

Amendments To Be Subject Rotary Talk

and J. Tom Watson. There are no hidden objectives.

The amendment, then, offers an opportunity for Florida taxpayers to reduce public debt and existing bonds while the principal debt has not been reduced proportionately.

At this time, with the country at war, and with gasoline tax revenue reduced by restriction on gasoline sales, and with the demand that we carry a heavier burden of federal taxes, the gas tax amendment becomes more important to Floridians than it was when it was submitted by the practically unanimous vote of the last Legislature. It is likely that many counties will be forced to refund their present road and bridge bonds during the war period, and without the firm credit structure set up by the amendment their situation will be serious.

The proposed amendment, which is part of Governor Holland's program, has the endorsement of the State Association of County Commissioners, and a large number of individual Boards of County Commissioners have passed resolutions urging the adoption of this amendment. These include the counties of Duval, Escambia, St. Johns, Lake, Suwannee, Pinellas, Gadsden, Santa Fe, Alachua, Marion, Columbia, Levy, DeSoto, Oklawaha, Broward, Hendry, Alachua, Brevard, Collier, Escambia, Franklin, Gadsden, Gilchrist, Gulf, Hamilton, Hillsborough, Marion, Orange, Palm Beach, Pasco, Polk, Putnam, Walton, Holmes, Madison, Flagler, Hendry, and Volusia.

It also has been endorsed by the State Association of County Attorneys, the State Road Department, the Florida Taxpayers Association, Inc., and scores of individuals in every part of the state interested in the future welfare of Florida.

Numerous newspapers, including the Florida Times-Union, the Miami Herald, the Miami News, the Tampa Tribune, the Tampa Times, the Pensacola Journal, the Orlando Sentinel, the Fort Myers News Press, the Tallahassee Daily Democrat, the Daytona Beach News, the Ocala Star, the Bradenton Herald, the Southwestern Floridian and Lake County Citizen, and many others, have editorially endorsed the amendment and are advising their readers to vote for it when it comes up for ratification at the General Election on November 3.

After reading this, if you do not understand any feature of the amendment, why not ask the views of your county commissioners, or discuss it with your State Senator and Representative in the Legislature, or the editor of your local newspaper?

At this time it is well to recall that Governor Holland in his message delivered to the Legislature on November 3, 1941, said:

"I hope we will all remember, however, that there are certain bonds prominent in our midst who are interested in high interest rates for the bonds, in non-callable bonds, in frequent refundings and large redemption fees, and in keeping just as large as possible the pool of gas revenue available for the bonds, regardless of how greatly that pool may exceed the actual need or how badly the money is needed to serve the people of the state."

It is to be remembered, also, that this Legislature will shortly meet, upon this message, to give the opportunity to settle the whole question forever, and will be on the lookout for opposition to this or any other proposition designed to better serve the public."

Members of the 1941 Legislature recognized the force of the Governor's warning, and proceeded to adopt by almost unanimous vote this proposed amendment. Voters likewise should be on the alert for misleading attacks by some bond manipulators who have profited heavily under the old system, and who are now seeking to defeat the amendment. Every voter who takes the time to study this amendment will recognize the vital importance of its adoption and will vote "Yes" for it at the General Election on November 3, 1942.

Highlands To Get Millions From Gas Tax

Amendment Will Liquidate Old Road Bonds

Highlands county taxpayers will be relieved of a pre-1921 road and bridge bond indebtedness of $200,476 and the county will receive an estimated $5,504,848 cash for roads within the county, if the people ratify the proposed amendment at the general election next Tuesday.

For the entire state the amendment will liquidate $171,595,954 worth of high interest bearing road and bridge bonds without additional cost to taxpayers.

The amendment makes it no longer necessary for the state to levy ad valorem taxes for the purpose of paying the old road and bridge bonds because it turns the task of liquidating these debts over to the already existing Board of Administration (the Governor, State Treasurer and State Comptroller) for payment from two cents of the present gasoline tax.

The amendment has been endorsed by the State Chamber of Commerce, the State Association of County Commissioners, the State Association of County Attorneys, 64 of the 67 individual County Commissioners, the Highlands county board, taxpayers' groups and scores of individuals throughout the state.

Parents of the boys on the squad, who have been so helpful in helping them throughout the year in various ways, shared the occasion with them, about 125 being present.

Army Wars on Venereal Disease Here

Drive Leads to Arrest of Five Colored Women

An active campaign has been instituted by the Army, with the full cooperation of city and county health authorities, and the county health unit, to clean up venereal diseases in the colored section of Avon Park. As a result of the drive, five women were arrested Tuesday night by city and military police and are now held in the county jail on a charge of vagrancy. They will be held there pending a medical examination, results of which will determine whether or not they will be held for treatment.

The drive to clean up the colored section is a part of the general campaign being carried on throughout the country, to rid the cities and towns close to army bases of all venereal infected persons. The plans for this program were laid by a joint meeting of the city of Avon Park and the military police officers last Wednesday night at the city hall. Plans consist of taking a military inspection by health officers to be followed up by a clean up program and arrests of people found to be infected.

These measures were found necessary by officials because of the high venereal rate among colored troops in the Southeast area, and everything possible will be done to remedy the condition, officials said.

The army is doing its part in cleaning up the disease, by hospitalizing all soldiers who are found to be infected, and keeping them in confinement until they are completely cured.

The extra point was made by Wendell Smith making the score 7-0. Throughout the second and third quarter no scoring was made by either team. The game was tied 0-0 at the end of the first half. The final touchdown was made by a quarter back named where Rutledge carried the ball over the 4 yard line. The extra point by Smith failed.

The only Haines City threat of the game was a 35 yd. run by Winger of the Hornets. Winger was in the clear and James Varnes, Avon Park guard ran him down and the devil held. The game ended with the Devils in possession of the ball on their 45 yard line.

Lawson and Rutledge were the outstanding backs and Varnes was the outstanding lineman for Avon Park. Winger was outstanding for Haines City.

