana gridgers consume 11 gallons of milk at each evening meal. . . Approximately 1,700 alumni have won variety letters in all sports at Illinois. . . Johnny Malach, Marquette halfback, bakes a good cake. During the off season he works in his father's bakery in Milwaukee. . . During his playing days, Blumhagen served as third baseman for Pittsburgh, Boston Bees and Cincinnati. He was returned to each club as manager. . . Bucky Walters, the National league's most valuable player, has a better batting average as a pitcher than he had when he played third base. . . Alan Dong, Chinese guard, is the star lineman on a Los Angeles high school eleven. Tetsu Koda, a Japanese, is the team's outstanding back.

Man O'War of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football league, has played the game for 15 years. . . Indiana gridgers consume 11 gallons of milk at each evening meal. . . Approximately 1,700 alumni have won variety letters in all sports at Illinois. . . Johnny Malach, Marquette halfback, bakes a good cake. During the off season he works in his father's bakery in Milwaukee. . . During his playing days, Blumhagen served as third baseman for Pittsburgh, Boston Bees and Cincinnati. He was returned to each club as manager. . . Bucky Walters, the National league's most valuable player, has a better batting average as a pitcher than he had when he played third base. . . Alan Dong, Chinese guard, is the star lineman on a Los Angeles high school eleven. Tetsu Koda, a Japanese, is the team's outstanding back.

Water Bugs

DESPITE the fact that Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speedboat king, established a new world's record of 141.74 miles per hour in his Bluebird, American inboard drivers had a successful season of shattering records for less powerful boat classes.

An official recapitulation shows that Jack Cooper, Kansas City grandfathers, chalked up the fastest speedboat mark in American waters with an 87.485 m.p.h. journey in the 255 hydroplane class. The record was made in a one-mile time trial. The officer also set a distance competitive standard of 66.829 m.p.h. in the 125 class. Bud Smith raised the five-mile competitive record to 66.176.

Zaimon G. Simmons established a distance record for the Gold Cup 12-litre class, of 66.24 m.p.h. in driving My Sin to victory over the 90-mile course.

The country's two other leading inboard classes, 135 and 91, also saw record breakers. Among the 135 boats, John L. Hyde of Washington traveled 67.479 for a mile trial, and 82.173 for the five-mile competition. Racer Arno Apel, Venter, N. J., ran the 91 one-mile mark up to 52.394 and the five-mile competitive standard up to 48.361.

Gridiron
Topnotchers

This continues a series of articles featuring outstanding football players from schools throughout the country. Watch their records during the coming season.

One of the brightest stars in southern football history is George "Bad Boy" Cafego, field agent for the University of Tennessee Volunteers.

George, a Scarbro, W. Va., boy, was named on many All-America teams and was a unanimous choice for Southeastern conference honors during the 1938 football season. The logic of that choice was evidenced this year by his consistently great play against such teams as Alabama. It was a strong Alabama team that removed Fordham from this year's national spotlight. But that Alabama team went down 21-0 when they met Tennessee.

Last year Cafego's powerful driving literally ripped open the highly touted lines of Alabama, N. C., Vanderbilt, Mississippi and others. He averaged 6.3 yards per try and completed 15 out of 35 passes. On his wide shoulders rode much of Tennessee's fame. And they're big enough to hold All-America honors.

Cafego, though a powerful, rugged youth, weighs only 170 pounds. But his backers claim he's 170 pounds of Hungarian dynamite. (Continued on Western Newspaper Union) short sleeves, 4 1/2 yards; 1/2 yard contrasting for collar. No. 1825 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 10 requires 1 yard of 54-inch material for jacket-blouse with long sleeves; 1 1/4 yards for skirt; 1/2 yard for contrasting collar and cuffs; 1 1/2 yards 36-inch material to line jacket-blouse; 2 yards to line skirt.

