

So far as moving the commission's headquarters to Chicago is concerned there will be plenty of willing hands from the personnel. Most of the ICC clerks have been on the job for years. They have their roots deep in Washington and will not like the idea of pulling them up. But there is much to be said for the proposal, and if the transition could be made gradually, it probably could be done with little hardship.

It now seems likely, Dr. Brown says, that blossoms and social insects, indispensable partners ever since, developed at essentially the same time. Presumably the blossoms came first, but it would have been of little advantage to the plant and probably would have soon disappeared had pollen-carrying insects not come into the world at the same time.

This is also the first biological evidence of the development of "community" in the world—the partnership of great numbers of free individuals in building a home and providing for its needs. Ever since that time, in spite of the great social progress of man, this has been exemplified chiefly by the social insects.

Bridge Luncheon Is Delightful Affair
Mrs. Katherine Bristol and Mrs. C. A. Clark were charming hostesses at a lovely May Day bridge luncheon at their homes on Lake Lotels on Thursday at one o'clock. Beautiful arrangements of roses, petunias and Queen Anne's lace were used to decorate the party rooms at the home of Mrs. Bristol, where the luncheon was served.

The tables were decorated with miniature bouquets of spring blossoms in small silver vases, the larger table having for its centerpiece, a tiny little Maypole, with crepe paper streamers of pink and blue, to emphasize the chosen color motif for the luncheon appointments. Places were designated with dainty hand painted name cards, in a spring flower design, the clever work of one of the hostesses.

Guests found at their places, a small handmade Mexican basket, filled with candles, as a favor. The hostess of Maypole was accented in the informal and original serving of the luncheon, when each guest was given a May basket in colors of pink and blue, with a cluster of miniature flowers on either side. The baskets were finished with deep ruffles of the material, and held a delicious May day lunch, consisting of daintily wrapped sandwiches, pickles, olives, deviled eggs, potato chips, and fried chicken, which was served with coffee. The dessert course was an individual cake, topped with jelly and whipped cream, with a basket effect created by an orange rind for the handle, and salted nuts. Paper napkins, in a May day motif completed the attractive motif.

Bridge was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Clark, next door, which was joyously decorated with many bouquets of summer garden flowers. The dining table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with an oval reflector, bearing a small pink and blue maypole, with a diminutive old fashioned girl on either side, the dresses of the maidens, featuring full skirts in the chosen color tint, the arrangement held in place on a crystal vase.

High score prize, in the delightful bridge games of the afternoon was given to Mrs. George Voorhees, who received an attractive bottle of fragrant perfume. Even though the gun carriage is equipped with the latest design rubber tires and bullet resisting tubes so that it can be transported along the highways of express speed, regular old fashioned driving horses are being used to haul it into position during maneuvers. The tires and tubes were manufactured by The B. F. Goodrich Company. If the horses could talk, they would tell their labor of pulling the guns had been greatly reduced by the tire equipment.

Star Chapter Host To Worthy Grand Matron

Mrs. Marion Neeb of Miami, worthy grand matron of the Star Chapter of Florida, paid her official visit to Leigh chapter No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star, on Friday evening. A banquet, in her honor, was given at the Avon Grill at six o'clock, attended by members of Leigh chapter, visitors from nearby chapters, and a number of distinguished guests.

The centerpiece for the banquet table was a beautiful doll, dressed in a representation of Queen Esther, with a golden crown and scepter. A chiton evening handkerchief attached to the doll's wrist was a gift to Mrs. Neeb from Mrs. Agnes Cox, chairman of the banquet committee. Fern and spring blossoms were placed at intervals the length of the long table, alternating with red and white candles in silver holders.

At each place was a Lily, emblematic of the Queen Esther station, in the center of which was a small container of candy held in place by a tiny flag pin, the flower serving as a corsage. Miniature Queen Esther dolls at each place, were the attractive favors, and place cards were in the emblematic colors of the star points, the artistic work of Mrs. E. O. Williams. American flags and a large star in the emblematic colors formed the other decorations in the banquet room, and served to combine the theme of the organization and the patriotic motif, in effective color and beauty.

Distinguished guests present at the banquet included Mrs. Marion Neeb, worthy grand matron; Mrs. Mamie Lander, Orlando, right worthy grand conductress of General Chapter; Mrs. Fannie Pandey, Coconut Grove, Grand Ruth; Mrs. Lulu Scott, Sebring, past grand matron; Arthur Schenk, Wauchula, grand sentinel; Mrs. Lottie Alameyer, Sebring, past grand Ruth; Mrs. Stella Schenk, Wauchula, past grand Electa; Mrs. Loca Stuckey, Avon Park, grand representative of Delaware; Mrs. Doude Oliver, worthy matron of Sebring Chapter; Phillip Correll, worthy patron of Sebring chapter; And Mrs. Susie Stubbs, Orlando, "grand" mother of Mrs. Mamie Lander, a charter member of Leigh chapter, who has retained her membership in Avon Park throughout the years, though the latter made her residence in another city.