Thomas attempted to sell the watches, and was traced by officers from the local police. He was found at his home in the quarter Sunday morning and made the arrest. He pleaded guilty to the four robberies and was sentenced to a 10 year sentence for robbing a railroad depot. He did two years and escaped to Florida.

Remember Datum Invest A Dime Out of Every Dollar in U.S. War Bonds

Flying Col. New C. O. of Bombing Range

Major Smith To Be Executive Officer

Under the new organization of the General Bombing and Gunnery Range, effective November 1, 1942, Major H. R. Smith, Commanding Officer, will become the Executive Officer of the Base and the Command duties will be succeeded to Lt. Colonel Clint T. Johnson, Lt. Colonel Field, Oklahoma. Colonel Johnson will take up his duties about November 5, 1942.

Major Smith came to Avon Park with the first complement of troops and has been Commanding Officer of the Bombing Range since he has supervised the section of one of the largest and most complete bombing and gunnery ranges in the country. He was commended as early as May 1942 by General W. H. Frank for the rapid and efficient manner in which he organized and initiated bombing and gunnery training work at the Avon Park Bombing Range.

In a personal letter to Major Smith, written by Brigadier General Carlisle H. Wash, Commander of the Third Air Force, it was explained that the reason for the change was that Army Regulations do not permit the retention of a non-flying officer as commanding officer of an Air Base. The letter states in part:

"I regret exceedingly that, under Army Regulations, I am not permitted to retain General Wash, Commander when being considered as a permanent consideration of duty at the Avon Park Bombing Range. I am taking this occasion to thank you personally for your past work and to express my regret for the forthcoming assignment of a flying officer to command the Avon Park Bombing and Gunnery Range."

"It is planned that you will continue at Avon Park as Executive Officer and I feel sure you will understand the circumstances which have brought this about. Cordially yours, CARLISLE H. WASH, Brigadier General, U. S. Army Commanding."

Before coming to Avon Park, Major Smith was stationed at MacDill Field and was instrumental with the development of the bombing range at Mullet Key, land, being used extensively by bombers stationed at MacDill Field. He was also instrumental in the development of the important Ferry Command project at MacDill Field during his tour of duty there, and was commended by Colonel H. H. Young, then Commanding at MacDill Field, on the excellency with which the maintaining of the "Ferry Project" was carried through.

Special Show at Park For 18-19 Group Saturday

Pictures to be shown, in technical, color, are "Wings of Steel," "Winning War Wings," with James Stewart, "Here Comes the Cavalry," and "The Tanks are Coming." The films will be shown by Pvt. C. D. McMillen, Jr., and Sgt. Louis Thornton, Lt. Lionel H. Russell, special service officer of the Range, will make a brief talk. Boys of the 18-19 age group are especially invited to listen and learn about the army.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

1943 Record Breaking Tax Measure Clears Final Congressional Hurdle; United Nations Hunt Subs Off Africa; U. S. Objective: a 'Young Man's Army'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: These opinions are expressed in these columns; they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Revised by Western Newspaper Union.

Left: William Jeffers, rubber administrator, visiting a synthetic rubber plant in Akron, Ohio. Jeffers appears to be taking a bit of the rubber, which he is holding in his hand. Center: Wendell L. Willkie as he is called the White House to report to President Roosevelt the results of a 21,000-mile aerial trip of 17 countries. Willkie is emphatic in favoring a second front. Right: Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson as he is called before the Senate military affairs committee in connection with the levying of the draft age from 20 to 18.

TAXES: Set a Record

Everybody agreed that it was coming but when the record breaking 1943 tax bill cleared the final congressional hurdle the public hesitated for a moment to look it over and then pushed on with their jobs in the nation's war effort. Analyzing the provisions of the bill as agreed upon by Senate and House conferees in speedy action this is what the public learned:

The treasury estimated that federal revenues would be increased by just under seven billion dollars—$6,981,820,000, to be exact.

Normal income tax rates were stepped up from 4 to 8 per cent.

Surtaxes, which formerly ranged from 6 to 77 per cent have now been set at from 13 to 52 per cent.

A new tax—called the 'Victory tax'—was imposed on all income larger than $254 per year. (This means a gross tax on all wages over $12 a week, although a portion of the tax will be rebatable at the end of the war, the amount of rebate would vary.)

Personal income tax exemptions were reduced from $1,500 to $1,200 for married persons and from $750 to $500 for single persons. Credit for dependents at the same time was reduced from $400 to $350.

There are many other provisions in the bill but these were the ones which John G. Citizens was going to feel most directly. He would notice, too, however, that there were increased excise taxes on such items as liquor, beer, wine, cigarettes, cigars, lubricating oil, slot machines, photographic apparatus, train, bus, and plane fares. He would also notice increased corporation taxes but to the average citizen these would hurt less, for they would be indirect taxes.

Financial experts reasoned that direct taxes would not be raised any higher even though the U. S. war needs become more urgent. Other means of increasing the government income would have to be found. Many plans, including compulsory savings, have already been given careful study by the treasury department.

PROMPT ACTION: On 18-19 Draft Bill

Prompt Senate and House action kept legislative moves to draft 18- and 19-year-old men, thus adding approximately 1,500,000 'teen-age youths to the ever-growing army, which is expected to reach 7,500,000 by the end of 1945.

Principal difference in the House and Senate bill evolved around the 'draft priority' system. This system, approved by the House and rejected by the Senate committee, would prohibit the induction of married men in any given state until all supplies of single men were exhausted, and would prevent the induction of men with children until all childless married men were called.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Mersey, selective service director, opposed the measure. He stated that it would upset schedules until December 1, when the 18-19 draft group will be 'processed' and ready for induction. Senator Taft took the lead in the drive for the system. He long has been an advocate of national uniformity in draft quotas.

A second difference in the bills involved the deferment of youths to complete educational courses. The Senate bill provided special deferments for high school students called during the second half of the current school year. The House bill extended the deferment clause to college as well.

The two measures agreed in making liable for the draft men formerly deferred in class 4-F because of convictions for 'dry law' violations during the prohibition era. Senator Barkley expressed the belief that priority should be studied later.