PATTERN SEWING CIRCLE
DEPARTMENT

Special extra! Send today for your new Fall Pattern Book with a stunning selection of a hundred perfect patterns for all shapes and sizes. Save money and know the keen satisfaction of personally planned, perfectly fitted garments by making your own frocks with these smart, carefully cut designs. You can't go wrong—every pattern includes a step-by-step send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1224, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coin) each.

Send Synchro—WNU Service.)

NIGHT COUGHS
DUE TO COLDS

Head More Than "Sneeze" To Quickly Relieve DISTRESS! Before you go to bed rub your throat, chest and back with warming, soothing Mucsterole. You get such QUICK relief because Mucsterole's "active" ingredients break up local congestion and pain due to colds. Used by millions for over 30 years it's Mucsterole's "active" ingredients break up local congestion and pain due to colds. Used by millions for over 30 years it's Mucsterole's "active" ingredients break up local congestion and pain due to colds. Used by millions for over 30 years it's Mucsterole's "active" ingredients break up local congestion and pain due to colds.

MUSTEROLE

Seek Virtues It is a much shrewder and more ignoble thing to detect faults than to discern virtues.—Caryle.

A GREAT BARGAIN
VESPER TEA
PURE ORANGE PEEL
50 CUPS FOR 10 CENTS
Ask Your Grocer

Strange Facts

Odd Court Rulings
Freaks for Speed
Minnesota, Wales

During recent years, courts of law in various states have held that railroad cars are buildings, assets are cattle, bicycles are animals, dentists are mechanics, death by lynching is an accident and baseball is labor, not a game or sport. Even the Supreme court of the United States ruled in 1931 that the airplane is not a self-propelled vehicle.

Many characters in animated movie cartoons are drawn with only three fingers and a thumb on each hand because the omission is rarely observed and saves considerable time and labor. There are approximately 700 submarines in commission in the navies of the world today, ranging in size from the giant French "Surcouf" with a surface displacement of 2,880 tons down to the little Finnish "Sankko" of only 9 tons.—Collier's.

Black Leaf 40

KILLS LICE
Just a Dash in Bathing Water
OR SPREAD ON ROOSTS

Why Suffer? MENEIL'S MAGIC REMEDY
RHEUMATISM UMBROG

Don't let winter catch you unprepared

If you want a winter oil that will flow freely at low temperature, yet be sturdy enough to stand up under hard driving . . . if you want an oil of exceptional purity, to give your car the safest possible protection against sludge, corrosion and corrosion . . . then drive your car around to your nearest Quaker State dealer and

... change now to Acid-Free Quaker State Motor Oil

Quaker State Oil Refining Corp., Oil City, Pa.

Gas Tax Money
Should Be Used to Build New Roads

Membership Drive of C. of C. Starts Monday

Committee Plans to Complete Job in One Day

(By C. of C. Publicity Committee)
The weather is fine and Avon Park is going to take another big step forward.
Monday morning at 8 o'clock the six committees who are to solicit memberships for this up-and-coming chamber of commerce will meet for breakfast at the Jacaranda Coffee Shop where final instructions will be issued for the campaign. The finance committee has carefully planned this campaign and is satisfied from the many pre-conferences of the work of the chamber that the response will be gratifying and prompt. These committees wish to have this entire campaign completed on Monday, Nov. 20.

As further evidence of the general interest being shown, the schools will also be giving the committee an outstanding pep. This is valuable training for future members of the chamber of commerce to whom we are looking for growth and development and advancement of the community.

This is one case where you are investing and also giving. The committee is of the opinion that the chamber of commerce is putting Avon Park rapidly to the forefront of Florida cities in the claim. There never was a truer saying than "United we stand, divided we fall." As Benjamin Franklin said many years ago at the signing of the Declaration of Independence, "We are but one together or we shall presently have separately." Avon Park is pulling together as it never did before. The chamber of commerce is aiming to be a direct benefit to the business and professional interests of the town as well as to all citizens. As an illustration, we ask that you read carefully the following letter:

To the Business and Professional Men of Avon Park:
Now that the winter season is rapidly approaching it is expected that we will all be subject to the usual annoyance of solicitors, peddlers, beggars, and people with some scheme to sell. This is a constant cause of considerable annoyance and frequently take generous sums of money out of the community.

