Hammock Park Seeks Operating Funds To Continue

How to keep Highlands Hammock State Park operating to serve the public under wartime conditions, was the subject of a conference of Highlands Hammock, Inc., Trustees, which was held in the refreshment house last Thursday. The importance of the subject is indicated by the fact that Mrs. Linwood Jorgensen, a member of the Florida Board of Forestry and Parks came from Jacksonville to participate in the discussions while three men made the trip from Tallahassee. State Forester and Park Executive H. J. Malsberger, Director of State Parks L. G. Seegren and his administrative assistant, E. L. Hill, were the other State representatives.

Col. F. N. K. Bailey and R. N. Durranse, secretary, presented the program. Alexander Blair and A. C. Altvater were invited to advise with the Hammock officials.

All State Parks are confronted with the problem of obtaining sufficient funds to continue operation.

although park use by the public has not decreased in proportion to appropriations. Maintenance of improvement and service to the public have not decreased while the costs of labor and materials have steadily increased. Operating budgets of all state departments have been curtailed and other revenues have almost disappeared. The problems facing the conference were most acute.

Plans were made which will be tried on an experimental basis and, if found practical, will assure continued operation of the facilities such as guide service, picnicking, operation of the refreshment house, etc.

HENDRICKS "DATE" GETS ICE CREAM

HENDRICKS FIELD.—The degree of embarrassment on the part of the principals is not known in this case of a blind date. A sergeant from this post called for the "date", whom he had never seen. When she emerged from the house, he took one look and asked, "How are you, sister?" "Fourteen," was the unabashed reply. "Look," said the sergeant, pressing a nickel into her hand, "Go buy yourself an ice cream cone. Good bye."

Mrs. O. G. Knowles of DeLand, and Mr. Roy Knowles of Camp Harding, who have been the guests of their daughter and sister, Mrs. H. C. Worden and family, left last Sunday. Mrs. Knowles was accompanied home by her young granddaughter, attractive little Miss Elaine Worden.

Hendricks Field Chapel Presented With Murals

HENDRICKS FIELD.—Thanks to two enlisted men, the chapel here has been beautified by a series of murals which have won the admiration of the entire post personnel.

Privates Will Kaplan, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Donald Erdman, of Allentown, Pa., collaborated in painting them. Both were advertising artists before they entered the service.

Pvt. Kaplan was an art director of a Philadelphia advertising company and attended the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts. Pvt. Erdman, a graduate of the School of Industrial Art, Philadelphia, was in the advertising department of a large utility company at Allentown. Both came here at the same time.

The principal mural, on either side of the chancel, depicts our armed forces surging to meet a threatening wave of destruction. (All arms of the service, even to paratroops floating to earth from huge planes, are represented in the scene.) Among them in the struggle are the Tank Commandments and the prayers of Christ, which form the two principal subjects of the composition.

(Hoffman's painting of Christ praying on the rock served as a model for the mural.)

The battle won and peace restored on earth, soldiers, sailors, Marines and nurses are seen of

The paintings were done under the inspirational supervision of the post chaplain, First Lt. Verne H. Warner.