PACIFIC: Showdown

There was a new name in the dispatches and official communiques reporting the results of the showdown battle for control of the Solomon Islands and ultimate supremacy in the whole South Pacific battle zone. The name was Buin—a strong Japanese base in the northern Solomons. It was here that the United Nations learned the Jap had concentrated a good share of his striking power.

Buin is located on the southern end of an island (Bougainville) and is less than two hours away from Guadalcanal by bomber and only one day's run for Jap ships. Yet to reach this point, U. S. planes based at Port Moresby, New Guinea had to fly over 700 miles of mountains and then over miles of Jap-controlled sea. This was the same problem that U. S. land-based planes at Port Moresby and on the Australian mainland had to face in helping the marines, army and navy units at Guadalcanal.

Early in the final struggle for both points—Buin and Guadalcanal—U. S. scout planes determined how much strength the Jap had actually gained at Buin. They learned there were large numbers of cruisers, destroyers, transports, seaplane tenders, cargo vessels and a swarm of flying boats. This meant that the Jap really wanted to recapture his last positions around Guadalcanal.

This came as no surprise to the U. S. forces for even last August when the first marine detachments dislodged the Japs from that area, military experts predicted that they would be back and would fight hard to regain their losses. And as the battle for Guadalcanal and the Solomons reached its climax both the Japs and the Allies admitted the truth of such prediction. The results spoke for themselves.

Northern Front

One the opposite (northern) end of the Pacific front U. S. army bombers continued their almost daily raids on Kiaka, last Jap stronghold in the Aleutians. These raids were important because earlier reports indicated that the Japs had reinforced their garrison there and had also been building new installations at Gertrude Cove on the south side of the island. It was believed that when the Japs were chased out of Attu and Agaña, two other Aleutian bases, they took many of their supplies with them, preparing for a last ditch stand at Kiaka.

NEW BASE: For Fighting Subs

That a good number of the Nazi U-boats had been shifted from the U. S. Atlantic coastal area to the Africa sea land was indicated by the announcement that U. S. troops had arrived in the Negro republic of Liberia, and that the RAF planes were using that country as a base for bombing Nazi submarines.

Only 750 miles from West Africa, important base in French West Africa, and just across the Atlantic from the 'bulge of Brazil'—Liberia could serve as a vital point in protection of any threatened raid there by Axis forces.

The fact that U. S. troops and the RAF were dispatched to Africa added to the growing speculation that Africa was looming large as the theater of war.

FRENCH WORKERS: 'Hired by Gestapo'

The day of judgment drew closer to Pierre Laval, chief of the Vichy government, when he acceded to a Nazi demand for an increased number of French specialists to work in German war plants.

In a brutal move to meet Hitler's demands, the Vichy government was reported to have naturalized agents of the Gestapo to help round up unwilling workers in unoccupied France.

RUSSIA: Desperate Nazis

Hitler seemed to have forgotten his pre-war policy of non-competition and defense as he outflanked his smashing drive along the banks of the Volga. Battling desperately to achieve its goal before winter, the Nazi war machine was doing everything possible into the battle for Stalingrad and into the Moscow area of the Caucasus.

The Soviet army announced that 6,000 German troops had been killed in one day's action on the Stalingrad front. "Our troops repelled furious attacks by enemy infantry and tanks," the Red communique said.

Battles of local significance were reported northwest of Stalingrad, where a Soviet rifle army was moving toward the city. Fighting was restricted largely to reconnaissance operations, the communique said.

Major battles also continued in the Black sea area southeast of Novorossiysk, where the enemy broke through to a highway. Soviet troops set up a stubborn resistance, counterattacking at several points.

FARM WAGES: Wickard Gets Control

Acting upon an order from James F. Byrnes, director of the Office of Economic Stabilization, the agricultural department has assumed full jurisdiction for stabilization of farm wages. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard was directed to establish machinery to handle the problem.

Officials were reported to be considering a plan under which government subsidies would be paid to farm operators in order that they might increase farm laborers' wages.

Meanwhile, the house committee on agriculture issued a report warning that a serious shortage of farm labor may result in a shortage of many necessities within 12 months. The report, released by Chairman F. P. Wadsworth of South Carolina, said that "before long, a few million hungry stomachs are going to awaken the people and the programmers to a better understanding and appreciation of those who till the soil."

EXPECT NAZI BOMBS: Churchill Tells People

The British people have been warned by Prime Minister Winston Churchill that Nazi air action against their homes this winter "may be heavy and menacing enough to call for everything that civil defense can produce to defeat it."

His warning was considered pessimistic—though true—when compared with his statement of early October that the Germans possibly would attempt "a very small return" in retaliation for smashing RAF raids over the Reich.

Because of successful daylight raids over the continent by British and American bombing planes, Nazi Reichsmarshal Goering has regrouped the German air force. British officials pointed out that such regrouping must also increase the effectiveness of the Nazi air force over England.

I have never seen one man take a bombing. That is what a comrade said of Marine Private Eugene Moore, one of a tank crew attacked by a horde of Japs on Guadalcanal in the Solomons. After a hand grenade had been thrown down the tank turret window it exploded, Moore attempted to escape. The howling Japs kicked him, knifed him, hurled him against the tank. Left for dead, the seething platoon blew up. Navy doctors saved his life.

'The Marines Have Landed And the Situation Is in Hand'

U. S. marines have been landing on hostile shores for 167 years. During this long stretch of time the "leathernecks" or "devil dogs," as they are affectionately known, have upheld the highest traditions of the U. S. military forces. The scrappy marines, each of whom can individually whip his weight in wildcats, know no retreat. The U. S. marine corps is a fighting outfit, through and through.

Today U. S. marines are serving their country at sea aboard cruisers, battleships and aircraft carriers, as well as in the Pacific, West Indies, the Caribbean and Alaska.

These pictures take you to the jungle islands of the S. W. Pacific, stepping stones for our march back to Bataan.

The marines practice with the latest "Commando" equipment. Rubber boots were used by the leathernecks to reach the "enemy" shore, during maneuvers.