It is requested that all members of the chamber of commerce please refrain from contributing any money to these gentry unless they shall have the official approval of the chamber of commerce in writing. The chamber of commerce shall thoroughly investigate the merits of those solicitors and withhold approval from all except the most worthy.

Yours sincerely,
Avon Park Chamber of Commerce
W. S. Betts, President.

The savings indicated in the above letter will allow more than pay for your membership in the chamber of commerce.

When the committee calls on you Monday remember it is doing a public service and not asking for any personal favors. Let your response be hearty and generous. It is a fine investment and will pay you countless dividends.

Cattlemen Elect Same Officers In Annual Meet

Officers of the Highland county Cattlemen's Association were all re-elected Friday night at a meeting held at the court house. Roscoe Bann will again serve as president, T. J. Duran as vice-president, Edna Pearce as secretary and N. B. Jackson of Vemos and J. C. Barr as directors. A vote of thanks was given to the committee composed of Mrs. Jesse Belle DeWane, chairman, Jesse Duran and Fred McDermott, who had charge of arrangements and food in Highlands county for the pasture tour held last week. Association members were gratified to learn that in Highlands county, the attendance was 252 at the noon steak roast and meeting at Brighton and practically all of those were at the morning. This attendance in Highlands county was twice that of any other place on the tour.

Sebring Meeting Peps Up Drive On Membership

Plans for an extensive membership drive by the Sebring Highlands, composed of residents of the ridge section from Haines City to Lake Placid, were announced at the dinner-meeting held at the Hotel Sebring Tuesday night.

A goal of 5,000 members has been set and the campaign will be directed by Karl Lehmann, secretary of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce, which is placing his valuable services at the disposal of the Sebring Highlands.

The drive will start at a dinner meeting at Lake Wales on January 23 and will continue through January 25. The membership fee has been set at fifty cents. Impetus to the drive was given by Martin Anderson, Orlando publisher, who handed out 440 to enroll the 50 employees in his newspaper. Anderson spoke of the value of such an organization not only to this section but to the adjoining territory.

In a stirring talk, Lehmann, regarded as one of the leading organizers of the state, outlined details of the campaign. He prefaced his remarks with a warning that the Sebring Highlands and all other motorists be on guard against any increased duties of gas taxes, which he described as a "sales tax on roads." He cited figures showing that of the $31,000,000 paid annually in gas taxes and license, only about $10,000,000 goes directly for state roads.

Nearly 125, including several from the Sebring Highlands, delegates from the various communities stood as the roll call of those proceeded, and all were given applause. The biggest representative of course, was from Sebring, Ed Hest, Sebring city clerk was the chairman. He took over after President John D. Clark, of Waverly, called the meeting to order.

John Mawry, of Sebring, took the struggle for the reduction of state road 8 and the securing of federal highway 19. Following his report the membership rolled to send a telegram to Arthur Hale, chairman of the state road department, thanking him for the splendid co-operation in bringing about state road 8 improvements.

Guy Ruhl, Postproof publisher, made a preliminary report on the plans for the membership drive. N. A. Brooking, Sebring publisher, and Jack Gurnett, who will handle the publicity on the membership drive, also presented reports of their activities.

County Attorney, Wilson, of Polk county, spoke of the co-operation given by the state and that of county in securing right-of-way for the state and federal highways.

The objectives of the Sebring Highlands were outlined by Judge Robert T. Dewell, of Haines City. He also paid tribute to Jack Warrington, of Lake Wales publisher, who was one of the prime movers in the organization.

Russell Kay, of Tampa, "the mighty mite" among Florida newspapermen, congratulated the membership on their activities and gave them his blessing for a successful drive for members.

A. C. Slaughter, secretary of the Orlando chamber of Commerce and head of the Orange Blossom Trail association, also spoke. He commended the Highlands for their work and their cooperation with his organization.

