More than 1,200,000 volunteer members of the ground observer corps of the aircraft warning service are on the alert 24 hours a day throughout the coastal areas of the United States, just to make sure it doesn't happen here! Approximately 750,000 of these serve under the 1st Fighter Command from Maine to Florida, scanning the skies night and day for hostile aircraft—all under supervision of the army air force.

Since December 7 the baker, the butcher, the baker and the housewife take turns at watching the skies at their local observation post, none ever more than six miles apart. Observers "flash" reports reports are phoned into strategic centers where flights of planes are posted and passed on by officials. The following photos were taken at the Kingston, N. Y., observation post.

PRIVATE-PURKESY-SYMPATHIZER WITH THE HOME FRONT

Dear Mom—Well I heard on the radio a broadcast of news from the United States and I made me most as much worried about you and dad as you are about me. About the only big difference between me and you now is that you can talk back. But you get to listen to just as many orders as I get.

Remember away back, mom, when you was just worried that I would not have enough comforts in the army and when you was always so afraid I would not be able to keep warm? Gee I never thought I would be worried over you for the same reason, mom.

I guess there's rules about jollies in the army that you, always I know you ain't the kind to squawk. I hear you can't use the diver for nothing now except in case of sickness, but I bet the rules make pop sick enough to have a good ail if he decides to take a ride. I see one rule which says it is okay to drive a sick dog to a dog hospital and on account of I know what a little fresh air means to you, mom, I wish pop would pick up a dog what did not look too healthy and take it out for a little ride once a week.

It looks to me like between reading automobile rules, checking tire numbers, doing out new washing systems, trying to keep warm, and keeping track of new rulings on what you can eat, man, you ain't having a picnic. But cheer up, mom, your troubles make me sorer at the Axis than ever and I will fight harder to break up this war now.

I am well and strong if a little muddy. I would feel better if I knew who was on the level over here and who was not. Some Frenchman is double-crossing some other Frenchman or vice versa every few minutes and I guess General Eisenhower is having a time straightening out the line-up. Every day somebody else is arrested for trying to run the wrong way with the ball.

Well, I see there's a ruling you can not send me no more packages unless I ask for them and get the brass hats to okay it which makes me sore. It makes me feel silly making out a list of things I would like and reading it to a officer like I was asking Santa Claus for some presents.

The brass hat I would have to ask to be a surgeon. He is not doing nothing for me so I am going to tell him I want a player-piano, a barrel of beer, a bathtub and a milk and a porky from my folks. I got nothing to lose.

Love, Oscar.

If Gen. George Washington and President Abraham Lincoln Were Living Today ...

What Would They Say to Their America as It Enters Second Year of a Great War?

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Revised by Western Newspaper Union

THIS month, which finds America entering the second year of the greatest war in her history, also finds her honoring again the memory of her two greatest sons—men who led her successfully through two other conflicts.

What were their prospects of victory as they entered the second year of those conflicts—the War for American Independence and the War Between the States?

"If George Washington and Abraham Lincoln were alive today," what message would they give to the embattled America of 1943?

When the second year of the Revolution began George Washington found himself commander-in-chief of what was little better than a rabble in arms. To the members of the Continental congress he had declared "Least some unholy event should happen, unfavourable to my reputation, I beg it may be remembered, by every gentleman in the room, that I this day declare, with the utmost sincerity, I do not think myself equal to the command I am honored with."

Washington little realized then how soon "some unholy event should happen" nor what a long succession of such misfortunes would befall him for the next six years. But he must have had a foreboding of them, for, within a week after he assumed command of the army, he was writing to his friend, Richard Henry Lee: "We are in an exceedingly dangerous situation. We have not a single officer of the army."

I am well and strong if a little muddy. I would feel better if I knew who was on the level over here and who was not. Some Frenchman is double-crossing some other Frenchman or vice versa every few minutes and I guess General Eisenhower is having a time straightening out the line-up. Every day somebody else is arrested for trying to run the wrong way with the ball.

Well, I see there's a ruling you can not send me no more packages unless I ask for them and get the brass hats to okay it which makes me sore. It makes me feel silly making out a list of things I would like and reading it to a officer like I was asking Santa Claus for some presents.