Coming Election Has Political Insiders Guessing Again... Effect of Bus Speed Restrictions Debated...

Not Specimens—WFO Photos.

WASHINGTON.—Though there are always upsets in nation-wide elections, the best options, obtainable here at the political hub, are that there will not be as many close races as an actual result of the election, when the next congress convenes, as there will be due to primaries and conventions.

In the Senate, for instance, there are very few close contests in prospect. The Democrats are leading in the Senate, and the Republicans are leading in the House. The Democrats are leading in the Senate, and the Republicans are leading in the House.

It is very difficult to find a Democrat who is willing to let the Republicans win. It is very difficult to find a Republican who is willing to let the Democrats win. Working Many War Jobs Women Equal Men in Ability
Trying to Decide On If It's Tokyo or Berlin

Only in war jobs requiring brute force do men hold any material advantage over women, according to Professor Esmond Shaw of the Cooper Union Art school. Women's physical capacity for industrial tasks has been underrated, says Professor Shaw, who points out that the wartime service of women in industry reveals a narrower margin of male superiority than has been commonly supposed.

Women can withstand a steady drub on their physical resources that men cannot. Professor Shaw says. He shows the number of long distance female swimmers as evidence of women's endurance.

Women who question their own ability to replace men in war industry or professions should appreciate their physical qualifications for filling a man's job, he declares.

Truth for Specific Job.
Those who are planning to enter business should train for a specific job and be guided by longer range possibilities rather than by wartime opportunities. Old-fashioned virtues such as punctuality, loyalty and dependability still are the surest stepping stones to advancement, he thinks.

PEAKING OF SPORTS

By G. M. McManus
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE only two things Bernie Bierman didn't have to worry about this season were: (1) paying off the mortgage on a football stadium; (2) the wrath of the old grads if he should coach a losing team.

But, observers at the Iowa Pre-Flight school agreed, the former Minnesota grid coach had plenty of trouble ahead. His string of 17 consecutive victories with Minnesota, national champion, became little more than memories as he planned into the season with the Seahawks.

Bierman, who he termed "greener," in respect to organization, than any third team squad I ever had at Minnesota. That fact seemed unimportant as the Hawks defeated Michigan 20-14.

Bierman's Hawks, assembled from dozens of different colleges, are used as many different coaches. Bierman's Hawks, assembled from dozens of different colleges, are used as many different coaches.

The special consideration is given football schedules or any other variety athletes at the Iowa Pre-Flight school. Cadeis who are members of the Hawks are given special consideration.

TO CLASSIFY TOO LATE

By Russell Kay.

As this is the first of the year prior to the general election, I've decided to devote it to further discussion of the several amendments to be submitted next time.

Unfortunately, the language in which amendments are written makes it difficult for the average citizen to clearly understand what they are all about. In consequence, the tendency of the voter is to "take somebody else's word for it" or just fail to vote.

The Attorney General has recently issued a pamphlet in which he has carefully analyzed each amendment, explaining the good and bad points. While many of these are the product of a legal mind, it deals with the subjects in a manner which enables the average voter to grasp the problems, and I strongly advise that you write immediately to J. Tom Watson, Attorney General, Tallahassee, requesting a copy.

Minors Need Parents' Consent To Get In Navy

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 20.—To enlist in the Navy all minors must furnish proof of birth and have the written consent of parent or guardian, local Navy recruiters pointed out today as large numbers of youths from this section flock into the Navy recruiting office while legislation is pending to induce younger blood into the armed forces.

"We must establish the age when a volunteer has reached 18 years of age for enlistment," Lieut. T. J. Newkirk, Jr., officer-in-charge of Navy recruiting, declared.

They include a birth certificate, baptismal certificate, citing of date of birth as entered in the family Bible, citing of age as entered on insurance policy, transcript of school record, or an affidavit signed by the mother or father, if both parents are living.

If either parent is deceased, then the surviving parent is required to sign. If both parents are deceased, then the signature of a guardian is required. In the event the parents are divorced, and the minor assigned to neither by the court, then the signature of both parents is required.

Consent papers follow the same line of procedure. While the Navy has always been very attractive to the young men, a large increase in the number of inquiries from the men between the ages of 18 and 19 has been noted at the local office since the fiasco catch of President Roosevelt when he discussed the subject of the men of that age in connection with the draft.

Tampa was reported to be expecting a labor shortage in the fishing industry. Unlike the amendment previously mentioned dealing with Game and Fresh Water Fish, it is offered by the unlimited power of absolute dictatorship and is subject to legislative approval and control. Generally it would improve the present situation and make for uniformity of laws and regulations.

No. 6 on the ballot is the amendment that would provide for the establishment of two new senatorial districts, one to be composed of Broward county and the other Gulf and Calhoun counties. The welfare of the state demands a complete redefining of the entire state. While these areas, because of growth and development no doubt justify such representation, it is not the correct or democratic mode of securing it.

The 7th amendment deals with Dade County. While good in the principle of electing commissioners, it is dangerous in its restricting clause as future shifts of population might easily create unjust and unfair inequalities.

The 8th Amendment would permit the garnishment of 25 percent of the salary of anyone making $25.00 a week or more. It is well and confined in fact and should be defeated.

The last amendment on the ballot, No. 9, not only makes but also at the same time. It is legislation designed to favor certain groups at the expense of all other honest taxpayers. We already have too many special exemptions and privileged groups. If you want to assure the other fellow's just tax, you must want to place him in the same position as you.

I know this reading has been plenty dry column, but nevertheless, as good citizens we are called upon to exercise our judgment in these matters, and it is our responsibility to vote for what we think and vote for what is right.

Improvements Are Noted In School Affairs

J. Paul Garber, democratic nominee for re-election to the office of school trustee from the Avon Park district in the general election to be held next week, will have no opponent, a silent testimony to the fact that he has served in this capacity to the best of his ability, and has looked after the interests of the voters in this district of the county in a splendid manner.

