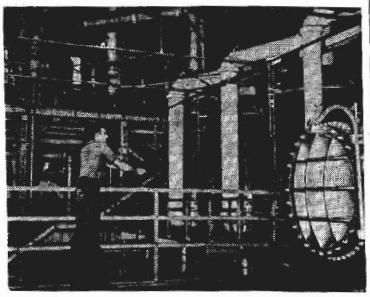
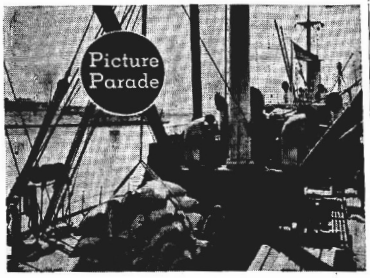
Hawaii . . Land of Plenty Which Sweetens Your Coffee

When you think of Hawaii you are more than likely to think of Hula girls and guitars and to forget that Hawaii is responsible for a large quantity of the sugar with which America sweetens its coffee. The sugar industry helps create a $200,000,000 commerce between Hawaii and the rest of the nation. These photos give you a better idea of the commercial side of our island possession.

SUGAR DADDY . . . J. P. Martin, scientist at the Hawaiian sugar planters' experimental station in Honolulu, shown injecting liquid food into sugar cane to test growth, and develop new high-juice content types of cane. The experimental station has a large staff which helps spend $500,000 annually.



SWEETNESS IN THE RAW . . . Scene at one of the Hawaiian plants where juice is extracted from sugar cane, boiled and evaporated to make raw sugar. These tanks are the juice boilers.



SHIPPING "WHITE GOLD" . . . A California freighter is being loaded with raw sugar at Honolulu for shipment to the mainland. The sugar is processed in U. S. refineries and thereafter appears on the tables of Mr. and Mrs. America.

SUGAR HARVEST FESTIVAL . . . After the sugar crop has been gathered in Hawaii, plantation families celebrate with native feasts and reunions. Here the Souza family of Waialua plantation is celebrating the end of a successful harvest. Note the modern home supplied rent-free to plantation workers

All Too Soon

The couple was married and traveled to the lakes for their honeymoon. As soon as they arrived they took a boat out upon the crystal clear water.

The following morning the bride's mother got a postcard which read:

"Arrived safely. Grand row before supper."

"My!" she muttered. "I didn't think they'd begin quarreling so soon."

TOO TRUE

Hostess—What part of the fowl do you prefer?

Brown—My taste runs from end to end.

Know Now?

A correspondent endeavors to describe the difference between clerks and managers as follows:

"A clerk is a man who knows a great deal about very little, and who goes on knowing more and more about less and less, until finally he knows everything about practically nothing.

"A manager is a man who knows very little about a great deal and who goes on knowing less and less about more and more until finally he knows nothing about everything."

Peptic Ulcer Benefited by Calm Outlook

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

FOR many years it was believed that ulcer of the stomach (gastric) and ulcer of the duodenum (duodenal) were due to infected teeth and tonsils. Most physicians still believe that infection is a big factor in causing stomach and intestinal (peptic ulcer) in that infection affects the lining wall and it loses its power of warding off the ulcer.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

However, it is becoming more and more apparent that the personality of the individual and his physique or build are more important factors in causing peptic ulcers. Thus, as mentioned before, there is the answer of the surgeon to the patient's question:

"Now you have operated, I'll have no more trouble with stomach ulcer, will I?"

The surgeon's reply was: "You will not likely have any more trouble with that ulcer, but you may continue to grow more ulcers if you do not learn to keep calm."

Food Habits Should Be Studied.

As many physicians and surgeons have been stating that infection and other conditions are mostly responsible for peptic ulcers, Drs. E. J. Callahan and D. W. Ingham, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in American Journal of Digestive Diseases, state:

"Despite the criticism against the nervous and emotional cause of peptic ulcer, it is yet the most constant factor in causing the condition. The food habits of a patient with ulcer must be carefully studied, as a well arranged, nonirritating, low residue diet (not much roughage or cellulose as found in bulky foods such as cabbage) is the foundation on which treatment is built."