Washington and Lincoln Speak to Their Fellow-Americans Today

Army. Our cruel and unrelenting

Enemy leaves us no choice but a brave resistance, or a must of Submission, that is all we can expect.

We have therefore to resolve to conquer or to die.—Gen. George

Washington in an order to the Continental Army on July 2, 1776.

"God knows, there's not a difficulty, that you very justly complain of, which I have not in an eminent degree experienced, that I am not

Contingent congress was debating independence from the Mother country and on the immortal Fourth of July it took the decisive step. Up to this time Washington had been leading a fight for the rights of himself and his compatriots as Englishmen. Now the congress had given him something else to fight for. They called it Liberty—the king of England called it Treason. Witty old Ben Franklin had told his fellows that they "must hang together or assuredly we shall hang separately."

If the new nation failed one of the first candidates for the hangman's rope would be that arch-enemy, the commander-in-chief of the rebellion.

That danger seemed perilously near soon after Washington had his troops drawn up on marble and the Declaration of Independence read to them. Up the bay came a British armada—40 transports and 32,000 soldiers, conveyed by 10 battleships and 20 frigates, manned by more than 10,000 sailors. A little later they were joined by 10,000 Hessian mercenaries. Against this aggregation of British might Washington had a motley force of not more than 20,000 men, many of them unfit for service or unwilling to fight because congress had failed to pay them or even to provide them with enough clothing, arms and food.

A Series of Disasters. Then followed the series of disasters which was called the "Year of Independence" one of the blackest years in the whole struggle for liberty. In August General Plumb's army was cut to pieces at the Battle of Long Island and narrowly escaped capture. In September Washington was driven out of New York and his army retreated to Harlem Heights in panic rout.

In October he was defeated at the Battle of Red Bank. In November the British captured Fort Mifflin, one of the chief defenses of the Hudson, and forced the Ameri-

McClellan Falls. In March, General McClellan, the Union commander, had begun his Peninsular campaign "which for numbers engaged and losses suffered surpassed any previous campaign in North America." By June it was apparent that the campaign had failed and that the volunteer system could not produce the number of men needed for replacement of the blood-bathed McClellan had given the Union army. In a confidential message to the state governors Lincoln appealed for 100,000 new troops, saying "I would publicly appeal to the country for this new force were it not that I fear a general panic and stampede would follow, so hard it is to have a thing understood as it is."

This appeal brought him the troops he needed but, having lost confidence in McClellan, he placed General Pope in command. The result was the terrible defeat at the second Battle of Manassas and McClellan was again in the saddle. Thereupon he invaded Maryland and was stopped in the Battle of Antietam, after which he retreated to the Potomac. McClellan might have crossed the river but failed to do so. Lincoln again removed "Little Mac" and gave command to General Burnside, who, after an attack on Fredericksburg, resulted in the loss of 10,000 Union dead and wounded.

So the year ended in failure and a deep gloom settled over the nation. The year 1862 was the depression in the White House, for the election of Horatio Seymour, the Democrat, in New York, was regarded as a repudiation of Lincoln's conduct of the war. He could not foresee that the next year would mark the turning point of the war with the victories at Vicksburg and Gettysburg, both achieved on the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Four months later the Great Emancipator journeyed to these battlefields and there delivered an immortal address.

"If Abraham Lincoln were alive today," the message that he might give to an America engaged in a struggle with the most deadly enemy that the world has ever known would be a quotation from the Gettysburg Address. It is the reassurance:

"That the nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

every day experiencing; but we must bear up against them, and make the best of them, as we have always done. Let me, therefore, conjure you to lay aside such thoughts (regarding the crisis) as might be injurious to you and excessively so to your country, which calls aloud for a generation of your youth."

Mrs. Nellie Waters gave a beautiful paper on "The Words of Our Youth in Higher Education." This was followed by a talk by Mrs. Mary Reed on "Preparation of the Young People to Take Their Place in the Modern World."

A collection of two dollars was taken for a donation to the Educational Foundation Fund. The lodge expects to have on one a number given to this fund before it is sent to the chairman, Mrs. Clemmie Reed of Ft. Myers.