A brief summary of improvements in the local schools, which have taken place during Mr. Garber's term of office, include the vocational building, completed in 1929; the music building, named after Mr. Garber, completed in 1930; the remodeling of the new lunch room building. The school acquired a well lighted athletic field three years ago, complete with bleachers and surrounded by high fence.

Two years ago lights were provided in the grade school building, and this year the room and halls have been painted and repaired. Modern rest rooms in both the high school and grammar school are among the improvements this year, and provide more sanitary conditions. The high school building has also received several much needed repairs and paint jobs. Another fine improvement includes the repair of the sidewalk on the north side of the building, which has been put into better shape this summer.

During Mr. Garber's term of office, the school bonds of the district have been sold, and the school has been able to save to taxpayers, in view of reduced interest on new bonds. Mr. Garber was the member of the county school board who made the motion at the meeting to withhold bonds from the Seaboard railroad, until they had paid their taxes. This company has paid their taxes, and as a result the schools of Highlands county have received their share of the revenue.

Mr. Garber is secretary of the Avon Park Florida Citrus Corporation, past president of the Rotary club, and an active member of the organization, a leader in the affairs of the Congregational Church, and an all-around civic leader. He is a man of business sense and ability, and the entire county profits from his past experience, and broad-minded character by his service as a member of the school board.

ATTEND HOMECOMING

Among those from Avon Park, who attended Homecoming at the University of Florida in Gainesville last Saturday, included Walter Martin, Bobby Keller, Jack Head, Jeanie Hetherington, Charles Leavon, George Gribble, Malcolm Crews, Jack Williams, Cecil Skipper, T. F. Hunt, Wendell Smith, and James Harris.

Some of the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon to the following from the Bible: "Now when Jesus was risen after the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils. And she went and told them that they had seen him, as they were mourning and weeping" (Mark 16:9, 10).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from "The Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus' unchanged physical body, which was what we saw, was followed by his exaltation above all material conditions; and this exaltation explained his ascension, and revealed unmistakably a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave. Jesus was the way; that is, he marked the way for all men" (p. 483-90).

"These six years have seen the property of the church increase in utility, in beauty and in value, and we feel it a privilege to recognize and commend the many things were done. We purchased and put for a standard pipe organ that was much needed in the church, and the church has a direct result of your initiative, stained glass windows replaced the old ones, and the church has been installed, all without detracting from the church treasury.

"Your services, and those of Mrs. Elliott, were given freely and without stint to the church, to organizations, and all of them, the Ladies Aid Society, Women's Missionary Society, the church choir, and Sunday School, owe you a debt of gratitude for your unselfish devotion and Christian guidance throughout the years of your pastorate.

"It is with sincere appreciation of your work for the betterment of our church and our city that this letter is written, and with the belief that we will face the future inspired by the example of Christian leadership you have set for all members and friends of this congregation."

Some Bits

There's a charming town in the far, deep south I'm dreaming (alone) that I see; It isn't exactly a glamorous spot; But it has "bright light" and I can see them shine across the miles.

To many between tonight— And if you guess I am homesick, Well I might confess you are right.

It's a pleasing town with a lovely mall; Not, in type, the "Main street style."

For a moment blooms this tropical pathway With its trace of beauty; a mile of color and green and white; To the traveler and guest it is cheer.

And, over, to those who are home In the town, it's heavy they know and hold dear.

The town has a setting of groves and lakes, Of homes built after by the shore; You can see in the mood and the words.

That I write, the longing I have. I admit The spirit of friendship one finds in the homes.

Now, maybe this all sounds to you That "a little of Heaven" I've found beneath the sun.

And maybe I think you think true. Yes, I'm homesick for Avon Park, good friends, Florida calls me to come Back to the charms and beauty we've found.

—Back to the spot we call HOME. So, I'm sending a call for a visit; (If the weather permits me, I'll fly) Going back to my home, ever yours; I'm hiding this city "good-bye." M. J. M. E.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET FRIDAY

The Women's Club business and program meeting of the Woman's Club will meet at three o'clock Friday afternoon, Nov. 8 at the club house. All members are urged to attend. The executive board will meet at 2:15 preceding the meeting.

ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST WONDERFUL FOODS

One of the most spiritual characters in all history, was a woman known as "Mother Shipton." She lived in England, over five hundred years ago, and was a very keen, discerning student of the prophecies of the Bible. She died in 1525, thirty-three years before Columbus discovered America.

From her studies of the Scriptures, she saw what was going to take place in the twentieth century—so far as the later days, and wrote it in the form of a poem, which is one of the most remarkable poems we have ever seen. We print it below, exactly as originally written:

HONEY

(In the year 1449 A. D.) And now a word in unsmooth rhyme Of what shall be in future time For, to thee, woman, I will say.

The woman shall adopt a cross To do her duty and to save souls; And cut off all their locks of hair.

They'll take outside with beams below, As wishes do, on beamsteads now; Then love shall die, and marriage will be done.

And nations wages will be done, And nations wages will be done; Then love shall die, and marriage will be done.

And nations wages will be done, And nations wages will be done; Then love shall die, and marriage will be done.

Research Proves Proper Setting Of Thermostat Will Save Fuel

Tests Made During 1941-42 in Special Home Prove Helpful

How much fuel can be saved by lowering thermostat settings at night? How much by lowering the thermostat settings for a 24-hour period? The University of Illinois has the answers to these questions as a result of research work carried on during the 1941-1942 heating season in their research home.

Tests were conducted with the thermostat set at 72 degrees from 8:30 a. m. until 10:00 p. m. and at 68 degrees from 10:00 p. m. until 8:30 a. m. The results indicate that the drop in temperature of 4 degrees at night effects a saving in fuel of from 5 to 10 per cent.

Lowering the thermostat setting by 5 degrees for an entire 24-hour period results in a saving of 15.5 per cent. Fuel consumption is a saving of 5.5 per cent per degree reduction in temperature.

The rapidity at which the indoor temperature drops at night depends on the severity of the outdoor temperature, the construction of the house. The research home, which is one of the best equipped homes in the state, is a well-insulated, thoroughly insulated.

Consequently the drop in temperature at night is less rapid than it is in a house not so well constructed.

