Avon Park House- Wives Can Attend Nutrition Classes

Mrs. Ethel D. Weaver of the Home Economics department of the Florida Public Service company is holding a series of nutrition classes in Avon Park, the first being held two weeks ago. At this time sugar saving recipes were emphasized and a demonstration given.

Mrs. Weaver was again in Avon Park on Thursday and Friday of this week, and gave two very entertaining and profitable talks, and practical demonstration on her chosen subjects to a group of interested women. On Thursday, the presentation and cooking of vegetables in the oven was stressed. Carrots, new potatoes and beans were prepared and cooked in the oven, the group viewing the entire procedure. On Friday morning, Mrs. Weaver made and baked a sugarcake cake. A round table discussion brought many new ideas and timely suggestions.

The next classes will be held on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 5, and Friday morning, Nov. 6. At this time, milk and cheese dishes will be prepared by new recipes designed to retain the greatest food value in preparation and cooking. Meats, bread and rolls will be used in further series of the nutrition classes.

These group meetings are being held, Mrs. Weaver said, on account of the tire and gas situation. Similar meetings were held in the homes of women in Lake Wales and Haines City, she said, and could be held in homes here, if the opportunity presents itself.

Mrs. Weaver spoke this week on "Lighting" to a group of students at the Home Economics department of the high school.

At this time when housewives are busy with the problem of serving foods to conform to a time budget, and at the same time, serve their families with wholesome and delectable foods, prepared and cooked in the oven, it is to retain all the necessary vitamins and other food values, it will be to have every housewife to take advantage of the opportunity.

Mrs. Weaver, who possesses a charming personality, addresses the group to whom she is talking, in an enlightening and interesting manner and gives the housewife some valuable information on nutrition. Those interested are cordially invited to attend the next classes in November.