After the meeting, the group was invited to the home of Mrs. Mary Smith, where they enjoyed a delicious cold plate supper served with hot coffee. The supper was served on beautiful hand painted china, the artistic work of the hostess' daughter. —Contributed

Philathon Class Has Valentine Party Tuesday

The Philathon Class of the First Baptist Sunday School was entertained on Tuesday evening, with a lovely party at the home of Mrs. E. C. Weaver. Mrs. E. C. Weaver was co-hostess for the evening. A Valentine motif was cleverly observed in the decorations, with the colors of red and white predominating. Gladioli and red roses formed the attractive centerpiece for the dining table, that was overlaid with a pastel linen cloth. Bouquets of red roses and white carnations were placed at vantage points about the room.

A short business meeting, with Mrs. E. Ray Wells, vice president, presiding, was held after the guests had arrived. Mrs. Durrah Martin conducted the devotional, and Mrs. J. B. Coen Jr., led in prayer.

A variety of contests, pertaining to Valentine, were enjoyed during the evening, after which delicious refreshments of chicken salad, olives, addition and coffee were served. To further emphasize the chosen color note, each plate was adorned with a miniature carnage fashioned of red carnations and flaming stars.

Class members and visitors enjoyed the party included Mrs. Ray Wells, Mrs. T. E. Davis, Mrs. E. H. Shepherd, Mrs. Charles Hubbard, Mrs. Harry Walker, Mrs. C. Babin, Mrs. W. W. McFarland, Mrs. G. H. Bender, Mrs. G. F. Ford, Mrs. Durrah Martin, Mrs. J. B. Coen Jr., Mrs. B. B. Longbottom, Mrs. W. J. Whitman, Mrs. Mary Kent, Mrs. Ben Howell, Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. McGhee.

COVENANT CIRCLE TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Covenant Circle of the Union Congregational Church will meet Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ernest Armstrong. All members are urged to attend.

RED CROSS INFORMATION

Miss Irene Ballard, new executive secretary of the Highlands County Chapter of the American Red Cross, took up her duties Monday, succeeding Miss Ruth Andrews, temporary secretary, who has held the post since November of last year.

Miss Ballard comes to Highlands County from National Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C., where she has just completed a special course in training in the Red Cross School for Executive Secretaries.

Miss Ballard has had extensive training and wide experience in social work. She is a graduate of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, and did graduate work at McGill University in Montreal, Canada. Prior to her entry into Red Cross work, she was assistant superintendent of the Children's Home at West Palm Beach, head of the post of Juvenile Protective Officer, and was clerk of the Juvenile Court of Palm Beach County. She is a former member of the Florida State Women's Club and of the Florida State Bar Association.

In Florida, Miss Ballard was a medical social worker for the Chronic Disease Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio, and was engaged in the county welfare work there. The first large task confronting Miss Ballard as Highlands County secretary will be that of supervising the local War Fund drive activities which will begin March 1 and continue throughout the month.

"I will of necessity, however, devote most of my time to the home service activities of the chapter," Miss Ballard stated, "because the proximity of the two army air bases at Ft. Meade Field and Avon Park and the large number of Highlands County men in the armed forces make these activities most important."

"Such activities," Miss Ballard pointed out, "cover financial assistance, securing of information for the military authorities in regard to need for furloughs because of illness or death in a soldier's family, communication between service men and their families, and the sending of letters to families and friends in foreign countries when the regular postal service is not available."

Mrs. Bunting is Hostess at Club Party

Mrs. John Bunting was a gracious hostess to members of the Sans Souci club and additional guests, at an enjoyable party at her home on Tuesday evening. Attractively arranged bouquets of roses decorated the party rooms.

When scores were totaled, after several progressions, high club award was given to Mrs. Raymond Dilley and second high was won by Miss Iva Phillips. Both received Defense Stamps as their prize. The high score guest prize, a dainty lapel pin was presented to Mrs. E. B. Woljunkt.