The university points out that, during mild weather, the indoor temperature does not drop so rapidly as during the coldest weather.

The research home is heated with an oil-fired hot water boiler. The average heating season at Urbana, Ill., consists of about 5,000 degree-days. This is equivalent to about 204 days at an average temperature of 34 degrees.

They are to be tough and ingenious to survive down here—the flies, the mosquitoes, the snakes, the heat and the ever-present danger of the inside of your head raw, the unbearable loneliness of his without women.

They eat only Aussie chow—and sometimes best at that. When they get hungry, they mark it with ink as they play cards or dominoes. The difficulties of transportation have bogged down most of the commissary, recreational and morale services of our own army.

Cigarettes and other amenities are likely to be stolen before they can pass the long overland trip across our own ports.

When staff officers fly in for visits, they usually load their planes with comforts for the Yanks here—magazines, candy, playing cards, cigarettes and the like. I saw a whole group jump away from unshod dinner, with shouts of "Yanks here," when Gen. Ralph Hapgood produced out of his plane a baseball, a hat and some "oldies."

American ingenuity. Their toughness they take out on the Yips. The only superiority we have in the air of the Southwest Pacific is skill and heart. Their ingenuity in expressing their dislike was at once familiar and endearing to an American visitor.

Northern territory is the Land of the White Ant. The various tribes build huts, some low mounds, some 30-foot columns, and some plain domes. The huts, the mounds, the domes, give you the impression of ruined castles and villages in miniature.

The so-called "magnetic" nests are the most famous—tall, slender, sharply tapered pillars, the ends of which always point exactly north and south. Woody creepers, which are covered with fine clay that hardens into fortresses that repel all the "termite" enemies.

The Yanks found a use for these. They cut off the tops, chisel out a hollow in the bases—and have a barbecue or picnic stove!

All kinds of flaming. The chief unwritten restriction of the Yank army here is hunting—Nips in the air, kangaroos, snakes, dingoes or wild dingo, ducks, buffalo, crocodiles on the ground. The kangaroos remain of greatest interest. The boys catch young ones and try to tame them, each place to take a "roo home with him. But they find the "roos dumb and unresponsive," "just misbehaving rabbits."

One sound tent has a mascot—an old "roo" that an old boy, attached himself, "on his dog's tail" set on the ground. He comes in at night and sleeps under one of the cots. But if you try to pet him he runs out. At reveille he moves out about 20 feet from the tent; sits there all day, watching, sidestepping anyone who goes near his dog. After months of this, no one has succeeded in taming him.

The Yanks try to build up such a life as possible with the natives. They are not dangerous except that if you stand motionless, one may think you are a tree and as you go up, with undertone results to your clothes and skin from its little-like claws. The kangaroos stand on their hind legs and turn their heads in plain go over.

Ferry Service Along New Alcan Highway

Two months ago, changing conditions began forcing their way northwest from Edmonton, Canada, to Alaska. The months after that, the highway was completed, the highway was completed, the highway was completed.

With rivers were encountered, but conquered. The army built this steamship on the spot as a ferry for carrying supplies across the river. The rest of the fact is that the river is a permanent bridge will be constructed later on.

Rural America Fills Army's Request for Radio Technicians

Scores of civilian technicians from rural communities are now on duty or awaiting assignment as radio instructors at the Air Force Technical school in the former Stevens and Congress hotels, Chicago, Ill. It was revealed approximately two months after a nation-wide appeal for qualified persons was made by officials.

With the radio school expanding the facilities weekly, reports from the office of Brig. Gen. Arnold H. Keegstra, commanding officer of all Chicago schools under the Air Force Technical Training Command, indicate that more positions on the faculty are available.

Requirements call for a year of college training, a degree in electrical engineering, possession of a amateur radio operator's license, experience in radio, radio or electronic training or experience in allied radio subjects.

Applicants who lack certain requirements, officials said, are sent to St. Louis university at the expense of the government for special training before they begin teaching. While attending the university they are paid $135 a month. Salaries for teachers of radio depend upon classification of ability.

Classrooms and laboratories for the new school have been installed in former elaborate ballroom, dining halls, and theater, and of hotel buildings.

Instruction began recently in Chicago's historic Coliseum, former convention hall and sports arena which was acquired by the army in August.

By the time the school is in full operation, officials said, it will be one of the largest of its kind in the world. It will be one of the largest of its kind in the world. It will be one of the largest of its kind in the world.

Victory Tax vs. Sales Tax . . . Soldiers Now Getting Canned Ham And Eggs . . . Will Republic—WPU Features.

WASHINGTON.—The so-called Victory tax, approved by the senate, is regarded by critics as inflationary, whereas the sales tax is not. From a strictly mathematical standpoint, the victory tax will reduce purchasing power, and by the same token curtail the pressure of the buying power on prices. The sales tax, assuming the rate to be proportionate, would do the same thing.

"So what is the difference?" the writer asked the representative of a big department store, who had been urging the congressmen to substitute the sales tax for the victory tax.

"The illustration I gave you," he replied, "happened right at my house the other night. I told our cook that if congress passed this victory tax we would have to take out five cents from every dollar we were paying her, and hand it over to the government."

"Well, Mr. Blank," she said, "you will just have to give me that much more money. I can't afford to take five cents from my pay, but I am getting new, last or no last."

"So, you see, the victory tax would reduce your cook's purchasing power at all, unless we decided to get along without her."

"You may say that if we do not get rid of her, that extra 5 per cent of her wages will actually come out of our pockets, and thus reduce our spending by precisely that amount."

Will Not Curtail Purchases. "A moment's thought will convince you that this would not be true so far as inflationary effect is concerned. People who are able to afford servants will not curtail their purchases as the result of paying an extra tax on their servants' wages. That 40 or 50 cents a week will come out of what otherwise would have been savings—in our case it would be a saving in the cost of our household goods and services. In the case of some families this would be the cost of servants for what is what it will amount to, will result in their giving up servants. This is a business to close the line now that 40 to 50 cents a week will impose a hardship, that would be the natural result. Then the cost of having 40 to 50 cents a week less to spend, they will have eight to ten dollars a week MORE to spend. If you could what the food of the servant cost them, they will have still more."