Mr. Lehmann spoke on the gas tax situation in the absence of Carl Huxton, editor of the Fort Myers News-Free, and president of the Florida Highway Council—Highlands County News.

MRS. CORRELL DIES IN IOWA
Mrs. Clara Correll, 78, of Avon Park, passed away on Wednesday afternoon, after an illness of two months, according to word received here by relatives. Correll was the mother of Lloyd Correll, and the sister of Mrs. C. A. Clark and Mrs. Katherine Bristol. She has visited in Avon Park on previous occasions, and friends here will regret to learn of her death.

FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

A NEW-PACKED INSECT!

THE GIANT WATER-BUG IS FORCED TO CARRY THE EGGS OF MRS. WATER BUG ON HIS BACK!

TOO EXPENSIVE FOR KING OF SPAIN

OLD FORT MARION, ST. AUGUSTINE, COST SPAIN SO MUCH ($30,000,000) THAT THE SPANISH RULER WAS LED TO COMPLAIN THAT HIS BASTIONS AND GARRISONS (CONNECTING WALLS) MUST HAVE BEEN MADE OF SOLID SILVER!

THE WALLS OF THE OLD FORTRESS ARE 12 FEET THICK AND 9 FEET AT THE TOP!

Public Service To Carry Campaign of Citrus Advertising

The Florida Public Service Company, local utility whose lines serve the heart of Central Florida's great citrus belt, is initiating this month an intensive advertising campaign designed to secure the state's number one "growing" industry. The local company is noted for its efforts to cooperate in community development. Outstanding among its activities, in the now famous Reciprocal Advertising program for stimulating increased tourist travel in Central Florida.

The citrus industry is unquestionably the largest single enterprise north and south along the Ridge. The Florida Public Service company estimates that more than 50 percent of its business is derived from this industry and those connected with it on groves or in packing houses. "Naturally," stated H. R. Cloud, vice president and general manager, "we have an earnest desire to work with the progressive leaders of this business. All Florida, its merchants and citizens prosper or suffer as its great, supporting industry prosper or suffer. If we can aid this industry, we are contributing materially to the prosperity of the state and ourselves as citizens of the state."

During the coming six months, the local public service concern plans to devote the major proportion of its advertising space in Central Florida weeklies and dailies to the citrus industry. The November advertisements are designed as an antidote to the pessimistic rumors concerning the citrus industry often in general circulation. In striking manner, the ads will depict the growth of citrus activity—extension of Florida's markets to the west—new legislation eliminating many of the pressing problems of the past. The utility company, in its advertising, expresses the belief that optimism should keynote the present stage of citrus development. Future advertising will give concrete pictures of the different co-operating units of the industry—the progress made and the problems yet to face the energetic and able groups.

In addition to its advertising program, the Florida Public Service company hopes to make an important contribution to one of the industry's marketing problems. Details of this plan are being worked out by company officials in conjunction with the Florida Citrus Commission. Watch your local newspaper for an announcement regarding this plan.

LOST: Spare tire on wheel between Avon Park and Lake Bird Lodge. Finder please return to C. A. Wester and receive reward.

By Kenneth Friedman

THE GIANT WATER-BUG IS FORCED TO CARRY THE EGGS OF MRS. WATER BUG ON HIS BACK!

TOO EXPENSIVE FOR KING OF SPAIN

OLD FORT MARION, ST. AUGUSTINE, COST SPAIN SO MUCH ($30,000,000) THAT THE SPANISH RULER WAS LED TO COMPLAIN THAT HIS BASTIONS AND GARRISONS (CONNECTING WALLS) MUST HAVE BEEN MADE OF SOLID SILVER!

THE WALLS OF THE OLD FORTRESS ARE 12 FEET THICK AND 9 FEET AT THE TOP!

Isotokopga Now Under Department Salt Water Fish

Tallahassee, Nov. 16.—(Special) R. L. (Bob) Dowling, Florida's supervisor of conservation, said today he has been notified the 1929 law which placed Lake Istokopga, in Highlands county, under jurisdiction of the fresh water fish and game commission and the Highlands county commission has been held invalid.