Refreshments of cookies and coffee were served late in the evening to those playing who were Mrs. Chas. Sherman, Mrs. Raymond Dilley, Miss Iva Phillips, Miss Mildred Myers, Mrs. Fred Ford, Mrs. Clio Metcalfe, Mrs. Phillip Boardman, Miss Millie Pearson, Miss Alma Harrell, Mrs. Ben T. Stewart, Mrs. E. B. Baptist Group Has Party Thursday Evening

The Intermediate YWU of the First Baptist church were entertained at a delightful party on Thursday evening in the basement of the church. The many games enjoyed during the evening emphasized the Valentine note. Tempting refreshments of fruit salad and cheese ritz crackers were served.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

"BOUL" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, February 14.

The Golden Text is: "My soul shall make my boast in the Lord: the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad. O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together" (Psalms 34:3, 3).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalms 66:19).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The pains of sense quickly inform us that the pleasures of sense are mortal and that joy is spiritual. The pains of sense are salutary, if they wrench away false pleasurable beliefs and transplant the affections from sense to Soul, where the creations of God are good, 'Rejoicing in the heart'" (p. 253:28-3).

CELLULOSE AROUND SWITCH PLATES AND WALLPAPER

ONE of the little things that worry a careful housekeeper is the soiling of wallpaper around switch-plates. Fumbling fingers in the dark may leave marks that cannot easily be erased. This situation can be made easier through the use of a sheet of this transparent celluloid, or of heavy cellophane. The switch-plate is taken off, which can be easily done by releasing the screws that show in the face. Usually there are two, but for plates that combine two switches, or a switch and an outlet there may be four. The celluloid is laid on the sheet of transparent material, and a piece cut out as large as the switch-plate, so that when the plate is returned to position, the lower edge will be sipped, and the entire sheet pressed against the wall. Being transparent, the wallpaper pattern will show through, and the addition will hardly be noticed. Even greasy and perspiring fingers will leave no marks, or if they do, they can easily be wiped out with a damp cloth.

Question: The paint on our bathroom walls is peeling badly; we should like to repaint but are afraid that the same thing might happen again. The worst spot is around the sink, where water splashes on the wall.

Answer: Ordinary flat paint should not be used in bathroom or kitchen. For the best modern effect, finish your bathroom walls at least halfway up with wall linoleum or with tile. For the rest of the wall you can use wall cloth, which is waterproof and comes in handsome designs. Another choice would be glossy enamel. You cannot use linoleum or tile, wall cloth or enamel can be used for all the wall, except around the shower. There the plaster of the wall should have a waterproof covering; wall cloth will serve in this instance.

Wallpaper Patch
Wallpaper of any color pattern can be used to cover a marred place on a papered wall. The paper should not be cut, for the edges would show up in a strong light. The paper should be torn from the back, which will give the front surface a feathered edge that will not be conspicuous. Library paste, somewhat thinned with water, can be used, or regular wallpaper paste. Spread this liberally on the back of the patch, place the patch on the wall and slide it around to fit in with the pattern on the wall. The brush from the center toward the edges, pressing closely to squeeze out excess paste and air bubbles. Use a sharp damp cloth to wipe off any paste that oozes out.

Ink on Wallpaper
Question: How can ink be removed from yellow wallpaper?
Answer: Try ink eradicator, which can be obtained at a stationery or drugstore. This, however, will bleach out the color of the paper, but you may be able to touch up the marred area with water colors from a child's paint box. If the paper has a pattern, this should not be difficult to do. If the yellow is a plain color, a marked area probably will remain. You either can have a picture or square of tapestry over it, or get your paper hanger to make a neat patch of matching paper, or you can do it yourself.

Damp Bedroom
Question: The room where my two children sleep has no cellar under it and the floor always is damp. What can we do?
Answer: If there is enough space underneath for a workman to crawl, you could have black insulation at least two inches thick, enclosed in waterproof paper, nailed between the floor joists. Before installing the insulation, coat the underside of the floor and beams with a liquid tar or asphalt.

Linoleum on Tile
Question: We have a white tile floor in our bathroom but would like linoleum instead. Must the tile be taken out, or can the linoleum be put over it?
Answer: The tile will not have to be removed, but if there are any irregularities in the surface your linoleum contractor will have to level off the high spots first; otherwise, there will be excessive wear at these points.