Following the banquet, the meeting was held in the chapter room of the Masonic Temple, which represented a fraternal garden, with its many beautiful floral arrangements. Bouquets of roses, lilies and ferns were arranged at points of vantage, and created a most impressive atmosphere. The decorations in the East were especially pleasing, being designed of fern and roses.

In the absence of Mrs. Lena Clements, worthy matron, who was called to Alabama recently on account of the serious illness of her father, Mrs. Agnes Cox, presided. Mrs. Cox is past matron of Leigh chapter and grand instructor of district 15 last year. She extended a cordial welcome to the worthy grand matron on the occasion of her official visit.

Following the impressive flag ceremony, the courtesy for the worthy grand matron was given, with the patriotic theme predominating. The courtesy was portrayed by the star points carried out by Mrs. Sue Yates, as Ada; Mrs. Rachael McFarland as Ruth; Mrs. Anna Wolf as Esther; Mrs. Mary Lyke as Martha; and Mrs. Florence Elwell as Electa. These officers formed a court, and with their beautiful sheaf of long stemmed red roses, tied with red, white and blue ribbons, designed an arch through which the honored guest was escorted to the East by Mrs. Nina Prevatt, conductress.

Miss Jennie Gribble made a short presentation talk, and presented Mrs. Neeb with one dollar bills that were attached to the ribbons of the bouquets, as a gift from the chapter.

Miss Evelyn Clements presented to Mrs. Neeb an honorary certificate of membership in Leigh chapter, and extended regrets at the unavoidable absence of her mother.

The worthy grand matron at this time, closed the meeting, with

Red Cross Seeks 1,000 U. S. Doctors To Aid Britain on Far-flung Front

Above, Britain's long lines of doctors, across marching patients where American doctors will serve. Right, a Royal Army Medical Corps ambulance, traveling on emergency cases, wears the uniform which American doctors may choose to wear in serving Britain.

Washington, D. C.—Out of the agony of bomb-ravaged Britain has come an appeal for American doctors.

Britain's request is being met. Already the American Red Cross acting for her sister society in England, has carried the appeal to the nation's medical profession. Up to 1,000 American doctors will be needed by the British Red Cross to supplement the hard-pressed corps of doctors engaged in saving British lives from London to Singapore.

American Red Cross workers who have been in England since the onset of hostilities report the need is acute. Formerly a nation at war needed doctors to treat the sick and wounded on the battle front. Today, with aerial bombardment of civilians, Britain needs her doctors fighting against desperate odds.

American doctors will report to the British Red Cross where they will be allowed to choose service either in the Royal Army Medical Corps or in the civilian Emergency Medical Service, the valiant corps of physicians assigned to home defense.

Their service will be for one year, not 18 at the end of that period they will be free to continue, they will be eligible to promotion. To be eligible for service with the R.A.M.C. doctors must be 40 or younger, while the E.M.S. will accept men up to 45.

Despite the cruel aspects of all-out hostilities, American physicians answer Britain's appeal will be protected by the Red Cross Treaty of Geneva, a 17-year-old international agreement still in force on the battlefield.

American doctors, as far as possible, will be allowed to choose where they will serve—whether it be in London, Bagdad, the Middle East or any point of emergency along the far-stretched lines of British defense.

The appeal of the British Red Cross has the endorsement of the President of the United States, the Secretary of War and the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service. Those doctors subject to military training under our own flag are being given special consideration by the Selective Service.

her fraternal talk on the subject of "Service." The motto she has chosen for the year, "Enter for wisdom, to depart for service" was cleverly interwoven in her splendid address.

Refreshments of sandwiches and iced tea were served in the banquet hall downstairs, following the meeting. The hall was beautifully decorated with summer garden flowers in a variety of colors. About one hundred guests in attendance, including visitors from Sebring, Wauchula, Bowling Green, Fort Meade, Frostproof, Arcadia and Fort Pierce.

LEAVES FOR WISCONSIN

Mr. Straubel will write off his first hundred years and charge the whole thing to experience on May 11 when he will celebrate his 100th birthday at his old home in Green Bay, Wisconsin. He left on the afternoon train Friday, accompanied by Charles Johnson, his son, C. A. Straubel, will meet him in Chicago.

Clearly answering questions of his war record, the veteran said he saw service in Kentucky and Missouri, and was taken prisoner in an engagement near Newtonia, Missouri. He said he "took the oath" at Little Rock, Ark., and was in the last exchange of prisoners at Helena, Ark., just before the close of the war. Mr. Straubel was born in Brandenburg, Germany in 1841. At the age of five he was brought to this country by his parents, who settled in Wisconsin. As a young man, he was a wagon maker, but after the close of the war, he entered the flour milling business at Green Bay, where he spent most of his business life. Because of his great age, he has been retired for many years.

Seeking a milder climate, Mr. Straubel came to Avon Park in 1923 with his son, Charles Straubel and family, and has continued to make his residence here since. He continues to live an active life at his Lake Lotella home, and until a year or so ago, could often be seen fishing on the lake. He has taken daily walks down to the lake and back, and shows keen interest in everything around the place.

A Gentle Laxative

Good For Children

Most any child who takes this laxative once will be free of the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue, little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lax bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 60c and 25c.
