

New Aircraft Shell Supersensitive

Can Be Exploded by Force Of Heavy Rain, Army Experts Say.

WASHINGTON.—The army has developed an aircraft cannon shell that is so sensitive it can be exploded by the force of heavy rain, war department officials said.

Ordinance technicians, it also was learned, have developed a version of the famous French 75 mm. field gun, which can be mounted on heavy bombers. Experiments with it, including firing from the air, were started more than six months ago.

Both experiments are part of the army's attempt to increase the fire power of combat planes. That need has been demonstrated by the war in Europe in which all types of fighting planes have become increasingly vulnerable to machine gun fire by the use of heavier armor and self-sealing fuel tanks.

Two other proposals for increasing fire power are being studied and may be incorporated in standard specifications in the near future.

One is a plan to mount on pursuit planes. The other is to equip fighters with six heavy 30 caliber machine guns instead of eight 30 caliber machine guns. The armament said to be carried by British pursuit planes.

The highly sensitive explosive shell for 37 mm. aircraft cannon, war department sources said, is a major development in air armament. Until recently the United States air corps and those of Great Britain and Germany have used a fuse fast enough to explode aircraft cannon shells before they pass through a target plane. As a result, ordinary projectiles, similar to a rifle bullet, were widely used.

A "dead" projectile is destructive if it hits a vital spot on enemy planes, the motor, the bomb racks or gun quarters, but it will pass comparatively harmlessly through a wing. An explosive shell, however, blows off enemy surface wherever it hits to bring a plane down in most cases.

The ultimate objective of both the army and European belligerents is to destroy the enemy's air force.

Use 'Rainbow' Type

Bridge at Niagara

660-Foot, $3,500,000 Arch Is of Rare Design.

NIAGARA FALLS.—The 660-foot span of the new $3,500,000 bridge built across the Niagara river gorge besides being one of the longest of its type also must be literally self-supporting.

Unlike bridges built over shallow water, where engineers can set up false work or piers to support the arch, the "Rainbow" bridge will span water whose depth is undetermined, but known to be at least 100 feet.

Hence, when installation of the steelwork begins, the contractors will resort to the seldom-used tie-back device.

The entire bridge, replacing the so-called "Honeycomb" bridge destroyed by ice in January, 1938, will have a "dead back" with heavy steel cables—400 feet of steel, weighing approximately 3,750 tons, being anchored on each side of the river marking the terminus and on the United States and Canada.

The first step will be the erection at the end of the approach of a 140-foot tower. "Dead men," or anchorages, will be sunk in the ground 250 feet below the tower.

The anchorages will be 30 feet below the surface and cemented in solid rock.

The cables will be strung in solid rock to carry three or four times the actual weight of the bridge.

The girder, 12 feet high, are being made in the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Pennsylvania mills, but must be split in half to fit into a railroad car for transportation. They will be spliced at the center of the bridge, where Canadian and United States laborers, working at their respective ends of the span with machinery, will join forces for the final job.

Indian 'Sacrifice Rock'

Found in Pennsylvania

FINLEYVILLE, Pa.—An Indian "sacrifice rock," pocked with holes apparently used as containers for blood, has been discovered near Salisbury, along the Kiskiminetus river, by Chief George S. Fisher, of Union Valley, member of the Pennsylvania Indian research.

Chief Fisher said the rock measured eight feet across by 18 inches in thickness and has 76 holes, each of them capable of holding about a quart of blood.

He reported also finding in the same vicinity a huge mortar weighing about 100 pounds.

The Pennsylvania Indian research has planned a pilgrimage to the site of the find and will take a cast of the rock.

Librarian's Red Barrel

Westco Shelves Quickly

WEST HARTFORD, CONN.—Librarian officials felt that many persons neglected to return overdue books because they were embarrassed in having kept them so long. So, they placed a little red barrel on the library steps and announced that delinquents could return the books at any time without being seen, without paying a fine, and no questions asked.

In 1938, the library had $120 worth of books, some of them taken out more than eight years ago, were dropped into the barrel. One book was "borrowed" in 1919.

While the sparrow family is perhaps the most numerous of all the birds native to Florida, the LARK SPARROW is quite rare and is seldom seen in this state. The Lark Sparrow is a small bird, about the size of the grasshopper and potato bug as well as grass seeds. This sparrow migrates in limited numbers to the east and west coasts of Florida in October and November, returning northward in April.

It was during the third nesting period immediately following the Civil War that DAVID S. WALKER, a Kentuckian, was chosen to guide the unsettled destitute Florida. During his term as Governor of Florida, the United States military composed of negroes, were stationed at strategic points throughout the state. On March 25th, 1868, a new constitution adopted which served to state well for 100 years. It racial changed from the constitution included the right of suffrage to all men of legal age without regard to race, religion or color. It was mandated however, that citizens first file a declaration of permanent attachment to the American Union.

Bloomin' Parrot Was Passing Its Lesson On

Bert had spent hours trying to teach his parrot to say "Hello, Uncle," ready for the visit of his wealthy relative. To no purpose. Uncle came—and went—and the parrot was dumb. Bert seized the bird by the throat. "Say 'Hello, Uncle,' or I'll wring your bloomin' neck," he roared. And when silence continued he twisted the bird's neck and threw it into the fowl pen. Queer squawks drew him to the fowl pen next morning. On the ground were three dead hens. The parrot had a fourth by the neck, shaking him and shouting: "Say, 'Hello, Uncle,' or I'll wring your bloomin' neck."