Painting Metal Lamps
Question: The finials on my two lamps, one brass and one bronze, are stained and peeling. I should like to paint them ivory. What should I do?
Answer: Remove all traces of lacquer from the lamps by wiping with turpentine or acetone. This is inflammable, so be careful of fire! Rub the metal with steel wool, then wipe with turpentine. Apply a coat of enamel undercoat or flat paint with a very good quality, quick-drying enamel.

LOSS OF EFFICIENCY Thru Lack of Food

Wives and mothers have known for many years that if they want to talk about a new dress, some painting or decorating for the house, or anything else in which the opinion and help of husband or father is needed, the matter should not be discussed while he is hungry. It was no news to them, therefore, when some research workers a couple of years ago showed that hunger so affected the nervous system that the individual would not be his or her real self and would do or say things which he would not remember shortly after the eating of a meal. That plenty of the proper foods would increase the size, health and life span of small animals was shown about five years ago. The research workers on nutrition kept a record of about 27 generations. The rats thrived, had large families, and lived the usual life span. However, by adding certain foods containing minerals and vitamins to this standard ration, the rats improved in size, in the bearing of young, and in their life span. Dr. James S. McClellan, Birmingham, Ala., chairman of the council on foods and nutrition of the American Medical Association, stated that the association journal that, despite the abundance of all kinds of food, there are many individuals who do not eat enough, or their body processes do not handle properly various foodstuffs, with the result that they are not what they should be physically, mentally and emotionally. These individuals have no outstanding symptoms such as bleeding gums, scurvy, neuritis, pains of beriberi, or the skin eruptions of pellagra.

After watching these patients, one is impressed by the truth of the statement that no greater catastrophe comes to man than the loss of efficiency, the lack of initiative, and the mental depression that comes from failure to obtain proper nutrition.

We must continue to eat plenty of meat, eggs, fish, bread and potatoes—foundational foods, and then make sure of eating some every day of the protective foods, that is dairy products, fruits and green vegetables.

NUTRITION HINTS

It must be gratifying to our readers to know that in nutrition to see how, in hundreds, if not thousands, of factories engaged in making armament and war utensils, the quantity and quality of the foods sold at the canteens is under the supervision of trained dietitians.

One of the first points noticed in the menus is the emphasis placed on meats. The workers are encouraged to eat meat.

Dr. Barton not only at the evening meal but at their noon meal or lunch. That plenty of bread and potatoes should be eaten to give energy is also advised, but the meat is especially needed to repair worn tissues and cells caused by strenuous work.

Fruits, green and yellow vegetables, and plenty of milk, are advised to make sure of obtaining the necessary minerals and vitamins.

In an address before the Second Pennsylvania Health Institute, Harrisburg, Dr. Frank G. Bondreux, New York, stated that education in nutrition of the industrial workers can be made effective by following these suggestions:

1. A trained dietitian can be made available to the employees and their families.

2. Information on nutrition can be placed in the plant's publication.

3. Pay envelope slips, listing items of food of good nutritional or nourishing value which are in season or on the market at reasonable prices, can be used.

4. Posters emphasizing the importance of good nutrition can be placed about the plant.

5. Pamphlets on nutrition, provided by such agencies as the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture, can be distributed.

6. The maintenance of a cafeteria system, where foods of high nutritional value are served "in an attractive fashion" so that the employees learn to appreciate how nice they taste as well as how nourishing they are, is one of the best ways of attracting their attention and careful consideration.

Additional No. 1 Ration Books Issued

Government orders that no more No. 1 sugar ration books would be issued was rescinded this morning according to an announcement by Frank Henderson, of the Highlands County Rationing Board.

The new order came as a result of the new OPA regulation that shoes should be rationed.

Merchants over the nation were given orders to sell no shoes Monday and any shoes sold thereafter had to be purchased with a coupon from a sugar ration book or by the special order of the rationing board.

Anyone desiring to purchase shoes must either present his coupon or have a ration book to show to the book at the OPA office in the court house. No one may receive Number Two Ration Book coupons to exchange a Number One book for it.