ON THE HOME FRONT

THE illustration shows what became of a mirror and piano stool. To the mirror and stool, were added two wooden boxes from the grocery. These were placed on end about 18 inches apart and a shelf of half-inch plywood was screwed to the top. A frame was then screwed to the back of the boxes as shown. A curtain rod was placed across the top and the mirror hung lengthwise under it. An arm was then hinged to the front of each box. Paint was next. White, because white furniture is smart and because it matched the woodwork. The dressing table skirt was made with a one-inch heading at the top and checked along the ends of the table and the hinged arms with thumbknobs through a double strip of the plain material.

NOTE: Readers interested in making or remodeling home furnishings should send their order for the book, "How to Make a Dressing Table Skirt" to the publisher, 1000 N. 1st St., Phoenix, Arizona. Booklets are 10 cents each.

Cherokee madmen ran the Clontarf gauntlet last week's boy Bob, the corn-of-late bugle boy, had a bit of Indian fire water in his veins. The Army walls and flooring took an awful beating to say nothing of the poor white maidens who tried to follow him. Clontarf's been hard struggle with his bugle too. Seem that he read his life history in High Score and it makes him nervous to know the boys think of him when he gets outside to blow on it as should be do not to the scrap heap bugle. Kissing, too, was put through the mill with Mrs. Chas. Snyder.

Other Allied bombers attacked Laving, New Ireland, scoring direct hits on Jap fuel dumps and installations. Fires were visible for 30 miles.

Medium bombers were in action over Dutch Timor, north of Australia, where they bombed grounded aircraft on the airfields at Koepang, starting numerous fires.

RUSSIA:
Relief Army
At points the battle line in Stalinrad had been driven to within 600 yards of the Volga as the struggle for that vital city reached its climax. While the Soviet reports told of beating off constant Nazi attacks, these same communiques admitted that the Germans gained important streets and buildings in other sections of the stricken city.

To the northwest, the Soviet "re-advance" battled forward. After advancing this force found 3,000 German troops dead and dying in trenches and dugouts. In one isolated locality 800 Romanians were killed and many captured.

Germany's final, all-out drive for the city of Stalinrad itself was just part of the news from Russia, however, for in the Moscow area of the Caucasus the Nazi advance had been slowed to a standstill; on the Black Sea Russian marines were throwing back a strong Nazi drive southeast toward Novorossiysk; and on the Voronezh sector of the upper Dnieper German platoons were slaughtered trying to cross a water barrier. (Believed to be the Don River.)

U. S. planes were co-operating with the British but no large numbers of American ground troops were reported in this action. And it was in the air that the United States first showed their strongest power. For once Rommel did not rule the skies.

North Africa:
Libya Bound
When the British launched the "biggest battle" of Egypt, military experts knew that the objective was to crush the Africa Corps of Nazi General Rommel and drive the Axis forces deep into Libya, there to crush and destroy it. While it was easy to arrive at this fact it was a more difficult task to determine whether or not this represented the much sought "Second Front."

While the first reports of the new offensive by the British and other United Nations forces revealed that the Germans were being shoved back by the quick thrusts of air and land power nobody was underestimating the tremendous task ahead.

To nullify the German Africa Corps and to open more the Mediterranean sea lanes and drying in But it appeared that the British attack had been well prepared and long planned. It had been made possible only because huge quantities of supplies had been poured into Egypt from America. These came through by way of the Big U. S. base in El Ezz, on the Red sea.

U. S. planes were co-operating with the British but no large numbers of American ground troops were reported in this action. And it was in the air that the United States first showed their strongest power. For once Rommel did not rule the skies.

Head, TUNIS, NOVEMBER 4, 1942. The First, Second, and Third Armies of the United States, 1,000,000 men of American, British, and Canadian troops, are now in Tunisia, 1,000 miles from the Mediterranean Sea. The United States, British, and Canadian troops are now in Tunisia, 1,000 miles from the Mediterranean Sea. Hailey tried to make the Hurrys, Snyders, Bender and Cpl. Rhend grizzle ice tea. Back to the Hop and there with a flimsy femme was Pfc Eugene Avoit. He was mad cause he can't dance and she went off with a soldier, left him flat. Lanky Kid, Cpl. Suris, dressed waiters throughout jukin live with a blue gowned fatale.

Sgt. Kelly and Cpl. Air Corps Hanson are ready for a tiff. Since Kelly made Sgt. Avoit pulling his rank on two-stripe Hanson in a deal over Little Eva. The dress waited throughout jukin in love and rank. Now it's all a fair so long as rank is above that of Sgt.

Pfc Don Booth just happened to throw a wooden nail in the direction of Cpl. J. P. Roberts, Range speed cop. Last thing we heard of J. P. he was headed out west ahead of the fastest speeding vehicles. And without his speed wagon at all.

Notice how, since moving here to the Range, Sgt. Lewis Thornton and Cpl. J. A. Williams have taken to the lock-up status. Both proficient, they sound off each morning with a heavy Jackson call to one another.

Talking about dances... okay then, we won't say a word about the Lake Wales fiasco. Most of the boys said they had fun in a sandwich shop anyway. But no more distant treks will they take and be left out in the cold. Unless they go to Winter Haven.

THE sugar-raising program may prove to be a blessing in disguise. For while refined sugar is packed with energy, it lacks all other food factors. Then too, many of us have been eating far too much sugar—often times at the expense of an adequate daily diet which should include milk, cereals, vegetables, fruits, eggs, meat, cheese, fat, etc.