Orange Festival Biggest and Best Show in 17 Years

Winter Haven, Jan. 25.—With only a few days remaining before the Florida Orange Festival throws open its doors on January 27, every indication points toward this year's show being the best, the biggest and the most thrilling since the Orange Festival was organized 17 years ago. George L. Barr, Jr., president of the Festival, stated this week.

Construction is now well under way, under the direction of W. B. Craig and Harry Bierce, on the most beautiful setting the exhibition has ever had. The main entrance and the facades of the buildings which will house the flower show and the school exhibits are practically completed, and the open air stage and grandstand on the shores of Lake Silver are in the course of completion.

The spotlight will be focused on the finest display of citrus fruits and their derivatives in the history of the festival. On Thursday, Jan. 30, there will be observed "Agricultural and Nathan Mayo Day." On Friday, Jan. 31, a mass meeting of citrus growers will be held in the Grand theatre under the auspices of the recently organized Association of Gift Box Shippers and Roadside Dealers in citrus fruits in the Haven hotel. About 1000 growers are expected to attend the two meetings. Another feature on Friday will be the broadcast over a nation-wide hookup by Mary Margaret McBride, radio commentator of the Florida Citrus Commission, via the open air stage on the Festival grounds. "Barney" the recent convention of beekeepers in Tampa brings to mind the virtue of honey. It is assimilated by the human body not requiring the process of digestion. It is the sweet of choice for the obese, a superior carbohydrate for the baby's formula, preservative tooth decay, and as a sweet taste at the head of the list. Honey is sweet in the great potatoes for constipation. When these two articles are better known by the general public they will stand out foremost in our dietary. Try some honey with your oatmeal and cream these cool mornings.

Vegetable Laxative With Proved Feature

The punctual, satisfying relief from constipation and its headaches, biliousness, bad breath, so often experienced by users of this laxative, is mainly due to its combination of purely vegetable ingredients.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient has high medicinal recognition as an "intestinal toilet-laxative"; helps impart tone to lax bowel muscles.

A little of this spicy, aromatic product by simple directions at bedtime, generally allows time for a good night's rest, gets gently and thoroughly next morning.

Next time, take time-tested, economical BLACK-DRAUGHT.

Grapefruit For Flu Sufferers Being Advertised

Lakeland, Jan. 23.—Stressing the fact that grapefruit is commonly recognized as an important factor in aiding and relieving flu sufferers, the Florida Citrus Commission is keeping pace with a mild form of the disease this winter sweeping the country on the heels of a nationwide spell of disagreeable weather.

Through a flu advertising campaign carried on in the north and east in all major daily newspapers, the commission is stressing the medicinal value of fresh grapefruit, urging its use in generous quantities to fortify the body against this prevalent disease.

Although health authorities regard the type of flu now raging to be much less serious than that which struck the nation in 1918, when pneumonia and a high death rate resulted, they nevertheless urge that no unnecessary chances be taken.

The use of citrus fruits in the prevention and treatment of colds and flu is becoming proverbial and to realize the greatest effect from the fresh grapefruit campaign, large 500 line advertisements are being carried in the most widely affected areas. These appear this week in the Washington Star, Atlanta Journal, Baltimore Sun, Boston Globe, Boston Record-American, New York Sun, Cleveland Press, Philadelphia Bulletin, Pittsburgh Courier, Richmond News Leader and Times Dispatch, Charlotte Observer, Nashville Banner-Tribune and the Spartanburg Herald-Journal. The Lakeland Citrus News is running a 220 line advertisement. This group is supplemented by many other papers, the numbers of which are carrying ads.

Total number of families to be reached approximately 7,000,000.

The commission's radio program will continue to feature the flu appeal and the entire campaign will continue until the danger point has been passed.

Opportunities in U. S. Marine Corps

It was announced today by Sgt. Stanley Gordon, in charge of U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting office for this area and located in Room 250, Post Office bldg., Miami, that the road to the top in the Marine Corps is wide open. The higher you go the more money you will receive. And here's something else that's worth remembering, you have an excellent chance to pick the type of work you like best. If you have some ability as a mechanic, accountant, cook, chauffeur, or some other specialized farm, employment, the Marine Corps will soon find it out and assign you to such duties where you will either receive the pay of a specialist or rise to the higher paid grades of the service.

"Remember this," said Sgt. Gordon, "the Marine Corps really wants you to get ahead. It needs trained men and is willing to train them. It offers you a free education. It offers you a chance to travel around. Look at it this way. The Marine Corps says, 'You can't get any farther, try doing it for me.' It says, 'If you take care of you if you become a certain infant white man, child, sick, give you an opportunity to travel and see the world, and besides I will educate you, give you your choice of any course without any cost whatsoever.' Remember, a Marine is not tied down to a dull routine. He follows the trail of adventure, and studies in his leisure hours. He literally learns while he earns.

See Sgt. Gordon today and make your application for enlistment in Uncle Sam's oldest and most famous branch of military service, the U. S. Marine Corps.

Patrons Asked to Pay For Seals

Hundreds of Christmas Seal tracers are being sent out this week to residents of Highlands County. They are going to those persons to whom Christmas Seals were sent several weeks ago but who either never saw or lost the seals. The Highlands County Seal Tracer, in the name of the Seal Tracer, is asking for the return of the seals. The Seal Tracer is asking for the return of the seals. The Seal Tracer is asking for the return of the seals.