Until the change was made rationing boards were following the rule that no shoes could be sold without a coupon. The board could apply by letter to the board asking for shoes and stating the reasons for necessity as well as amount on hand.

Only special certificates from the rationing boards will be issued in the cases of working people, and growing children, whose jobs demand extra shoes.

Letters from the applicants or their parents must include the type of shoes needed, when the shoes are desired to be made, and the number of replaceable shoes on hand. The board after hearing the case, will be approved by the board.

Certificates issued by the board are valid for 30 days.

In the cases of nurses, mail carriers, and other essential occupations, the rationing authorities have made exceptions and will allow extra working shoes.

Mr. Henderson reminded any prospective shoe purchasers that the ration coupons of a family may be pooled or traded, coupons may be used by the retailer in the purchase of shoes, marriage, or adoption of the owner of the ration book. The coupons must be detached in the same manner that coffee and sugar rationing coupons have been done.

The first rationing coupon shoes in Number 1 of the rationing book and is valid from February 9 to June 15. Shoes not included in the new order are soft-soled baby shoes, slippers and dancing shoes.

Shopping Tips on Rationing

Use your 8-point and 5-point stamps first, whenever you can. When you have stamps that take a lot of points, or several different rationed items at the same time, use the high-point stamps first.

Don't use more stamps than you need to make up the amount. For example, for a 16-point purchase, use two 8-point stamps—not three 8's and one 4.

Save your low-point stamps for low-point foods you may want to buy later in the month.

Use your grocery list. You grocer will not be able to give you change for stamps.

SHOP EARLY IN THE DAY — SHOP EARLY in the week. Shopping will take longer because you will have to plan and figure your shopping in money and points.

It will take your grocer longer to add up your bill because he must figure out how much you owe in money and in points. And he will be helping you figure out the best way to use your stamps.

You will save time for yourself and your grocer if you shop early in the day and early in the week when stores are not so crowded — and you shop for several days at one time.

Leave the late shopping hours for war-workers and others who have no time to shop early.

Take your own list of points with you when you shop. Points will be the same in every store all over the country. You may buy in any store you like and still shop around for bargains in prices.

Francis Mausoleum Completed in Bougainvillea

J. S. Francis has just completed a marble mausoleum in Bougainvillea cemetery, which will provide a magnificent tomb and last resting place for himself and Mrs. Francis.

The underground tomb are constructed of reinforced concrete, each covered with marble slabs weighing 3000 pounds apiece. The tomb is built on a concrete base, and the floor covers the lot, with openings for planting flowers and shrubs in each corner.

The headstone is inscribed with the name "Francis," surmounted with the Masonic emblem. Each slab carries identification inscriptions, with a cross for Mrs. Francis and an American Legion emblem for the World War I veteran's tomb.

The stately architectural monument is located on a high point of ground, overlooking the city of Gainesville and is considered one of the finest in this section.

PTA Has Fine Program Thursday

H. J. Mumman, president of the Parent Teachers' Association, presided at the regular monthly meeting held on Thursday afternoon in the high school auditorium.

Miss Millie Pearson was program chairman for the afternoon, the meeting opened with singing, led by Miss Barbara Hunter, with Mrs. J. H. Coen, Jr., at the piano.

The Rev. W. D. Croft, pastor of the Nazarene Church, conducted the devotional. Mrs. Keith Garrison, vocalist, gave two beautiful songs, "The Lord is My Shepherd" and "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Mrs. Coen was her accompanist.

Mrs. Hoyt Taun, in a very interesting and capable manner, gave a talk on "The Day of the Mother." She gave a brief synopsis of the playlet "Lord February," which pertained to the observance of the Day. The usual candle lighting ceremony and special program on the occasion of Founder's Day was dispensed with this year. A free will offering for the purchase of a new playground for the school was collected.

In the room count, attendance prior to the meeting was 100. Mrs. Metcalf's room for the elementary grades, and to Miss Marie Anderson's twelfth grade in the high school.

On recommendation of the board, the organization voted to increase the salary of Mrs. E. C. Weaver, principal of the school, in the manner of the PTA lunch room.