To help their patients to understand the cause of peptic ulcer, these physicians show an equal sided triangle, one side representing the heredity factor which, of course, the patient can't correct, one side showing nervousness, illness in the family, financial or other worries as a cause, and the third side showing rough or unsuitable foods as another ulcer cause.

The thought then is that if peptic ulcer is present or there is a tendency to ulcer, treatment means the removal of any infection present, acquiring calmness of spirit and the eating of nonirritating foods.

Extract of Ovary In Widening Role

A GLAND extract that is coming more and more into everyday use is extract of the ovaries. It has been a real blessing to women approaching, at, and following the menopause, it "steadies" or quiets the nerves so that many patients are spared the necessity of mental treatment in an institution, relieves shock, and lessens the number and severity of hot flushes or flashes.

Dr. I. H. Blaisdell, Boston, reports excellent results in the treatment of 60 cases of dry catarrh with the very disagreeable odor, by use of a spray of ovary extract (estrin) into the nose. The dry crusts causing the odor disappeared in all 30 cases where onset of catarrh occurred after age of 20, and in 84 per cent of the 30 cases which occurred before the age of 20.

For Catarrh Deafness.

Excellent results have also been obtained in chronic catarrhal deafness by use of ovary extract, also used in the form of a spray into the nose. "Because of the wide variety of its effects on the body, it seems possible that estrin, properly used, may be of value in combating disease and disorders which have been heretofore obscure. The action of estrin is more far-reaching than insulin and more powerful than adrenalin."

Just how estrin acts on the nose is not at present known.

If, then, extract of ovary has shown itself to give great relief from symptoms at menopause in the treatment of that distressing ailment—the dry form of catarrh, and also in catarrhal deafness, do not hesitate to use it in any form prescribed by your physician for other obscure or persistent disturbances of your body.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What is the best method for removing superfluous hair?

A.—Best method known at present for removing superfluous hair is by electrolysis. And this means of hair removal is absolutely safe. By this method each hair root is individually killed. Your own physician can refer you to an electrolysis expert—not necessarily a physician; or you can apply to the physiotherapy department of your nearest hospital.

A Dainty Flowered Blanket Protector

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IT WAS a bride of ten years who reminded me of blanket protectors. I say bride because her home still has the immaculate freshness of a bride's house. Her wool blankets have never been washed or cleaned, yet their soft light colorings show no sign of soil. She brought out some long pieces of cotton material; "I baste these over the tops of the blankets," she said "and change them ever few weeks."

I thought of some dainty bed linens that I had seen all trimmed in flower sprigged cotton print. Why not make flowered blanket protectors to harmonize with blanket colorings? Here is one that would go with either rose or blue. It is easy to hide basting stitches that fasten it temporarily to the blanket by slipping them along in the pink or blue binding as shown. One length of material as long as the width of the blanket will make a pair of these protectors. A half yard extra of the flowered material will face a matching pair of pillow cases.

You will also find some other ideas for trimming pillow cases in SEWING Book 2. This booklet has been one of the most popular in the series as it not only contains complete directions for many gift and bazaar novelties but shows how to make 42 different embroidery stitches and five ways to darn and repair fabrics. LIFE INSURANCE With Disability

Up to about five years ago when the companies quit issuing it, the old form of Disability in Life Insurance policies sold billions of life insurance. This was because it enabled buyers to get something for themselves while they lived in case of disability. But under that form of Disability there was a waiting period of three to six months, often longer, before the insured was paid anything at all. Pacific Mutual issues Disability with Life Insurance that pays indemnity from the first day of disability caused by any kind of Accident or illness; and it is unnecessary for the Insured to prove that his disability is permanent. $100 per month Disability with $2000 life insurance—$200 per month with $5,000.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, January 5.