The ruling was by Circuit Judge J. R. Johnson of the second circuit, who rendered the statute ineffective on the grounds that it was not sufficiently advertised in advance of its introduction, and therefore was not adopted according to law.

Superior Dowling said this court ruling places Lake Istokopga under the jurisdiction as salt water and opens the lake to commercial fishing.

The supervisor added that sports fishermen have nothing to fear, as no man in Florida is more in favor of conserving the supply of game fish than himself.

After being notified a few days ago of the court's action, Mr. Dowling said he conferred with commercial fishermen who now are licensed under the fresh water fish and game department and some of whom expect to operate in Lake Istokopga and they assured him that he could be depended upon to operate strictly within the law. Netting of fish in Lake Istokopga will be directed chiefly by catching catfish, which are the real money fish there, and state law naturally protects black bass, which cannot be sold, and provides that these fish must be released alive when taken.

Based on observations made elsewhere, Supervisor Dowling said netting in inland salt waters has not been as destructive, as many have thought, and some of the fears expressed against such operations have been by those who are not in close touch with actual operations. Garfish and other predators are removed by the thousands whenever fishermen operate their nets.

Scout Rally To Be
Event of Monday
In Sebring

A rally of Boy Scout troops in Highlands district will be held Monday night at 7:30, at Fireman's field in Sebring. Troops from Frostproof, Avon Park, Sebring, and Lake Placid will take part in the various scouting events of the evening. The public was cordially invited to attend the rally, for which there will be no admission charge.

Stebbins Leases Skating Rink Site

G. A. Stebbins has leased lots in the rear of Verona Service Station from the city and will erect a skating rink. Lease of the lots at $4 per month was approved by the city council Monday night. Stebbins said he expects to open the rink under canopy next Saturday night and will operate it for several months.

By Kenneth Friedman

THE GIANT WATER-BUG IS FORCED TO CARRY THE EGGS OF MRS. WATER BUG ON HIS BACK!

TOO EXPENSIVE FOR KING OF SPAIN

OLD FORT MARION, ST. AUGUSTINE, COST SPAIN SO MUCH ($30,000,000) THAT THE SPANISH RULER WAS LED TO COMPLAIN THAT HIS BASTIONS AND GARRISONS (CONNECTING WALLS) MUST HAVE BEEN MADE OF SOLID SILVER!

THE WALLS OF THE OLD FORTRESS ARE 12 FEET THICK AND 9 FEET AT THE TOP!

Red Devils Hold Panthers to 6-0

Mulberry won a hard fought game from the Avon Park Red Devils here last night 6-0. Defensive kicking by Jimmie Ward featured the first half of the game when the Red Devils failed to score but one first down. Mulberry made two of their first downs in the first half when they completely outplayed the Avon Park eleven.

A blocked punt recovered by Burris of Mulberry on the Red Devil's 28 yard line set the stage for the only score of the game. By a series of line plays the ball was placed on the Avon Park one and Duke McDermott climbed a stone wall to score. A placement by L. Berquist failed to convert the point. As the final moments of the third period rolled by, the Red Devils opened their passing attack. In the final period Mulberry played one of their hardest games, and swept off their feet by the razzle-dazzle attack of the Devils.

Avon Park attempted 10 passes, completed six for a gain of 45 yards. Mulberry's failure to complete a pass in two tries but intercepted one Avon Park pass. The Red Devils made seven first downs to the Panthers' four. Ward failed to penetrate the Mulberry line as effectively as in previous games, gaining only 46 yards in three plays of scrimmage.

The Red Devils played one of their hardest games, and swept off their feet by the razzle-dazzle attack of the Devils.

Avon Park attempted 10 passes, completed six for a gain of 45 yards. Mulberry's failure to complete a pass in two tries but intercepted one Avon Park pass. The Red Devils made seven first downs to the Panthers' four. Ward failed to penetrate the Mulberry line as effectively as in previous games, gaining only 46 yards in three plays of scrimmage.