Mrs. M. G. Whitcomb, membership chairman, announced the plan to hold a social for the school. She requested that each room mother turn in at least ten memberships by the next meeting.

On behalf of the high school faculty, Mrs. Fred Peden presented H. J. Mumman with a gift in appreciation of his years of faithful service to the school.

Mr. Mumman responded, thanking the faculty for their remembrance, and saying that he would always maintain a keen interest in the school. Mr. Mumman has taught here for a number of years, and is now in the school on a term, under the teacher's retirement plan.

Red Devils Lose To Bombing Range

The Devils were noosed by the 107th Ordnance of the bombing range Friday night by a score of 35-24 in the Devil's first game in the 1943 basketball season.

Keller was high point man for the Devils with 6 points. Head, Perdue, and Skipper running close seconds with 5 points to their credit.

Wright and Bagwell were high point men for the army with Wright making 15 points and Bagwell 12. The game was a close one.

Substitutions for the Devils were Gribble and Williams.

Substitutions for the Range were Ford, Starnes, and Alford.

Due to the situation the Red Devils will play a shorter schedule this year, with probably return games with local teams, but it is believed that the annual tournament will be held.

Rotary Club Hears Boy Scout Program

Rotarians of Avon Park heard an interesting outline of the activities of Gulf-Bridge Troop No. 57, Boy Scouts of America, at their regular noon-day luncheon at the Hotel Sebring, Wednesday afternoon.

Howard Todd, Junior Assistant Scoutmaster outlined the Troop's program for National Boy Scout week which is being celebrated all over America February 8th-12th inclusive. Sammy Longbottom, who is a Star Scout and Senior Patrol Leader, told the Rotary Club about the Troop's membership and its plans for the coming year.

Barry Jack Dalton was the program speaker of the day and gave an interesting and informative talk on "Religion and the War." His talk featured the problem of rehabilitation that will face America and the world after the war.

Endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce's request that the flying field at Avon Park Bombing Range be named "Straubel Field" was made in a resolution of the Rotary Club, which was introduced by John Johnson, Commanding Officer at the Range. It is proposed that this military field be named in honor of Col. Austin Straubel, son of C. A. Straubel, who lost his life in the South Pacific area last year.

Gainesville, February 9, 1943.—(Special)—The Merit System Council, serving the Florida Industrial Commission, the State Welfare Board, and the United States Employment Service in Florida, announced here today that the last date for filing applications for merit system examinations for positions in the three agencies will be February 25, 1943, at midnight.

Applications must be filed, the announcement said, with the Merit System Office, P. O. Box 113, Room 203, 200 West University Avenue, Gainesville. Mailed applications must be postmarked before midnight of the closing date.

Examinations will be held at the following places, at a date to be announced when applicants are notified of their eligibility to take examinations: Daytona Beach; DePue; Jacksonville; Gainesville; Jacksonville; Lakeland; Live Oak; Miami; Orlando; Pensacola; Tampa; Tallahassee; Tampa; West Palm Beach.

Red Devils Lose To Bombing Range

The Devils were noosed by the 107th Ordnance of the bombing range Friday night by a score of 35-24 in the Devil's first game in the 1943 basketball season.

Keller was high point man for the Devils with 6 points. Head, Perdue, and Skipper running close seconds with 5 points to their credit.

Wright and Bagwell were high point men for the army with Wright making 15 points and Bagwell 12. The game was a close one.

Substitutions for the Devils were Gribble and Williams.

Substitutions for the Range were Ford, Starnes, and Alford.

Due to the situation the Red Devils will play a shorter schedule this year, with probably return games with local teams, but it is believed that the annual tournament will be held.

WALK AND CAREY Here are the plain and simple reasons why Walking and Carey must become an American habit: The joys of our sources of rubber. There is no new rubber yet. What we have must be conserved of their eligibility to take examinations: Daytona Beach; DePue; Jacksonville; Gainesville; Jacksonville; Lakeland; Live Oak; Miami; Orlando; Pensacola; Tampa; Tallahassee; Tampa; West Palm Beach.

Public transportation systems must be saved for necessary travel for workers on their way to work, and for people directly involved in the war effort where time is an important element for those who have to travel too far for walking.