The Golden Text is: "Praise waiteth for thee, O God, in Sion: and unto thee shall the vow be performed. O thou that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come" (Psalms 65:1, 2).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Acquaint now thyself with him, and be at peace; thereby good shall come unto thee' (Job 22:21).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Science of God and man is no more supernatural than is the science of numbers, though departing from the realm of the physical, as the Science of God, Spirit, must, some day deny its right to the name of Science. The Principle of divine metaphysics is God; the practice of divine metaphysics is the utilization of the power of Truth over error; its rules demonstrate its Science" (p. 111:6-14).

Baptist Church Has Watch Night Party

Rev. Wade C. Smith of Philadelphia, who is spending the winter in Avon Park, gave a most entertaining illustrated lecture at the Watch Night service, held New Year's eve at the First Baptist church, beginning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Smith, who with his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Smith, is spending the winter at Holly Shores is the author of "Little Jetts" and "Say Fellows" which have appeared in the Sunday School Times for the past twenty years.

Following this part of the evening's program, the group assembled in the basement of the church, where they enjoyed a social hour, and were served tempting refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie, orange juice and coffee.

The program was continued under the direction of the Young People's department. An IQ on the Bible proved interesting, and a sword drill, given by the two champions of each department of the BYPU, was a splendid demonstration of the concentrated study of the Bible by these young people. Those who were high in the drill were Warren McFarland, first; Sammy Longbottom, second; and Ruth Webber, third.

As the hour drew towards midnight, Rev. J. P. Dalton, pastor of the church, gave a ten minute talk on the subject, "Grow," followed by two minutes of prayer prior to and just after the stroke of twelve.

About 150 church members and friends were present for this observance of welcoming the New Year, which was arranged under the direction of W. W. McFarland, director of the young people's department of the church.

SCHOOLS REOPEN THURSDAY

The Avon Park schools reopened Thursday morning, following a two weeks holiday, which included Christmas and New Years days. Members of the faculty of both the grammar school and high school who spent the vacation period at their homes away from here, returned by Wednesday to be on time for the opening on Thursday.

Good Lighting Adds Much To Dining Room Pleasure

Despite Her Small Budget, Light Conditioning Is on the Menu.

By Jean Prentice

MAKING A ROOM PRETTY on a small budget is relatively easy, particularly if the lighting is given a thought or two.

In a recent survey of one thousand homes, lighting engineers found that many dining room lighting fixtures are not used to best advantage. But, fortunately, there are new inexpensive ways to modernize these fixtures.

For example, it took but a jiffy to improve the fixture and light condition the room illustrated here.

Before the changes were made the colors in the room appeared dull. They were dimly lighted by light from bare amber-colored bulbs in the candelabra over the table. The bulbs were also too small in size to contribute lighting cheer.

Then the turquoise and coral tints in the wall paper and deep green-ish blue of the rug were lifted into lovely pick-me-up tones with new lighting. The inexpensive but well-designed maple furniture took on new honey-tints.

The change was a simple one, a step that can be taken in many homes where there are candelabra fixtures or candle wall brackets. Regular 40-watt inside frosted bulbs were substituted to provide enough light for easier seeing and clearer color. Inside bulbs were slipped over shades, shown above, to soften the light, prevent glare and direct some light downward on the table.

Such shades can be secured in parchment or washable plastic in white, ivory and beige. They are quite inexpensive. Some even come in sets which include clean new candle husks and inner diffusing bowls to sift out glare as do the larger bowls in the floor lamps. These candlettes are particularly nice for wall brackets.

Lighted urns were also added to the Welsh dresser in the room illustrated here. They are particularly handy for soft room-light when wax candles are the only other light used.

In some dining rooms the ceiling fixture is the type in which bare bulbs hang downward. This style can be readily modernized with silvered-bowl bulbs and metal shades to give indirect lighting.

Sometimes, however, a dining room has simply a single socket in the ceiling or a drop cord over the table. Then the answer is a new streamlined adaptor fixture which can be screwed in like a bulb. Some of these use a silvered-bowl bulb for indirect lighting. Among others are parchment shades with an inner diffusing shield and 150-watt inside frosted bulb.

The lighting designers and engineers have worked out any number of inexpensive ways in which dining rooms and dinettes can be blessed with the new modern lighting. I have described only a few but doubtless they suggest interesting possibilities to the homemaker.