You will find it easier to stay within your sugar quota, if you remember the following points:

1. Serve fewer desserts requiring sugar. Instead, serve fresh fruits, sweetened sparingly or not at all, and canned fruits, as well as fresh and canned fruit juices frequently—they're all rich in natural sugar, and delicious as desserts.
2. When you do make desserts, try using sugar substitutes. Sugar substitutes are cream, saucers, etc. often call for more sugar than they really need, and so the family will probably never miss the sugar you cut out of them.
3. Urge your family to use less sugar in coffee and tea, and to stir it well. Sugar left un-stirred in the bottom of the cup is a waste. Try corn syrup, honey or canned sweetened condensed milk as the sweetener.
4. Serve waffles, griddle cakes, or French toast, with maple syrup, waste syrup, honey, molasses, jam or jelly for dessert.
5. Serve cheese, crackers and jam or fruit for dessert.
6. Buy and serve packaged prepared puddings, gelatin desserts, gingerbread mince, custard, custard, pie fillings, commercial ice cream, quick frozen strawberries and peaches, canned fruits and fruit juices, packaged condiments, and other ready-to-serve dessert items. By so doing you conserve your sugar supply.

7. Encourage the family to eat cereals with molasses, honey, corn syrup, maple syrup, with apple, etc.

Juniors Have Halloween Dance Friday Evening

Brickell hall was colorfully decorated in Halloween colors on Friday evening, when the junior class entertained at a costume dance. Gay streamers of orange and black crepe paper, extending across the room and orange Jack 'o lanterns with burning candles, accented a weird effect.

The grand march was held late in the evening, and prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Peggy Jo Smith and Howard Todd. Grad six students were given "The Scarecrow," "Stagecoach," "Lady From Louisiana," "Lady For A Night," "The Long Voyage Home," "The Song of the Hills," "The Wild Wind," and "In Old California."

"ALWAYS WARM UP BEFORE TAKING OFF"

America on the Job!

THERE'S A LITTLE radio station up in Tallahassee going about its job like all good Americans and as we sat in the office up there Saturday afternoon there came hurried call from the county war bonds chairman.

"Say there!" he say-thered, "Leon county is $1,900 shy of its October quota and we've got to report Monday morning. What do you think WTAL can do about it?"

Bill Wyatt, about whom there is very little that is little, replied: "Well we can find out d-d quick."

A word to the writer, a nod and WTAL started finding out. And we found out.

Now WTAL is a certified agency for war bonds, has several thousand dollars worth ready to issue, and so announcers started feeding the "call" on the air.

Long stories are best short—so the ending is that WTAL not only found out what it could do—but did it. The radio station sold $1,975 worth of bonds "over the air" before 10 p.m. Sunday night and Leon went over the top again.

Now the station is going ahead with a daily "sale." Copy along modern merchandising lines is prepared by the station's own script writers—tying in with "spot" news such as the landing of American troops at Gibraltar. And it works, the phones soon begin to ring, and messengers start delivering the bonds and taking the cash.

That's America on the job—Democracy, if you please.

And yet some fools still talk about government operation of radio stations, newspapers and the like.

Bible Class Has Supper Meeting Monday Evening

Open House Honors Rev. and Mrs. Hedgebeth

Members of the Union Congregational church entertained at open house on Friday afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 clock and again in the evening from 7:00 to 9:00, in honor of their new pastor, the Rev. Emmanuel Hedgebeth and his wife, Mrs. A. McKee Elwell. Members of the congregation and friends called at the manse during the designated hours to extend a cordial welcome to the couple.

Hollywood's Male Stars Appear in "Flying Tigers"

An assortment of Hollywood's sturdiest, most rugged males composed the "Flying Tigers" in Republic's drama of the title, scheduled to go into the Park Theatre for a two day run starting Sunday.

John Wayne, tall and commanding, leads the team, but spent his childhood on a ranch near Lancaster, California. After starring for ten years in westerns, he finally got Hollywood to wake up to his talents as a dramatic actor of Grade A caliber, and the result is "Flying Tigers."

Dark Command— "Stagecoach," "Lady From Louisiana," "Lady For A Night," "The Long Voyage Home," "The Song of the Hills," "The Wild Wind," and "In Old California."

CHURCHES OF CHRIST

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in churches of Christ, Scientist, Brethren, World on Sunday, November 8. The Golden Text is: "As by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous" (Romans 5:19).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. And God saw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good" (Gen. 1:26, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man's genuine selfhood is recognizable only in what is good and true. Man is neither self-made nor made by mortals. God created man" (p. 224:22-27).

Training Program Set For Step Up

The success of Air Force units in training and combat, and the lives of individual personnel, are directly related to the status of physical condition of all Air Force personnel. So stated a Third Air Force Bulletin issued last week.

In compliance with the bulletin, Lt. Russell, Special Services Officer, is starting to plug any holes in the bombing range training program now under way. The range is still in its infancy, but various forms of equipment are being set up without delay and the training program should see rapid expansion in the program.

The boxing ring is now ready for use and a schedule of tilt has already been chalked up. The baseball diamond is used daily. The training program will be increased until all personnel are physically conditioned to meet rigorous requirements that are met on fields of combat.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

... Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis

Protection of the home front is the slogan of the 1942 Christmas Seal Sale and defense campaign throughout Florida. A preview of the 1942 Seal is shown above. This year's Christmas Seal, symbol of the war against tuberculosis, was designed by Dale Nichols, outstanding American artist whose paintings of red barns have been famous. The 1942 Seal shows a country scene with the typical Nichols red barn and white farmhouse in the background. It is one of the most attractive designs in a list that now numbers 36, one for each one of the years the traditional Christmas Seal Sale campaign for health funds has been conducted throughout the nation. The brilliant seal radiates the spirit of the slogan "Protect Your Home Against Tuberculosis."

Seals in Florida will be offered for sale by Florida Tuberculosis and Health Association and its affiliated localities.

FBI men thought they were on something big when Seattle police discovered a notebook containing this cryptic entry: "K I, P A, C O, K A, Y O, K A, P A, D E C R, K A, I N C A."

They spent quite a while trying to decode it but finally even the cipher experts confessed they were stumped.

In desperation they set out to find the owner of the notebook, who turned out to be an attractive brunette. Upon request she obligingly translated the coded entry as follows:

"Knit one, purl two, cast on eight, knit five, yarn over, knit three, purl two, decrease six, knit five, increase four."