The Red Devils played one of their hardest games, and swept off their feet by the razzle-dazzle attack of the Devils.

Avon Park attempted 10 passes, completed six for a gain of 45 yards. Mulberry's failure to complete a pass in two tries but intercepted one Avon Park pass. The Red Devils made seven first downs to the Panthers' four. Ward failed to penetrate the Mulberry line as effectively as in previous games, gaining only 46 yards in three plays of scrimmage.

The Red Devils played one of their hardest games, and swept off their feet by the razzle-dazzle attack of the Devils.

Avon Park attempted 10 passes, completed six for a gain of 45 yards. Mulberry's failure to complete a pass in two tries but intercepted one Avon Park pass. The Red Devils made seven first downs to the Panthers' four. Ward failed to penetrate the Mulberry line as effectively as in previous games, gaining only 46 yards in three plays of scrimmage.

Huge Turtle Fossil Found in Park; To Dig Further

Discovery of a huge turtle fossil in Highlands Hammock state park several years ago has so interested the National Park Service that further exploratory work will be undertaken within the near future. It was announced today that the National Park Service, through the recommendation of Dr. Harry Ladd, regional geologist of the National Park Service, has recommended a project for digging further to be set up, in cooperation with the state geological bureau.

The work was taken from the ditch along the first grove in the park and placed under cover to preserve it. Before it was found, the work of a mason had been taken from the ditch and placed on the roadway, where they disintegrated within half hour after being exposed to the air. The remains of the turtle were removed later, under the guidance of experts. They measured 30 inches high, four feet wide and about five feet from head to foot, and were restored recently.

The age of the turtle has been estimated from 35,000 to 500,000 years, and its weight at a ton when it roamed this section. No estimate has been made of the quantity of soup it would have made.

Seven Indian mounds in the park also will be included in the excavation project.

Season tags admitting cars and passengers at all times for the rest of the year are now on sale at $1. They may be obtained at the park.

TALKS ON BOYS' CLUBS
P. E. Krantz of Tampa told Avon Park Rotarians Wednesday about the workings of the West Tampa Boys' Club. This club is one of the outstanding clubs in the south and is sponsored by the Tampa Rotary Club. A similar club is being organized in Avon Park by the committee on the boys' club of the Avon Park Rotary Club and Mr. Krantz was helpful with ideas and suggestions.

SAINT ANTHONY AT MEETING
George Warren of the county health office was in attendance at a meeting of the Regional conference of the P. T. A. held at Fort Lauderdale. State and county chairmen of the Florida state-wide (public health committee) attended the meeting and were given a place in the program. Dr. A. B. McCrory state health officer, was the main speaker.

JUST HUMANS
By GENE CARR

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

"Why Don't You Come Over and Play?"
"Hey! Do You Know That? Ain't I Got the Measles!"

Armistice Parade With Colors, Band Impressive Sight

With colors flying and the band playing, men in uniform and veterans in civilian dress, the Armistice parade in observance of that great day 21 years ago when warring nations laid down their arms, and swore a truce. Because it was the same nations have again taken up arms does not dim the lustre of deeds of valor nor belittle the high purpose for which American soldiers went to battle. And because of an honest effort of those Americans to settle a fight that was not theirs; because they gave, asking nothing in return, Americans will always honor the day that brought a successful conclusion to those efforts.

So ran the thoughts of those who stood on the sidewalks last Saturday afternoon and witnessed this small town's Armistice parade pass by. It was impressive as the American Legion headed the procession, displaying the colors, and followed by Headquarters Battery, the band, civic organizations and other units.

After the parade the crowd heard Senator Speegard, L. Holland of Bartow in an eloquent patriotic address in which he set out this country's position in world affairs and counseled for peace without foreign entanglements.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.

The jointly sponsored carnival of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce provided a diversion for the week end crowd, who patronized the concessions generously. About $150 was cleared.